FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1868.

India Office, August 1, 1868.

THE following further Despatch has been received from Lieutenant-General the Lord Napier of Magdala, G.C.B., G.C.S.I. lately commanding the Abyssinian Expeditionary Force:—

(Sir Robert Napier to the Military Secretary, India Office).

SIR, Paris, 1st July, 1868.

I HAVE the honour to forward for submission to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for India, the report of Lieutenant-Colonel Warden, Director of the Transport Corps in Abyssinia, with a report attached from Captain Hand, Sub-Director, Transport Corps, on the Highlands.

Enclosure No. 1.

Report on the Transport Train, Abyssinian E.F., by Lieutenant Colonel R. Warden, Bombay Staff Corps.

This train was organized under the orders of the Bombay Government in August, 1867, and Lieutenant-Colonel R. Warden was appointed director to organize the same, under the orders of the Commissary-General of the Army.

2. The establishment for every 2,000 animals was laid down by Government Resolution, No. 144a, of the 28th September, 1867, at the strength as per margin* for 14 divisions in the train, and which, with the commissariat, was placed under the orders of Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Holland, Controller of Supply and Transport, Abyssinian Expeditionary Force.

3. At the first starting the sole work of organization fell upon the director, without a second in command, staff, or any officer to assist him.

4. The duty of supervision devolved at first on the inspectors and head muccadums, consisting chiefly of civilians, i.e., persons who may have been or were then attached to the Commissariat, Railway, and similar departments. Among the muleteers and muccadums, a few were collected who had belonged to the field column carriage under the Commissariat; the rest were the off-scouring of the Bombay streets, consisting of broken-down native tradesmen, discharged Europeans and Eurasians from other departments, and the class termed "loafers."

5. Prior to their embarkation, the first detachment that proceeded with the advanced brigade, strength as per margin,* were inspected by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, in Bombay, who expressed himself as under the gravest apprehension in regard to the stability of a transport founded upon such a nucleus, and on the 15th of October, 1867, a military organization was sanctioned approaching very nearly to the first scheme, as laid down by the director in his report dated 15th August, 1867.

6. On the 4th November, 1867, a second detachment of the Transport Train was despatched to Abyssinia, strength as per margin.†

7. The change in the organization of the corps by the Order of the 15th October, 1867, was as follows:—

Four head inspectors to be European non-commissioned officers of good character, and able to read, write, and keep accounts, and of some education.

Four, second inspectors (two European and two native non-commissioned officers); they were also required to be equally efficient.

Ten, third class (half European and half native), the latter to be able to keep accounts in the vernacular; and Twenty, fourth class (all native), to be drawn from native regiments.

8. On this, circulars were issued to officers commanding Her Majesty's British and Native Regiments of Artillery, Cavalry, and Infantry, to collect good intelligent men for this work, and the following numbers were received:—

European Regiments	160
Native Regiments	405

9. This supervision was found, however, by experience when the work actually commenced in Abyssinia, to be still inadequate, and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief therefore increased the same by attaching 37 men from the 3rd Regiment N.I. in Abyssinia.

10. It may be added that the 14 divisions of the Transport Train now included the Lahore and Rawul Pindee Trains.

11. The proportion of men to animals, i.e., mules and camels, was fixed at one to three, but

* 1 Captain; Civilians: 4 Head Inspectors, 4 Second ditto, 20 Head Muccadums; 80 Second ditto, 351 Drivers, 54 Artificers, 392 Mules collected from Nuggar, Malligaum, Poona, and Calcutta; 18 Tattoos, Poona.

† 2 Subalterns, 2 European Inspectors, 125 Drivers, 42 Artificers, 140 Draught Bullocks, 126 Carts.

* 1 Captain, 2 Subalterns, 4 Chief Inspectors, 8 Second ditto, 2 Weighing men, 16 Head Muccadums, 80 Second ditto, 1 Man to 2 Mules, 4 Beegaries.

as it will be shewn hereafter, the difficulties were so great that it became self-evident such a proportion could not answer, and in the advance of the army on Magdala, every mule had one man, either a soldier or muleteer, to look after it.

12. The establishment of officers of one captain and two subalterns to a division of 2,000 animals was found to be equally inadequate, for it became necessary that an officer should accompany every convoy, also one at each post to superintend the passing and returning of convoys with regularity and order, to supervise the feeding and watering of the animals—the latter under the circumstances a most important duty, and as in most places the supply of water was such as to require the greatest care in distribution.

