COPIES of Correspondence with Her Majesty's Minister in China:

MY LORD, Peking, July 18, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to enclose copy of a despatch from Mr. Gingell, Her Majesty's Consul at Hankow, detailing the steps taken by him, in consequence of the levy of an extra charge by the officials of Hoonan on teas bought by British subin the interior for shipment at Hankow.

I also enclose copies of two despatches, the one disapproving of the seizure of war-junks and of a custom-house officer, as a guarantee against repetition of these acts, and the other directing Mr. Gingell to inform Her Majesty's subjects that their proper course to pursue is to pay these illegal charges under protest.

I am particularly anxious to submit this latter point to your Lordship, for, if the principle laid down meets with approbation, it will, in a great measure, prevent claims founded on irregular acts of provincial authorities, becoming a source of gain to unscrupulous traders, a system which flourished luxuriantly in Egypt, to the great detriment of the national reputation of European states.

The complaints forwarded from Hankow are simply an illustration of the truth, that in countries, like China, where the principles of administration differ entirely from those practised by us, the conclusion of a treaty is the commencement and not the termination of difficulties. The ill-will, ignorance, and necessities of local authorities have to be encountered; and time, patience, and tact are required to overcome them. Foreign merchants expect to obtain the same facilities at Hankow as, for instance, at Shanghae, forgetting that twenty years have elapsed since our intercourse with the latter place began; and they apply to the Consul for naval assistance as the readiest and most effectual means of overcoming opposition. The Chinese Government relies so little on force in its internal administration, that the appearance of a single gunboat is generally enough to effect the object peaceably; but there is no certainty that such will always be the case, and at all events the proceeding is not very palatable, and probably leads to retaliation in the shape of petty annoyances and insults offered by the populace to foreigners.

Your Lordship will see by the enclosed despatch from the Prince of Kung, that another release of laden junks and seizure of war-boats has been effected near Nanking, the circumstances of which have not been reported to me. These acts are not easy to justify, and it is difficult to say how far they may put to inconvenience Tsung-kwo-fan, in his operations on the river against the insurgents. My reply is, that these acts are rendered necessary by the habitual disregard of treaty rights, and the little attention paid to the Prince of Kung's orders on this subject. At the same time I have written, both to the Consuls and to Sir James Hope, to put a stop to these proceedings, as this remedy is more objectionable than the evil complained of.

A considerable contraband trade is springing up on the Yangtze River, in salt; and at one place, about fifteen miles above Chin-kiang, a settlement is growing up, formed of needy and desperate western men, who undertake to convoy vessels engaged in it. The Chinese allow these vessels to pass, but have established customs' stations to exact duty on the articles. The war-junks attached to these stations are, no doubt, those whose acts are complained of. The breach of treaty committed by the foreigners engaging in this traffic, leads to breaches of treaty being committed by Chinese; and while I complain of these abusive acts, the Chinese Government is remonstrating against the illegal proceedings of foreigners on the Yangtze River.

I have, &c.,

[Enclosure 1.]

British Consulate, Hankow,
June 23, 1862.

SIR,

MESSRS. TURNER AND CO. complained to me, on the 28th May, of the stoppage of a chop of tea at the custom-house, about 160 le from Hankow, Hoo-peh province, and that a duty of 4 mace a chest of 75 catties had been demanded in excess of the transit duty which had already been levied in the Hoo-nan province. This payment had been tendered in Sycee, but the officer in charge of the barrier alleged the silver was not of sufficient pureness, and refused to allow the teas to pass, or to take the silver at a discount.

A messenger was then dispatched from Hankow with Sycee of the required pureness, but for some reason or other the teas were still detained, and on the 30th I was again addressed by Messrs. Turner and Co.'s agent, stating that in consequence of the non-arrival of the tea, he had been compelled to purchase other teas in the market in lieu of those detained, and that he had sustained a positive and immediate loss of 14,500 täels, which he begged may be recovered from the Chinese officials.

I had, on his first complaint, addressed a letter to the Superintendent of Customs, telling him the officers would be held responsible for the detention and for the illegal exaction on these teas; and as up to the 30th I had received no reply, and there appeared no probability of the boats being released, I requested Lieutenant Poole, of H. M. gunboat "Havoc," to proceed to the barrier where they were detained, and effect their liberation.

But before the departure of the "Havoc" from the harbour, the boats containing the teas arrived.

