AT the Court at Carlton-House, the 1st of August 1815,

PRESENT,

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT in Council.

A New Great Seal for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland having been prepared by His Majesty's Chief Engraver of Seals, in pursuance of a warrant to him for that purpose under His Majesty's royal signature, and the same having been this day presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in Council, and approved by His Royal Highness, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty; and the old Great Seal being delivered up to His Royal Highness by the Right Honourable John Lord Eldon, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, the same was defaced in His Royal Highness's presence; and His Royal Highness was thereupon pleased to deliver to his Lordship the said new seal, and to direct, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, that the same shall be made use of for sealing all things whatever which pass the Great Seal. Chetwynd.

AT the Court at Carlton-House, the 20th of July 1815,

PRESENT,

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT in Council.

WHEREAS the time limited by the Order of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in Council of the thirteenth day of February last, for prohibiting the exportation out of this kingdom, or carrying coastwise, gunpowder or salt-petre, or any sort of arms or ammunition, will expire on the thirteenth day of August next; and whereas it is judged expedient for His Majesty's service, and the safety of this kingdom, that the said prohibition should be continued for some time longer; His Royal Highness, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, doth, therefore, hereby order, require, prohibit, and command, that no person or persons whatsoever (except the Master-General of the Ordnance for His Majesty's service) do, at any time during the space of six months (to commence from the said thirteenth day of August next), presume to transport into any parts out of this kingdom, or carry coastwise, any gunpowder or salt-petre, or any sort of arms or ammunition, or ship or lade any gunpowder or salt-petre, or any sort of arms or ammunition, on board any ship or vessel, in order to transporting the same into any parts beyond the seas, or carrying the same coastwise, without leave or permission in that behalf first obtained from His Majesty, or His Privy Council, upon pain of incurring and suffering the respective forfeitures and penalties inflicted by an Act, passed in the twenty-ninth year of His late Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to empower His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of salt-petre, and to enforce the law for empowering His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of gunpowder, or any sort of arms or ammunition, and also to enable His Majesty to restrain the carrying coastwise of salt-petre, gunpowder, or any sort of arms or ammunition." But it is His Royal Highness's pleasure, that nothing in this Order contained shall prevent the exportation of any of the articles, specified in the Order in Council of the twentieth of May one thousand eight hundred and thirteen, to the coast of Africa, under the conditions contained in the said Order. And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master-General and the rest of the Principal Officers of the Ordnance, and His Majesty's Secretary at War, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain. Chetwynd.

AT the Court at Carlton-House, the 20th of July 1815,

PRESENT,

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT in Council.

