NOTICE is hereby given, that His Royal Highness the Prince Regent will hold a Levee at Carlton-House, on Wednesday the 11th instant, at two o'clock.

CONVENTION for a Suspension of Hostilities with France. Signed at Paris, the 23d of April 1814.

In the Name of the Most Holy and Undivided Trinity.

THE Allied Powers, anxious to terminate the misfortunes of Europe, and to lay the foundation of its repose on a just division of power between the states of which it is composed; desirous of affording to France (now that she is reinstated under a Government whose principles offer the necessary guarantees for the maintenance of Peace) proofs of their disposition to place themselves in the relations of friendship with her; and wishing at the same time that France should enjoy the blessings of Peace as much as possible, even before the whole of their arrangements can be completed, have resolved to proceed, conjointly with His Royal Highness Monsieur, Son of France, Brother of the King, Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France, to a suspension of hostilities between their respective forces, and to the re-establishment of the relations of friendship which formerly subsisted between them.

His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, for himself and his Allies on the one part, and His Royal Highness Monsieur, Brother of the Most Christian King, Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France, on the other part, have, in consequence, named Plenipotentiaries to agree to an act, which, without prejudging the terms of Peace, contains stipulations for a suspension of hostilities, and which shall be succeeded, as soon as may be, by a Treaty of Peace; to wit:—His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honourable Robert Stewart Viscount Cas-tlereagh, one of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, a Member of Parliament, Colonel of the Londonderry Regiment of Militia, and His Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; and His Royal Highness Monsieur, Brother of the King, Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France, le Sieur Charles Maurice de Talleyrand Perigord, Prince of Benevento, Grand Eagle of the Legion of Honour, Grand Cross of the Order of St. Stephen, of the Orders of St. Andrew, St. Alexander Newsky, and of St. Anne of Russia, of the Orders of the Black Eagle and the Red Eagle of Prussia, Senator and President of the Provisional Government; who, after the exchange of their full powers, have agreed to the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

All hostilities by land and sea are, and shall remain, suspended between the Allied Powers and France; that is to say, for the land forces, as soon as the Commanding Officers of the French armies and fortified places shall have signified to the allied troops opposed to them, that they have recognised the authority of the Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France; and in like manner upon the sea, as far as regards maritime places and stations, as soon as the shipping and ports of the kingdom of France, or those occupied by French forces, shall have manifested the same submission.

ARTICLE II.

For the purpose of effecting the re-establishment of the relations of friendship between the Allied Powers and France, and to afford to the latter beforehand, as much as possible, the enjoyment of the blessings of Peace, the Allied Powers will cause their armies to evacuate the French territory, as it existed on the 1st of January 1792, upon condition that the places still in the possession of the French armies beyond those limits, shall be evacuated and delivered up to the Allies.

ARTICLE III.

The Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France will accordingly instruct the Commandants of those places, to deliver them up in the following manner, viz. the places situated upon the Rhine, not comprehended within the limits of France on the 1st of January 1792, and those between the Rhine and the said limits, in the space of ten days, to be calculated from the day of the signature of the present act; the places in Piedmont and in other parts of Italy which belonged to France, in fifteen days; those in Spain in twenty days; and all other places occupied by French troops, without exception, in such manner as that they shall be entirely delivered up by the 1st of June next. The garrisons of such places shall depart with their arms and baggage, and with the private property of the military, and of the civil agents of every description. They shall be allowed to take with them field artillery in the proportion of three pieces to each one thousand men, the sick and wounded therein comprised.

The property of the fortresses, and every thing which is not private property, shall remain untouched, and shall be given over in full to the Allies without any thing being removed. In the property are comprised not only the depôts of artillery and ammunition, but also all other supplies of every description, as well as the archives, inventories, plans, maps, models, &c.

Immediately after the signature of the present Convention, Commissaries on the part of the Allied Powers and of France shall be named and dispatched to the fortresses, in order to ascertain the state in which they are, and to regulate together the execution of this article.

The garrisons shall be regulated in their return to France according to the magazines upon the different lines which shall be agreed upon. The blockades of fortified places in France shall be raised immediately by the allied armies.

The French troops making a part of the army of Italy, or occupying the fortified places in that country or in the Mediterranean, shall be recalled immediately by His Royal Highness the Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom.

