SATURDAY, 24 JUNE, 1916.

War Office,
24th June, 1916.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the appointment of the undermentioned Officers to be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order, in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field:—

Lt.-Col. William Antrobus Griesbach, 49th Canadian Infy. Bn.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in the handling of his battalion during a heavy bombardment and subsequent attack by the enemy. On another occasion by his prompt action and fine example he was largely responsible for the rescue of several men who had been buried by shell fire.

Temp. Maj. Warren John Peacocke, 9th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability. He organized and commanded with great skill a successful raid on the enemy's trenches, and displayed great coolness throughout. He succeeded in bringing in all his wounded in spite of heavy shell fire.

Temp. Capt. John Espenett Knott, 8th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. By his fine example and coolness during an enemy attack he kept up the discipline and fine spirit of his company under very difficult and trying circumstances.

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Arthur Maxwell, 8th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the enemy, after an intense bombardment, penetrated a portion of our trench, Lt.-Col. Maxwell, though wounded by shrapnel, personally organised two counter attacks, and refused to leave his post till ordered next day to do so.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) Evelyn William Pierrepont Uniacke, 2nd Regiment, King Edward's Horse (attd. 8th Bn., R. Ir. Fus.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When a party of the enemy had penetrated into an unoccupied portion of our trench, he organised bombing parties, one of which he led himself, and, though twice severely wounded, continued to fight till the enemy were driven out.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Robert Brunger, 4th Bn., Suff. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. Although the enemy were alert and offered a strong resistance he inflicted considerable loss, and finally withdrew skilfully with only few casualties.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frederick Crossfield Happold, 9th Bn., N. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy exploded a mine, he at once collected a few men, rushed up and out-bombed a far larger force of the enemy in the crater until reinforcements arrived. After being wounded he continued to lead and encourage his party.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to confer the Military Cross on the undermentioned Officers and Warrant Officers, in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the field:—

Temp. Capt. Frederick Charles Atkinson-Fleming, M.B., R.A.M.C. (attd. 8th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when tending casualties during and subsequent to a hostile attack. He worked without ceasing under difficult and dangerous conditions.

Temp. Capt. Frederick James Easterbrook, 6th Bn., S. Wales Bord. (attd. 17th Corps Light Railway Coy.).

For consistent gallantry and devotion to duty when maintaining the light railway under incessant shell fire.

Lt. temp. (temp. Capt.) James Frederick Lorimer Fison, 1/4th Bn., Suff. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy exploded a mine he led a bombing party over the parapet, bombed the enemy right out of the crater, and held them till the near lip was consolidated. He also patrolled beyond the crater to find out where the enemy were.

Temp. Capt. John Gardner, 7th Bn., R. Sc. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry under heavy shell fire. He organised and led a counter-attack by men of his own battalion and men of R.E. under very difficult circumstances, and set a fine example till incapacitated by a fragment of shell.

Temp. Capt. Francis Langford Guilbride, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. During an intense bombardment by the enemy he ran along the parapet to warn his men and those of a neighbouring company of an impending enemy attack. He was severely wounded while performing this gallant act.

Capt. Arthur Isaac House, 22nd Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For most distinguished service when commanding a half battalion. Under very heavy fire he traversed the danger area, showed great skill in organisation and subsequent disposition of his command as reinforcements.

Temp. Capt. William Milne, Genl. List (attd. R.F.C.).

For conspicuous gallantry and skill. When attacked by two hostile aeroplanes he drove off one, and, though slightly wounded in the face, drove the other vertically to the ground. He then at once attacked another and drove it down, being this time shot through the hand. In spite of his wounds he landed his machine safely in his own aerodrome.

Temp. Capt. William Herbert Monson, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. It was mainly due to his fine example and good leadership that, in spite of an intense bombardment, the enemy's attacks were repulsed.

Temp. Capt. John Ritty, 7th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and skilful handling of his men in action under difficult circumstances. He was also noted previously for good service during an intense bombardment by the enemy.

Temp. Capt. Eric Lancelot Routh, 11th Bn., R. War. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When on patrol a hostile patrol of equal size appeared on his flank. He at once attacked, he himself leading a party against the enemy's flank and rear. The enemy were driven off, leaving many killed and wounded. He then went with a serjeant to assist a private who was wounded. The latter was killed while Captain Routh was supporting him, the bullet also smashing a compass in Capt. Routh's breast pocket.

Temp. Capt. Harold Samuel Eaton Stevens, 13th Bn., R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry. At a critical moment during an attack on the enemy's position he organised bombing attacks, and, by his fine example and coolness, rallied the men and took control of the situation.

Temp. Lt. Murtough Carbery, 81st By., 5th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a hostile shell ignited the ammunition in a pit and the fire spread rapidly, Lt. Carbery, Sjt.-Maj. Horsfield, Gunner Deakins, and Actg. Bombr. Walker, at great personal risk, fought the flames for over an hour under heavy shell fire. Finally, they succeeded in getting out the ammunition and extinguishing the fire. They set a fine example of pluck and determination.