On these teas an excess of 618·75 täels had been paid.

Messrs. Dent and Co.'s agent, on the 30th May, brought to me Lekin receipts exhibiting an excess on transit duty of 940 täels; this excess I claimed from the Superintendent of Customs, a copy of whose reply is enclosed.

On the 13th, a further claim for 462·40 paid in excess was made again by the same firm; and on the 11th and 12th June, Messrs. Gibb Livingstone's agent, and Messrs. Gilman's agent, made similar complaints of excessive charges of 541·60 and 467·20 respectively.

For all these charges Lekin receipts had been granted, and the papers were handed in to me by the several complainants.

On the 10th June, Messrs. Dent and Co.'s agent reported the stoppage of six boats, containing teas, at two barriers, Peh-how-kow and Tankow, on which the extra charge of four mace per chest was demanded. Certificates of the proper amount of transit duty having been paid on the teas in the Hoonan provinces were produced to me, and Mr. Evans further stated that he had given positive orders to the Chinese in charge of the teas, on no account to pay the excess demanded; and as the officer of the station had declared that these boats should not be allowed to pass unless under this payment, there appeared but little probability of the teas reaching Hankow.

I had on so many occasions already addressed in vain both the Viceroy and the Superintendent of Customs on this same subject, that I resolved to place the matter in Lieutenant Poole's hands, and to request him to take such steps in the liberation of the boats as would more effectually impress the authorities of this port with the necessity of adhering strictly to the tariff rules. Lieutenant Poole accordingly left this port on the 11th, and returned on the evening of the 14th, having effected the release of the teas. Copy of his letter reporting his proceedings is enclosed.

Immediately on his arrival I sent a message to the Superintendent of Customs, requesting he would take charge of the Chinese brought down, which he did the same evening, and on Monday, the 16th, I addressed a letter to the Viceroy, of which the enclosed is a copy. On the eve of its dispatch a Wei-yuen visited the Consulate, and handed me a private note from the Viceroy, asking me to give up the boats, as orders had been issued not to levy the excess in future, and that thus the necessity of public documents on either side in reference to the subject would be dispensed with. The officer was informed that the Viceroy had been written to officially, and that when his official reply to that communication, promising the irregular and illegal acts should no longer be allowed, was received, the boats would be given up. No answer to my letter was received until the evening of the 21st, on which day the boats were handed over. Copy and translation of this, as well as of the Viceroy's private note, enclosed.

Since the opening of the port, the 7th Rule attached to the Tariff has been entirely set aside by the authorities. Exemption certificates for goods to be conveyed into the interior they have virtually refused to issue, and in case of exports the officers in charge of barriers have in many instances objected to recognise produce as being foreign owned, although reported so by the person in charge, and thus the merchants have been subjected to detention and illegal exactions. It appears that the Lieutenant-Governor of Hoonan has determined upon levying transit dues allowed by treaty on all produce passing through this province, irrespective of the authorities of Hoo-peh.

On goods arriving in the latter province, notwithstanding the transit duty has been already paid and a certificate to that effect given, a further demand is again made at the several barriers the produce may have to pass on its way to Hankow.

The local governments are thus contending each for its own particular levy, but the Hoonan requires the allowed transit duty, while the Hoopeh claims an illegal charge.

About twelve hours after the gun-boat had left this harbour, Chin, Superintendent of Customs, paid me a late visit, and after a variety of futile excuses, the chief of which was that these levies are made under the old regulations, and that nothing had ever been definitely settled in reference to collection of duties at Hankow, he informed me that orders had that day been sent off to the different officers in charge of barriers to discontinue these levies, and he requested that I would send off a messenger and call back the gun-boat; I informed him I had repeatedly addressed communications to the Viceroy and other authorities begging that these irregularities may be put a stop to, and I showed him the copy of Prince Kung's despatch to the Viceroy, where orders were given that not a fraction more than the duties allowed by tariff was to be taken, and I pointed out to him that these orders had met with no attention, and that as my own communications were equally disregarded, and as teas were still stopped up the country for illegal duties, my last resource had been to place the matter in the hands of Her Majesty's senior naval officer, who had gone up for the express purpose of releasing the boats so detained; and I added it was to be regretted that the orders just given had not been issued at a much earlier date, bound as the authorities were to carry out the rules attached to the tariff, whether duties were or were not received at Hankow.

