TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1821.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously :

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the undersigned Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and other Freeholders and Inhabitants of the County of Hants, beg leave to approach your Majesty with an expression of our loyal and affectionate attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government; and we deem it more especially incumbent upon us to declare these sentiments, in the present crisis, when the fundamental principles of the Constitution, in Church and State, appear to be endangered by the intrigues and machinations of designing and ambitious agitators.

We cannot view without alarm the indefatigable exertions of a desperate faction to alienate the affections of the people from that Constitution upon which their welfare and happiness depend; to bring into contempt all those Authorities and Institutions by which our laws are administered and our liberties secured; and to destroy those moral and religious principles for which the people of this country have long been distinguished, and which form the best and surest foundation of social order.

We have observed with indignation and abhorrence the arms of liberty turned against herself; we have seen the freedom of the press, that best safeguard of our rights, perverted from its legitimate objects, employed to undermine those sacred principles which it ought to defend, and exerted in propagating the most false and treasonable libels against your Majesty's Government and Throne.

We cannot be blind to the fatal consequences which must flow from a passive acquiescence in these dangerous proceedings; and the unvarying example of history points out, that unless they are defeated by a timely and energetic application of constitutional control, they must inevitably lead us, through revolutionary anarchy, to military usurpation, and the tyranny of the sword.

But we know, that in spite of the efforts of the disaffected, the great mass of the nation is sound and untainted; that it is only in the apathy of the loyal that traitors can place their hopes; that when once the voice of the people is put forth the clamour of faction will be silenced and overwhelmed; and that the nation only requires to be roused to a sense of the danger in order to rally round their King, their Religion, and their Laws.

On these grounds we feel it our duty to stand forward, at the present moment, to declare our unalterable attachment to the Constitution under which we have the happiness to live, and our firm determination to maintain and defend it against all those who may wantonly, ignorantly, or wickedly strive to subvert it, and to assure your Majesty that if we should be called upon to give proof of the sincerity of our professions, your Majesty would find us prepared, in union with the great body of your loyal and faithful people, to uphold the Throne at the hazard of our fortunes and our lives.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Gentry, Clergy and other Inhabitants of the City of Carlisle and its Vicinity.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and faithful subjects, the Gentry, Clergy and other Inhabitants of the City of Carlisle and its Vicinity, feel ourselves imperiously called upon, at the present crisis, to renew, in the most earnest manner, our assurance of loyalty and unshaken attachment to your sacred Person and Government.

It has been with the deepest indignation and disgust that we have seen the base attempts which have for some years been made, and are still making, to corrupt and contaminate the public mind. We have witnessed efforts which, so long as religion retains its influence, must ever fail of success; but which have yet had for their object the subversion of that strong hold of national safety. Christianity is the promoter of industry, of temperance, of peace, of subordination, and of order; it is therefore against Christianity that the advocates of anarchy and revolution have unceasingly directed their most strenuous attacks. Its divine origin has been made the sport of impious ridicule; its moral restraints have been represented as so many shackles upon human liberty; its Ministers have been held up to popular scorn, and even its most sacred ordinances have been wantonly treated with blasphemous levity and the most insulting contempt.

It is time, therefore, in order to beat down this foul conspiracy against every thing which has hitherto been held in honour and reverence amongst us, that the friends of religion and of good government should in this season of public difficulty rally round the Throne; and though we trust that the spirit of evil has not succeeded in perverting the sound sense and right feeling of the great mass of the people in this country, we are yet persuaded that a strong, efficient counteraction should no longer be delayed; and this can only be done by the cordial and active co-operation of all those who love and value the incomparable Constitution under which they live, and are anxious to preserve inviolate its civil and religious institutions.