WHEREAS the time limited by the Order of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in Council of the thirteenth of February last, prohibiting, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, the transporting into any parts out of this kingdom of any pig iron, bar iron, hemp, pitch, tar, rosin, turpentine, anchors, cables, cordage, masts, yards, bowsprits, oars, oakum, sail-cloth, or canvas, or other naval stores (sheet-copper excepted), will expire on the thirteenth day of August next; and whereas it is judged expedient for His Majesty's service, and the safety of this kingdom, that the said prohibition should be continued for some time longer; His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, doth therefore hereby order, require, prohibit, and command, that no person or persons whosoever do, at any time for the space of six months, to commence from the said thirteenth day of August next, presume to transport into any parts out of this kingdom, any pig iron, bar iron, hemp, pitch, tar, rosin, turpentine, anchors, cables, cordage, masts, yards, bowsprits, oars, oakum, sail-cloth or canvas, or other naval stores (sheet copper excepted), or do ship or lade any pig iron, bar iron, hemp, pitch, tar, rosin, turpentine, anchors, cables, cordage, masts, yards, bowsprits, oars, oakum, sail-cloth or canvas, or other naval stores (sheet copper excepted), on board any ship or vessel, in order to transporting the same into any parts beyond the seas, without leave or permission first being had and obtained from His Majesty or His Privy Council, upon pain of incurring the forfeitures inflicted by an Act, passed in the thirty-third year of His Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to restrain the exportation of naval stores, and more effectually to prevent the exportation of salt-petre, arms, and ammunition, when prohibited by Proclamation or Order in Council;" But it is nevertheless His Royal Highness's pleasure, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to any of His Majesty's ships of war, or any other ships or vessels or boats in the service of His Majesty, or employed or freighted by His Majesty's Board of Ordnance, or by the Commissioners of His Majesty's Navy; nor to prevent any ship or vessel from taking or having on board such quantities of naval stores as may be necessary for the use of such ship or vessel during the course of her intended voyage, or by licence from the Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, or the Commissioners of the Admiralty for the time being; nor to the exportation of the said several articles to Ireland, or to His Majesty's yards or garrisons, or to His Majesty's colonies and plantations in America or the West Indies, or to Newfoundland, or to His Majesty's forts and settlements on the coast of Africa, or to the island of Saint Helena, or to the British settlements or factories in the East Indies; provided that, upon the exportation of any of the said articles for the purposes of trade to Ireland, or to His Majesty's yards and garrisons, or to His Majesty's colonies and plantations in America or the West Indies, or to the island of Newfoundland, or to His Majesty's forts and settlements on the coast of Africa, or to the island of Saint Helena, or to the British settlements or factories in the East Indies, the exporters of such articles do first make oath of the true destination of the same to the places for which they shall be entered outwards, before the entry of the same shall be made, and do give full and sufficient security by bond (except as hereinafter excepted), to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, to carry the said articles to the places for which they are so entered outwards, and for the purposes specified, and none other; and such bond shall not be cancelled or delivered up, until proof be made to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, by the production, within a time to be fixed by the said Commissioners and specified in the bond, of a certificate or certificates, in such form and manner as shall be directed by the said Commissioners, shewing that the said articles have been all duly landed at the places for which they were entered outwards. But it is His Royal Highness's pleasure, nevertheless, that the following articles, viz. bar iron, white and tarred rope, tallow or mill grease, tarpaulins for waggon covers, pitch, tar, and turpentine, shall be permitted to be exported, upon payment of the proper duties, without bond being entered into by the merchant exporter, to any of the British plantations in the West Indies, or to any of His Majesty's settlements in South America; provided the merchant exporter shall first verify, upon oath, that the articles so exported are intended for the use of a particular plantation or settlement, to be named in the entry outwards, and not for sale, and that the said plantation or settlement has not before been furnished with any supply of the said articles during the same season; and provided also that the exportation of the said articles shall in no case exceed the value of fifty pounds sterling for any given plantation or settlement, whether by one or more shipments, within the same season: and the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, and the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain. Chetwynd.

Admiralty-Office, August 12, 1815.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are copies and extracts, have been received at this Office, addressed by Admiral Lord Exmouth to John Wilson Croker, Esq.

His Majesty's Ship Boyne, Naples-Bay, May 25, 1815.

MY letter of the 12th instant will have informed their Lordships of my movements up to that date, and the arrangements I had made with Lord William Bentinck, and the forces from Sicily, to co-operate with the allied army upon Naples: In continuation I beg to acquaint you, for their Lordships further information, that I arrived off Civita-Vechia on the evening of the 18th, where learning from Mr. Cook (who came from Rome expressly for the purpose) the rapid approach of the Austrians towards Naples, I continued my voyage, without delay, for that place.

I reached Naples on the 20th, finding the Tremendous and Alcmena at anchor close to the Mole, and the two line of battle ships hauled out alongside of them. On the 21st, in the morning, the marines were landed and took possession of the forts and castle of St. Elmo, and united with the civic guard, and kept the city in a state of tolerable tranquillity until the 23d, when the Austrian army made its public entry with Prince Leopold, and the next day the different forts were delivered over, and the marines embarked.

It is my intention to put the Government of King Ferdinand the Fourth, on his arrival, in immediate possession of the naval arsenal, with the Vesuvius of eighty guns, building at Castellamare, and also of all the gun-boats, stores, &c. in the arsenal of Naples, which I think are absolutely necessary for conducting the affairs of Government, until the pleasure of their Lordships shall be known.

The two ships of the line, Joachim and Capri, which were entirely abandoned to Captain Campbell by the late Government, I have ordered to proceed to Malta, manned and conducted by the Alcmena, there to wait their Lordships instructions.

Boyne, Genoa-Bay, July 3, 1815.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for their Lordships information, that I arrived at this anchorage this morning, with the ships named in the margin*, having previously landed the first division of the Austrian troops at Leghorn.

From the situation in which I find affairs on the coast of Provence, I have, in concert with Major-General Sir Hudson Lowe, come to the determination to proceed immediately to Marseilles, with about three thousand men of this garrison†, which embark with the assent of the Sardinian Government, at our request, and it is my intention to take the transports with the arms on board, to be employed as may be found advisable. I shall use every effort to afford all the assistance and co-operation in my power, to carry into effect the intentions of His Majesty's Government, as detailed in the papers accompanying your letter of the 30th May last, which I have this morning had the honour to receive from Sir Hudson Lowe, who embarks on board the Boyne; and I hope to sail in the morning for Marseilles.