Temp. Lt. Lionel George Archibald Constable, 8th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack. He climbed on the top of the parapet and controlled the fire of his men. Through his coolness and bravery two hostile attacks were beaten off.

Temp. Lt. Gordon Figgis, 9th Bn., Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry. When supporting an attack with Lewis guns he showed great determination and resource. His guns and two men were buried by shell fire. He dug them out again, and was able to come into action in time to render valuable assistance.

Temp. Lt. David John Footman, 8th Bn., R. Berks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. Largely owing to his personal example and skill severe loss was inflicted on the enemy, and the withdrawal was effected with slight loss.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Peter Robert Foulkes-Roberts, 4th Bn., R. W. Fus., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry during two nights while consolidating a crater under close fire. His coolness and fine example largely contributed to the success of the operation.

Temp. Lt. (temp. Capt.) John Allan Henry, 11th Bn., R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry. He commanded a company in trenches raided by the enemy during a very heavy bombardment. By his personal example and encouragement he repelled the raiders, who were in greatly superior numbers.

Temp. Lt. Henry Hobbs, late 49th Canadian Infy Bn.

For conspicuous gallantry on many occasions, notably when, after working for half an hour under heavy shell fire, he rescued a man from a dug-out which had been blown in. He has since been wounded.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Archibald William Henry James, 3rd Hrs. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry when making a special reconnaissance. Owing to clouds, he crossed the lines at 1,500 ft., and, seeing signs of movement in a particular locality, he came down to 800 ft. in order to get a better view. He recrossed the lines at 500 ft. with very valuable information under heavy fire from rifles, machine-guns, anti-aircraft guns and field guns. His engine and machine were badly damaged by the enemy's fire.

Lt. Sydney Arthur Kellagher, 48th By., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability. When his battery was being constantly shelled he kept up a continuous fire from a position hurriedly occupied, and with little or no cover. By his fine example and resource he brought the battery through with marked success.

Temp. Lt. Henry Steedman Lewis, 11th Bn., R. Suss. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading a patrol. After his party had been discovered and fired at by machine-guns he coolly completed his reconnaissance under heavy fire. With two lance-corporals he carried back a wounded man of his party under the same heavy fire. He has shown complete contempt of danger.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Brian MacMahon Mahon, 18th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. During an enemy artillery and bombing attack on our position he directed the operations of our bombers. His capable handling of them contributed much to their success. He remained at his post after being wounded.

Temp. Lt. Francis Keene Marriott, R.A.M.C. (attd. Hdqrs., 182nd Fld. Arty. Bde.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when he went out to tend the wounded of two batteries which were under heavy shell fire.

Temp. Lt. Hubert Manifold Mitchell, 8th Bn., R. Muns. Fus. (attd. 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.).

For conspicuous gallantry during a hostile attack. He rallied his men, reconstructed his trench and reorganised his defences under difficult circumstances. His personal courage and power of command helped much to avert a serious situation.

Lt. Gordon Stirling, Spec. Res., Scots Gds. (attd. 2nd Guards Bde. Machine Gun Coy.).

For conspicuous gallantry. On hearing that a man had been mortally wounded attempting to rescue a wounded orderly, he at once went out, and after remaining over an hour under heavy shell fire, during which his clothing was cut in several places by fragments of shells, succeeded, with the assistance of a private, in carrying into safety the wounded orderly.

Temp. Lt. Frank Septimus Thompson, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and tenacity when, with a handful of men in an isolated portion of the trenches during an intense bombardment by the enemy, he saved two trench mortars from falling into their hands.

Lt. Charles Richard Tisdall, Spec. Res. (attd. 1st Bn.), I. Gds.

For conspicuous gallantry. When on patrol with two men he discovered a strong enemy patrol, who evidently intended to rush an isolated post. With great determination he dispersed the enemy patrol with one of his men, after sending the other for reinforcements. His promptness in all probability saved the post.

Temp. Lt. David Wilson, Genl. List (attd. R.F.C.).

For conspicuous gallantry and skill. After his machine had been damaged in a combat with an enemy machine and was difficult to control, he continued his patrol and assisted another officer to bring down an enemy machine. Later he found another enemy machine, dived at it, and brought it down in flames within our lines.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Bernard Barnes, 15th Bn., Lond. R., T.F. (employed 140th Bde. Machine Gun Coy.).

For conspicuous gallantry. When telephone communication was cut he constantly procured useful information under heavy fire. On one occasion he crossed a heavy hostile barrage of fire in order to reach the front trenches, and, although wounded, completed his mission and brought back valuable information.