13. Again, at the larger stations, such as Koo-maylee, Senafe, Antalo, &c., officers were placed in command, with staff officers to assist them.

14. As may be imagined, these appointments drew away a considerable number of officers from the original strength, and His Excellency therefore drafted in a large number of officers as subalterns to be attached to the several divisions, so that there might be a better supervision over the men and their animals, which is so necessary to the well being of a transport.

15. On the 5th December, 1867, a second in command and staff officer were appointed, and on the arrival of the head-quarters in Abyssinia, the director for the first time was allowed a paymaster and quartermaster.

16. The paymaster was a most important post, and has been well and ably filled by Lieutenant Clark, Madras Cavalry; but it would have been better had this appointment been sanctioned in the first instance, instead of throwing this duty upon captains of divisions, assisted by a subaltern, with one or two of their head inspectors to assist.

17. This arrangement, as soon as the working of the campaign really commenced, broke down altogether; for it was found that the out-door duties were such as to require the presence of every officer and non-commissioned officer day and night, and His Excellency then ordered that non-commissioned officers from each British regiment in the force should be detached as pay clerks to each division, but the full number, 14, could never be obtained.

18. As the army advanced, and the distance from the base of operations, where the head-quarters of the director was established, became so great, 4 out of the 14 divisions comprising the Transport Train were formed into what was termed a Highland Train, in contradistinction to the remaining 10 divisions, which were called the Lowland Train; Captain Hand, 82nd Foot, being appointed to the command of the former, and his report upon train is herewith annexed.

19. In addition to the establishment of officers, inspectors and muleteers, artificers, as per margin,* were attached to each division of 2,000 animals.

20. The strength of the corps under the Command of the Director, finally reached the gigantic proportions shewn at the close of the campaign, viz:

80 Commissioned Officers.
160 European Inspectors.
400 Native Inspectors.
12,000 Followers.

* 1 Head Smith, 8 Smiths, 1 Head Carpenter, 6 Carpenters, 1 Head Mochie, 10 Mochies, 8 Bellows Boys, 8 Hammermen.

21. The organization of the train was much affected by a change in the class of muleteers, for besides those sent from Bombay at the commencement, a very large number of muleteers, or believed to be such, were sent from Suez.

22. They consisted of every European nationality besides Turks and Egyptians, and the interpreters were very few in proportion, many among these were so open to bribery and corruption, that the correctness of their interpretation had had to be purchased by the men.

23. The wanton barbarous cruelty of these men to their animals, their unwillingness to work or to bear privations beside being insubordinate in the extreme, led to their being discharged, and during the months of January, February, and March, 2,100 were sent back.

24. They were replaced by some 5,000 men collected from the "Punjab," who answered admirably, and without which the train could not possibly have worked.

They had great endurance, were very willing and tractable, and once they knew what was required of them worked both cheerfully and well.

25. The organization of the Transport Train, with the changes that occurred in the same having been shown, the working of the Train next comes into consideration, which commenced with the arrival of Captain Griffith and Lieutenants Mortimer and Hennell, with the advance brigade. The officers were followed by Captain Young and Lieutenants Sturt and Onslow and Captain Waring followed with Lieutenant Caldecott and Cornet Lucas.

26. The Train was divided into divisions as follows:

- A. Mules.
- B. Pack Bullocks.
- C. Carts.
- D. Mules.
- E. Mules.
- F. Pack Bullocks.
- G. Mules.
- H. Camels.
- K. Ditto.
- L. Mules.
- M. Mules (Lahore).
- N. Mules (Rawul Pindee).
- O. Pack Bullocks.
- P. Camels.

And Captains Griffith and Yonge commenced the formation of "A" and "E" Divisions, and Captain Waring, "P" Division.

27. Difficulties and disasters met these officers at every step. Mules landed without equipments in hundreds, and with muleteers of the class already spoken of.

28. At that time these officers having no subordinates had to look to every thing themselves, and this with the scarcity of water and forage combined, led to a loss to the army at this critical period of an immense number of mules.

29. As regards the camels, these were procured by the contractors at Aden, and Mr. Houseman's language fails to describe the pitiable condition of these animals when landed. Some were too young for work, others with sore backs, and ulcers frightful to behold, others so young, averaging from six months to one year, were utterly useless, and the majority landed in such a weak, and debilitated condition, that they could barely carry 100lbs. The proportion also of drivers to animals was so small that before long hundreds of these useful beasts were lost to the army.

