Admiralty-Office, July 18, 1812.

Copy of a Letter from Vice-Admiral Sir James Saumarez, Bart. and K. B. to John Wilson Croker, Esq. dated on board His Majesty's Ship Victory, Wingo Sound, July 8, 1812.

SIR,

I HAVE the highest satisfaction in transmitting to you, to be laid before the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the enclosed letter which I have this day received from Captain Stewart, of His Majesty's ship Dictator, detailing the particulars of a most gallant exploit performed by him and the two sloops and the gun-brig named in the margin*, upon the Danish frigate Nayaden, three large sloops of war, and numerous gun-boats, within the rocks of Mardoe, on the coast of Norway, supported by batteries on the shore; in which the enemy's frigate has been totally destroyed, and the sloops of war completely disabled, besides several of the gun-boats sunk.

It is impossible for me to express in an adequate manner the undaunted spirit displayed by Captain Stewart, and all the officers and men under his orders, in this arduous enterprise, which I am assured will be duly appreciated by their Lordships.

Captain Stewart speaks in the strongest terms of the gallantry and zeal of Captain Robilliard, of the Podargus, and Captain Weir, of the Calypso, and * Podargus, Calypso, Flamer, gun-brig.

Lieutenant Thomas England, commanding the Flamer gun-brig; also of Lieutenant William Buchanan, First of the Dictator.

Herewith is also transmitted, the list of the enemy's force, with the returns of the killed and wounded on board His Majesty's ships.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) JAMES SAUMAREZ.

His Majesty's Ship Dictator, in the Sleeve, July 7, 1812.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that yesterday evening, being off Mardoe with the brigs named in the margin*, the mast-heads of the enemy's squadron were seen over the rocks; and Captain Robilliard, of the Podargus, in the most handsome manner volunteered to lead the squadron in to attack them, he having a man on board acquainted with the place; and as neither the masters or the pilots of either of the ships conceived themselves equal to the charge, I did not hesitate to accept his kind offer, well knowing that the British flag would meet with nothing but honour in such hands.

In the entrance of the passage the Podargus unfortunately took the ground; by which circumstance I was deprived of the valuable and gallant services of her Commander during the remainder of the day, and was, in consequence, obliged to leave the Flamer to her assistance; but in Captain Weir, of the Calypso, I found every thing that could be wished for, which, in a great measure, made up for the loss which I had sustained in the Podargus and Flamer. By this time, half-past seven P. M., we had arrived within one mile of the enemy, who were running inside the rocks under a press of sail; the Calypso, which had also grounded for a short time, was now leading us through the passage, and both she and ourselves engaged with the squadron and numerous gun-boats. However at half-past nine, I had the satisfaction, after sailing twelve miles through a passage, in some places scarcely wide enough to admit of our studding sail booms being out, of running the Dictator's bow upon the land with her broadside towards the enemy (within hail) as per margin*, who were anchored with springs on their cables, close together, and supported by gun-boats, in the small creek of Lyngoe, the Calypso most nobly following us up.

In half an hour the frigate was literally battered to atoms, and the flames bursting forth from her hatchways; the brigs had also struck, and most of the gun-boats were completely beaten, and some sunk. The action had scarcely ceased, and the ship afloat, than we found ourselves again attacked by the gun-boats which had retreated on seeing the fate of their squadron, and were again collecting from all quarters; but Captain Weir, of the Calypso, having taken a most advantageous position, engaged them with the greatest gallantry and effect; indeed I am at a loss how to express my approbation of the prompt exertion of this gallant and meritorious officer.

The Podargus and Flamer in the meantime were warmly engaged with numerous batteries and gun-boats, both brigs being aground; but by the uncommon exertion and extreme gallantry of Captain Robilliard, and the officers and crews of the brigs, they at last got afloat very much cut up: on this occasion Lieutenant England particularly distinguished himself.

At three A. M. having got the Dictator, Calypso, and prize brigs in the fair way, we attempted to get out through the passages, when we were assailed by a division of gun-boats from behind the rocks, so situated that not a gun could be brought to bear on them from either vessel; in this situation both prize brigs grounded, and notwithstanding every exertion on the part of Lieutenant James Wilkie of this ship, in the Laaland, who had extinguished fire on board her which was burning with great fury, and Lieutenant Hooper, of the Calypso, in the Kiel, we had to abandon them complete wrecks, humanity forbidding our setting them on fire, owing to the number of wounded men they had on board.

