EXHIBITION OF THE WORKS OF INDUSTRY OF ALL NATIONS IN 1851.

Notice regarding Prizes.

"Her Majesty's Commissioners for promoting the Exhibition of 1851 have had under their consideration the subject of the prizes to be awarded to exhibitors, and have resolved to take immediate steps for having medals struck of various sizes and different designs, it being their opinion that this is the form in which it will, generally speaking, be most desirable that the rewards should be distributed. They will endeavour to secure the assistance of the most eminent artists of all countries in producing the medals, which will, they hope, be valuable as works of art of the highest class, besides serving as records of distinction in connexion with the Exhibition. They have decided to select bronze for the material in which the medals are to be executed, considering that metal to be better calculated than any other for the development of superior skill and ingenuity in the medallic art, and at the same time the most likely to constitute a lasting memorial of the Exhibition. A notice, stating the conditions of competition, will be issued without delay.

"With regard to the mode in which the prizes are to be awarded the Commissioners think it inexpedient to establish beforehand rules so precise as to fetter the discretion of the juries upon which the task will ultimately devolve. It will be sufficient for the present to indicate the general principles to which it will probably be advisable to conform in the award of prizes for successful competition in the several departments of the Exhibition.

"In the department of Raw Materials and Produce, for instance, prizes will be awarded upon a consideration of the value and importance of the article, and the superior excellence of the particular specimens exhibited; and in the case of prepared materials, coming under this head of the Exhibition, the juries will take into account the novelty and importance of the prepared product, and the superior skill and ingenuity manifested in the process of preparation.

"In the department of Machinery, the prizes will be given with reference to novelty in the invention, superiority in the execution, increased efficiency, or increased economy, in the use of the article exhibited. The importance, in a social or other point of view, of the purposes to which the article is to be applied will also be taken into consideration, as will also the amount of the difficulties overcome in bringing the invention to perfection.

"In the department of manufactures, those articles will be rewarded which fulfil in the highest degree the conditions specified in the sectional list already published, viz.:-

"Increased usefulness, such as permanency in dyes, improved forms and arrangements in articles of utility, &c. Superior quality, or superior skill in workmanship. New use of known materials. Use of new materials. New combinations of materials, as in metal and pottery. Beauty of design in form, or colour, or both, with reference to utility. Cheapness, relatively to excellence of production.

"In the department of Sculpture, Models, and the Plastic Art, the rewards will have reference to the beauty and originality of the specimens exhibited, to improvements in the processes of production, to the application of art to manufactures, and, in the case of models, to the interest attaching to the subject they represent.

"These general indications are sufficient to shew that it is the wish of the Commissioners, as far as possible, to reward all articles in any department of the Exhibition which may appear to competent judges to possess any decided superiority, of whatever nature that superiority may be, in their own kind. In selecting the juries who are ultimately to guide them in making their reward, the Commissioners will take the greatest pains to secure the services of men of known ability to form a judgment, above the suspicion of either national or individual partiality (for which purpose they will be composed partly of English and partly of foreigners); and who may be expected to recognise and appreciate merit wherever it may be found, and in whatever way it may shew itself. The names of persons selected to act on these juries will be published when decided upon.

"A question having been put to the Commissioners as to the parties who will be allowed to exhibit, and who will be considered to be entitled to the prizes, they avail themselves of this opportunity to state, that all persons, whether being the designers or inventors, the manufacturers or the proprietors, of any articles, will be allowed to exhibit, and that it will not be essential that they should state the character in which they do so. In awarding the prizes, however, it will be for the juries to consider in each individual case how far the various elements of merit should be recognised, and to decide whether the prize should be handed to the exhibitor without previous inquiry as to the character in which he exhibits.

"Lastly, the Commissioners have to state that, in announcing their intention of giving medal prizes, they do not propose altogether to exclude pecuniary grants, either as prizes for successful competition, or as awards under special circumstances, accompanying and in addition to the honorary distinction of the medal. There may be cases in which, on account of the condition of life of the successful competitors (as, for instance, in the case of workmen), the grant of a sum of money may be the most appropriate reward of superior excellence; and there may be other cases of a special and exceptional nature, in which, from a consideration of the expense incurred in the preparation or transmission of a particular article entitled to a prize, combined with a due regard to the condition and pecuniary circumstances of the party exhibiting, a special grant may with propriety be added to the honorary distinction. The Commissioners are not prepared, for the present at least, to establish any regulations on these heads. They consider it probable that a wide discretion must be left to the juries to be hereafter appointed in respect to the award of money prizes, or the grant of money in aid of honorary distinctions; it being understood that such discretion is to be exercised under the superintendence and control of the Commission.

"The Commissioners will resume the consideration of this subject as soon as they shall be able to calculate the cost of the dies and the execution of the medals, on the preparation of which they have decided.

EXHIBITION OF THE INDUSTRY OF ALL NATIONS IN 1851.

Notice regarding Designs for Medals.

"Her Majesty's Commissioners for promoting the Works of Industry of all Nations hereby give notice:—

"That it is their intention to give medals as rewards in the forthcoming Exhibition; and they hereby invite the artists of all countries to enter into competition for the production of such medals, subject to the following conditions:—

"It is intended to strike three bronze medals of different sizes and of different designs.

"2. The obverses of these medals, for which no designs are required, will contain portraits of Her Majesty, and of His Royal Highness Prince Albert, and will be executed in this country.

"3. Three prizes of 100*l.* each will be given for the three designs for the reverses which may appear the most meritorious, and the most suitable to the purpose of the Commissioners.

"4. Three prizes of 50*l.* each will be given for the three best designs which are not accepted.

"5. The reverses should be illustrative of the objects of the Exhibition, or appropriate as the rewards of successful competition.

"6. The designs are to be sent to the secretaries of the Commission on or before the 1st of June 1850, addressed to No. 1, Old Palace-yard. They must be nine inches in diameter, executed in basso-relievo, in plaster of Paris.

"7. A space must be reserved for a short inscription.

"8. The same artist may compete for all the three medals.

"9. The name of the designer is to be sent in a sealed paper attached to the design. This paper will not be opened till the Commissioners have decided to whom the prize should be awarded.

"10. The Commissioners postpone consideration of the execution of the dies, reserving to themselves the right of making such arrangements for executing the successful designs as may appear to them to be the best.