30. The Director was detained in Bombay for work connected with the Finance and equipment of the Train by the Commissary General; and left Bombay on the 19th December, 1867, arriving here on the 31st December, 1867, only 3 days before His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

31. Besides the above mentioned work at the Presidency, he was enabled to form two complete divisions of bullocks, before his departure, viz.: "B" and "F," which were detained for tonnage, and the last of the divisions did not arrive here till March, 1868.

32. A short time previous to the departure of the director, Captain Twentyman proceeded in command of the first detail of the military element, consisting of 26 European and 35 Native Inspectors whose arrival was most welcome to the officers, then organizing the "A," "E" and "P" Divisions, and Captain Twentyman himself commenced the formation of "D" Division. These two Divisions, "D" and "A" subsequently formed one-half of the Highland Brigade already alluded to.

33. The state of the Transport on the arrival of the Director was truly appalling, for what with the wretched state of the animals, insubordination of the Suez muleteers, and the enormous pressure put on the Train by the Commissariat and other departments, to meet the requirements of the army daily landing, success seemed hopeless, and but for the untiring energy and perseverance, and hard work day and night of the above mentioned officers, the Train must have been lost altogether.

34. However, day by day, a fresh and better class of animals were received, especially camels from Soakim and the interior. The Lahore, and Rawul Pindee Mule Trains arrived. Muleteers from the Punjab came to be exchanged for Egyptians, Turks, &c., and matters began to assume a more hopeful aspect, although much remained to be done to render the Train effective.

35. At Koomaylee a large depôt was established, which became the great point where stores and provisions were accumulated, and from thence passed on to the front. For some time it was the Head-Quarters of seven divisions. Its command fell upon Major Nuttall, second in command, and the selection was a happy one.

36. The duties required of him were constant out-door supervision from morning till after midnight, of the numerous Convoys that had to start, and to his untiring energy must be attributed the great success and utility of this depôt.

37. A similar post was established at Senafe, and the selection was again equally fortunate, and Captain Annesley worked so ably and successfully in the command of this important post that he received the highest encomiums from General Officers passing through.

38. The Sub-Officers placed at intermediate posts also did their duty well, and frequently called for the commendations of General Officers for the neatness and order of the several stations under their command.

39. Among the many and severe duties the officers had to perform Convoy duty was the hardest, and under which many who had so long borne the burden and heat of the day had at last to succumb.

40. It must be acknowledged that the losses have been very great, both of animals and stores, but under the then existing circumstances it was literally beyond human control, the long marches (one especially of 32 miles) when the water supply at Undul Wells was very limited, without any streams on the way-side at which men and animals could refresh themselves, they would arrive at night utterly prostrate with fatigue, and without any hope of rest until the animals had been unladen, watered and fed, and this in a narrow crowded pass where only a few animals could be watered together, which took up a considerable time.

41. After this the men had to cook their own food, and they could barely lay down for rest and sleep, ere they were again called to load and resume their march.

42. This work of loading was in itself a very severe task for one man to load three unbroken and in many cases vicious animals, with no one to assist, was an impossibility, and when two or three combined together, the mules that were laden would either break from their pickets, throw off their burdens or roll on the ground till they had released themselves.

43. Thus hours passed in simply loading and re-loading, and the sun was well up before the convoy commenced its march.

44. These convoys covered an immense length of space, often extending for two miles; and when animals laid down or dropped with fatigue, they had to be unladen, and the spare animals put into their places.

45. The percentage of spare animals was ten per cent., but when the pack bullocks came into use, they were so wild, so unbroken, and many of them in such wretched condition, that even twenty-five per cent. was not enough.

46. As soon as the road between Zoulla and Senafe had become passable for wheeled carriage, the train was strengthened by a supply of Bombay bullocks and Maltese mule carts.

47. But for this timely assistance, it would have been sorely straitened; as mule carriage in the lowlands began to fail, and the supply of camels, which had for awhile revived in quality and numbers, also began to diminish.

48. The first passage of carts up the Senafe Ghaut, consisting of a convoy of eighty carts, in sole charge of a native military inspector, was so successful, that every effort was made to increase this kind of carriage. Captain L. A. M. Graeme, 102nd Foot, was chosen, to raise and organize the cart division; and his efforts were crowned with the utmost success, which he richly merited, as he devoted all his energies and time to this one work, seeing to everything himself, and his conduct is beyond all praise.