* Nayaden, Laaland, Samsoe, Kiel.

I cannot conclude this letter without mentioning in terms of praise Mr. William Buchanan, the First Lieutenant of this ship, a most gallant and excellent officer.

From the nature of the attack, I have been obliged to lengthen my report, probably more than the service performed justifies, but in that case, I trust you will only attribute it to my anxiety to endeavour to do justice to a set of officers and men who, I am sure, have done their duty to admiration. The conduct of every individual on board His Majesty's ship I have the honour to command, has been highly meritorious, and I cannot omit to add the names of Lieutenants Duell, Dutton, and Edwards, Captain Triscott, Lieutenant James Baker, and Lieutenant F. M. Namara, of the royal marines, Mr. R. West, the Master, and Mr. John Luckomlee, the Purser. The skilful attention of Mr. Hay, the Surgeon, to our own men as well as our enemies, has been beyond all praise, and he speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Sanderson, his Assistant. Captains Robilliard and Weir, mention the conduct of all their officers and men to have been such as characterize Britons on such occasions, and I am sure I can with great justice add my tribute of applause.

Enclosed I have the honour to transmit a list of the killed, &c.; although I cannot help deploring the loss of so many brave men, it is much less than could be reasonably expected. The Danes acknowledge to have lost about three hundred killed and wounded; I rather suspect five.

Our ships have suffered extremely in their hulls, masts, and rigging.

I have the honour to be, &c.

I BEG you will be pleased to inform my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that on my passage through the Sleeve yesterday, I spoke the Nimble cutter, which had been dispatched to reconnoitre the enemy's position in Norway; the Commander of which informed me, that besides the frigate, one sloop was totally destroyed, and the rest disabled, which account corresponds with my own observation during and subsequent to the action.

I enclose a report of the Danish force prior and since the battle, from which I trust their Lordships will be satisfied they can effect nothing of importance this summer.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Copy of a Letter from Captain Ross, of His Majesty's Sloop Briseis, addressed to Rear-Admiral Martin, and transmitted by Vice-Admiral Sir James Saumarez to John Wilson Croker, Esq.

His Majesty's Sloop Briseis, off Pillau,
 SIR, June 29, 1812.

I HAVE the honour to inform you, that, in pursuance of your orders, I stood in yesterday to communicate with the merchant vessel Urania in Pillau Roads, when I perceived her to be in possession of the French troops, and that it was intended to destroy her on our approach: I tacked and stood off, judging it the most likely way to save the ship (which was employed by Messrs. Sully and Son on the part of Government) from destruction, and the remainder of her cargo from falling into the hands of the enemy, to surprise her in the night. Lieutenant Thomas Jones (2d), First of the Briseis; Mr. Palmer, Midshipman, and eighteen men, were sent in the pinnace on that service at midnight; when within pistol-shot, they were hailed and fired upon by the enemy, who had six guns and four swivels on board the Urania, which was surrounded by craft and boats; but every obstacle was overcome by the gallantry of Lieutenant Jones and his crew, who gave three cheers, boarded over the craft; and drove the enemy off deck into their boats on the opposite side, leaving behind part of their arms; the cable was then cut, and she was brought out, together with a French scout that was employed unloading her.

On our side I have to regret the loss of one seaman (John Cooper) killed; Joseph Cook, serjeant of royal marines, badly; Mr. Palmer, Midshipman; and one seaman (Robert Starkins) slightly wounded; but the enemy must have suffered far more severely, from being exposed, in their turn, to the fire from the Urania after they had abandoned her.

I am, &c.

JOHN ROSS, Commander.

To Rear-Admiral T. B. Martin.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergymen, and Freeholders of the County of Nottingham, humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, and to offer our most sincere condolence upon the assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Lord of the Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer, within the walls of the House of Commons, when he was proceeding to discharge the duties of his high official situation.

We regard with detestation and abhorrence the crime which has thus prematurely deprived His Majesty and the country of a man so eminently distinguished by every virtue—a man, whose high talents and unblemished integrity gained him the esteem and admiration of all who were able to appreciate such inestimable qualities; yet of such a man have we been deprived by the hand of a vile assassin, with this remaining consolation, however, that the national character is not involved in the sanguinary act.