2nd Lt. Leonard Baseden, 24th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous courage, coolness and skill in organising and carrying out bombing attacks up hostile communication trenches. He sent in valuable reports during these operations.

2nd Lt. Cyril John Benest, Spec. Res. (attd. B. By., 64th Bde.), R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a dug-out was blown in by a heavy shell he at once, under heavy fire, began to dig out the buried men, and showed great coolness in organising the rescue party and in tending the wounded under fire.

2nd Lt. George Agar Trevor Benson, 2nd Bn., Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. Although wounded before the advance began, he continued to lead with great determination, forced his way through the enemy's wire; and, although again twice wounded, threw bombs into the trench till his supply was exhausted. He was the last to withdraw after all the wounded had been removed to safety. He also on another occasion made a very daring reconnaissance.

Temp. 2nd Lt. James Bilsland, 10th Bn., Sco. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry. He rallied men who had lost their Officers under very heavy shell fire, and led them forward in a counter-attack. He also did fine work establishing bombing posts and arranging for supplies of bombs and ammunition.

2nd Lt. Edwin Theodore Bird, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant conduct during an attack. He led his bombers with great skill and courage and continued his bombing after being wounded.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Alfred Chapman Blench, 20th Bn., Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry with a patrol. On a starlit night he crossed the open, entered and explored enemy trenches, and obtained valuable information. He has frequently done good work on patrol.

2nd Lt. Henry Fielding Bond, 2/4th Bn., Suff. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource. When the enemy had exploded a mine and had seized the crater, he organised snipers and bombers to attack them. The crater was retaken and consolidated, many of the enemy being killed.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Arthur Bond, 1st Bn. (attd. 7th Bn.), Yorks. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry when on patrol. An enemy patrol was met and bombs were exchanged, one of which wounded both 2nd Lt. Bond and another officer. The enemy retired and opened machine-gun fire, which again wounded the other officer. 2nd Lt. Bond and Private Garnett at great risk brought him in over 200 yards under heavy machine-gun fire.

2nd Lt. Stanley Caldwell, 4th Bn. (attd. 2nd Bn.), S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. He commanded one party in the assault, made his way through strong wire, bombed several trenches, and saw all his men out before leaving the enemy's trench. He showed great coolness and initiative.

2nd Lt. Lindsay Stuart Campbell, "A" By., 105th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When his battery commander became a casualty, he took command, and for thirty-six hours kept his guns continuously firing under heavy shell fire. He went about encouraging his detachments and inspiring confidence in all ranks.

2nd Lt. Harvey Gerald Carminow Carter, 1/8th Bn., Worc. R., T.F.

For conspicuous devotion to duty. While with his orderly visiting posts in the front line he saw a body of the enemy approaching, and instantly fired his revolver at them. They replied with bombs and wounded both him and his orderly severely. But he dragged himself to the posts on his right and left, and ordered rapid fire, which drove off the enemy. He then collapsed from pain and loss of blood.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Charles Herbert Crawshaw, Spec. Res. (attd. 8th Bn.), K. O. Sco. Bord.

For conspicuous gallantry. He organised and led an attack under heavy artillery fire and displayed great skill and courage. He was four times wounded.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Ralph Drayton, 3rd Bn. (attd. 2nd Bn.), Dorset R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When after a heavy bombardment the enemy raided our trenches, although wounded, he collected a few men and repulsed all attacks on his portion of the trench. He set a fine example to all around him.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Ellert Webster Forbes, 6th Bn., R. War. R., T.F. (attd. R.F.C.).

For conspicuous gallantry and skill. He was acting as Observer when attacked by two enemy aeroplanes, and was wounded in the chest. On recovering from the shock he saw that his pilot was killed. Climbing into the pilot's seat he succeeded in bringing his machine back from behind the enemy's lines and landing safely.

2nd Lt. William Spiers Glenn, Spec. Res. (attd. 73rd By., 5th Bde.), R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability as Observing Officer. He was exposed to heavy shell fire for several hours, but with great coolness and judgment corrected the fire of his battery throughout, and sent back constant reports on the situation.

2nd Lt. William Ashwin Henderson, 3rd Bn. (attd. 13th Bn.), R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry. He carried out several dangerous reconnaissances in trenches known to be held by the enemy, after which he led a counter-attack with great coolness and utter disregard of danger.

2nd Lt. Leonard William Hugh Stevenson, 1st Bn. (attd. 9th Bn.), R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and promptness during a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. His quick decision at a critical moment saved two minutes of time, and the enemy were actually issuing from their dug-outs as his party entered their trench. Later he went out and brought in a wounded man at great risk.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Bryan Desmond Hughes, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though severely wounded, he organised the battalion bombers and led them against the enemy, who had penetrated a portion of the front line. It was largely owing to his personal example and good leadership that the enemy were driven out.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Raymond Delaforce Hume, 1/4th Bn., Suff. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. Although hit by a bomb he continued to throw bombs himself. He was also largely responsible for the withdrawal of his party with few casualties. Later he went out again to search for wounded men.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Owen Llewelyn Johns, Y/32nd Trench Mortar Bn., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a very heavy bombardment by the enemy, after firing all his ammunition, he formed up his men and placed himself at the disposal of the Infantry Commanding Officer. He proceeded under heavy fire to the firing line, into which the enemy had penetrated, to see how he could best assist. He set a fine example of cool bravery.