49. It must be here mentioned, that as the supply of draught mules had ceased, and those in use beginning to fail from hard work, with the sanction of the Controller of Supply and Transport, Captain Graeme commenced converting mule carts with broken shafts into bullock carts with the ordinary Indian yoke.

50. This was a great success, as we were enabled to purchase a very fair supply of draught bullocks from the natives of the country, and thus had as many as 600 carts at a time available.

51. The Veterinary Department was a source of great anxiety; for, on leaving Bombay, the establishment was miserably small, and at no time has it been possible to increase it; but among the French and Italian muleteers there were collected some eight or ten men who had some knowledge of the first principles of veterinary practice.

52. This was the utmost help that could be rendered to the veterinary surgeons, many of whom were young men recently entered the army, but who nevertheless, by energy and goodwill, did good service.

53. These officers were under the immediate orders of First Class Veterinary Surgeon W.

Lamb, whose services were indeed valuable, for his charge was something enormous, consisting of upwards of 30,000 animals, with only ten veterinary surgeons to assist him, who had frequently to perform extraordinary and unusual duties, having constantly to compound their own medicines, administer them, and attend individually to the washing and dressing of the animals in the sick lines, for want of subordinates to assist them.

54. The Director would beg especially to bring to the notice of his Excellency the services of the Veterinary Surgeons Lamb and Anderson.

55. This latter officer had also great professional skill and experience; and the skill with which he speedily established a most useful sick depôt at the Pioneer Wells, as also one at Koomaylee, each containing over 1,000 animals, deserves the highest praise.

56. As a general rule, the European and Military Native Inspectors answered my expectations; but, of course, among such a large number, amounting to—Europeans 160, Natives 440—it was to be expected that a certain proportion would fail; but it was found that when really good men came from regiments, it was entirely owing to the selections made by the commanding officers; for when care was taken to select good and efficient men for this special service, they invariably turned out well, and showed wonderful examples of endurance and persevering energy when in charge of convoys; for this class of men in the train were frequently twenty-four hours without food, and a murmur of complaint I never heard.

57. Cavalry men, of course, are best suited for this work, and the train is much indebted to the officers commanding the 3rd Dragoon Guards, 11th Hussars, and Royal Artillery, in Bombay, for the careful selection of men they made for the Transport Train.

58. The pleasing task now remains of bringing to the special notice of His Excellency the names of such officers more especially deserving of his kind consideration, and whose efforts came under the personal observation of the Director, who from first to last never failed,—

Major Nuttall, 2nd in command,
 Captain C. M. Griffith, Bombay Staff Corps,
 Captain W. L. Twentyman, 18th Hussars,
 Captain E. Boyle, 96th Foot,
 Captain L. A. M. Graeme, 102nd Foot,
 Captain H. Waring, 2nd Foot,
 Captain C. McInroy, Madras Staff Corps, who commanded the first divisions that were raised; and it is difficult to find language to express the extent and value of the assistance they afforded.

59. They were materially assisted by their subalterns,—

Lieutenant F. G. Mortimer, Royal Horse Artillery,
 Lieutenant J. B. Hennell, Bombay Staff Corps,
 Lieutenant T. T. Hodges, 76th Foot,
 Lieutenant W. S. Daniels, 105th Foot,
 Lieutenant H. W. Faulkner, 95th Foot,
 Lieutenant A. D. Strettell, 109th Foot,
 Lieutenant F. J. Caldecott, Royal Horse Artillery,
 Lieutenant D. du McGunton, 96th Foot,
 Lieutenant W. G. Gerard, Royal Artillery.
 Cornet C. A. De N. Lucas, 2nd Dragoons.

60. To these are added the names of officers who, although not among the first to join, yet by the ability, energy, and zeal they brought to bear on their work, at once placed themselves on the same footing,—

Captain T. Kelly,
 Lieutenant C. S. Sturt, Bombay Infantry,
 Lieutenant A. E. Pearse, 76th Foot,
 Lieutenant S. M. Onslow, Madras Cavalry,
 Lieutenant H. de P. Rennick, 21st Foot.

61. The Sub-Director has brought to the notice of his Excellency such officers as served immediately under him in the Highland Brigade; and as this officer was selected for this important post by His Excellency, and those whom he recommends as well as himself having worked under the immediate and constant supervision of His Excellency, it would be out of place for the Director to add anything in this report.