To a question put by myself when the amounts, as ordered by Prince Kung, would be refunded to Messrs. Dent and Co., and Messrs. Dudley and Co., he remarked that the sum would be paid back when duties were collected at Hankow.

CHING, Superintendent of Customs.

June 10, 1862.

ON the 2nd instant I received your letter requesting me to refund at once excess of duty and Lekin paid by Messrs. Dent and Co., at Neë-kea-she, on teas bought by them and brought to Hankow.

For this excess there are reasons which ought to be separately explained, and not all taken as one whole.

The duties to be received at the Custom-house not having been determined, I have not issued transit reports and certificates, and I have long ago requested you to wait a month or two, till the question was settled.

The Authorities of Hoonan have addressed the Throne, praying that Lekin may be levied in lieu of transit duty, and a note to that effect has been made on the receipts, as you will see on examination.

The Imperial will has left this matter to the Viceroy's deliberation; and, although it has not yet been definitively settled, the amounts do not differ very much from that payable by transit duties.

With regard to the Lekin paid at Neë kea she, that paid in cash was a levy made on the tea growers, as is plainly stated on the receipt, and was paid by the hong into the office for them. May I request you to examine the receipt, when you will see that the payment has no connection with the foreign merchant.

Indeed this document should be held by the tea grower, and I do not know why it passed into Messrs. Dent and Co.'s hands. I would request you to address the Viceroy, that he may order inquiry by having this fact verified, and thus preventing future complications.

But Fashow is a barrier in Hoopeh, and, as the duties have not been arranged, each province collects its own, according to the regulations formerly existing. Taking both provinces together, as regards the merchant, the payment is in excess, but, as regards the barrier, it is still adhering to the old regulations received. This matter cannot be discussed with your countrymen, and I have already reported it to the Viceroy, who orders to wait until the payment of tariff duties at the Kiang Han Custom-house shall have been arranged, and there is no fear that this matter will then remain without settlement.

Your request for refund I really cannot now accede to, but it is right that I should reply to your letter, and return you the nine Lekin receipt.

H.M. Gunboat "Havoc,"
Hankow, June 14, 1862.

SIR,

WITH reference to your letter of the 10th instant, I have the honour to inform you, that I have returned from Tan-kau, having released Messrs. Dent and Co.'s teas at that place, also 660 chests detained by the customs authorities at Lian-lien-kia, belonging to the same firm.

I arrived at Tan-kau on the evening of the 12th instant. I there seized all the Mandarin and war junks, as also the officer in charge of the custom-house.

I have brought him, as also the gunboats and guns named in the margin,* with me to Hankow.

On the 13th, I stopped at Lian-lien-kia, and released the boats containing Messrs. Dent and Co.'s teas.

The war-boats had all been taken about three miles up a creek. I went up in our boats and seized them. They had been scuttled by the crews, and some of their guns were thrown overboard. I was obliged to leave one gunboat behind, as she had such a large hole in her. The remainder, as stated in margin,† I raised and have brought with me to Hankow.

I sent, on arrival at this place, to the Mandarin's, informing him that I would call on him; but when I went on shore in the evening he was nowhere to be found. The people told me he had gone that day to Hankow. I have every reason to believe that he left after my arrival.

One of the boats seized at this place got adrift during the night; and this morning I found her at Pei-chow, scuttled, on shore, with everything taken out of her. There was a war-boat close to her, and, as I observed some of their men about her, I am sure that it was these men who had stripped her. I therefore seized their boat,‡ which I have brought to Hankow.

Besides the custom-house officer, I have five men who were taken in the different junks. I will be glad if you will make arrangements to take these men § out of the ship as soon as possible.

I would suggest to you that we retain possession of the war-boats and guns ‖ until some assurance is given that no more than the proper amount of duties be charged on goods belonging to British merchants coming down the river.

I have, &c.,

British Consulate,
Hankow, June 16, 1862.

SIR,

THE 7th Rule of the Tariff attached to the Treaty of Tien-tsin states

Rule 7.—Transit Dues.