Temp. 2nd Lt. David Kerr, 11th Bn. (attd. 6/7th Bn.), R. Sc. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. He kept up the supply of bombs under very heavy shell fire, and brought in a wounded man under heavy rifle fire in broad daylight. In doing this his steel helmet was pierced by a bullet and he was wounded in the neck.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Walter Petersen Lind, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy had exploded a camouflet and the position was subjected to a very heavy bombardment, it was largely owing to his coolness and disregard of danger that the fight was restored and the situation saved.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Ewart Alan Mackintosh, 1/5th Bn., Sea. Highrs., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. He organised and led a successful raid on the enemy's trenches with great skill and courage. Several of the enemy were disposed of and a strong point destroyed. He also brought back two wounded men under heavy fire.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) John Anderson Mann, 5th Bn., Sco. Rif., T.F. (attd. R.F.C.).

For consistent gallantry and skill. In the course of seven days 2nd Lts. Mann as pilot and Reid as Observer attacked no less than eight enemy aeroplanes. They drove down four, three of which were seriously damaged. The remainder were driven off, one escaping by getting into a cloud.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Edward Philip Manson, 14th Bn., Midd'x R. (attd. 22nd Bn., Lond. R., T.F.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of bombers. His party repulsed determined attacks by the enemy and built blocks under heavy artillery fire. Though severely wounded and unable to stand, he continued to direct operations.

2nd Lt. Gerald Morgan McKay, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant conduct during an hostile attack. He showed great courage, resource and tenacity in holding his trench under intense fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. James Ross McLennan, 18th Bn. (attd. 13th Bn.), R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy had gained a footing in a portion of our trench, he led the bombing counter-attack with the utmost dash and coolness under very heavy fire. Though twice hit by bombs and badly shaken, he stuck to his post all night.

2nd Lt. John Brine Mitchell, 8th Bn., London. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. After the battalion bombing officer had been wounded he rallied the bombers, led forward a patrol, attacked the enemy, and held them back till our line was consolidated.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Lionel Westwood Moberley, 24th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous good service during an attack on the hostile trenches. When all senior officers had become casualties, he took command of the line in circumstances of great urgency and danger, and organised and consolidated the line. He continued to send clear reports as to the situation. He has already been mentioned in despatches for gallantry.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Leonard Leighton Moody, 12th Bn., R. Sus. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When in charge of a wiring party he rescued, under heavy fire of machine guns, a man who had been hit. Later he went out three times to search for another man, and eventually found him and brought him in.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Herbert Butler Mulligan, 1st Bn. (attd. 12th Bn.), R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry when laying torpedoes under the enemy's wire. On one occasion he accomplished this task under heavy rifle and machine gun fire, and later went out with a private to bring in a wounded man, and succeeded, although observed and shot at by the enemy.

2nd Lt. Charles O'Connell, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For distinguished conduct during a counter-attack on enemy trenches. He was first in and last to leave. His coolness and gallantry materially assisted the successful withdrawal.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Peter John O'Connor, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. By his personal influence and good leadership he repelled two hostile attacks on his trenches under very trying conditions.

2nd Lt. Frank Osborne, 15th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a counter-attack he went out and bandaged wounded men in broad daylight. He moved about under constant machine gun and rifle fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry Blayney Owen Mitchell, 7th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack by the enemy. He brought up alone one machine gun into an exposed position and opened fire. Later he moved it to another commanding position. His action helped much in the repulse of the enemy.

2nd Lt. Guy Philip Randall, K. O. Sco. Bord. (attd. 7th Bn.).

For conspicuous gallantry and determination when leading a counter-attack. Although twice wounded, he continued to encourage his men and lead them forward. He only desisted on being wounded a third time and rendered incapable.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) George Ranald Macfarlane Reid, 4th Bn., Arg. and Suth'd Highrs. and R.F.C.

For consistent gallantry and skill. In the course of seven days, 2nd Lts. Mann as pilot and Reid as observer, attacked no less than eight enemy aeroplanes. They drove down four, three of which were seriously damaged. The remainder were driven off, one escaping by getting into a cloud.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Henry Ruthven, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant and distinguished conduct when leading an assaulting party; he showed great coolness and disregard of danger in the subsequent withdrawal. He has constantly distinguished himself on all occasions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Bernard Bryant Salmon, 25th Bn. (attd. 18th Bn.), Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a heavy bombardment. Hearing that a mine shaft was blown in, he at once organised and led a rescue party, and, though heavy shells were falling round, and he was once himself partially buried, he was personally responsible for the rescue of a corporal and a private.