62. The Director would beg to bring forward the names of his personal Staff,—

Lieutenant Clark, Paymaster,
 Lieutenant Carr, Quartermaster.

63. Lieutenant J. D. Clark, Madras Cavalry, although Paymaster to the Corps,—an office of great responsibility, considering the enormous number of men in the Train,—has, in addition to this duty, frequently in times of great pressure, been both disembarking and embarking Officer, Staff Officer, &c., &c.—in fact, has made himself generally useful. Lieutenant Clark, with the small establishment allowed him for the Pay Department, has had very many difficulties to contend with, but has nevertheless managed to keep a regular and concise account of all his disbursements, which often amount to very large sums.

64. The stores required for the Transport Train have been considerable, and the creditable and efficient manner in which Lieutenant N. E. Carr, 10th Foot, has performed these duties under the most trying circumstances, has called forth unqualified approbation.

65. As His Excellency is aware, the difficulties of the Transport Train have been from the first to last of no ordinary kind, and but for the peculiarly fortunate selection of officers from the several Presidencies and armies, the torrent could never have been stemmed. The high, gentlemanly tone of the officers, their strong esprit de corps, the cheerful alacrity with which every order was obeyed, has been the brightest feature in the existence of the Train.

66. They were placed in isolated command, and away from the personal control of the Director, who, however, commenced by placing both entire confidence and the credit and honour of the Train in their hands, and most nobly has it been repaid.

67. With reference to the annexed report on the working of the Highland Brigade by Captain Hand, Sub-Director, the Director quite concurs with him as regards the equipments; but with respect to drill and discipline, he would go still further, especially in the former; the men should be well armed, and well drilled in the same, as they would in that case be able to protect their own convoys, and not draw on the strength of the army.

68. The Jemadars and non-commissioned officers should be all well mounted and armed, and the Director would introduce as nearly as possible the drill and discipline of an irregular corps.

69. Any one who has had any experience with the Abyssinian Force must see the necessity of keeping up the nucleus of a Transport Train; and where wheeled carriage forms a part of the same, nothing could be a better guide in its whole formation than that of the Train des Equipages of the French army, of which the Director can speak from personal observation in the Crimea.

ROBERT WARDEN, Lieutenant-Colonel,
Director, Transport Train.

Enclosure No. 2.

Report upon the "Highland Transport Service."

*Abyssinian Field Force,
Camp, Antalo, 13th May, 1868.*

The Highland Transport was separated from the General Transport raised in Bombay for service in Abyssinia, on the 14th February, 1868; but it may be said to have derived its origin from the two Punjab Trains specially organized in October, 1867, for this campaign, to which it owes both its foundation and organization.

Organization.

It consists of four divisions of 2,000 mules each, which are subdivided into troops of 150, and the following is the scale of the establishment of each division:—

- 1 Captain.
- 3 Subalterns.
- 4 European Inspectors (selected from British regiments).
- 20 Jemadars, or Troop Serjeant-Majors.
- 80 Duffadars, or Serjeants.
- 667 Muleteers.
- 2 First Class Nalbunds, or Farriers.
- 10 Second Class Assistant Nalbunds, or Farriers.
- 1 Head Native Blacksmith.
- 10 Second Assistant Blacksmiths.
- 10 Bheesties, or "Water Carriers."
- 2 Ropemakers.
- 1 Salootrie, "Native Veterinary Surgeon."
- 1 Moonshie, or Native Writer.

At the commencement of the campaign, one man had charge of two mules only; and it is as much as he can look after properly.

Stable, watering and all other line duties at fixed hours are conducted with the same discipline, and in precisely the same routine as in the Bengal Irregular Cavalry regiments.

The muleteers are trained and drilled to their work, and kept in as strict a state of discipline as the circumstances of its being a newly raised corps will admit of.

The Jemadars keep in Persian the "nominal roll" of each man in their troop; also the pay account.

The "long roll" of every man is kept in Persian by the Moonshie; also the pay account, which is also kept in English by the Captain.

The officers commanding the Punjab Trains have summary powers, and can sentence to two years' imprisonment, in addition to corporal punishment.

The whole is under the direction of a Sub-Director, who is one of the Head Quarter Staff, and reports direct to the Assistant Quartermaster-General, Army Head Quarters, assisted by a Staff Officer and Officer Inspector, the latter of whom constantly travels from one station to another, and reports direct upon all matters that may come under his observation.