* Boyne, Impregnable, Bombay, and Pilot.

† 14th regiment, 800; Piedmontaise, 800; Italian Levy, 1,400; artillery and cavalry, 200.

Boyne, off Marseilles, July 18, 1815.

IN reference to my letter of the 3d instant, a duplicate of which accompanies this, I have the honour to acquaint you, for their Lordships' information, that we anchored in Marseilles Roads, on the evening of the 10th, with the ships named in the margin*. The following morning I went on shore, accompanied by Major-General Sir Hudson Lowe, where we were received by the Marquess de Riviere, the Members of the Royal Committee of Provence, acting in the name of His Majesty Louis the Eighteenth, and all the other Authorities, with every manifestation of joy.

On the 13th, the transports from Genoa, under convoy of the Aboukir, anchored in the Bay; the following morning the troops (about three thousand five hundred men) debarked, and have occupied such positions as the General and myself have thought most eligible. I have landed five hundred marines from the line of battle ships, who are doing duty with the army.

The loyalty of the Marseillois is very conspicuous, and the appearance of a British force, together with the arming the national guard, which the Marquess de Riviere has been enabled to accomplish through my assistance, has produced the best effect in calling forth professions of attachment to the royal cause, which their unprotected and defenceless state until now compelled them to suppress. Toulon still displays the tri-coloured flag, under Marshal Brune, and great excesses have been committed in raising contributions in that neighbourhood.

On the 13th, Marshal Murat, who is at Toulon, sent his Aide-de-Camp, Lieutenant-General Rosetti, to me to propose his being received on board one of the ships for protection and safe conveyance to England. In reply, I charged this officer to inform Murat, that if he chose to go on board one of the ships off Toulon, in order to receive personal protection, it would be afforded, but that I should not enter into any engagements with him as to his destination, leaving that point to be settled by reference to England.

I have this day heard, that Murat finding (on the return of his officer) he would not be received on board a British ship on the terms which he proposed, has left Toulon, taking an Eastern route towards Piedmont.

Boyne, off Marseilles, July 24, 1815, 10 P. M.

I HASTEN to communicate to you, for the information of their Lordships, that I am this moment returned from the Pass of Olioule, whither Major-General Sir Hudson Lowe and myself, accompanied the Marquess de Riviere (His Majesty's Lieutenant in these provinces) this morning from our advanced post, to receive the adhesion of the officers of the army and navy at Toulon, which was tendered to the Marquess, and the white flag hoisted under a discharge of one hundred pieces of cannon, and acknowledged by one of my frigates off the harbour.

* Boyne, Impregnable, Pampée, and Bombay.

Boyne, off Marseilles, August 1, 1815.

THEIR Lordships will be informed by my last letter, of the 24th of July, of the arrangement made on the 24th between the Marquess de Riviere and Marshal Brune.

The non-performance of the stipulated removal of Marshal Brune and the disaffected regiments, has occasioned a correspondence between General Sir Hudson Lowe and myself, and the Marquess de Riviere; which has this morning happily terminated, by Marshal Brune delivering himself into the hands of the Marquess, to be sent (accompanied by his aid-de-camp) to Paris.

The most evident good will prevails amongst all classes of people, immediately about us; and I have no doubt but Toulon will feel immediate benefit from the removal of Marshal Brune.

I cannot close my letter without expressing in the strongest terms, the high satisfaction and pleasure I have experienced in serving with Major-General Sir Hudson Lowe, from whose active intelligent mind the service has derived every advantage.

Boyne, off Marseilles, August 2, 1815.

THE Marquess de Riviere's letter, this moment received, announces the actual departure of Marshal Brune, accompanied by an officer; as before intimated.

Admiralty-Office, August 12, 1815.

COPY of a Letter from the Honourable Captain Aylmer, of His Majesty's ship Pactolus, addressed to Admiral Viscount Keith, and transmitted by His Lordship to John Wilson Croker, Esq,

His Majesty's Ship Pactolus, in the Gironde, July 24, 1815.

MY LORD,

I HAVE the honour to transmit an account of the proceedings of the squadron since my last letter of the 14th of July.

Considering that the first object of entering this river was to secure the retreat of His Majesty's ships in case of a reverse, and having learned that the posts of General Clausel extended the whole length of the river from Bourdeaux, and that from the heavy force at his disposal the tri-coloured flag was flying immediately beyond the range of our guns, we were extremely anxious to ascend the river; so that we might continue to threaten his detachments, and at the same time throw ourselves as much as possible into the centre of the population; but it was however necessary in the first place to secure the defences of the River, and the exertions of the two ships were necessary to that effect, as the enemy was close at hand (both on the Bourdeaux, and the side of La Charente Inferieure) and our force a small one.