2nd Lt. Charles Reginald Cornwell Shields, 24th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry in attack till held up by wire. Later he withdrew his men with coolness and resource, and superintended the collection of wounded under heavy fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Hugh Alexander Small, 16th Bn. (attd. 20th Bn.), L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a heavy bombardment by the enemy. He displayed great coolness, helped to dress the wounded, and, after being himself covered with earth by the explosion of a shell, continued his work till all the wounded had been removed.

2nd Lt. Francis Valentine Smith, 6th Bn. (attd. 2nd Bn.), Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. Although wounded before the advance began, he continued to lead his men with great determination, forced his way through the enemy's wire, and was twice again wounded before reaching the enemy's parapet. He continued, however, to throw bombs till he had received nine more wounds, and was quite incapacitated.

Temp. 2nd Lt. James Stapleton, 73rd By., 5th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability as Observing Officer. He was for several hours exposed to heavy shell fire, but with great coolness and judgment corrected the fire of his battery throughout, and sent back constant reports on the situation.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Norman Austin Taylor, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant conduct and work during an enemy attack. He handed his Lewis guns with great pluck and skill, and though wounded remained himself to cover the retirement of his men.

2nd Lt. Robert Wellington, Spec. Res. (attd. "C" By., 177th Bde.), R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource as Observing Officer. Under heavy shell fire he directed the firing of two batteries, and sent back valuable reports on the situation. Later he changed his position in order the better to be able to observe.

57161 Coy. S./M. Richard Brenton, 10th Corps Hdqrs. Sig. Coy., R.E.

For consistent good work and ability. His zeal and energy have given an excellent example to all ranks.

300 Coy. S./M. Roland Hanwell Harris, 15th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a counter-attack he went out and bandaged wounded men in broad daylight. He moved about under constant machine gun and rifle fire.

4463 By. S./M. Alfred Horsfield, Lahore Divl. Amm. Colm., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a hostile shell ignited the ammunition in a pit, and the fire spread rapidly, Lieutenant Carbery, Serjeant-Major Horsfield, Gunner Deakins, and Actg. Bombr. Walker, at great personal risk, fought the flames for over an hour under heavy shell fire. Finally they succeeded in getting out the ammunition and extinguishing the fire. They set a fine example of pluck and determination.

2035 Coy. S./M. Sydney Jones, 6th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous courage and coolness, coupled with the very skilful handling of his platoon, during an attack. His inspiring example materially assisted the advance under very heavy fire.

54 Coy. S./M. John Oliver Charles Laing, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant conduct during a counter-attack. When our troops withdrew he carried back, at great personal risk, an N.C.O., who had been wounded.

3045 Coy. S./M. Frederick Francis Rowley, 24th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack. His cheerfulness was a fine example to his men, and he showed great initiative in organising bomb and ammunition supplies.

39 Coy. S./M. James Snell, 21st Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallant conduct during a counter-attack. He showed great coolness and steadiness in controlling his men when all officers had been wounded.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the Distinguished Conduct Medal to the undermentioned Warrant Officers, Non-commissioned Officers and men for acts of gallantry and devotion to duty in the field:—

16270 Pte. W. Agnew, 7th Bn., R. Sc. Fus.

For gallantry and devotion to duty in holding with Corpl. Mackay a barricade for twenty-four hours. Out of a party of twelve these two alone survived.

4/513 Sjt. G. D. Alexander, New Zealand Divl. Sig. Coy.

For conspicuous good work and devotion to duty throughout the campaign.

9/11054 L./Sjt. W. Barker, 9th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry during a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. Seeing that the enemy were issuing from their dug-outs he ran along their trench and shot the leading men as they came out. His promptness probably saved us several casualties.

R.15698 L./C. E. Bass, 2nd Bn., K. R. Rif. C.

For conspicuous gallantry. When in charge of a wiring party he rescued, with another Lance-Corporal, and carried into safety a wounded man under heavy fire by bright moonlight. He was himself wounded while performing this gallant deed.

S/12836 Pte. H. Benson, 2nd Bn., Rif. Bde.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a heavy bombardment by the enemy with trench mortars Privates Benson and Webster succeeded in digging out three buried men in broad daylight under heavy fire of all kinds.

12218 Pte. A. Broadbent, 10th Bn., Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a heavy bombardment by the enemy he kept his machine gun in action for several hours after he had been wounded. He showed fine pluck.