Such atrocious malignity we know to be inconsistent with the generous and manly character of the British nation, nor should the disgraceful and inhuman demonstrations of joy which marked the proceedings of a few persons in this county, on hearing of the horrid and calamitous event, be in the smallest degree regarded as the expression of popular feeling; for we are most anxious to state to your Royal Highness (what it is only just and due to the honour of the county at large to remark), that their number was not less despicable than their conduct on that occasion was odious and contemptible.

With deep concern at the same time we are compelled to acknowledge, that certain outrages, lately committed in this and in other counties, have been conducted under a system of organization and vindictive malice, unexampled in these dominions, and urgently demanding for their speedy suppression the prompt and vigorous execution of such strong legislative measures, as may be best calculated to meet the unprecedented evil.

We avail ourselves of this melancholy occasion to express our unshaken attachment and loyalty to our beloved Sovereign and your Royal Highness; and we profess ourselves most zealously determined to offer both our persons and our properties, when called upon, to preserve undiminished the dignity of the crown and the laws and liberties of these kingdoms.

[Presented by Viscount Newark and A. H. Eyre, Esq. Representatives in Parliament for the County of Nottingham.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Selkirk, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the expression of our sincere attachment to your royal person, and particularly of our gratitude for that truly prudent and patriotic conduct which has been uniformly displayed from the commencement of your Government as Regent of these Kingdoms.

In the eventful character of the present crisis, and in the consequent importance of public deliberations, we, feelingly condole with your Royal Highness on the loss which the country has sustained in the death of that wise, able, and upright Minister, whose high value was duly appreciated, and honourably marked, by the confidence of your Royal Highness.

The atrocious deed which deprived us of such a man, will, we trust, long remain an isolated fact in our national history, unparalleled in future as in past times, and as much the cause of wonder to our posterity, as it has been of surprise and horror to the contemporaries of the victim and the assassin.

During the important discussions which have followed this lamented event, we have beheld with equal gratitude and admiration, the worthy and persevering exertions of your Royal Highness, to obtain the services, and to combine the strength of the most eminent of our statesmen in the common cause of our country.

In regretting the failure of this laudable object in its full extent, to the attainment of which your Royal Highness evidently sacrificed every private consideration, we have the happiness to recognise, in the disinterested patriotism and public spirit of your Royal Highness, under circumstances of the greatest delicacy and difficulty, the most powerful additional claims on the affection and confidence of the country.

Impressed with this conviction, we declare our resolution to support your government, under those tried and experienced Ministers, whom your Royal Highness in your paternal anxiety has ultimately chosen.—Educated as they have been in sound constitutional principles, colleagues of Mr. Pitt and Mr. Perceval, co-advisers of those measures which, during the greater part of this eventful war, have contributed to the safety, the glory, and the prosperity of the country, their character is established in our minds by such associations.—While we contemplate, with hope and fond expectation, the success of the general measures of your government, we look to your Royal Highness, and to them for the preservation of the constitution, as well from the misguided or the unprincipled attempts of domestic innovators, as from the implacable and powerful attacks of our foreign enemies.

Signed by order and in presence of the Meeting,
by Napier, Preses.

[Transmitted by the Lord Napier, and Presented by Lord Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness GEORGE PRINCE of WALES, Regent of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's loyal Subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, Town Council, and Deacons of the Incorporations of the Royal Burgh of Lanark, in Council assembled;

No. 16623.

B

Filled with sentiments of admiration of the wisdom of your Royal Highness's counsels, and of the bravery of His Majesty's arms, most conspicuously displayed both in Spain and Portugal, by the brilliant successes which have uniformly attended our efforts in that quarter of the globe, beg leave humbly to approach the throne, with our felicitations and best wishes for your Royal Highness on occasion of your recent investment with the unlimited exercise of the Royal authority.

Though, in common with the whole empire, we have to lament that most melancholy and horrid event, the assassination of the late Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, Prime Minister of Great Britain, a man who in his character united every thing that was requisite to form the great statesman and the good member of society, we must, along with our condolence, express our highest encomiums of the measures taken by your Royal Highness in consequence of that most melancholy catastrophe, and renew our declarations of inviolable attachment to your Royal Highness's person and Government.

Signed in our presence and by our appointment, at Lanark, the 7th of July 1812.