The destruction of the batteries was necessarily a very delicate measure, and one which the people, however loyal, were naturally alarmed at; but from the exertions and conciliatory representations of the Count de La Tour and the Baron de Montalembert, together with the promptness with which the service was followed up, we succeeded in completely destroying every piece of cannon that operated in the smallest degree upon the communication of the river.

The forts of Verdon, Royan, de Lonsac, and Miché, were completely dismantled, and nearly seventy pieces of heavy artillery (mostly French thirty-six-pounders), including in that number a great many mortars, were completely spiked, and their carriages rendered useless.

The fort on Point Negro, which did not so immediately command the passage, was not touched.

At this time Comte de la Tour and myself entered into a negotiation with General Clausel, and for that purpose I dispatched Captain Palmer to him. On Sunday the 16th, every thing having been arranged for organizing the people of the district we left, we ran farther up in the neighbourhood of Castellon, where there was another battery, and a French post, with the tri-coloured flag; when I received a dispatch from General Clausel, formally announcing to me the armistice that had taken place at Paris, and expressing a wish that it might operate here. From the tone of the communication, I considered that there was a good opportunity for continuing to treat with him, and did so till it ended in the General sending for Count de la Tour, the Baron de Montalembert, and Captain Palmer, who are now at Bourdeaux arranging the national guard, and preserving the internal tranquillity of that city.

Throughout the country the white flag is now flying, and the enthusiasm and joy of the inhabitants cannot be better described, than by the letter I have just received (and which I inclose) from Captain Palmer, at Bourdeaux, who throughout has been extremely active, and by his judgement very serviceable indeed to the cause we have been engaged in. The greatest cordiality has existed between the French gentlemen employed on this service and myself; and their dispatches I have forwarded to Lord Bathurst, by the Larne, who brings this letter to your Lordship.

I have deemed it proper, with the advice of the Baron de Montalembert, to continue Captain Palmer at Bourdeaux, to assist in making the arrangements for the quiet and order of the city.

A French ship, laden with cotton and copper, from the Mississippi, has fallen into our hands whilst lying in the river, but Captain Palmer with myself, considering that it would favour the cause greatly and convince the people of the good faith of the squadron, we consented to let her pass up the river: the loyalty of the inhabitants we thought strongly meriting this step.

I have the honour to be, &c.

F. W. AYLMER, Captain.

Bourdeaux, Saturday Night,
July 22, 1815.

SIR,

WE arrived here (the Baron Montalembert, the Comte La Tour, and myself) late this evening, and immediately proceeded to the house of General Clausel. We have just returned from his meeting, and every thing has been settled in the most satisfactory manner. The troops lately under Buonaparte have left the city, except a few, who will be disposed of as soon as possible. These are mostly in the Chateau Trompette, away from the opportunity of producing much mischief, or quarrelling with the inhabitants or national guards; which latter are completing both cavalry and infantry with the greatest zeal and activity, and will in a few days be very formidable, as well from their numbers as their devotion to the royal cause. For the most part the soldiery have broken up, separated, and returned to their homes; and every step has been taken for the peace of the surrounding country. A dispatch is now closing for the Duke of Angoulême, who is in Toulouse, and His Royal Highness may be expected in a very few days.

I cannot give you, in writing, an idea of the enthusiastic feeling that pervades all ranks and descriptions of persons in this city. While I write to you, the hotel at which we lodge is surrounded by an immense populace, and shouting, a thousand times repeated, "Vive le Roi," "Vive Wellington," "Vivent les Anglais," &c. &c. The whole city is illuminated. The windows and balconies are filled with busts of their Sovereign and the Royal Family, while groups of the citizens are everywhere dispersed about the streets, singing and playing the most loyal and popular airs, expressive of their love for their King and their joy at his return.

They have long been prepared for this, but the white flag, which is now flying from every house, was hoisted only to-day at the Castle, and the feeling of the people, so long suppressed, has now broken forth with increased energy.

Our passage up the river was very interesting; for seventy miles along both banks one feeling of loyalty appeared to prevail, except where the soldiery, just breaking up from their several posts, awed and restrained it. From the tops and branches of the trees, the country seats, the villages, every where, the white colours and the fleurs de lis were to be seen. As our barge approached the city, the people poured down along the quays and river side, cheering and welcoming us. Indeed, such was the throng, it was with the utmost difficulty we could press on or make our way through the caresses of the people.

