The Speech of the Lords Commissioners to both Houses of Parliament, on Thursday, June 21, 1810.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

HIS Majesty has commanded us to acquaint you, that, as the Public Business is now concluded, He thinks it proper to put an End to the present Session of Parliament.

We are commanded by His Majesty to express the Satisfaction He derived from the Reduction of the Island of Guadaloupe by His Majesty's Arms, an Event which, for the first Time in the History of the Wars of Great Britain, has wrested from France all her Possessions in that Quarter of the World; and which, together with the subsequent Capture of the only Colonies in the West Indies which remained in the Possession of the Dutch, has deprived His Majesty's Enemies of every Port in those Seas from which the Interests of His Majesty, or the Commerce of His Subjects, can be molested.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

His Majesty has commanded us to thank you for the liberal and ample Supplies which you have granted for the Services of the present Year.

His Majesty deeply regrets the necessary Extent of the Demands which those Services have created; but we are commanded to express to you the Consolation which He has derived from observing that the Resources of the Country, manifesting themselves by every Mark of Prosperity, by a Revenue increasing in almost all its Branches, and by a Commerce extending itself in new Channels, and with an increased Vigour in Proportion as the Enemy has in vain attempted to destroy it, have enabled you to provide for the Expences of the Year, without imposing the Burden of any New Taxation in Great Britain; and that, while the Taxes which have been necessarily resorted to for Ireland have been imposed upon Articles which will not interfere with the growing Prosperity of that Country, you have found it consistent with a due Regard to its Finances to diminish some of those Burdens, and relax some of those Regulations of Revenue, which had been felt the most inconvenient in that Part of the United Kingdom.

His Majesty further commands us to return you His Thanks for the Provision which you have enabled Him to make for the Establishment of His Serene Highness the Duke of Brunswick.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

His Majesty has directed us to acquaint you, that Portugal, rescued from the Oppression of the Enemy, by the powerful Assistance of His Majesty's Arms; has exerted Herself with Vigour and Energy in making every Preparation for repelling, with the continued Aid of His Majesty's Force, any renewed Attack on the Part of the Enemy, and that in Spain, notwithstanding the Reverses which have been experienced, the Spirit of Resistance against France still continues unsubdued and unabated: And His Majesty commands us to assure you of His firm and unaltered Conviction, that not only the Honour of His Throne, but the best Interests of His Dominions, require His most strenuous and persevering Assistance to the glorious Efforts of those loyal Nations.

His Majesty has commanded us to recommend to you, upon your Return to your respective Counties, to use your best Exertions to promote that Spirit of Order and Obedience to the Laws, and that general Concord amongst all Classes of His Majesty's Subjects, which can alone give full Effect to His Majesty's paternal Care for the Welfare and Happiness of His People. His Majesty has the fullest Reliance upon the Affections of His Subjects, whose Loyalty and Attachment have hitherto supported Him through that long and eventful Period, during which it has pleased Divine Providence to commit the Interests of these Dominions to His Charge. His Majesty feels that the Preservation of domestic Peace and Tranquillity, under the Protection of the Law, and in Obedience to its Authority, is amongst the most important Duties which He owes to His People.

His Majesty commands us to assure you that He will not be wanting in the Discharge of that Duty; and His Majesty will always rely with Confidence on the continued Support of His loyal Subjects, to enable Him to resist with Success the Designs of Foreign Enemies, and to transmit unimpaired to Posterity the Blessings of the British Constitution.

Then a Commission for proroguing the Parliament was read. After which the Lord Chancellor said;

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

BY Virtue of His Majesty's Commission under the Great Seal, to us and other Lords directed, and now read, we do, in His Majesty's Name, and in Obedience to His Commands, prorogue this Parliament to Tuesday the Twenty-first Day of August next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the Twenty-first Day of August next.

Downing-Street, June 21, 1810.

DISPATCHES have been received at the Office of the Earl of Liverpool; from Lieutenant-General Sir John Stuart, dated Messina, 24th April 1810, transmitting the Copy of a Dispatch and Enclosure from Brigadier-General Oswald, of which the following are Copies.