ARTICLE IV.

The stipulations of the preceding article shall be equally applicable to maritime fortresses, the Contracting Powers reserving, however, to themselves to regulate in the Definitive Treaty of Peace, the fate of the arsenals, vessels of war, armed and unarmed, which are in those places.

ARTICLE V.

The fleets and ships of France shall remain in their respective situations, vessels only charged with particular missions shall be allowed to sail, but the immediate effect of the present act in respect to the French ports, shall be the raising of all blockade by land or sea, the liberty of fishing, that of the coasting trade, particularly of that which is necessary for supplying Paris with provisions; and the re-establishment of the relations of commerce conformably to the internal regulations of each country; and the immediate effect, in respect to the interior, shall be the free provisioning of the cities, and the free passage of all means of military or commercial transport.

ARTICLE VI.

In order to anticipate every subject of complaint and dispute which may arise respecting the captures which might be made at sea after the signature of the present Convention, it is reciprocally agreed that vessels and effects which may be taken in the Channel, and in the North Seas, after the space of twelve days, to reckon from the exchange of the ratifications of the present act, shall be restored on both sides, that the term shall be one month within the Channel and North Seas to the Canary Islands and to the Equator, and five months in every other part of the world, without any exception or other particular distinction of time, or of place.

ARTICLE VII.

On both sides, the prisoners, officers, and soldiers, of land or sea, or of any other description whatever, and particularly hostages, shall be immediately sent back to their respective countries, without ransom and without exchange. Commissaries shall be named reciprocally in order to carry this general liberation into effect.

ARTICLE VIII.

The administration of the departments or cities actually occupied by the forces of the Co-belligerents shall be given over to the Magistrates named by His Royal Highness the Lieutenant-General of the Kingdom of France. The Royal Authorities shall provide for the subsistence and wants of the troops to the moment when they shall evacuate the French territory, the Allied Powers wishing, as an act of friendship towards France, to discontinue the military requisitions; as soon as the restoration of the legitimate authority shall have been effected. Every thing which relates to the execution of this article shall be regulated by a particular Convention.

ARTICLE IX.

A mutual understanding shall take place respecting the terms of the second article, as to the routes which the troops of the Allied Powers shall follow in their march, in order to prepare the means of subsistence, and Commissaries shall be named to regulate all matters of detail, and to accompany the troops till the moment of their quitting the French territory.

In testimony of which the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention, and affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at Paris, the twenty-third day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fourteen.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

The term of ten days, agreed on in virtue of the stipulations of the third article of the Convention of this day for the evacuation of the fortified places upon the Rhine, and between that river and the ancient frontiers of France, is extended to the fortified places and military establishments of whatsoever description in the United Provinces of the United States.

The present additional article shall have the same force and validity, as if it were word for word inserted in the Convention of this day.

In testimony of which the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed it, and affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Downing-Street, May 10, 1814.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a copy, has been this day received at Earl Bathurst's office, addressed to his Lordship by General Lord Lynedock, K. B. dated

MY LORD, Antwerp, May 5, 1814.

I HAVE the honour to state to your Lordship, that agreeable to the terms of the Convention of Paris of the 23d ultimo, this fortress, with the different forts depending on it, was finally evacuated by the remaining French troops this morning.

Major-General Künigl, the Commissioner of the Allied Powers, having signified to me his wish that, according to his instructions, British troops should occupy it, the 2d division, under the command of Major-General Cooke, and the 1st brigade of the 1st division were marched in; and after the different guards were relieved, the new garrison received the Commissioner with military honours.

The Magistrates then assembled on the parade, and the Mayor, recommending Antwerp to the protection, and its future fate to the favour, of the Allies, presented the keys of the town to General Künigl, who received them in the name of the Allied Sovereigns.

It is impossible to describe with what demonstrations of enthusiastic joy the inhabitants expressed their approbation of this interesting scene.

All the marine establishments remain in the hands of the French. I have had the most satisfactory communications with the French Admiral Gourdon, commanding; and I have no doubt of the utmost harmony prevailing between the French and English of all descriptions, during the time the town shall continue to be occupied by a British garrison.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Copy of a Letter from Vice-Admiral Sir Edward Pellew, Bart. to John Wilson Croker, Esq. dated on board His Majesty's Ship Caledonia, at Sea, the 14th April 1814.

