VIEWS WANTED ON RETIREMENT PROVISION

The Secretary of State for Social Services is leading an Inquiry into Provision for Retirement in the U.K., with the following terms of reference:

"To study the future development, adequacy and costs of State, occupational and private provision for retirement in the United Kingdom, including the portability of pension rights, and to consider possible changes in those arrangements taking account of the recommendations of the Select Committee on Social Services in their report on retirement age."

the balance between State and occupational pensions

the impact of pensions on savings and the economy

the age at which people should be able to retire on pensions

If you wish to submit evidence, you may do so directly in writing to the Secretary of the Inquiry at the address below. If you belong to an organisation concerned in this matter, please submit your evidence through them. We need to receive all views by 31st March, please.
