TREASURY

"The Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury hereby give notice that, at a Trial of the Pyx begun at Goldsmiths' Hall in the City of London on the 17th day of February 1983 and concluded on the 6th day of May 1983 the following verdict of the Pyx Jury was delivered to the Queen's Remembrancer, viz.:

TRIAL OF COINS MADE FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF NEW ZEALAND BY THE ROYAL MINT 1983

VERDICT OF THE JURY

1. We, the undersigned, were sworn on the 17th February 1983 before the Queen's Remembrancer at Goldsmiths' Hall in the City of London to assay silver and cupro-nickel coins of New Zealand, which were produced to us by officers of the Royal Mint. Accounts of the Deputy Master and Controller of the Royal Mint were similarly produced to us and showed that the coins had been made for the Government of New Zealand by the Royal Mint between the 1st January 1982 and the 31st December 1982 inclusive in accordance with the Decimal Currency Act 1964 as amended and the Coinage Regulations 1967 of New Zealand.

2. In this verdict any reference to the permitted variation from standard weight, composition or diameter is a reference to such tolerance in the standard weight or composition or the diameter as is allowed by the Coinage Regulations 1967 of New Zealand or the requirements of the Government of New Zealand.

3. We ascertained the number of coins in each packet produced to us and that it corresponded with the number which the officers of the Royal Mint represented the packet to contain.

4. Silver coins

(a) We took out of the packet produced to us and weighed in bulk all the silver coins of one dollar and ascertained that they weighed not more than five hundred grams and that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being point two five (+0·25) of a gram above standard weight.

(b) We then assayed all those coins, comparing them with the standard trial plate of silver produced to us by an officer of the Department of Trade, and found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard composition, the amount of the variation being one point nought (+1·0) part per thousand above standard composition.

5. Cupro-nickel coins

(a) We ascertained that the cupro-nickel coins of each of the denominations of one dollar and fifty, twenty, ten and five cents contained in the packets weighed not more than one kilogram and that the coins contained in all those packets weighed more than five hundred grams.

(b) We took out all the cupro-nickel coins of each denomination and weighed them in bulk and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amounts of the variations being as follows:

for the coins of one dollar:	point five nought (+0·50) of a gram above standard weight;
for the coints of fifty cents:	point two five (—0·25) of a gram below standard weight;
for the coins of twenty cents:	point two five (+0·25) of a gram above standard weight;
for the coins of ten cents:	point one five (—0·15) of a gram below standard weight; and for the coins of five cents:	point nought three (+0·03) of a gram above standard weight.

(c) We then assayed coins not weighing less in all than five hundred grams, comparing them with the standard trial plates of copper and nickel produced to us by an officer of the Department of Trade, and we found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard composition, the amounts of the variations being minus point four (−0·4) per centum of copper and plus point two (+0·2) per centum of nickel.

(d) Finally we measured the diameters of thirteen coins of one dollar and all the coins of fifty, twenty, ten and five cents, the numbers of coins of those denominations contained in the packets being not more than ten, and we ascertained that the average diameter of the coins of each denomination was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, the amounts of the variations being as follows:

for the coins of one dollar:	point nought two (+0·02) of a millimetre above standard diameter;
for the coins of fifty cents:	point nought two (−0·02) of a millimetre below standard diameter;
for the coins of twenty cents:	point nought six (−0·06) of a millimetre below standard diameter;
for the coins of ten cents:	point nought one (−0·01) of a millimetre below standard diameter; and for the coins of five cents:	point nought one (+0·01) of a millimetre above standard diameter.

The Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury hereby give notice that, at a Trial of the Pyx begun at Goldsmith's Hall in the City of London on 17th February 1983 and concluded on 6th May 1983 the following verdict of the Pyx Jury was delivered to the Queen's Remembrancer, viz:

TRIAL OF THE PYX ORDER 1975

TRIAL OF THE PYX 1983

VERDICT OF THE JURY

1. We, the undersigned, were duly sworn on 17th February 1983 before the Queen's Remembrancer at Goldsmith's Hall in the City of London to assay gold, silver Maundy, silver and cupro-nickel coins of Her Majesty, which were produced to us by officers of the Royal Mint. Accounts of the Deputy Master and Controller of the Royal Mint were similarly produced to us and showed that the coins had been made by the Royal Mint between 1st January 1982 and 31st December 1982 inclusive in accordance with the Coinage Act 1971, a Proclamation made on 20th December 1968 relating to coins of fifty pence, a Proclamation made on 10th June 1981 relating to coins of twenty-five pence and Proclamations made on 10th February 1982 and 18th May 1982 relating to coins of twenty pence.

2. In this verdict any reference to the permitted variation from standard weight, fineness, composition or diameter is to such variation from the standard weight, fineness, composition or diameter as is allowed by such Act and Proclamations.

3. We ascertained the number of coins in each packet produced to us and that it corresponded with the number which the officers of the Royal Mint represented the packet to contain.

4. Gold Coins

(a) We took out one coin from each of the eighty-three packets of gold coins.

(b) We weighed in bulk the coins taken out and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being point two five (+0·25) of a gram above standard weight.

(c) After weighing those coins, we melted them into an ingot and assayed it, comparing it with the standard trial plate of gold produced to us by an officer of the Department of Trade, and we found that the ingot was within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of the variation being point one six (+0·16) parts per thousand above standard fineness.