The Train has worked regularly between Addigerat and Magdala,* principally in carrying baggage, ammunition, hospital stores, and commissariat supplies for the Force for one month.

At intermediate large stations a Staff Officer has been permanently appointed to receive all reports from officers in charge of convoys, and he forwards the same to head-quarters. At these posts small reserves are kept, from which sick and weakly mules are replaced.

We have had in work mules purchased in Spain, Egypt, India, Persia, and Abyssinia.

Mules.

The Spanish mules are principally large and ill-bred, and, from my own observation, are naturally of a weak constitution, and unable to bear great changes in climate. They have suffered much from a want of sufficiency of food, especially of grass, of which they do not eat enough even when it is procurable, for that which is obtained is dry and coarse, and they don't relish it.

When once in low condition, it is almost impossible to bring them round even with rest and grazing. abundance of which they get at the sick depôts, the few well-bred Spanish mules we have had have answered well.

The Persian, Indian, and Egyptian mules on the contrary are very much more enduring, require less grain, will eat any description of grass, and thrive upon it.

During the operations before Magdala, when the animals had for some days to endure hard work upon little food and water, which latter was very bad, the large mules fell off in condition very rapidly, whereas the others showed comparatively little change. The difficulties of the road, crossing and recrossing the rivers Bashilo and Jidda, enervated as they were, was most trying, and many succumbed.

Return of Mules from 1st March.

The Abyssinian mules are not enduring; all those we purchased were then in good condition and fresh, still they have broken down in larger numbers than any others.

On the 1st of March there were 5,412 animals in the Highland Train, and of these 1,002 were sick. On the 1st April there were 6,661, and of these 1,002 sick.

On the 1st May, 7,690; and of these, 1,944 sick. Since the 1st March we have purchased in the country on the Highlands 2,720, and 1,740 have been transferred from the Lowlands.

Since the same date we have lost on the road 449, and 1,257 have been sent to the Lowland sick depôt at Koomaylee, and struck off our returns, and 309 were destroyed or died at Highland sick depôts.

2,418 were discharged from Hospital and sent to work.

The mules had scarcely a fair start, for they were generally put to work the day after disembarkation, after some weeks between decks in a tropical climate.

Causes of Sick.

I have at all times consulted with Staff Veterinary Surgeon Hallen as to the causes and remedies for the large number of sick, and I consider the chief causes to be:—"Hard work at great altitudes."

"Constant exposure, with want of rest."

"Insufficiency of food and bad quality of grass."

"Irregularity in feeding."

"Galls, owing to bad saddles; want of time and means for repairing the same."

"Carelessness in saddling and loading."

Men.

The drivers of the train were entertained as syces or muledrivers, in the position of public followers from the Punjab for the divisions raised in that district, and men from the same part of India were subsequently substituted for the Egyptians and Turks in the other two divisions, as the latter were found to be lazy, apathetic, and totally unmanageable. The jemadars and duffadars were selected from the drivers. To get men qualified for these posts has been a source of some difficulty; for, with the exception of the Punjab Trains, the men were sent to the country quite untrained.

* About 300 miles.

It is impossible to overrate the necessity of thoroughly training the men to a rigid system in the care of the animals, on the line of march as well as in the lines previous to their being sent on service.

A marked difference is apparent in the working of the men who were sent here without the advantage of any such training, and of those who had marched with their mules from Rawul Pindee to Kurrachee, a distance of nearly 1,000 miles.

The men evince an impression that they are looked down upon by their enlisted friends and relatives, consequently they take no interest in, and do not like their work.

It is therefore most desirable that the corps should be so constituted as to induce men to seek service in it, so that an "esprit de corps" will naturally become inoculated, and this can never be the case as long as the men are looked upon as mere followers, and in no way superior to the cavalry syce or grass-cutter.

To render it popular as well as efficient, I am of opinion that the men should be enlisted as mule drivers; they ought not to be overdrilled, and should not take any military duty except in connection with their own branch—such as guards to convoys, and in their own line.

I should like to see them lightly equipped, dressed in a loose blouse and knickerbockers of a khakee colour, with bandages, as worn by the Himalayan mountaineers, in place of gaiters, and each man furnished with a small kit-bag capable of containing one suit of clothes. The blanket and great coat should be carried by the man, and each mule his own cleaning things and picketing gear.

I would arm each man with a pistol and kookery (Nepaulese knife), which is a formidable weapon, and can, if required, be used for cutting wood or grass without injury. The Ghoorkas use it for various rough purposes, and it continues serviceable.