10612 Pte. C. E. Brooke, 18th Bn., Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when his machine gun was attacked by a party of enemy bombers. Several of the team were wounded, but Private Brooke and two others moved the gun to another position, and, while it was being mounted, he took a rifle, advanced towards the enemy bombers, rescued the ammunition and bomb supply of the gun and wounded and took prisoner one of the enemy bombers. Then under heavy fire he went for a further supply of ammunition and returned with it to his gun.

9536 Cpl. D. Cowan, 1st Bn., Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry in going back to rescue a man who was mortally wounded. It was bright moonlight, and he crossed over 200 yards under continuous heavy fire at close range.

A.11128 Pte. H. A. Craig, Princess Patricia's Canadian L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry. He picked up an enemy bomb which had fallen into the middle of a group of our bombers and threw it over the parapet, where it immediately exploded. He thereby saved many casualties.

G.322 Actg./Sjt. W. Croft, 2nd Bn., Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy trenches. After laying and exploding a small torpedo under the enemy's wire he deliberately went forward, sat down under heavy fire from rifles and grenades, and cut the remainder of the wire. His gallantry saved many casualties and led in great measure to the success of the raid.

L/13149 Cpl. T. J. Cronin, 2nd Bn., Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. Under heavy fire from rifles and grenades he deliberately cut a passage through the wire, enabling some of the raiders to pass through. His gallant act led in great measure to the success of the raid. Later he organised a counter bombing attack on the enemy who were throwing bombs from their parados.

9582 Pte. W. H. Crutchlow, 1st Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry when rescuing a wounded man from in front of the trenches. Private Crutchlow crawled out pushing a stretcher on which he placed the man, and, later, with Private Monahan, he rushed out again under heavy fire and brought him in.

10804 Pte. D. H. Dare, 7th Bn., Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and determination. When the enemy's bombers attacked the post where he was sentry, he was knocked down, but at once got up and repulsed them single-handed. Three dead enemy were subsequently found opposite his post.

S/13635 Coy. S./M. C. L. B. Davie, 7th Bn., Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry. When three mines were exploded, he directed parties working on the saps under very heavy fire of bombs and rifle grenades. He showed great coolness and bravery during the whole night. On several previous occasions he has displayed great steadiness and gallantry.

37659 Drvr. W. Deakins, 81st By., 5th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a hostile shell ignited the ammunition in a pit and the fire spread rapidly, Lieut. Carbery, Serjeant-Major Horsfield, Gunner Deakins, and Actg. Bombr. Walker, at great personal risk, fought the flames for over an hour under heavy shell fire. Finally they succeeded in getting out the ammunition and extinguishing the fire. They set a fine example of pluck and determination.

4295 Coy. S./M. G. Dewar, 2nd Bn., S. Gds.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a continuous and intense bombardment by the enemy, he was cut off and isolated with a few men. His part of the trench was almost obliterated, but when the enemy attacked he organised a bombing counter-attack and drove them off. It was mainly due to his coolness and bravery that the position was maintained.

14507 Coy. S./M. J. Doherty, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy exploded a camouflet he went with Serjeant Healy, under heavy shell and grenade fire, to the shaft of a mine which had been blown in. They entered the mine under difficult and dangerous conditions and rescued four wounded men. On another occasion, during an enemy attack, he did gallant work.

7601 Sjt. A. W. Draper, 1st Bn., Dorset R.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a heavy bombardment the enemy raided our trenches. Serjeant Draper kept up a continuous fire with his machine gun, and saved the situation on the right of his company.

151338 Spr. W. R. Evans, 253rd Tunnel'g Coy., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy had exploded a camouflet, Sappers Moore and Evans at once volunteered to enter the shaft, and, under very dangerous conditions, rescued, at great personal risk, no less than six men.

9907 Engr. Clk. Q.M.S. T. W. Flux, R.E.

For consistent good work and devotion to duty. His energy has been untiring.

58414 Bomr. W. K. Freeman, 73rd By., 5th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When some men had been wounded in a town by the enemy's fire, he took the medical haversack, although a telegraphist, and rendered every assistance under heavy fire. Later, when himself wounded, he went to two dressing stations to get stretchers. He had previously displayed great bravery.

6/3673 Pte. J. Gaffney, 6th Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a shelter was blown in by enemy shell fire, Privates Gaffney and Reilly worked for three-quarters of an hour exposed to heavy fire and dug out three men who had been buried.

12908 By S./M. G. Gosney, 5th Siege By., R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a heavy bombardment, when communication was broken, he carried an important message at his own request across 500 yards of open ground under conditions of great danger.

18197 Sjt. C. C. Griffin, 5th Siege By., R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a heavy bombardment, when the wires were continually being broken, he went out alone on his own initiative and remained under fire for an hour and a quarter mending wires as they were cut, under conditions of great danger.

1081 Pte. F. Hall, 2nd Bn., Lan. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry on many occasions, when he conveyed ammunition at great risk to the firing line. Pte. Hall also cut the enemy's wires under circumstances of great danger.