It is agreed that Article XXVIII of the Treaty of Tien-tsin shall be interpreted to declare the amount of transit-dues legally leviable upon merchandize imported or exported by British subjects, to be one-half of the tariff-duties, except in the case of the duty-free goods liable to a transit-duty of two and a-half per cent. ad valorem, as provided in Article 2 of these Rules. Merchandize shall be cleared of its transit-dues under the following conditions:—

In the case of Imports.—Notice being given at the port of entry from which the imports are to be forwarded inland; of the nature and quantity of the goods; the ship from which they have been landed; and the place inland to which they are bound, with all other necessary particulars; the Collector of Customs will, on due inspection made, and on receipt of the transit-duty due, issue a transit-duty certificate. This must be produced at every barrier station, and viséd. No further duty will be leviable upon imports so certificated, no matter how distant the place of their destination.

In the case of Exports.—Produce purchased by a British subject in the interior will be inspected and taken account of at the first barrier it passes on its way to the port of shipment. A memorandum, showing the amount of the produce and the port at which it is to be shipped, will be deposited there by the person in charge of the produce; he will then receive a certificate, which must be exhibited and viséd at every barrier on his way to the port of shipment. On the arrival of the produce at the barrier nearest the port, notice must be given to the Customs at the port, and the transit-dues due thereon being paid, it will be passed. On exportation the produce will pay the tariff-duty.

Any attempt to pass goods inwards or outwards, otherwise than in compliance with the rule here laid down, will render them liable to confiscation.

Unauthorised sale, in transitu, of goods that have been entered as above for a port, will render them liable to confiscation. Any attempt to pass goods in excess of the quantity specified in the certificate, will render all the goods of the same denomination named in the certificate liable to confiscation. Permission to export produce which cannot be proved to have paid its transit-dues, will be refused by the Customs until the transit-dues shall have been paid.

The above being the arrangement agreed to regarding the transit-dues, which will thus be levied once and for all, the notification required under Article XXVIII of the Treaty of Tien-tsin, for the information of British and Chinese subjects, is hereby dispensed with.

Now I find that this rule has again and again been disregarded by the authorities in charge of barriers up the river, and that I have repeatedly addressed the Superintendent of Customs at Hankow, calling upon him to allow none but the Tariff rate of duties to be levied; but in spite of my remonstrances the Lekin duty has been levied. Transit certificates have been refused, and in many instances tea and other produce detained at barriers, to the great inconvenience and loss of the British Merchants.

Last year, Messrs. Dudley and Co. had teas stopped, and they were made to pay an excess of 285 tàels. Messrs. Dent and Co. also paid an excess of 357 tàels on one occasion; and on another, in the eighth month of last year, at Too Kow, 499 t. 9 m. 5 c. These facts were at the time communicated to the then Taotai Chang, and refund of the excess required as is recorded.

The first two instances were reported to Her Majesty's Minister at Peking, by whom they were brought to the notice of the Imperial Foreign Office, and subsequent orders were given to your Excellency to recover these amounts paid in excess and hand them over to me. A copy of the despatch to your address on this subject was enclosed to me from Peking, and the original letter I delivered to you in the beginning of the 3rd moon of this year as is recorded. This letter required that none but tariff rates should be levied, and it further directed the punishment of the Wei-yuens in charge of these several barriers where the excessive charges had been levied.

On the 5th May of this year I addressed your Excellency, and requested that orders might be sent to the officials in charge of the several barriers, directing them to collect the tariff rate and not the Lekin, as the tea season was approaching, and the British merchants had sent persons into the interior to purchase and bring down teas.

On the 30th May Turner and Co. addressed me complaining that two boats of tea had been stopt at Liao-lin-Kea, and that he had paid more than taels 500 excess of duty.

Messrs. Dent and Co. also reported having been obliged to pay an excess of 484 taels, 456 T. and 462 . 4. on three chops of tea.

On the 11th June Messrs. Gibb, Livingston, and Co. reported having paid 293 T. 6 and 248 T. excess on two chops of tea.

Messrs. Gilman and Co. also reported having to pay 467 T. 2 m. in excess. It would, therefore, appear that your Excellency never issued instructions, or else that those instructions have never been attended to.

On the 10th June Messrs. Dent and Co. reported that 6 boats containing tea were stopt at Tao-Kow and Pe-ho-Kow, and 4 mace per chest demanded over and above the tariff rate, which sum they had refused to pay, and consequently the teas were detained. As my reiterated requests have failed to effect any change in this illegal mode of conducting foreign trade, I requested the Commander of Her Majesty's gunboat to proceed to Tao Kow and Pe-ho-Kow, and release these teas; and on the 11th instant he started, returning on the 14th, having seized the Wei-yuen belonging to the Tao-Kow barrier, who had detained the teas, as also 7 war-boats, together with 20 guns and 5 Chinese belonging to some of the boats. These he brought down to Hankow, and the Wei-yuen with the five Chinese were handed over on the 14th instant to a deputy of Ching Tao-tai; but the boats and guns will be detained until I learn from your Excellency that orders are issued that hereafter British merchants shall not be called upon to pay any excess over and above the tariff rate, and that the excess already paid shall be refunded.