There should be ten spare men per troop, who, as well as the jemadars and duffadars, and artificers, might, in lieu of the pistol, be armed with a carbine, and they should be ample to render the corps independent of the regular army for escorts on convoys, or men cutting grass in an enemy's country.

This protection in the corps was much needed in this campaign, in parts of the country were armed and predatory bands were constantly on the look out for unprotected parties, such as grass-cutters, &c. It is true that all the men with this train were armed, but they turned their swords to so many purposes that they have become almost useless.

Should it ever be contemplated to raise a permanent Transport Corps in India, it is to be hoped that the system and interior economy may be entirely under military organization, and that it, as with the Highland Train in this campaign, may work under one Department, viz., the Quartermaster-General's.

Report on Pack Saddles.

Otago weight 43 lbs. This saddle is decidedly the best adapted for general purposes, owing to the facility in loading it, and its general excellent manufacture. It seldom requires repair, except re-stuffing, which is easily and quickly done.

It is, however, apt to gall on the shoulder and hip, unless very carefully fitted. The leather of the pad should not project beyond the stuffing.

It is not suited to small mules, such as those obtained in the Punjab and Persia; and even if sizes sufficiently small for them were built, I doubt much if the tree would present sufficient surface to carry an ordinary load.

The Punjab pad weighs 33 lbs., and is the best saddle for small mules. If carefully put on and girthed, it never galls.

All sulectah (loose canvass bags) saddles of which this is one, are bad in hilly countries, owing to the difficulty in fastening the loads to the saddle, to prevent its slipping during ascent or descent. This difficulty, however, can be overcome; and Captain Bainbridge, Commanding Rawul Pindee Train, is now trying a plan he has adopted, of a rope let into the pad, which can be used for boxes in a manner similar to the loading-strap of the Otago, or to fasten the "sulecta" and load to the pad.

The Kumaon pad, used in 5-25 Royal Artillery, weighs 36 lbs., and is similar to the Punjab pad.

The Bombay pad weighs 40 lbs., and rarely galls, but it is badly made, unwieldy, and constantly requires repairs.

The Bombay Arsenal pad weighs 26 lbs. We have had more mules galled by this pad than by any other.

The McMahon weighs 66 lbs. This includes a waterproof sheet. It has not yet had a fair trial, but its excessive weight is a great objection to it.

Foreign Office, August 5, 1868.

(General.)

THE Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has received, from the Acting British Consul-General at Havana, the following translation of the new Regulations to be observed by Masters of vessels trading with the Island of Cuba:—

RULES to be observed by the Masters or Supercargoes of Spanish and all other Vessels trading with the Island of Cuba.

1. All masters or supercargoes of vessels from foreign ports, engaged in the import trade of Cuba, are required, on being visited by the Health boat, on their arrival, to deliver up a statement of the cargo, certified by the Spanish Consul, and also a general manifest of said cargo, without any alteration.

These documents must express the name of the master and that of the vessel, her nationality, her Spanish tonnage, the port she comes from, the number of bales, packages, and every other article composing the cargo, with their respective marks, numbers, and description, according to bill of lading, their weight in kilograms, even though they are intended to be bonded or are in transit; bearing in mind that any addition or alteration in the manifest or statement of the cargo, or any entry to order, is absolutely prohibited; and that, should there be any difference between the statement of the cargo and the manifest, such difference will be visited by fine, according to the Regulations. If the whole or part of the cargo is composed of rod or sheet iron, metal plates, timber, jerked beef, salt, cocoa, or any article shipped in bulk, they must be manifested by decimal weight or measurement; adding, at the end of said manifest, a list of the ship's stores, ammunition, and armament, the coals, if the vessel be a steamer, and the unmanifested merchandize which the crew may carry to the value of one hundred dollars each. When the cargo comes from a port where there is no Consul or Vice-Consul, and if the residence of those agents is more than thirty kilos from the place of sailing, the master or supercargo will be exempted from presenting said Consular manifest; but, to enjoy this exemption, all the cargo must be of one kind, and must be composed of either of the following articles; viz, raw hides, timber, shooks, dye woods, coal, or horns; and provided that these articles are the production of the country from whence the vessel sailed, that the voyage has been direct, and that the duties will be paid in bulk.

2. The masters or supercargoes of vessels arriving in distress must also deliver a manifest of their cargo, in the same manner as those engaged in the import trade.

