No. 1046.—ENGLAND, SOUTH COAST—SOLENT AND SPITHEAD.

Review of the Fleet by His Majesty the King, 31st July, 1909.

The following Regulations must be observed by all vessels navigating the Solent and Spithead on the occasion of the Review of the Fleet by His Majesty the King, on the 31st July, 1909.

Regulations.

1. In order to reduce as far as possible the chances of collision, directors of steamship companies, owners of steam vessels, yachts, &c., are earnestly requested to give directions to the Masters of their vessels to follow closely the instructions herein laid down, and to pay implicit attention to the requests of the officers in charge of the Patrol tugs and steamboats, who will be specially charged with the duty of keeping clear the anchorage ground.

Vessels disobeying these directions are liable to be removed from the anchorage ground, and the Masters proceeded against summarily.

Note.—The anchorage ground is considered to be the space included by a line drawn round the ships of war at anchor northward of Ryde Middle, at a distance of not less than 2 cables from the outermost ships.

2. The Patrol vessels will carry a white ensign on a staff at the stern, and a red flag on a staff in the bows, to enable them to be readily distinguished from other vessels.

3. The Fleet will be anchored to the northward of the Ryde Middle. Destroyers and submarines will also be anchored southward of the Ryde Middle on either side of the fairway.

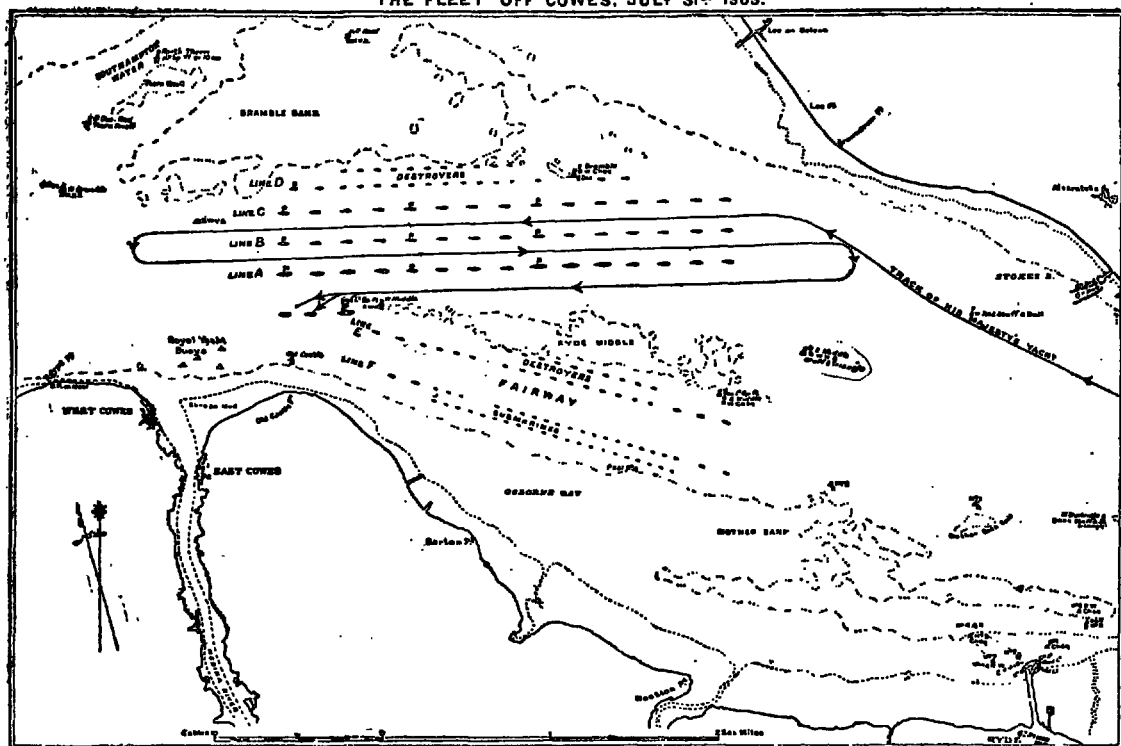

4. In the crowded condition of the fairways between the Isle of Wight and the mainland, navigation must be conducted with the greatest caution, and sailing vessels and small craft must remember that large steam vessels will not always be able to give way to them.

5. Vessels are particularly cautioned against approaching close to squadrons of ships of war which may be under way, the fact that they are of heavy draught and manœuvring in pilotage water in close order, renders it impossible for them to give way to individual vessels.