In common therefore with a very large proportion of your Majesty's subjects, we consider it to be our duty to make this public avowal of the sentiments we entertain, and to express to your Majesty our firm resolution to prevent, by all the means in our power, every attempt to spread the infection of disloyalty and irreligion, to enforce a strict observance of the laws, and to defend with energy and zeal the fundamental principles of the British Monarchy.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal Address of the undersigned Bankers, Merchants, Clergy, Members of the professions of Law and Physic, Traders, Householders, and others, Inhabitants of the City of Edinburgh.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitants of the City of Edinburgh, beg leave humbly to approach your Majesty's Throne, to express our attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person, our veneration for the Constitution, and our confidence in the wisdom of your Majesty's Councils,—a confidence founded on the experience of many years, during which Britain has obtained the most distinguished successes by which her history has ever been dignified; having twice seen her arms and those of her allies penetrate to the Capital of France, dethroning an Usurper whose name had become the terror of the world, and restoring peace to Europe.—We beg to express similar confidence in the internal administration of your Majesty's Government, by which, only a few months ago, an extensive and organized insurrection was discomfited and put down, almost without bloodshed, while the limited extent of the punishment, which necessarily followed, exhibited a remarkable example of your Majesty's lenity towards these misguided persons.

We farther beg to express our humble and dutiful opinion, that your Majesty's present Ministers cannot be advantageously replaced by those who aspire to succeed to them; as we do not know of any other set of men who, either from their tried or untried pretensions to power, are so likely to sustain the dignity of the British name, the honour of your Majesty's Throne, or the welfare and happiness of the people.

We perceive, with much regret, that the political party, to which we have alluded, have shewn themselves but too willing, for the sake of swelling their numbers, to receive into their ranks a numerous class of demagogues, and their followers,—the same who lately attempted by force of arms an open overthrow of the Constitution, and a change not only of government but of property; and who of late have found a singular mode of making known their inveterate enmity to your Majesty's Person, and to both Estates of Parliament, by Addresses which, though utterly absurd, are not the less seditious and treasonable.

We are far from imputing to this political party a participation in the frantic and guilty schemes of those unhappy persons whose aim seems to be to disjoint the whole fabric of society, by sowing discord between the various classes of which it consists; but as they have shewn that they are not reluctant to avail themselves of the appearance of strength presented by the numbers of these demagogues, so much greater than their own, we may be permitted to doubt whether, if admitted to your Majesty's Councils, they would possess the power of reducing to reason such formidable allies, who, even already, and while they have in so far a common interest to pursue, express a hatred and contempt for the party composing the opposition in Parliament, equal to that which they profess towards the King, the Religion, the Laws and Constitution of the country; and in the event that such men were to obtain any decided ascendancy, it would be no consolation to us and other sufferers, if their earliest victims were those who, in the blindness of their ambition, had called in such dangerous auxiliaries.

We beg finally to add, that, sensible of the blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's paternal Government, we are determined to defend the Throne and Constitution of the country with our lives and fortunes, alike against foreign and domestic enemies.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the undersigned Inhabitants and Householders of the Ward of Farringdon Within, consider ourselves imperatively called upon at this momentous crisis, firmly and honestly to declare—not the sentiments of a party—but those of Englishmen, loyal to their King and grateful for that Constitution under which we are in possession of every practicable and social enjoyment.

We have seen with grief and indignation the religion of the land blasphemed, the Majesty of the Throne insulted; and while we express our rooted and unfeigned disgust at the virulent and atrocious attacks of a most sacred and ancient institutions of the State, emanating from a venal and licentious press, echoed in the speeches of factious and designing men, who yield to none in attachment to the popular branches of the Constitution, holding the stability and dignity of the Throne essential to the good order and beauty of the whole, we feel that we more clearly manifest our sense of the great and invaluable privileges we enjoy, as well in a free press as in the right of public discussion, by our anxious care to guard these blessings from perversion or abuse, and we regard those as the greatest enemies of their God, as the worst traitors to the Constitution, who seek to defame the King or to undermine the loyal principles or religious feelings of our less enlightened fellow subjects.

In the true spirit of that toleration which we trust will ever characterize the subjects of these realms, we are far from arrogating to ourselves the right of censuring any individual or party for opinions honestly entertained, though the same be not in unison with our own. We know the value of an honourable and conscientious opposition, but we feel, in common with good men of all parties, detestation and abhorrence of those who would mislead the judgment and inflame the passions of the multitude, men who assume the character of champions of popular rights, but whose real object is the destruction of those venerable institutions which were the pride and glory of our forefathers "in the old time before us"; institutions purchased by their blood and handed down to us, and we trust to our children and our children's children, as their richest portion, their fairest inheritance.