(d) We weighed in bulk the residue of the coins remaining in the packets of gold coins and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being three point eight five (+3·85) grams above standard weight.

(e) Finally we took out from the residue four of each of the coins of five pounds and two pounds, six sovereigns and six half-sovereigns and weighted and assayed them separately. We found that each of the coins so weighed was within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the only variations being as follows:

for the coins of five pounds:	point nought one four nought (+0·0140) and point nought one nine eight (+0·0198) of a gram above and point nought nought five two (−0·0052) and point nought nought eight four (−0·0084) of a gram below standard weight;
for the coins of two pounds:	point nought nought nought one (−0·0001), point nought nought three six (+0·0036) and point nought one six six (+0·0166) of a gram above standard weight;
for the sovereigns:	point nought nought five four (+0·0054), point nought nought seven four (+0·0074), point nought nought seven six (+0·0076) and point nought nought eight six (+0·0086) of a gram above and point nought nought four nought (−0·0040) and point nought nought four four (−0·0044) of a gram below standard weight and for the half-sovereigns: point nought nought one eight (+0·0018) and point nought nought two two (+0·0022) of a gram above and point nought nought one six (−0·0016), point nought nought two nought (−0·0020), point nought nought two eight (−0·0028) and point nought nought four two (−0·0042) of a gram below standard weight.

We also found that each of the coins so assayed was within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amounts of the variations being as follows:

for the coins of five pounds: point two two (−0·22), point two four (−0·24), point two eight (−0·28) and point five nine (−0·59) parts per thousand below standard fineness; for the coins of two pounds: point seven four (−0·74), point seven eight (−0·78), point nine five (−0·95) and one point nought eight (−1·08) parts per thousand below standard fineness; for the sovereigns: point nought eight (+0·08), point nought nine (+0·09) and point one eight (+0·18) parts per thousand above and point nought two (−0·02), point nought five (−0·05) and point two six (−0·26) parts per thousand below standard fineness and for the half-sovereigns: point nought six (+0·06), point four four (+0·44), point eight two (+0·82), one point nought nought (+1·00), one point nought seven (+1·07) and one point two three (+1·23) parts per thousand above standard fineness.

5. Silver Maundy coins

(a) We weighed in bulk all the silver Maundy coins produced to us and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being point nought nine (+0·09) of a gram above standard weight.

(b) We then assayed all the silver Maundy coins, comparing them with the standard trial plate of silver produced to us by an officer of the Department of Trade, and we found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of the variation being one point five (+1·5) parts per thousand above standard fineness.

6. Silver coins other than Maundy coins

(a) We ascertained that all the silver coins contained in the packets weighed less than five hundred (500) grams.

(b) We took out all the coins of twenty-five pence and weighed them in bulk and found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being point four one (+0·41) of a gram above standard weight.

(c) We took out all the coins of twenty pence and weighed them in bulk and found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being point four nought (+0·40) of a gram above standard weight.

(d) Finally, we assayed all the silver coins, comparing them with the same standard trial plate of silver, and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of the variation being one point five (+1·5) parts per thousand above standard fineness.

7. Cupro-nickel coins

(a) We ascertained that the cupro-nickel coins of each of the denominations of fifty, twenty, ten and five pence contained in the packets weighed more than one kilogram.

(b) From each packet of coins of fifty, twenty, ten and five pence, we took out sufficient coins and grouped them into nineteen lots so that each lot comprised coins of the same denomination and weighed not less than nine hundred and eighty grams nor more than one kilogram.

(c) We then weighed each lot in bulk and found that it was on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amounts of the only variations being as follows:

for three lots of coins of fifty pence: point two (+0·2) and point four (+0·4) of a gram above standard weight; for fourteen lots of coins of twenty pence: point one (+0·1), point two (+0·2), point four (+0·4), point five (+0·5), point five (+0·5), point six (+0·6), point seven (+0·7), point eight (+0·8), point nine (+0·9), one point three (+1·3), one point six (+1·6) and two point four (+2·4) grams above and point three (−0·3) of a gram below standard weight; for one lot of coins of ten pence: one point nought (+1·0) gram above standard weight and for one lot of coins of five pence: point six (−0·6) of a gram below standard weight.

(d) We weighed in bulk the residue of the coins remaining in the packets and ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, the amount of the variation being five hundred and sixteen point nought (+516·0) grams above standard weight.

(e) We then assayed coins not weighing less in all than five hundred grams, comparing them with the standard trial plates of copper and nickel produced to us by an officer of the Department of Trade, and we ascertained that the coins were on the whole within the permitted variations from standard composition, the amounts of the only variations being for the coins of twenty pence minus point three (−0·3) per centum of copper and plus point three (+0·3) per centum of nickel and for the coins of ten and five pence minus point three (−0·3) per centum of copper and plus point two (+0·2) per centum of nickel.

(f) The number of coins of each denomination contained in the packets being more than ten, we measured the diameters of twenty of each of the coins of fifty, twenty, ten and five pence and ascertained that the average diameter of the coins of each denomination was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, the amounts of the variations being for the coins of fifty pence point nought four (+0·04) and for the coins of twenty and five pence point nought one (+0·01) of a millimetre above and for the coins of ten pence point nought three (−0·03) of a millimetre below standard diameter.