*Head Quarters, Camp, before St. Maura,

I HAVE the honour to report to your Excellency, that the Troops, with the Naval Forces under the Orders of Captain Eyre, of His Majesty's Ship Magnificent, as per Margin*, sailed from Zante on the Morning of the 21st, and reached the Island of St. Maura the same Evening. Early the next Day, the Army disembarked to the Southward of the Town. The Enemy retiring from the Batteries, on the Approach of His Majesty's Ship Imogene and Gunboats, the Troops immediately moved forward. Lieutenant-Colonel Lowe, commanding the Advance, a Portion of which (Greek Light Infantry), under Major Church, was kept upon the Flank, and drove a Party of Albanians from the adjacent Heights. The Town was found to be evacuated; General Camus having with his whole Forces (amounting to above One Thousand Men) retired into the Forts and strong Fieldworks contiguous thereto; at the same Time acquainting the Civil Administration with his Inability any longer to protect them.

The Forts of St. Maura is situated upon a narrow sandy Isthmus, of Three Miles in length, which joins it to the Island, and it has, besides, a direct Communication with the Town by a singularly narrow Causeway, nearly a Mile in Length. The Neck of Land is defended by Two strong Redoubts, and an Intrenchment regularly constructed, and capable of such a Resistance as led the Enemy to declare they would arrest our Progress for a Month at least. Lieutenant-Colonel Lowe being left to watch the Enemy's Movements from the Town, supported by Colonel Wilder and Two Battalions, I proceeded with a Portion of Light Infantry to reconnoitre the Isthmus. Major Church, I found, had already, with Four Companies of the Greek Light Infantry, gallantly carried the first Redoubt; the Enemy retiring upon his next Intrenchments, where he remained in Force, assiduously employed in completing its Defence. It was obvious that no Time ought to be lost in carrying this Work; accordingly the Battalion of Detachments under Major Clarke, 55th Regiment, was called from the Town to support the Attack, which previous Success and the best apparent Disposition induced me to confide to the Greek Light Infantry. Captain Eyre, who did me the Honour to land with the Troops, directed His Majesty's Ship Leonidas to be placed so as to favour the Assault. Captain Brisbane, R. N. who was also on Shore, conveyed this Order and our Intentions to Captain Griffiths.

The Line to be attacked extended from Sea to Sea, mounted with Four Pieces of Cannon well flanked; had a wet Ditch and Abbatis in Front; manned by about Five Hundred Infantry; and was so defiled from the Sea as to render it almost secure from the Fire of the Shipping. His Majesty's Ship Leonidas came to Anchor as close as the Water would admit of; meanwhile the Troops formed in Columns approached, and were to a certain Distance covered by the Ground. On opening the Front of the Work they became exposed to a heavy and well directed Fire of Grape and Musquetry. The Greeks resorted to their accustomed and in many Situations appropriate Mode of Fighting; nor could the most gallant Efforts of Major Church, Captain Tiffin (Inspectors), and others of their Officers, make them advance with that Celerity which, on similar Occasions, usually commands both Safety and Success. I am unequal to do Justice to the Exertions of my Staff, to the Officers of the Royal Artillery, and Royal Engineers who accompanied me upon this trying Occasion. Captains Eyre and Stephens, of the Royal Navy, were amongst the most animated in the Combat, and were both wounded in the Display of professional characteristic Valour. Upon finding the Head of the Column could not be brought to the Assault, I immediately directed Major Clarke to bring up the Battalion of Detachments, consisting of Two Companies of the Royal Marines under Captains Snow and Stuart, Two Companies of the Roll's under Major de Boffet, and Two Companies of Calabrian Free Corps under Major Oswald. The Royal Marines, led by Major Clarke, and headed by their Officers, broke through the Abbatis and charged into the Intrenchments; they were nobly supported by the Roll's, under Major Boffet; and no Delicacy can prevent me from noticing the gallant Exertion of Major Oswald, in bringing forward his Corps. The Contest was not of long Duration; the Enemy fled at all Points, pursued with the Bayonet from Work to Work; and such was his Precipitation that he not only abandoned the Camp and Cannon of the attacked Line, but left his remaining strong Position, followed by Major Clarke's Command even to the Gates of the Forts. His Flight was accelerated by a previously concerted and extremely well executed Movement of Lieutenant-Colonel Lowe, with the Rifles of his Corps, supported by a Company of the 35th and Two Companies of the Royal Corsican Rangers. The Party headed by the Lieutenant-Colonel pushed along the narrow and perfectly exposed Causeway which connects the Town with the Forts. This unexpected Advance led upon the Enemy's Rear, and contributed to his so quickly abandoning the strong Redoubts, which a front Attack alone could with Difficulty effect. The Lieutenant-Colonel in his Report speaks highly of the good Conduct of the Officers and Men, and states that Lieutenant Boccheciampe singularly distinguished himself by remaining, after receiving a severe Wound, to cover the Retreat of a Part of the Riflemen, whom the Enemy's Fire compelled to retire; some of whom, driven from the Dike into the Water, were missing. Thus concluded successfully Operations of the highest Import to our future Progress in the Island; and I trust that the Conduct of the Troops in storming the Works will be deemed worthy of your Excellency's Approbation. These Advantages have not been cheaply obtained; for I have been deprived of the Aid of some of the most distinguished amongst us: Captain Wynyard, Assistant Adjutant General; Major Church, Assistant Quarter-Master General, Superintendent of the Greek Light Infantry; Major Oswald, of the Calabrese Division; Captain Vincenzo, of the same Corps; and Captain Parker, of the Royal Engineers; all most meritorious and valuable Officers, are amongst the wounded. With heartfull Pleasure, I state their Wounds to be of a Nature to give Hopes that they will soon return to their respective Stations. Upon the whole, excepting Captain Vincenzo, with whose Merits your Excellency is well acquainted, our wounded of all Ranks promise speedy Recovery and no permanent Injury.

