From Monday August 16. to Thursday August 19 1697.

From on Board His Majesties Ship the Weymouth, Capt. Jumper Commander, July 22.

THE 19th in the afternoon I saw a Sail to Leeward, between the Land of Olonne and St. Martins Island, and understood by a Biscay Privateer of 6 Guns, whom I spoke with, that 'twas a French Man of War, and that there were several others cruising along the Shoar, between Belle-Isle and Bourdeaux; whereupon I crouded Sail to Leeward to him, trimming my Sails on a Wind thô I went before it, that he should not discover my square Yards, keeping my Head to him, and making a little Yaw sometimes to shew my French Ensign; He kept his Wind to me, and braced to; I saw several Fisher Boats, and to Leeward of them a Fleet of about 40 Sail standing in to the Land; another Frigat that was at Anchor under a Castle, weighed and stood off to us, and believing I could beat them both, I brought all the Strength I could on one side for dispatch; The Man of War, first mentioned, coming near, suspected me, and made Sail off Shore; but I outsailed him, and went close under his Lee side, my Main Yard brushing his Main Shrowds; we ask'd him whence he came, and told him we were from Brest, and he answered from Rochefort; I kept my French Ensign flying, to prevent his firing at my Masts, till I was near enough, then put up the English Ensign, and poured a broad-side in him; Most of the Shot went out on the other side, killed 11 Men, one Lieutenant, and wounded desperately as many more, the Captain himself being shot in the Belly; I braced my Main Topsails a-back, and before half the other round was fired, the French struck; being called L'Aurore of Rochefort, the Kings Ship, one year old, in the nature of our Galleys, carrying 20 Guns on the Upper Deck, none on the Lower Deck, and 4 on the Quarter Deck, and between Decks small Ports for Oars, and the best Sailer I ever met with by a Wind; Having secured the Prize, I made ready for the other, but he tack'd about a mile and half from me, and run to the Fleet before-mentioned; I then made a Signal for the Prize to follow me, and we chaced the Fleet, which stood in, and got into St. Martins before we could reach them. I took this Ship 4 Leagues S. W. from the Headland of Olonne, where she had been watering two days before; The other was a Ship of 20 Guns likewise; and the Fleet I understand came from Bourdeaux, with a Convoy of 46 Guns; I lay there 3 days after, but could see nothing, except a Row-boat, in a Calm, who was sent to know what we were, but would not come near.

Kinsale, Aug. 6. On the 4th Instant arrived here His Majesties Ship the Weymouth from cruising on the French Coast, and brought in two Prizes, viz. a French Man of War called L'Aurore, of 260 Tuns, carrying 20 Guns, [illegible] 120 Men, Capt. de la Roche Commander, which Capt. Jumper took the 19th of the last month near the Island of St. Martins, and the Virgin of Martinico of 120 Tuns, Francis Bomoys Master, laden with Sugar, Indico, and Cacoe, and bound to France, which he took the 29th past between St. Martins and Belle-Isle.

Dublin, Aug. 12.