I am happy to say that amidst all this enthusiasm nothing like violence or tumult has occurred. The rejoicings are to continue some days, but every hour now will strengthen the police of the city, so that there is not the slightest apprehension to be entertained.

I have the honour to be, &c.

EDMUND PALMER, Captain.

To the Honourable Captain Fitzroy Somerset.

Whitehall, August 1, 1815.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent has been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to grant unto Burges Camac, Esquire, Lieutenant-Colonel in the Army, and Captain in the First Regiment of Life Guards, His Majesty's royal licence and permission that he may accept and wear the Supernumerary Cross of the Royal and distinguished Order of Charles the Third, with which His Majesty Ferdinand the Seventh, King of Spain, hath been pleased to honour him, in a testimony of the high sense which His Catholic Majesty entertains of the signal intrepidity displayed by him in several actions with the enemy, during the recent arduous campaigns in the Peninsula; provided nevertheless, that His Majesty's said licence and permission doth not authorise, and shall not be deemed or construed to authorise, the assumption of any style, appellation, rank, precedence, or privilege appertaining unto a Knight Bachelor of these realms:

And His Royal Highness hath been further pleased to command, that the said royal concession and declaration, together with the relative documents, be registered in His Majesty's College of Arms.

Done at the Office, August 11, 1815.

Notice is hereby given, that application is intended to be made to Parliament, in the next session, for a Bill for continuing, amending, altering, and extending the powers and authorities of several Acts of Parliament relating to the harbour and town of Whitehaven, in the county of Cumberland, and to the roads leading to the said harbour and town of Whitehaven, and to other roads in the said county, and supplying the same with water, and for more effectually repairing, widening, and improving the said roads, and diverting part thereof, and altering and increasing the tolls arising therefrom, and for extending, paving, and lighting, and otherwise improving the said town, and for preventing disputes between the masters of vessels trading to and from the said harbour, and the crews of such vessels; and for regulating the hire and wages of labourers,

NEW STAMP DUTIES.

Stamp-Office, London, July 20, 1815.

NOTICE is hereby given, that two Acts were passed in the late Session of Parliament, for repealing the Stamp Duties on Deeds, Law Proceedings, and other written or printed Instruments, and the Duties on Fire Insurances and on Legacies and Successions to personal Estate upon Intestacies, and also the Duties on Advertisements, Almanacks, Newspapers, Pamphlets, Gold and Silver Plate, Stage Coaches, and Licences for keeping Stage Coaches, now payable in Great Britain, and for granting new Duties in lieu thereof; and that the new Duties are to commence upon the 1st of September next; except the Duty on Fire Insurances, which is to commence on the 29th September; and the Duties on Stage Coaches and Stage Coach Licences, which are to commence on the 5th September.

A very general increase of the present duties is enacted; and some Instruments are subjected to ad valorem Duties which are not so at present, such as Deeds of Exchange and Partition, Leases, Settlements of Money and of Shares in the public Stocks or Funds, whether voluntary or upon Marriage, and Warrants of Attorney to confess Judgment, when given as a security for money instead of bonds or mortgages. And Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes at more than two months after date, or sixty days after sight, are charged with higher Duties than those payable at shorter periods.

The new Duties are contained in Schedules, in which the instruments and things charged are classed and alphabetically arranged, so as to afford a complete Table of Duties, in the most convenient and practical form; and to supersede any occasion for those compilations, published by private individuals, to which the profession of the law and the public have formerly found it convenient to resort. And as the Schedules will not admit of an abridgment that can be safely relied upon, the Commissioners recommend it to the profession and others not to trust to any thing else in matters of importance.

The Acts contain various provisions for securing the Duties, which are material to be attended to by those who wish to avoid penalties. And the provisions of former Acts are to be enforced, in regard to those Duties, concerning which no new provisions are enacted. With respect to the

it is to be observed, that not only formal Receipts, but all Notes and Memorandums, whether signed or not, which shall import any acknowledgment, that a sum of £2, or upwards, has been paid, settled, balanced, or otherwise discharged, on satisfaction, are liable to these Duties; and that all persons paying money are intitled to have stamped Receipts, as the expence of the persons receiving it, and on tendering a proper Stamp, may insist on having a Receipt written thereon, and on being paid for the Stamp; and that all persons refusing to give such Receipt and pay for the Stamp, as well as all persons giving a Receipt, or any such Note or Memorandum as aforesaid, without a Stamp, or upon a Stamp of insufficient value, will incur a penalty of ten pounds for every offence, which will be strictly enforced on every occasion.

By order of the Commissioners,
Wm. Kappen, Secretary.

Navy-Office, July 8, 1815.