We pledge ourselves, therefore, to frustrate by every means in our power the malevolent designs of men, who would remove from the hearts of the people the fear of God that they may dishonour the King. We will rally round and defend the Throne as the bulwark of our laws, the protection of our property and the safeguard of that rational liberty which is our most honourable distinction among the nations of the earth.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitant Householdors of the Parishes of Saint Andrew, Holborn, and Saint George the Martyr, beg permission to approach your Majesty with sentiments of the most devoted regard to your sacred Person and assurances of our faithful attachment to the Throne and Constitution of these realms.

It is but too obvious that the most daring hostility to order and good government is now openly avowed and artfully encouraged by factious and designing men, and we cannot but deeply lament and strongly deprecate the present licentious abuse of that freedom of the press, hitherto justly esteemed one of our most valuable privileges, which is unhappily made the medium of attempts to overthrow all religious, moral and constitutional principles.

As Britons and as Christians we consider it our bounden duty to express, in the most forcible terms, our detestation of such designs, and to declare our determination at all times to stand forward firmly and fearlessly in defence of the great bulwarks of our national liberty, and of those institutions which have for ages past promoted the prosperity and glory of this great empire.

We humbly trust that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to accept these expressions of our fidelity and attachment, accompanied with our earnest prayers that you may long continue to administer to a loyal and affectionate people the inestimable blessings of our unrivalled Constitution.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen and Capital Burgesses of the Borough of Truro, at this period, when the undisciplined and seditious are using their utmost endeavours to excite dissatisfaction and dissention throughout the kingdom, when addresses calculated to inflame the minds of the people, and expressive of sentiments from which we wholly dissent, are also disseminated through the country, beg humbly to approach the Throne, with the strongest expressions of our affection for your Royal Person; of our determination to resist, by every means in our power, all attempts against the Government, the Religion, the Laws, and the Liberties of our country, and to defend to the last our glorious Constitution, the admiration of the world, and the veneration of all true and loyal Englishmen.

That your Majesty may long continue to reign over us, in health and happiness, is the fervent prayer of your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the undersigned Inhabitants of the Borough of Truro, and the adjacent Streets, not being Members of the Corporate Body of the said Borough, but heartily uniting with that Body in firm attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government; and being alike grateful for the invaluable blessings which we enjoy under the protection of our free and admirable Constitution, humbly intreat your Majesty's gracious acceptance of our most earnest wishes that your Majesty may long reign in prosperity and happiness over a free, loyal, united, and religious people.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal subjects, the Magistrates, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Ross, in the County of Hereford, beg leave to approach your Royal Person with the most unfeigned sentiments of duty and allegiance. Sensible of the blessings we enjoy under our excellent and unrivalled form of Government, and thankful for your Majesty's paternal anxiety to transmit it unimpaired to latest posterity; it is not without the deepest feelings of abhorrence and regret that we witness the prevalence of a spirit, among a considerable portion of the community, daring beyond example, and hostile to the best interests of the nation in Church and State

As the proximate cause of such fearful, but we trust temporary alienation of the public mind from the principles of antient British loyalty, we cannot but recognize the agency of a blasphemous, seditious, and licentious press, which, perverting its freedom, is busy to destroy the foundations of all moral and religious obligation, and, with them, the fair fabric of our happy Constitution.

Fully aware of the baneful effects of party spirit at all times, and abjuring, as we solemnly do, all such views and prejudices, especially at the present crisis; we beg to assure your Majesty of our unshaken attachment to your Royal Person, and to pledge our individual and united efforts in defence of those principles and institutions which equally tend to support the true honour and dignity of the Throne, and the real liberties of the people.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble, dutiful and loyal Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses and other Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Carnarvon, assembled at the Guildhall, in the Town of Carnarvon, on Tuesday the 19th day of December 1820.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses and other Inhabitants of the ancient and loyal Town and Borough of Carnarvon, anxious at all times to evince our steady and unshaken attachment to your Royal House and Person, feel, at this momentous crisis, more imperiously called upon thus publicly to renew to your Majesty our heartfelt assurances of loyalty and fidelity, and to declare our determination to support, as far as in us lies, our admirable Constitution, the envy of the world and the peculiar blessing of this favoured empire.