2349 Cpl. W. C. Hands, 18th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry during a bombing attack by the enemy. Though wounded at the commencement of the attack he remained commanding his bombing post, and by his fine throwing contributed much to our success. He also exposed himself in order to observe the enemy.

13384 Lce.-Cpl. S. Hargreaves, 7th Bn., K.O. Sco. Bord.

For conspicuous gallantry. He led a bombing squad with great dash against the enemy, and for three hours, until he was wounded, gave great confidence to the attack. Even after being wounded he continued to direct his squad and to throw bombs till he was exhausted.

14705 Sjt. R. Healy, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy exploded a camouflet he went with Coy. Sjt.-Maj. Doherty under heavy shell and grenade fire to the shaft of a mine which had been blown in. They entered the mine under difficult and dangerous conditions, and rescued four wounded men. On other occasions he has behaved with great gallantry.

23122 Pte. A. Holland, 11th Bn., R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a heavy bombardment by the enemy he found himself with three others in an isolated portion of the wrecked trench, but with his small party he beat off a large raiding party of the enemy. After this he took two men and cleared the trenches of any remaining enemy patrols.

1601 Pte. S. R. Holman, 18th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry during a bombing attack by the enemy. He remained the whole time exposed to the enemy's fire, and by his vigorous throwing succeeded in repulsing the enemy from his bombing post.

4/4738 Pte. P. Howley, 4th Bn. (attd. 1st Bn.), Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry. He stood up within 80 yards of the enemy in order to spot targets for his section. Later, when a retirement was ordered, he remained behind with a wounded man until he was himself hit.

2796 Pte. H. L. Hyneman, 6th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry when with bombers. An enemy bomb fell among the party. Without hesitation Pte. Hyneman picked up the bomb and threw it out of the trench. The bomb exploded and blew off his left hand.

G./6927 Pte. E. Johnson, 2nd Bn., Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a raid on the enemy's trenches. He sat in the wire and deliberately cut a passage under heavy fire from rifles and grenades. His plucky act led in great measure to the success of the raid.

23958 Sjt. A. T. Kealey, 140th Hy. By., R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When his battery was being heavily shelled, and an ammunition recess had been blown in, he organised a party on his own initiative and under heavy fire to dig out what ammunition he could, thus enabling his gun to remain in action. On another occasion he did similar gallant work under heavy fire.

5475 Lce.-Cpl. F. Kitching, 12th Bn., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and tenacity on two occasions, notably when, after being wounded at the commencement of a bombardment, he kept his gun in action, and later, though twice blown up and once thrown on to the parapets, he on each occasion dug out his gun and kept up his fire till the bombardment ceased.

15729 Sjt. M. Lennon, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. When his company had suffered severely from an intense bombardment, he rallied his men after all his officers had become casualties and repulsed the enemy's attack.

25099 Actg. Cpl. T. Lowery, 15th Bn., Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry. He was entrusted with wiring on four nights close to the enemy. Each night his little party was hampered by snipers. On the fourth night he sent his party back, and advancing alone bombed the snipers' post, thus enabling himself to work another half hour, when he again went, with a corporal, and, after again bombing the enemy, completed his work.

6/2847 Pte. D. Lynch, 6th Bn., Conn. Rang. (attd. 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.).

For conspicuous gallantry. During an enemy attack, when all the rest of his machine-gun detachment had become casualties, he continued to work his gun alone. His fine action at a critical moment helped largely to repulse the enemy.

15438 Cpl. J. Mackay, 6th Bn., R. Sc. Fus.

For gallantry and devotion to duty in holding, with Pte. Agnew, a barricade for twenty-four hours. These two men alone survived out of a party of twelve.

5531 Pte. J. W. McCallum, 1st Aust. Divl. Sig. Coy.

For conspicuous gallantry when laying wires under fire. He was seriously wounded.

21979 Sjt. P. J. McCauley, 8th Bn., R. Ir. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. Although badly wounded he held a blocking post at a critical moment till support arrived after every man of his party had become a casualty.

6970 Bdsman. P. McGarry, 1st Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry when exposing himself regardless of danger, within 100 yards of the enemy, in order to spot targets for the men to aim at. On a previous occasion he attended to wounded men under fire.

S/8301 Pte. A. McKay, 2nd Bn., Arg. and Suth'd Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry. He went out in broad daylight, after the enemy had exploded a mine, and, when unable to drag in a wounded man, stood boldly up regardless of heavy fire and carried him into safety.

9269 Pte. J. McKenzie, 1st Bn., Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry in going back to rescue a man who was mortally wounded. It was bright moonlight, and he crossed over 200 yards under continuous heavy fire at close range.

432037 Coy. S./M. C. Miles, 49th Canadian Infy. Bn.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a heavy bombardment by the enemy he moved from place to place over the open under heavy fire, directing and encouraging his men, evacuating the wounded and rescuing buried men. He has frequently been brought to notice for bravery.