It remains with your Excellency to explain why the directions in Prince Kung's despatch have not been carried out (a copy of which I append). I am desirous that the Treaty shall be strictly followed, and if your Excellency had given strict injunctions to your several subordinates to act in accordance thereto, much trouble and difficulty would have been saved.

Awaiting your reply,

I have, &c.

[Enclosure No. 5.]

KWAN, Viceroy, Governor-General of Hookwang, &c., &c., &c.

June 20, 1862.

ON the 14th instant, the General Lekin Board transmitted me the following petition of the officer in charge of the barrier at Tao-Kow :—"Suddenly, at noon, on the 12th instant, a British vessel of war arrived at the barrier with Lieutenant Poole and Mr. King. With their men they seized gunboats, a long dragon, and a fast crab (two denominations of boats), together with money and other articles, as also Ma the officer, 4 braves, and several guns." Also the petition of the officer of the Pih-ho-kow barrier, at Siao-lin-kea, that on the 13th, at noon, a British vessel of war suddenly arrived at the barrier and seized 3 gunboats, 6 guns, and 1 preventive police boat, anchored at Pai-chew, with one man in her.

Subsequently, Ching Tao-tai, of the Kiang Han Custom-house, reported to me at an interview, that you had delivered into his care the officer and others, but had not yet given up the gunboats, and that your motive for so doing was, that some Hoonan tea having already paid a transit duty in Hoonan, a further levy was still made in Hoopih of four mace per chest. I was much surprised on hearing this. In your despatch to me, I note that you argue on the VII Tariff Rule—the Wei-yuen's breach of the same in detaining the tea—the excess paid—and Ching Tao-tai's refusal to grant transit certificates. Now, the Tariff Rules were drawn up previous to the trade on the Yangtsze, and last year, because trade on the Yangtsze could not be carried on in the same way as at the maritime ports, a set of Yangtsze Trade Regulations were specially drawn up. If in every thing the Treaty should be religiously observed, why, since a Custom-house has been established at Hankow, have not export and import tariff duties been yet received here? The matter is quite plain and intelligible.

I have never said that the Kiang Han Kuan Custom-house should not receive transit duty, and Ching Tao-tai has already replied to you saying that the question of duties here was not arranged, and requesting you to wait a little till Mr. Hart, sent here by Prince Kung, shall have settled, as it is certain he will, the matter definitely, and neither thus did Ching Tao-tai say he would not receive transit duty.

Tea brought here from Yang-lew-tung in Hoopih pays a contribution of 9 mace a chest and no more is made at other places; this is less than the transit duty. That brought from Nu-Kea-she in Hoonan, according to the Imperial assent prayed for by Mao Foo-tai of Hoonan, pays a Lekin in lieu of a transit duty. Hoonan not being a port, the duties it receives cannot be called "transit," and this confusion of the regulations originates in Hoonan. I have on this subject been instructed by His Majesty to consider and arrange the question, but the arrangements not having been definately made, Fao Kow and Pe ho Kow have, according to their old and as yet unrepealed orders, made their levy of 4 mace per chest. Hearing now that your merchants do not consent to this levy, I have already this month circulated general orders to cease from levying on teas of these two provinces the slightest excess according to the native duties and subscriptions. The excess already paid by the 4 mace per chest of course ought to be refunded, and when there are duties to be paid to the Custom-house, there is no objection to the refund being made by a deduction from the duties; but I can only recognise refunds stated in your letter, and that of Messrs. Dent and Co. notified to the custom-house on a former occasion. Others in addition to these cannot be allowed, as causing endless complications.

With regard to the cases last year of Messrs. Dent and Co., and Dudley and Co., they occurred before a Custom-house was established, and before the date of the Yangtze Trade Regulation; besides which, the excess was received in Hoonan, and consequently cannot affect the Superintendent of Customs here.