His Majesty's Ship Caledonia, at Sea, April 14, 1814.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to enclose a letter from Sir Josias Rowley, stating his proceedings in the Gulph of Spezzia, in co-operation with Lord William Bentinck's forces, which I doubt not will receive their Lordships' approbation.

I have, &c.

EDWARD PELLEW,

His Majesty's Ship America, Gulph of Spezzia, March 31, 1814.

SIR,

I HAVE much satisfaction in informing you, that the fortress of Santa Maria, with the forts and defences on the Gulph of Spezzia, are in the occupation of His Majesty's arms.

On the 25th instant, I anchored with the squadron as per margin*, off Lerici, the Hon. Captain Dundas having preceded us with the Edinburgh and Swallow, to accompany the movements of the troops under Major-General Montresor, dismantling the batteries as the enemy retired on their advance; a party of them endeavoured to reoccupy the castle of Lerici, but Captain Dundas, with the marines, was beforehand with them, and the enemy, after some firing from the boats of the squadron, retreated from the town.

On the following morning, a deputation from the inhabitants of Spezzia came on board, when I learned that the French had, during the night, evacuated that town and all the defences of the Gulph, excepting the fortress of Santa Maria, which I sent an officer to summons, but found they were prepared to defend it. We immediately weighed and anchored the ships in a position between Spezzia and the fortress, which in the evening on the arrival of the troops was invested. Strong parties of seamen were landed from the ships, and six eighteen-pounders from the Edinburgh, by the active exertions of the Honourable Captain Dundas, were got up the heights through the most difficult places, and three batteries constructed, on which they were mounted. A thirty-six and twenty-four-pounder and two thirteen-inch mortars were remounted on one of the dismantled forts, with two additional howitzers, under the direction of Lieutenant Bazzalgette, of this ship, and a battery of two thirty-six-pounders, under similar circumstances, by Lieutenant Mapleton, of the Edinburgh, and at five P.M. on the 29th, on a refusal from the enemy to capitulate, the fire from the whole opened on the fortress; it was kept up occasionally during the night, and renewed at daylight the following morning with such vigour and effect, as completely to silence that of the enemy. Preparations were making to storm, but at eleven the enemy shewed a flag of truce, and capitulated on the inclosed terms.

I feel much pleasure in having to report the zealous, able and indefatigable exertions of the officers and men employed on the above service; to the Honourable Captain Dundas, who undertook the general direction of the seamen on shore, I am particularly indebted, and to Captains Mounsey and Stowe, and Captain Staite, of His Sicilian Majesty's corvette Aurora, my thanks are due for their assistance: to Captain Flin, Lieutenants Bazalgette, Mapleton, Croker and Molesworth, Mr. Glen, master of the America, and Mr. Breary, mate of the Edinburgh, who had the direction of the guns in the batteries, much credit is due; the condition of the fort on its surrender plainly evinced the effect of their fire.

A division of the Sicilian flotilla of gun boats was conducted in a gallant and able manner by Lieutenant Le Hunte, and much distinguished themselves. A detachment of royal marines, under Captain Rea, has been landed to act with the advance of Lieutenant Colonel Travers, who makes favourable mention of their conduct.

I am much indebted to Lieutenant-Colonel Travers, who commanded the troops, for his cordial co-operation, and to Major Pym, of the royal artillery, and Captain Tylden, of the engineers, for their assistance in directing our people at the batteries.

I am happy to add that our loss is trifling, considering the means of annoyance possessed by the enemy.

I have, &c.

JOS. ROWLEY.

COMMISSIONERS having met on the 30th March 1814 (on the part of the royal navy, Lieutenant Bazalgette; on the part of the army, Captain Heathcote, Brigade-Major to the forces; and on the part of the garrison of Santa Maria, Antoine Mattieux, Commandant of the said Fort), have agreed that the fortress of Santa Maria shall be surrendered, on the following conditions, to the combined forces:

Condition I. That the said fortress shall be immediately surrendered to the combined force, the garrison piling their arms as they march out.

Condition II. That the said garrison shall be embarked on board a British ship, to proceed to Toulon, on their parole of honour, not to serve till regularly exchanged.

Condition III. That the officers shall be permitted to retain their swords, and the garrison to take with them their personal baggage.

