1st Battalion, The Northamptonshire Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry on 22nd December, 1914, near La Quinque Rue, when he handled his men with great skill under very critical circumstances.

Captain (temporary) Hugh Maxwell Broome Salmon, 1st Battalion, The South Wales Borderers.

For conspicuous courage at Givenchy on 25th January, 1915. Although wounded, he brought up men from the local Reserves under heavy fire on two occasions, and remained throughout the day with his Company in action.

Captain Hugh Mortimer Travers, The Royal Munster Fusiliers, attached 2nd Battalion, The Duke of Wellington's (West Riding Regiment).

For conspicuous gallantry and ability on the 8th November, 1914, near Ypres, in organizing an attack and re-capturing a trench from the enemy, and subsequently for leading a second attack and capturing another position 50 yards further to the front.

Captain Travers was killed whilst maintaining his post on this occasion.

Lieutenant Eric Christian Lang, Royal Army Medical Corps, attached 1st Battalion, The Leicestershire Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on two occasions, especially on 9th February, 1915, at Rue Du Bois, in rescuing a severely wounded Officer under very difficult circumstances whilst in full view of the enemy.

Second Lieutenant Edward Wingfield Shaw, 1st Battalion, The Duke of Cambridge's Own (Middlesex Regiment).

For conspicuous gallantry on 30th October, 1914, at La Boutillerie.

In leading a part of his platoon to recover a lost trench he was wounded and compelled to retire, but, collecting another party, he went forward again to the attack, and entered the enemy's trench, being wounded a second time in so doing.

As a result of his action the trench was recovered, 30 of the enemy being killed or wounded, and the remainder taken prisoners.

---

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to confer the Military Cross on the undermentioned Officers, in recognition of their gallantry whilst serving with the Expeditionary Force:—

Second Lieutenant J. A. H. Gammell, 114th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

For gallantry and marked ability at Cuinchy on the 10th January, 1915, when in the forward artillery observation station, and for leaving his trench under fire on two occasions to repair telephone wires.

Second Lieutenant F. B. B. Spragge, 25th Brigade, Royal Field Artillery.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability at Cuinchy on 10th January, 1915. Although wounded in the head whilst in the forward observation station, he remained at his post, carrying out his duties with great coolness.

Lieutenant R. St. J. Blacker Douglass, late 1st Battalion, Irish Guards.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in continuing to lead an attack after he had been wounded. He was killed in this attack.

Second Lieutenant A. C. W. Innes, 1st Battalion, Irish Guards (Special Reserve).

For conspicuous gallantry and ability at Cuinchy on 1st February, 1915. When all the Officers of the attacking company had been put out of action, this Officer was sent forward to take command. Leading his men he captured the enemy's post, and then advancing a further 60 yards captured another.

Lieutenant J. F. Ruttledge, 2nd Battalion, The Prince of Wales's Own (West Yorkshire Regiment).

For great coolness and gallantry on 19th December, 1914, near Neuve Chapelle. When his company were moving over open ground under very heavy fire many casualties occurred, and Lieutenant Ruttledge remained to the last helping the wounded away to cover.

Second Lieutenant W. H. Hodges, 1st Battalion, The Gloucestershire Regiment.

For gallantry and coolness on 25th January, 1915, at Givenchy, when he succeeded in holding a position after his senior Officers had been killed.

Second Lieutenant H. G. de L. Bush, 3rd Battalion, The Gloucestershire Regiment, attached to 1st Battalion.

For gallantry at Givenchy on 25th January, 1915. When one of his machine guns with its complement of men had been buried by a shell, he succeeded under heavy fire in digging out the men and gun and brought them into action again.

Second Lieutenant C. E. H. James, 3rd Battalion, The Border Regiment, attached 2nd Battalion, The Welsh Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry at Givenchy on 25th January, 1915, when he led 15 men into the enemy's trench and captured 40 Germans.

Lieutenant R. Leycester, 3rd Battalion, The Dorsetshire Regiment, attached 2nd Battalion, The Welsh Regiment.

For gallantry and resource in regaining a trench which he had been compelled to abandon previously.

Lieutenant W. H. C. Edwards, 1st Battalion, The Black Watch (Royal Highlanders).

For gallantry on the 25th January, 1915, at Givenchy, in rendering effective assistance with his platoon in the re-capture of the village trench, and driving the enemy from the village.