At a time when sedition stalks openly abroad in all its hideous forms, when our sacred and venerable Church establishment is daringly scoffed at and derided, and the sanctuary of our hearths daily invaded by the insidious and blasphemous doctrines of athiests and anarchists, promulgated through the medium of a licentious press, at such a time were we, Sire, merely to intrench ourselves behind the internal conviction of loyalty the most sincere, so often expressed to your Majesty and now to remain supine, we should deem that under such circumstances we but ill discharged the proud duty which naturally devolves on every true born Briton,

Under the guidance of that ~~in~~ ⁱⁿscrutable Providence, who orders all things for the best, we venture confidently to hope that your Majesty, supported as you are by the thinking and right judging amongst your subjects, will be enabled quickly to dispel the gathering storm, and that we, in common with the rest of your Majesty's subjects, may long enjoy peace and prosperity under the benign influence and sway of your Majesty and your illustrious House.

Henry Jones,

Deputy Constable and as such Mayor;
W. Williams and Richard Owen, Bailiffs.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the undersigned Inhabitants of the Parishes of Whittlesey, in the Isle of Ely.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitants of the Parishes of Whittlesey, viewing with detestation the attempts that have been lately made to poison the minds of your Majesty's subjects and to destroy their attachment to the Throne and Constitution, feel ourselves called upon by a sense of duty to express to your Majesty, our unabated zeal to support the fabric of that glorious Constitution which has descended to us from our forefathers, and our ardent desire to transmit so valuable a boon unimpaired to posterity.

Dear as liberty is to the hearts of Englishmen, and regarding as we do the liberty of the press amongst our highest privileges, we yet behold with the utmost concern its enormous abuses, levelled at every thing holy and venerable in our institutions, but whatever may be their effect on the unwary and misguided, it is our determination to keep our minds untainted and to rally round the Throne with unshaken fidelity.

However loud the clamours of those who vilify the counsels of your Majesty's Ministers, we are persuaded, that by perseverance in their present arduous path of duty to your Majesty and the country, they will continue to enjoy the confidence and to secure the esteem of the more considerate part of the nation.

That your Majesty's Throne may long be established in peace and, be the means, under Providence, of protecting us in our just rights and privileges, is the fervent wish of those who now desire to give assurances of their duty and allegiance to your Majesty.

SIRE,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bailiffs, Burgesses and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Pwllheli, in the County of Carnarvon, deeply impressed with the conviction that the present moment calls upon every honest and faithful subject to stand forward in support of his King and country, humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty to tender our sincere loyalty and warm attachment to your august Person and Government.

We have witnessed with deep sorrow that the press, according to the licentious and unrestrained manner in which it is now conducted, is the most malignant and the most formidable enemy to our happy and unrivalled Constitution, to which, at the same time it owes its freedom.

We never can forget the fact, that it was your Majesty's wisdom and firmness, under Divine Providence, with the able counsels of your present Ministers, which carried this country triumphantly through its late unparalleled difficulties, and rescued the Sovereigns of Europe and their kingdoms from the galling yoke of military despotism.

We also beg to assure your Majesty of our firm determination to maintain and support our Constitution, Religion and Laws against the attacks of sedition and infidelity, by which we can alone preserve inviolate that national independence hitherto the pride of every true Briton and the envy and admiration of the world.

Signed for and on behalf of the Meeting.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates, Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Wigan, in the County of Lancaster, humbly beg leave to present to your Majesty the strongest assurances of our unfeigned loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