Condition IV. That an officer shall be appointed by the Commandant of the fortress of Santa Maria, Admiralty-Office, May 10, 1814.

VICE-ADMIRAL Sir Edward Pellew has also transmitted to John Wilson Croker, Esq. a letter from Captain Sir Josias Rowley, inclosing two letters from Captain Brace, of the Berwick, and Captain Hamilton, of the Rainbow, giving accounts of attacks made by the boats of those ships, with two Sicilian gun-boats, on the 8th and 10th of April, upon the enemy's posts near the pass of Rona, with a view to favour the advance of the British army. The enemy was driven from all his positions, leaving behind two twenty-four-pounders and two mortars, which were taken possession of.

Great spirit and good conduct were shewn by the officers and men engaged on those occasions, in which two men were killed, and Lieutenant Lyon, of the Berwick, and four men, wounded.

Admiralty-Office, May 10, 1814.

REAR-ADMIRAL Sir John Gore has transmitted to John Wilson Croker, Esq. a letter from Captain Hoste, of His Majesty's ship Bacchante, dated off Parga, on the coast of Albania, the 22d March, stating, that he had proceeded thither in consequence of a deputation from the inhabitants of the town, requesting assistance against the French garrison, consisting of one hundred and seventy men, commanded by a Colonel; and that on the arrival of the Bacchante, the French flag was hauled down, and the town and works taken possession of by Captain Hoste.

Admiralty-Office, May 7, 1814.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent has been pleased to appoint, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, the Right Honourable John Earl of St. Vincent, K. B. Admiral of the Red, to be General of His Majesty's Royal Marine Forces, in the room of the Right Honourable Alexander Viscount Bridport, K. B. deceased.

And also to appoint Sir Richard Onslow, Bart. Admiral of the Red, to be Lieutenant-General of the said Royal Marine Forces, in the room of the Earl of St. Vincent, promoted.

THE following Address has been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace, of the County of Peebles.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace, of the County of Peebles, humbly beg leave to present to your Royal Highness the expression of our most cordial congratulations on events which have filled every British bosom with exultation and delight.

After a long and arduous contest which, though brightened with victories, surpassing the achievements of all former times, required from the people of this empire the greatest sacrifices, and of which the successful termination must have been often regarded, by the most sanguine, as indefinitely remote, we find ourselves, by a succession of glorious occurrences, so rapid as almost to outstrip imagination, restored to a state of real and durable peace with that powerful nation, whose energies have, for more than twenty years, been strained to the uttermost in the vain attempt to arrive, through the destruction of this country, at the subjugation of the whole world.

In the course of the great and memorable struggle, which is now happily concluded, we have at some periods had the mortification to see the other powers of Europe, either awed by force or deceived by misrepresentation, putting forth their strength in aid of the usurper of France; but at length the veil is withdrawn; the power of the tyrant is dissolved; and not only by the allied powers of Europe, but by regenerated France herself, is paid the just tribute of admiration to the resources and the courage of Britain, which have mainly contributed to the general restoration of peace, happiness, and independence.

Nor will it be forgotten in the page of history, that it was a British General who first taught the nations of the Continent to treat with merited scorn the insolent pretensions to invincibility, which had paved the way to the victories of Napoleon; that it was the immortal Wellington who first planted a hostile standard on the soil of France; hostile, not to its people, but to their oppressor; and who, by his presence, emboldened them to give the earliest utterance to those sentiments of loyalty towards their lawful Sovereign, which afterwards resounded throughout the kingdom.

Amidst the splendour diffused by such events, exulting in the glory, and rejoicing in the prosperity of our country, we humbly approach your Royal Highness, with the assurance that we attribute, under the guidance of Almighty Providence, to your Highness's magnanimous conduct, and the wise and judicious measures of your Government, the attainment of these unspeakable blessings: and we rejoice, that in the unanimous approbation and gratitude, not only of His Majesty's subjects, but of other nations and their Sovereigns, and more particularly of that virtuous Monarch now restored to the throne of his ancestors, whose unmerited exile brought him within the sphere of your Royal Highness's kind and princely hospitality, your Royal Highness receives a reward which, we are persuaded, is felt to be the highest in the power of man to bestow.

Jas. Montgomery, Preses.