3. Masters or supercargoes of vessels arriving in ballast, are subject to the same rules and obligation of delivering a Spanish Consular manifest and an uncertified one.

4. When the master of a vessel has been obliged by stress of weather, or any unforeseen cause, to throw any portion of the cargo overboard, he must state on his manifest the quantity of the cargo lost, specifying the number of packages, the class and kinds of goods; being also obliged to produce his log-book at the Custom-house, to prove the truth of his declaration.

5. All masters of vessels coming from Spanish Ports with the clearance of the respective Custom-house, are only obliged to deliver an additional manifest of such goods as they may have taken on board after receiving said clearance, not included in the same, and also of all the ship's stores and armament.

6. Should the master or the supercargo not present the statement certified by the Spanish Consul or the manifest of being in ballast within the fixed time, they will incur a fine of 200 dollars; if said manifest is not in accordance with Rule No. 1 they will incur a fine of 25 dollars, and one of a hundred dollars if not certified by the Spanish Consul.

7. If the master, when requested by the head Custom-house official, does not immediately present the statement of the cargo or the manifest; or should these documents not be properly made out, he shall be subject to a fine of 500 dollars, unless the vessel has put in in distress.

8. In the event of there being any erasures or alterations in the said documents, the masters or supercargoes will be liable for the charge of forgery, whether the vessel is in ballast or whether she has cargo on board.

9. The exhibition of the statement of the cargo and of the manifest is obligatory in all the ports, creeks, or anchorages of the island, the vessel may enter, even should she be in distress, in which case the Custom-house officials will take a copy and return the original to the master, that he may present it at the port where his voyage ends.

10. All packages omitted in the statement of the cargo or in the manifest will be confiscated, and the master will be fined double their value, should the amount of duties to be paid on the contents not exceed 400 dollars, but should the duties exceed this sum, and the goods be the property of the owner, consignee, master, or supercargo of the vessel, then, instead of the fine, the vessel together with her freight and appurtenances will be confiscated.

11. If after the vessel's final discharge, one or more of the manifested packages should be found wanting, no invoice of the contents having been previously presented, it will be inferred that the master or the supercargo has defrauded the Revenue, and they will be fined 200 dollars for each missing package.

12. When the owner, or consignee of goods not manifested by the master, produces, within forty-eight hours, the note or invoice of the said goods, he will not incur any penalty, and the goods will be delivered to him; but the master or the supercargo will pay a fine equal to the value of the goods so omitted in the manifest.

13. Nothing whatever can be discharged without the permission of the collector and the inspection of the chief of the Coast Guard. For the mere landing of any articles, no matter it's value, or whether it is free of duty, the master or the supercargo will be fined 1,000 dollars, and the goods will be confiscated, together with the boat or lighter which conveys them; should the amount of the duties to be assessed not exceed the sum of 200 dollars, but if they should exceed this sum, the vessel will be seized in lieu of the fine.

14. No goods whatever, be the quantity large or small, can be transferred from one vessel to the other in the harbour, without the necessary requisites of the Custom-house having been complied with; a violation of this rule subjects the masters or the supercargoes to the legal penalty (1,000 dollars).

15. Should a vessel discharge merchandize, be the quantity large or small, in a port not open to general commerce, said merchandize, as well as the vessel and all her appurtenances, will be confiscated.

16. If in the Custom-house visit, previous to clearance, an excess of cargo should be detected, the goods will be seized, and the master will be fined a sum equal to the value of the excess.

17. All goods, produce, or any other article seized in the act of being fraudulently shipped, shall likewise incur a similar penalty.

18. If the master or supercargo should be unable to pay the fines and costs imposed, the vessel will be held responsible and seized, unless the consignee voluntarily assumes the payment.

19. The master who does not declare the exact Spanish tonnage of his vessel, will pay the cost of measuring her, if the excess is ten per cent. over the tonnage given.

20. Passengers luggage must be presented for inspection at the Custom-house depôt; and if there should be found merchandise in it not exceeding 100 dollars in value, the passenger will pay the usual duties, presenting a note of the contents at the Custom-house; should the value of these goods be more than 100 dollars, and less than 200 dollars, they will pay double duty; but if the value is greater, the merchandise will be liable to seizure; unless in either case the party interested has previously presented a list of said merchandise; in which case it will pay duty according to the Tariff.

21. No manifest will be translated, nor permits granted for discharging, unless the master or the consignee has previously presented the ship's register at the Custom-house.
