Board of Trade, Whitehall,
December 19, 1864.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received, from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul-General at Hamburg, stating that a series of laws has been passed in Hamburg under date of the 7th instant, and which laws are to come into operation on the 1st of February next, whereby all the privileges of the guilds and trading fraternities are put an end to, and trade or industrial occupations may thenceforth be freely exercised not only by Hamburg citizens but by foreigners, subjects of the Republic, who shall have obtained from the police permission to reside, upon proving the continued right of settlement in their mother-country, and upon payment of moderate fees.

Exceptions from the general liberty of carrying on business are made in the cases of advocates, translators, medical men, schoolmasters, theatre managers, pilots, gasfitters, brokers, emigration agents, &c., who are still to be governed by the special regulations hitherto applicable to them. Certain other trades, such as those of chimney-sweepers, hackney coachmen, hawkers, exhibitors, &c., continue subject to the special supervision of the police, as heretofore.

Persons desirous of carrying on trades or businesses within the Republic must give notice of their desire to the proper authorities. The right may be withdrawn from them by the sentence of a Court of Justice.

Foreigners may be admitted citizens of Hamburg upon proving—1st., that they have resided five years within the territory, and are in possession of a sufficient income; 2d., that they are of full age according to Hamburg law (viz. 22 years old); and 3d., that they are released from allegiance to the State of which they have been members; but the Senate is authorised to dispense with the 1st. and 3d. of these conditions. The fees on admission of citizenship will be altogether 100 marks, or about £6.

The Jews are declared entitled to the rights of citizenship on the same conditions as other persons. They will no longer be forced to belong to the communities either of the German Israelites or of the Portuguese Jews established at Hamburg.

And whereas further powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by another Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office."

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter-mentioned :

1. On every letter not exceeding one half of an ounce in weight, posted in Alexandria addressed to Constantinople, or posted in Constantinople addressed to Alexandria, and transmitted by the post between Alexandria and Constantinople, by British or by French packet-boat, there shall be charged and taken an uniform rate of postage of fourpence.

3. Nothing herein contained shall be construed in anywise to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions or privileges granted by or under the said recited Acts, or either of them, or by or under any other Acts of Parliament relating to the Post-office, or any of the privileges which officers, seamen, and soldiers, employed in Her Majesty's Service, are by law entitled to, of sending and receiving by the post letters subject to the regulations and restrictions in respect of the same.

4. The several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning, in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her Majesty.

5. The Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands duly made, at any time hereafter alter, repeal, or revoke, any of the rates of postage hereby fixed, or any of the orders, directions, regulations, and conditions hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates, orders, directions, regulations, and conditions in lieu thereof, and from time to time may appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.