Although I received a letter from the Foreign Office, yet the provinces are permitted to address (that office) direct, and I have already sent a reply explaining the nature of the case, that that office may reply to the British Minister. In this matter [?] ought to listen to the orders given by the authorities away from the capital, and [I] am not able at this time to act upon my own responsibility.

You say in your letter you seek nothing but strict observance of the Treaty, and that the excess levied at every barrier interferes with the Treaty, but is it in accordance with Treaty that Mr. Poole and Mr. King should assault the barrier, seizing and carrying off boats and guns from Tao-kow, Pe-ho-kow, and Pai-chaw, together with money, articles, an officer, and other people?

Whether you restore the guns and boats, or not, you yourself will judge and decide.

Tung-chi, 1 year, 5 month, 24 day.

Autograph Note written by Viceroy to Mr. Consul Gingell :—

The reason why a levy of 4 mace Lekin per chest was made at Tao-Kow on Hoonan teas was, that the officer had not yet received a letter, stating that transit duty had already been collected in Hoonan. Hearing this, I directed the General Lekin Board to direct all the barriers to cease collecting the 4 mace, but my letter did not arrive at the board till the next day, and now there will be no further levy made on Hoonan tea other than the transit duty only; the boats must produce their receipts for inspection at the barriers, as proof that they are not those of scheming natives endeavouring to creep in. Thus henceforward we shall have no suspicion one of the other, and I hope you will give up to me all the gunboats, and there is no necessity for any dispatches between the two Governments to be kept on record, as there is nothing glorious to boast of.

[The Viceroy next expresses anger at the Hoonan persecution of the Roman Catholics, and promises severe punishment of the acts.]

SIR, Peking, July 17, 1862.

I HAVE received your despatch, giving an account of the steps taken by yourself and Lieutenant Poole, to put an end to exactions on teas brought down by Her Majesty's subjects from the interior.

As these measures have been executed, and have, I trust, put a stop to these exactions, I do not think it necessary to enter into a detailed examination of these proceedings, but I think it right to state that I do not approve, whatever immediate advantage may be derived from such acts of violence, of the seizure of war-junks and of the carrying off, as prisoner, the wei-yuen of the barrier Custom-house.

Had any collision taken place, and had loss of life ensued, the proceeding could not have been justified.

I have stated in a previous despatch the only circumstances under which Her Majesty's Consuls are justified in calling on Her Majesty's naval forces for material assistance, viz.: where life or property are endangered by violence. But a surcharge of duties does not justify its employment. Such demands, if illegal, ought to be paid under protest, and sooner or later the amounts will be recovered. There is no power lodged in the hands of Her Majesty's agents in this country, to redress such violation of treaty by force, and when you are called upon to employ it, in such cases, you will refuse to do so.

The important result to be gained by the establishment of direct relations with the government of Peking, is the avoidance of local acts of violence, which produce bad blood on both sides, and have been most prejudicial to general tranquillity by weakening the authority of the Chinese Government in the eyes of its people. Time will elapse before the new system will work smoothly and efficiently, but however much you may be urged by local influences, you must not go beyond pacific efforts to remedy the abuses complained of. You are perfectly shielded from responsibility by my instructions.

SIR, Peking, July 19, 1862.

I OBSERVE in one of the cases mentioned in your despatch, respecting the exaction of four mace additional per chest of tea, that one of the mercantile firms had given orders to its agent not to pay the charge.

As a matter of principle, there can be no doubt that where there is a dispute between a Custom-house agent in the interior and a foreign trader, the former is the judge. It is to be assumed that the officer is acting under superior orders, and, whether these orders be in accordance with treaty or not, he has no power to vary them. The course of proceeding the trader ought to adopt in such a case is to pay under protest; and I wish you to understand that I will not take up claims for consequential damages, founded on detention, &c., where the goods might have been released, and these complications avoided by a payment of the disputed charge under protest. Still less do I approve of vessels of war being sent to release them under such circumstances.

The transit duty clause in the treaty is, as you are aware, a great innovation on the principles of Chinese provincial administration. It is reasonable, therefore, to expect that at first the exercise of this privilege will meet with opposition, but with patience and perseverance the clause will be brought into operation, and Her Majesty's agents are bound to see that the course pursued by Her Majesty's subjects, in these cases, is one that will confine claims to the refund of the excess of duty demanded, and not one which, in the hands of unscrupulous men, gives rise to extravagant and colourable extortion, under pretext of consequential damages.