We deeply deplore the disturbance of the peace and tranquility of the nation, by disaffected miscreants and daring infidels who appear to aim at nothing less than a total subversion of the Monarchy, the trampling under foot the religion and the laws of the country, and the plunging the nation into the horrors and miseries of a civil war. 'Tis very satisfactory however to us to believe that the numbers and influence of those persons, when compared with the number and influence of the loyal and virtuous part of the community, will sink into utter insignificance. Nevertheless at such a crisis as the present, when every engine is at work and no pains are spared to bring into contempt your Majesty's sacred Person and Laws and Religion of the country, and to undermine and overthrow our much envied and most happy Constitution, 'tis not enough that we have feelings of loyalty in our bosoms, it is expedient that those feelings should be expressly and openly declared, we therefore repeat our assurances of loyalty and attachment. We wish your Majesty a long and happy reign, and we declare that we will at all times be ready to assist, to the utmost of our power, in protecting your Majesty's most sacred Person, in giving stability to the Throne of these realms, in supporting the Laws and Constitution of the country, in averting the calamities wished to be brought upon the nation by the desperate faction now at work, and in bringing to condign punishment those mischievous persons who are so busily and so wickedly employed in dispersing sedition and blasphemy and infidelity in the land. We observe that persons of a certain description are strong advocates for your Majesty's dismissing your present Ministers. These persons must surely have forgotten the very signal services which, under the blessing of Divine Providence, were lately achieved for the country by the measures of the Ministers now in office, and that by the successful result of these measures they raised the British nation to the highest pinnacle of glory. This has not however escaped our memory, can we then withhold the tribute so justly due to them of sincerest gratitude and esteem? we cannot. We think the present Ministers have deserved well of their country, and we therefore humbly intreat your Majesty not to deprive the country of the invaluable services of these men, who in a storm unparalleled in the annals of history so ably conducted the helm of the State as to bring the vessel quite safe into port.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Magistrates and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Dumfries, in Common Council assembled, feel ourselves impelled, under the circumstances of the times, to approach your Majesty, for the purpose of expressing our loyal and affectionate attachment to your Royal Person and Government, and our detestation of that spirit of sedition, profaneness, and general licentiousness, which assailing alike the Throne, the Altar, and the Law, threatens, if not timely checked, to destroy our inimitable Constitution, and to involve our happy country in one common ruin. While we are sensible of the benefit of the just freedom of the press to the liberties of the country, we view with grief and indignation the unceasing attempts now made, through its means, to seduce the less enlightened classes to disloyalty, disaffection, and irreligion. Under this impression we humbly beg leave to state our firm resolution to maintain the cause of loyalty, good order and piety, and to defend the Constitution against all those who may, from the most desperate and diabolical motives, attempt to subvert that venerable fabric produced from the wisdom and experience of ages, and from which our beloved country derives such invaluable blessings as have not as yet been the lot of any other portion of the globe. Allow us, Sire, to express our dearest hope that you may long reign over a loyal and affectionate people, who by effectually protecting your royal rights will best secure their own.

Signed, in our name and presence, and by our appointment, and the seal of the Burgh is hereto affixed at Dumfries, this 22d day of December in the year 1820.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Members of the Presbytery of Dalkeith, beg leave humbly to approach the Throne with the renewed assurance of our warm and steady attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

At a period when the most daring attempts are made by wicked and artful men to mislead the many, and to spread infidelity and disorder throughout your kingdom, we feel it to be peculiarly incumbent on us to express to your Majesty our high veneration for the Laws and Constitution of our country, our grateful sense of the manifold blessings which we enjoy under your mild and equitable administration, and our just abhorrence of those impious doctrines which are alike subversive of the Throne, of our King, and the Altar of our God.

We trust, that, by the blessing of Heaven on the united exertions of the wise and the good, the artifices of the turbulent will be speedily frustrated; that the same Almighty arm which enabled our fathers to rear the glorious fabric of the British Constitution, will continue to preserve it unimpaired as the richest inheritance of their children; and that the sacred influence of our holy religion, whose foundation is immovable, will yet reach the hearts even of those who now impiously assail it, and lead all orders of your Majesty's subjects to cultivate that righteousness which is the only certain ground of private happiness and national prosperity.

Your Majesty may rely on the continuance of our zealous endeavours to guard the people who are committed to our pastoral care from every false and pernicious doctrine, to cherish in their breasts those sentiments of love and reverence which are due to their Sovereign, and to animate them in the faithful discharge of every Christian duty.

That Almighty God may bless your Majesty and direct your counsels, and that He may long preserve you to reign in wisdom and felicity over a free, a loyal, and a religious people, is the fervent prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful and devoted subjects, the Members of the Presbytery of Dalkeith.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Moderator and Members of the Reverend the Presbytery of Aberdeen.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WHILE no measure of importance can be adopted by your Majesty's Government, and no incident of great public interest can occur, that does not afford to the eager activity of faction a new occasion of imposing false views and principles upon the ignorant, and prompting the disaffected to lawless deeds, it becomes your Majesty's faithful subjects, of all classes, to omit no fit opportunity of declaring their inviolable loyalty and attachment to the Constitution and Government of their country, and their firm determination to oppose the restless spirit of discontent and innovation.