The Anxiety of Mr. Gunning, Surgeon to the Forces, to lend his immediate Aid, placed him in the Situation to become himself a Sufferer; fortunately not so much so as to prevent him from performing the Functions he so diligently and ably discharges.

It would exceed the Bounds of a Dispatch to enumerate the Merits of Individuals, but I am bound to notice the Promptness with which, at the most critical Moment, my Orders were conveyed to Major Clarke by Lieutenant Hattenbühler, of the Royal Corsican Rangers, my Aid de Camp, an old and deserving Officer; and which afforded the Major an immediate Opportunity of greatly contributing to the Success of the Day. Mr. Foresti gave me essential Aid during the March, and in the Attack was one of the foremost in manifesting the Zeal and Courage with which His Majesty's Service upon all Occasions inspires him.

The Enemy is now pent up within his Walls, and one of the Ports we gained from him is favourably placed for commencing our Approaches, which, however, the Narrowness of the Ground renders difficult and laborious. Herewith I transmit to your Excellency Returns of our Killed, Wounded, and Missing, together with Lists of the captured Ordnance.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

*To His Excellency Sir John Stuart, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Forces, &c. &c.
Sicily.*

Downing-Street, June 21, 1810.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a Copy, has been received at the Office of the Earl of Liverpool, from Lieutenant-General Sir John Stuart, dated Messina, April 26, 1810.

MY LORD, Messina, April 26, 1810

SINCE my Dispatch to your Lordship of the 24th Instant, I have received from Brigadier-General Oswald the satisfactory Account which I have the Honour to transmit herewith, of the complete Reduction of the Island and Fortrefs of St. Maura, and of the Surrender of the French Force by which they were garrisoned to His Majesty's Arms.

On the Service so successfully accomplished by Brigadier-General Oswald, it only remains with me to express the sanguine Hope, that the Consequences will be as beneficial as the Achievement has been brilliant; and that himself and the gallant Troops who have been the Companions of his Enterprize, will receive their best Recompence in their Sovereign's most gracious Approbation.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

J. STUART,
Count of Maida, Lieut.-Gen.

*Camp off St. Maura,
April 17, 1810.*

SIR,

I HAVE extreme Satisfaction in announcing to your Excellency, that the Fortrefs of St. Maura surrendered to His Majesty's Arms on the 16th Instant, Nine Days after Batteries, consisting of Two Thirty-two-Pounders, Nine Eighteen-Pounders, Four Howitzers, and Six Mortars, were opened against it: a Portion of this Artillery, however, had only been Three Days in Action.

