Haaks light is a flashing white and red light, showing every thirty seconds two white flashes in quick succession, then an eclipse of ten seconds, followed by a single red flash. It is shown from the mainmast, is elevated 36 feet above the sea, in bad weather 31 feet, and should be visible in clear weather from a distance of 11 miles.

The light-vessel, with one mast and a-jigger mast, is painted red, with a broad white streak, and the word "Haaks" in black letters on her sides, and carries a red ball at the masthead as a daymark. A white riding light is shown from the fore-stay.

Position on Admiralty Chart, lat.  $52^{\circ} 58'$  N., long.  $4^{\circ} 18'$  E.

Also, that from this light-vessel during thick or foggy weather a caloric siren will give two blasts in quick succession every two minutes. Should the siren not be ready for use, or be out of order, a bell will give two strokes in succession, followed by a pause, every thirty seconds.

NOTE.—When from any cause the flashing light cannot be exhibited a fixed white lantern light will be shown from the masthead, and a red flare-up every ten minutes from above the gun-gale.

If this light-vessel has drifted from her station the usual lights will not be exhibited, but a fixed red light will be shown from each end of the vessel. By day a red flag will be hoisted above the red ball at the masthead.

Should a vessel be seen standing into danger a gun will be fired, and repeated if necessary, also the signal flags J. D. of the International Code "You are in danger" will be hoisted and kept flying until answered.

A bright rocket immediately after a gun will indicate that assistance from the shore is required.

To mark the position of the light-vessel two anchor buoys, both painted red with a white horizontal stripe, and with H. No. 1 and H. No. 2 on them respectively in black letters, are moored north and south, distant three cables from each other.

Visibility of Cape Recife Light.

THE following information is derived from the report of a Court of Inquiry held at Port Elizabeth, on 30th January, 1890, into the loss of the steamship "Strathblane" by striking on a rock near the shore westward of Cape Recife; the vessel afterwards being beached five miles westward of the Cape, near Chelsea Point, in the night of 23rd January, 1890:—

From the evidence it appears that the light at Cape Recife is visible close to the shore westward of the cape, inside the limit shown on the Admiralty Charts, and mentioned in Africa Pilot, Part III.

This limit of visibility is given on the authority of a notice issued by the Government of the Cape of Good Hope, on the establishment of the light on Cape Recife in the year 1851; but in consequence of the above evidence the line will be erased from the Charts, and omitted from the Sailing Directions.

It also appears from the above inquiry, that foul ground may exist about one mile from the shore westward of Chelsea Point for a distance of about five miles. Further, it is not improbable that the unsounded area fronting the coast between Chelsea Point and Glassen Point may contain many hidden, and as yet unknown, dangers.

Mariners are cautioned accordingly.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Cape St. Francis to Waterloo Bay, No. 2085; Algoa Bay, No. 642. Also, Admiralty List of Lights in South Africa, &c., 1890, No. 12; and Africa Pilot, Part III, 1889, pages 105–109.

St. Catherine Point Lighthouse—Intended Sector of Red Light.

THE Trinity House, London, has given notice, that towards the end of August, 1890, it is intended, with a view of warning vessels when approaching the shore westward of St. Catherine Point too closely, to show a sector of red light from St. Catherine Point Lighthouse, southern extreme of the Isle of Wight:—

The sector of red light will be shown from St. Catherine Point Lighthouse between the bearings S. 54° E. and S. 44° E., so that through this arc the flashes of the light will show red, whilst a powerful fixed red light will also be visible between the flashes.

Further notice will be given when the above alteration has been effected.

Intended alteration in the positions of Kentish Knock and Long Sand Light-vessels and Long Sand Head Bell-buoy.

THE Trinity House, London, has given notice, that consequent on a survey recently made of a portion of the river Thames entrance by H.M. surveying vessel "Triton," it is intended towards the end of the month of June, 1890, to make the following alteration in the positions of Kentish Knock and Long Sand Light-vessels, and Long Sand Head bell-buoy:—

1. Kentish Knock Light-vessel will be moved about one mile West of her present position, and will then be distant about  $2\frac{2}{5}$  miles from the 5-fathoms line of the Kentish Knock.

Present position, latitude 51° 39' N., longitude 1° 43' 15" E.

2. Long Sand Light-vessel will be moved about one mile West of her present position, and will then be distant about  $2\frac{2}{5}$  miles from the 5-fathoms line of Long Sand Head.

Present position, latitude 51° 48' N., longitude 1° 42' 5" E.

3. Long Sand Head Bell-buoy will be moved about 4 cables West of its present position, and will then be distant about 6 cables from the 5-fathoms line of Long Sand Head.

Savage Island.—Provisional Light Exhibited.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 105 of 1890, and previous Notice, on intended alterations in Savage Island Light, south side of Arakan River entrance; and exhibition of provisional light pending such alterations; also, that on 27th January, 1890; the permanent light would be re-exhibited:—

Further information has been received, that on 2nd February 1890, the provisional light (fixed and flashing white every minute) on Savage Island was re-exhibited, having been transferred from the lighthouse to a temporary wooden structure, situated close to and southward of the lighthouse, and at the same height (99 feet) above high water; and that on the same date, the blue lights, burnt during the period occupied in transferring the light to the temporary structure, were discontinued.

As the light exhibited from the temporary wooden structure is obscured to the northward by the permanent lighthouse, a fixed white light is shown from the flagstaff on Fakir Point, as a guide to vessels during the night.

The date of re-exhibition of the permanent light is uncertain.