We beg leave to assure your Majesty that nothing can efface from our minds the deep sense we have ever entertained of the invaluable blessings, religious and civil, which we and our fathers have uninterruptedly enjoyed under the paternal rule of your illustrious House; that we view with detestation all attempts to diminish that dutiful attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, that respect for the obligations of religion and morals, and that high sense of the excellence of our civil Constitution, which have long been the prevailing sentiments of the people of these realms; and that in our humble sphere it shall always be our business, as it is our duty, to inculcate obedience to the powers that be, as ordained of God, to guard our people against meddling with those who are given to change, and to promote to the utmost of our power, that righteousness which alone truly exalts a nation.

That Almighty God may bestow upon your Majesty all spiritual and temporal blessings, rendering your reign long, prosperous, and peaceful, is the earnest prayer of your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects the Moderator and Members of the Reverend the Presbytery of Aberdeen.

Deeply sensible of the national blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's paternal Government, and anxious to preserve those blessings unimpaired, for the happiness of ourselves and our posterity, we cordially unite in the determination to support, with all the means in our power, the Throne and the Laws against every enemy, whether foreign or domestic. We feel confident that our invaluable Constitution will be safely maintained under the reign of your Majesty; and we fervently pray that you may long continue to be the father of your people and the guardian of their rights.

The humble Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Peebles, in their Council Chamber assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and faithful subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Peebles, humbly beg permission, at this alarming crisis, to approach the Throne with the assurances of our unshaken loyalty, and allegiance to your Majesty, and of our firm attachment to our invaluable Constitution in Church and State.

We observe with equal detestation and horror the daring and unwearied efforts of the impious and disaffected to erase from the minds of the people of this country all veneration for the Christian Religion, loyalty to their Sovereign, and obedience to the Laws.

Deeply impressed with the value of the blessings which we enjoy under your Majesty's paternal care, we feel it incumbent upon us to express our determination to use every exertion in our power to frustrate the designs of the disaffected, and to oppose the progress of those principles, which, if generally prevalent, must end in the subversion of our present happy form of Government, and in involving the nation in confusion, misery and ruin.

Our sincere and fervent prayer, Sire, is, that the Almighty may be pleased to protect the United Kingdom from such direful calamity, and to grant that your Majesty may long reign over a free, loyal, and grateful people.

Signed, in our name, and by our appointment, and the common seal of the Burgh appended hereto, at Peebles, the 23d day of December 1820 years,

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Swansea, in the County of Glamorgan.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Swansea, in the Town-Hall assembled, consider it incumbent on us to renew the assurances of our unalterable and unalterable attachment to your Majesty's Person, and of our being most anxious to support, with our utmost exertions, the authority of the British Legislature, and all those prerogatives which our laws have wisely entrusted to your Majesty, and which are necessary to maintain that just balance of power which forms the safety and glory of our envied Constitution.

We view with the utmost abhorrence the spirit of sedition and licentiousness which has lately manifested itself in a variety of shapes, and particularly in the libellous and blasphemous publications which are every where circulated with a view to degrade all the most sacred institutions of our country, and we are most happy to add, that their pernicious doctrines (which can only mislead the ignorant and unwary) have met with the contempt which they deserve in this neighbourhood.

We cannot reflect on the present distressed situation of the country, and the immense amount of our national burthens without deeply regretting the difficulties with which your Majesty as well as your subjects have to contend; and we rely on the wisdom of your Majesty's Councils for the adoption of some measures to relieve the one, and by a system of strict economy to reduce the other.

Although there are some differences of opinion among us on minor points, yet a zealous attachment to your Royal Person, a veneration for the laws, and an ardent affection for good order, are the principles which direct and animate the conduct of every true Welshman; and it is our prayer that your Majesty long may reign the faithful guardian of our liberties, and be the instrument, in the hand of Providence, for transmitting to our posterity those invaluable rights and privileges which are enjoyed by no other than British subjects.