The Place was perfectly provided in Casemates, and I am free to confess, its Situation and Defences offered greater Obstacles than I apprehended we should have had to contend with.

The Sketch I had the Honour to forward with my last Dispatch, will shew to your Excellency the narrow and exposed Front we had to work upon; and likewise, that a due Consideration for the Inhabitants compelled me to construct the Batteries of Support at rather too great a Distance from the Work.

The ample Supplies which your Excellency promptly dispatched, enabled us to support so heavy a Cannonade and Bombardment, as to render it unnecessary to resort to a breaching Battery, a Measure in Contemplation, which the Skill and Resources at all Times displayed by Captain Thackeray, would I doubt not have happily accomplished. The Enemy's Artillery and Interior of the Fortrefs have greatly suffered; but its Walls remain unimpaired.

The Troops have performed the hazardous and arduous Labours of the Siege with characteristic Intrepidity and Perseverance.

During the Operations, One or Two Night Attacks upon the Enemy's Out-Posts afforded a Display of that high degree of Discipline and Gallantry which such Efforts demand.

Upon the Evening of the 15th, Captain Thackeray desiring to reconnoitre the Approach and Ground for the breaching Battery, then in Agitation, it became necessary to drive the Enemy from an Intrenchment he held within Three Hundred Paces of his Rampart. The Service was entrusted to Lieutenant-Colonel Moore, of the 35th Regiment, who led the Grenadiers of that Regiment, Light Company of Roll's, and Subalterns' Detachments of the Corsican Rifles, and Royal Marines. This Corps pushing undauntedly through a heavy Fire of Grape and Musquetry, carried the Enemy's Line at the Point of the Bayonet. Upon the Lieutenant-Colonel and Captain Thackeray reporting to me, that it was practicable to establish our Troops there, the Detachment was directed to stand fast, and by incessant and judicious Labour during the Night, the Intrenchment was converted into a second Parallel, from whence the Fire of the Enemy, however severe, could not dislodge it.

Our Sharpshooters and Infantry from thence greatly distressed the opposing Artillery; and I am convinced hastened the Enemy's Decision to surrender.

In the course of these Operations, it has afforded me infinite Satisfaction to observe, that the Skill of our Officers and the Courage of our Men, have uniformly converted the Labours of the Enemy into Works of Security for ourselves.

I am happy to say, that upon the whole our Loss has been inconsiderable; remarkably so, when the Circumstances of the Siege are taken into Consideration.

The Skill and Attention of Mr. Gunning, Surgeon to the Forces, (of whom I cannot speak too highly, or too strongly recommend to your Excellency,) and that of the other Medical Officers, will I trust be the means of preserving the valuable Lives of our wounded Officers and Men. I am deeply concerned to say, that since my last Report, a chance Cannon Shot has deprived the Army of Major Clarke; an Officer whose early Exploits and distinguished Qualities promised to render him one of its brightest Ornaments.

Captain Eyre's Misfortune did not admit of his being on Shore; but the Magnificent was brought near to the Scene of Action, and I constantly profited from his Advice and Assistance.

The Squadron has given the most powerful Aid: it furnished Ammunition and Cannon for the Batteries, with intelligent Officers and brave Seamen to fight them; their Fire was most destructive. Captains Mowbray, Brisbane, and Griffiths, of the Royal Navy, were zealous in their Co-operation; the Two latter Officers resumed their Station off Corfu, while Captain Mowbray, by his unceasing Exertions, facilitated our Operations and supplied our Wants.

The Gallantry and good Conduct of the Royal Marines was noticed to your Excellency in my last Report, and I can only assure you that it has been conspicuous throughout the Service.

Colonel Wilder superintended the Duties of the Line to my perfect Satisfaction.

Lieutenant-Colonel Lowe commanded in the Town, and was unwearied in calling forth the Resources of the Island, and in planning and forwarding a Mode of Attack by the Lake, had the Obstinacy of the Enemy forced us to recur to such a Measure.