6. All steam vessels in the vicinity of the Fleet are requested to burn the best Welsh coal, so that the smoke may not obstruct the view of the Fleet nor cause danger of collision. Vessels neglecting this rule will be removed to a distance.

7. Private steam vessels, steam yachts, and sailing vessels will be permitted to pass between the columns under the following regulations, except on Saturday, 31st July, between 1 P.M. and 6 P.M.; and on Monday, 2nd August, between 11 A.M. and 5 P.M.

(See plan of the position of the Fleet, published by the Admiralty, to be had of the Admiralty Chart Agents; also, diagram on next page).

THE FLEET OFF COWES, JULY 31ST 1909.

(a) For the purpose of these regulations the term "steam-vessel" shall be held to include any vessel propelled by a motive power other than oars or sails.

(b) The course of vessels between the different columns of ships of war is to be as follows:—

Vessels proceeding to the eastward shall pass between lines A and B, or between lines C and D.

Vessels bound to the westward shall pass between lines B and C, or south of line A.

(c) The speed of steam vessels when within the columns is to be limited to 5 knots. Neglect of this rule, especially by paddle steamers, causes danger to small boats, which may result in loss of life.

(d) While between the columns no vessels are to overtake and pass one another, and no vessel is to stop unless to avoid collision.

(e) Should circumstances render it undesirable that vessels should pass between the columns, the ships of war at each end of the space which is closed to traffic will hoist a blue ensign where it can best be seen, which will indicate that no vessel is to pass between these columns; vessels must then pass south of line A. Should the ships of war be dressed, the blue ensign will take the place of one of the ensigns ordinarily displayed.

(f) The number of ships anchored between the Ryde Middle and the Bramble bank will render it difficult for ships to navigate this channel at night, and they should use the channel south of the Ryde Middle. As destroyers and submarines will be anchored on either side of this fairway great caution will be necessary at all times, and speed is to be limited to 7 knots, both by day and night.

It will be difficult for large mail steamers to pass to and from Southampton by the eastern routes on the nights between 28th July and 7th August, and the Needles channel should be used in consequence.

(g) At any time after sunset on the night of the 31st July, 1909, the ships of war may be illuminated, and search lights may be used, rendering it difficult for vessels to distinguish lights, buoys, and navigation marks.

(h) While the ships of war are illuminated, vessels of over 200 feet long will not be permitted to pass between the columns.

8. All vessels are to make use of the sound signals mentioned in Clause 28 of the Regulations for the Prevention of Collision at Sea when altering course or stopping, viz.:—

When altering course to starboard, one short blast.

When altering course to port, two short blasts.

When engines are going full speed astern, three short blasts.

9. During the time that His Majesty the King is passing through the Fleet on July 31st and August 2nd, the approaches from both the eastward and westward are to be kept clear of vessels and boats; no vessel of any kind will be permitted to cross the lines of the ships of war, nor pass between the columns, nor follow the Royal Procession.

Caution.—After His Majesty's yacht has anchored on July 31st, torpedo craft and submarines will be navigating at high speed in the space to the westward of the Fleet as well as southward of line A. In order to avoid chances of collision and danger to small boats from their wash, particular attention must be paid to the orders given from the Patrol vessels.

10. Any vessel at anchor in such a position as to obstruct the fairways, or interfere with the navigation of the ships of war from the anchorage ground at Spithead, will be requested to weigh, and, if necessary, will be removed.

11. Unless disabled, no vessel will be permitted to anchor in the fairway of the channel between the Ryde Middle and the Isle of Wight between noon on the 28th July, 1909, and 6.0 P.M. on the 7th August, 1909.

12. Masters of vessels are cautioned that for some time before the dates mentioned lines of buoys may be laid to mark the position of ships' berths. These buoys should be carefully avoided.

13. Sailing yachts actually competing in the various yacht races of the Royal Yacht Squadron and the Royal London Yacht Club will not be required to observe the regulations laid down for vessels passing between the columns of the Fleets. They will be free to pass in any direction between the ships of war.

To lessen the chances of collision, lookout men will be stationed in the ships of war to warn vessels passing up or down between the column when yachts are about to cross their course. Vessels passing between the columns must be prepared for yachts coming from behind the ships of war and crossing their course; they must stop or go astern if failed to do so by megaphone from the ships of war.

Note.—Nothing in this Notice is to be construed as absolving vessels from closely observing the provision of the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea.
