NOTICE TO AIRMEN (No. 28).

LONDON TO PARIS AIR ROUTE.

It is hereby notified that.—

The following arrangements have been made at the aerodromes at St. Inglevert and Le Bourget on the London-Paris aerial route and at Bordeaux —

St. Inglevert (approx E by N 7 miles from Cape Grisnez).—A Wind indicator is placed on the S E boundary of the aerodrome. The four corners of the area most suitable for landing are marked by set-squares in chalk. The centre of the landing-ground is marked by a white circle 132 feet in diameter.

Le Bourget (7 miles N.E of Paris) — Night Landing.

The Aerodrome is lighted by a battery of searchlights which illuminate a landing run of about 800 yards

Bordeaux (Teynac aerodrome about 2 miles West of Bordeaux).—Night Landing arrangements —

(1) Two white lights 300 yards apart are placed on the leeward part of the aerodrome and marking the leeward boundary of the landing and taking-off area A third white light is placed on the windward boundary, making with the two leeward lights an isosceles triangle, a machine landing must pass over the two leeward lights, heading towards the windward light. When there is no wind, the triangle of lights is placed in the position most favourable for machines landing.

(2) White lamps are placed on obstacles as follows —

Two on each Bessonneau hangar, one on each garage.

Day Landing —A wind vane is placed between the two Bessonneau hangars. A landing "T" is placed according to the direction of the wind; when there is no wind, the "T" is placed in the position most favourable for machines landing.

NOTICE TO AIRMEN (No. 33).

FLIGHTS TO ITALY.

It is hereby notified that:—

Owing to the difficulties with regard to personnel and other reasons, a request has been received from the Italian Authorities that they may in every case be warned of the approximate times of arrival of British machines at Italian aerodromes, in order that the necessary assistance may be forthcoming.

Pilots, therefore, intending to fly to Italy should in every case inform the Secretary (C.G.C.A.), Air Ministry, at the same time giving a schedule of their proposed journey.

Once out of England, and particularly if it is found necessary to alter the original schedule, communication must be maintained with the British Naval Attaché, Rome, who will make what arrangements are possible with the Italian Authorities.

All machines intending to alight on aerodromes in Italian territory should circle three or four times round the aerodrome before landing.

W. A. Robinson,
Secretary of the Air Council.

ADMIRALTY NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 524 of the year 1920.

WIRELESS DIRECTION FINDING STATIONS.

Use by the Mercantile Marine

The following is promulgated for information:—

The Admiralty have recently received evidence from various sources that the existence of Wireless Direction Finding Stations in the United Kingdom, France, Canada and the United States, and the regulations under which these stations are operated, are not as generally known throughout the Mercantile Marine as is desirable in view of the immense value of the system of wireless direction finding as an aid to navigation, especially in thick and foggy weather.

2 On the other hand, returns rendered by the stations in the United Kingdom show that where the system is known to masters it is beginning to be more extensively used, not only when atmospheric conditions render it impossible to obtain the ship's position by any other means, but as a check on positions obtained by the ordinary method of navigation.

3. Information on this subject was first published in Admiralty Notice to Mariners No. 1019 of 23rd May 1919. This Notice has since been revised, and the latest information on the subject is contained in Admiralty Notice to Mariners No. 363 of the year 1920 (reproduced in Board of Trade Notice to Mariners) This Notice should be studied by masters who desire to make use of this system; the procedure to be adopted, which varies to some extent for the different stations and as to the wave length to be used, is set out therein in detail. It is equally necessary that W/T operators should study the procedure.

4. Briefly put, a ship requiring a bearing calls up the D.F. station or stations from which it is desired to receive a bearing, singly or together, according to the procedure laid down. The station or stations reply with the bearing (true) of the ship from that station.

5. The following stations are established in the United Kingdom.—Peterhead, Berwick, Flamborough, Lizard, Amlwch, Rhyl, Carnsore, Larne, Seaview (Malin Head).

6. These stations are operated by the Royal Navy, but are available for the use of the Mercantile Marine.

7. A charge of five shillings (5s.) will be made as from 1st April 1920 for each bearing asked for and given. Thus, if bearings from two stations or two separate bearings from one station were asked for, the charge would be ten shillings (10s.).

8. Charges will be collected by the Accountant-General of the Navy from the Administration controlling and operating the ships concerned, in accordance with the present system of collecting charges for W/T commercial messages.

9. The accuracy with which bearings can be taken depends on certain conditions outlined in the Notice to Mariners referred to, but, although the bearings taken by a station within the section over which it is designed to work can generally be considered accurate to within two degrees, it must be distinctly understood that the Admiralty provide this service on the express condition that they incur no liability for any consequences resulting directly or indirectly from any inaccuracy in the bearings given, from any failure in the service, or from any other cause whatever.

Authority.—The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

By Command of their Lordships,

F. C. LEARMONTH,
Hydrographer of the Navy.
