THE Queen has been graciously pleased to confer the "Albert Medal of the First Class" on—

MARK ADDY, of Salford.

Statement of the case of MARK ADDY, to whom the Albert Medal of the First Class has been granted in recognition of his repeated acts of heroism in saving life from drowning in the River Irwell.

MARK ADDY, a well-known oarsman and sculler, has resided all his life on the banks of the polluted River Irwell; his father and brothers having followed the trade of Boat Builders.

During a period of about twenty-five years, he has, under circumstances of imminent peril, both from the violence of the river and the pestilential nature of its waters, saved no fewer than six-and-thirty lives, several of the cases having occurred subsequently to the date of the creation of the said Order.

For his heroic efforts and conspicuous gallantry, he has, at various times, received the following distinctions:—

The Bronze Medal of the Royal Humane Society.

The Silver Medal of the Salford Humane Society.

The Gold Medal of the Salford Humane Society.

An illuminated Address setting forth his Badges of Honour from the Salford Humane Society.

A purse of 200 guineas and an illuminated Address from the inhabitants of Salford.