The Arrangements of Captain Williamson, commanding the Artillery, were most excellent. The Officers and Men of the Corps displayed their accustomed Science and Intrepidity.

The Labours of Captain Thackeray, Commanding Engineer, were incessant, his Projects judicious, and his Batteries admirably constructed. The Officers of that Department had severe Duty, and acquitted themselves in a Manner the most praise-worthy.

The Army has been abundantly supplied, through the Exertions of the Commissariat, directed by Acting Assistant-Commissary Forbes, a Gentleman who has discharged his extensive and complicated Duties entirely to my Approbation.

Since Captain Wynyard's Confinement the Office of Adjutant-General has been performed by Brigade Major Oust, a deserving Officer long attached to my Command.

Captain A'Court, who volunteered from Sicily, arrived in time to render me most essential Service in the Department of the Quarter-Master-General.

The Limits of a Report admit not of my noticing further the Merits of Individuals; but I can most conscientiously assure your Excellency that every Person belonging to this Army has faithfully done his Duty, and deserves the Commendation and Support of his Superiors.

The Motives which induced me to propose this Enterprize to your Excellency, have acquired Strength as I became more acquainted with the local Position and the military and political Relations of the Island.

The Enemy upon our landing had Sixteen Hundred regular and irregular Troops; a Force he could augment at pleasure, and easily bring to act against the adjacent and least protected of the liberated Isles. The judicious Measure suggested by His Majesty's Minister, Mr. Foresti, and which obtained your Excellency's Sanction, of receiving the Albanians into our Service, together with the Display of the National Greek Flag, led them to abandon a Cause they never heartily embraced. Many of them have returned to their Country, and others are proposed to be enrolled by us upon the Footing that has been approved of.

During the whole of the Service in this Island, Mr. Foresti has remained in the Field, sharing with me the Toils of the Campaign.

Herewith I enclose the Articles of Capitulation, Returns of Killed and Wounded, as also a Return of Prisoners and captured Stores.

This Dispatch will be presented by Lieutenant Hartzenbühler, my Aid de Camp, whom I again recommend to your Excellency's Notice and Protection. I have the Honor to be, &c.

(Signed) J. OSWALD,
Brig. Gen. Commanding Troops in the Ionian Isles.

His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir John Stuart, K. B. and K. C. Commander of the Forces, &c. &c. &c.

P. S. In my last Letter I omitted to mention, that Lieutenant Charters, with the Royal Marines of the Belle Poule, formed a Portion of the Party which assaulted the Enemy's Lines; I now beg to supply that Deficiency, and to bear Testimony to their brilliant Conduct upon that Occasion.

[(Signed) J. OSWALD, Brig. Gen.]

THE following Address has been transmitted to His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, and has been presented by him to the King; His Majesty was pleased to receive it in the most gracious Manner.

Unto the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors and Justices of the Peace of the Shire of Inverness, in a General Meeting assembled.

May it please Your Majesty,

WE, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors and Justices of the Peace of the Shire of Inverness, beg leave to approach the Throne, with unfeigned Loyalty and Attachment to Your Majesty's Person, Family, and Government.

We glory in the Benefits we receive from the invaluable Constitution under which we live, a Constitution that, amidst the Commotions which have overset most of the other Nations of Europe, has preserved and confirmed to Great Britain its Freedom and Independence in Church and State. And we assure Your Majesty, that we will, with our Lives and Fortunes, support that Constitution as by Law established, against every Attempt foreign or domestic which may be made to overthrow it.

We conceive that Parliament has, in its own vital Principles, Resources sufficient for introducing every necessary Reform, and for preserving its own Integrity by calm Deliberation, unawed by Tumult, or uncoerced by popular Commotion.

That Your Majesty may long continue the Guardian of the Rights and Franchises of Your People, is the most ardent Wish of, may it please Your Majesty, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors and Justices of the Peace of the Shire of Inverness.

Signed in Name and by Appointment of the Meeting at Inverness, the 30th May, 1810, by
A. Fraser, Lovat, &c. Præses.