43815 Actg. Sjt. William John Gordon Milner, "A" By., 70th Bde., R.F.A.

For most skilful and gallant leading of four wagons of ammunition urgently needed by his battery in a forward position. He unloaded and withdrew his teams untouched, though under heavy shell fire.

31809 Pte. W. R. Mitchell, 1st Bn., L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a raid on an enemy sap the raiding party were discovered and bombed, some of them being wounded. Pte. Mitchell at once jumped into the sap, bombing the enemy and holding them back until the wounded had been carried away into safety.

8514 Pte. W. Monahan, 1st Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry when rescuing a wounded man from in front of the trenches. Private Crutchlow crawled out pushing a stretcher, on which he placed the man, and later, with Private Monahan, he rushed out again under heavy fire, and brought him in.

151308 Sapper W. Moore, 253rd Tunnel'g Coy., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry. When the enemy had exploded a camouflet, Sappers Moore and Evans at once volunteered to enter the shaft, and, under very dangerous conditions, rescued at great personal risk no less than six men.

18763 Sjt. J. O'Keefe, 8th Bn., R. Dub. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry. During an intense bombardment by the enemy he brought up supports at a critical moment, and commanded a portion of them till the end of the action.

2356 L./Sjt. F. Peake, 18th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry during a heavy bombing attack by the enemy. He was at the point most heavily assailed, and by his courage inspired those around him. By his fine throwing he continually outranged the enemy. Though wounded early in the attack he stuck to his post till the enemy was repulsed.

16105 Sjt. Instructor (A./Coy. S./M.) B. Pease, R.E.

For conspicuous and consistent gallantry and ability. He has shown the greatest coolness under hazardous conditions and has always set a fine example.

3/6298 Pte. P. Reilly, 6th Bn., Conn. Rang.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a shelter was blown in by enemy shell fire Privates Gaffney and Reilly worked for three-quarters of an hour exposed to heavy fire and dug out three men who had been buried.

2069 Pte. C. H. Rushforth, 8th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry and good service. He was one of the company holding the new line after a counter attack, and, in the absence of any N.C.O., took charge at a critical moment and exhibited great coolness and powers of leadership.

3960 Pte. W. Saunt, late 3rd Bn., C. Gds.

For conspicuous gallantry. After an enemy counter-attack he got out of the fire trench and ran to a brick stack in order to observe if the enemy were reinforcing. Though wounded on the top of the brick stack he managed to get across the open and brought in his report.

2025 Pte. E. G. Shonk, 22nd Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For gallantry and devotion to duty in conveying a message over ground heavily swept by artillery.

990 Engr. Clk. Q.M.S. (Actg. Suptg. Clk.) S. G. Smith, R.E.

For consistent good work and devotion to duty.

16116 Cpl. S. J. Smith, 8th Bn., R. Berks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a successful raid on the enemy's trenches. He was in charge of a delaying party and held up the enemy till all his bombs were exhausted. Finally, after inflicting considerable loss among the enemy's bombers, he skilfully withdrew through the enemy's wire.

22257 L./C. T. Smith, 20th Bn., L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry. Though wounded by shrapnel during a bombardment he carried a wounded man on his back into safety, returned and assisted to carry away two others. He refused to have his own wound dressed till all the other wounded men had been cleared. He set a fine example throughout the bombardment.

1101 Cpl. G. W. Steele, 7th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous courage and coolness when with a bombing section. His example was valuable to all. On another occasion he rescued a wounded man under heavy fire.

3297 L./C. C. W. Suckling, 24th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in carrying messages over a shell-swept area. He also went out by night in company with an N.C.O. and rescued three wounded.

2527 Pte. E. A. Sullivan, 22nd Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty when with bombers. His encouragement and example produced great results.

1874 Sjt. W. A. Telling, 1st Bn., Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. Though wounded he led three separate attacks with great dash against the enemy's trenches, returning each time to collect more men.

71018 Actg. Bombr. T. R. Walker, 81st By., 5th Bde., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry. When a hostile shell ignited the ammunition in a pit and the fire spread rapidly, Lieut. Carbery, Sjt.-Maj. Horsfield, Gunner Deakins, and Actg. Bombr. Walker at great personal risk fought the flames for over an hour under heavy shell fire. Finally they succeeded in getting out the ammunition and extinguishing the fire. They set a fine example of pluck and determination.

L/14899 L./Sjt. W. F. Ward, 2nd Bn., Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry. After a successful raid on the enemy's trenches he went out in broad daylight, and, within 150 yards of the enemy, who fired continuously with machine-guns and grenades, stopped the gap that had been made in the wire with two lengths of chevaux de frise.

3289 Pte. J. F. Webster, 2nd Bn., Rif. Bde.

For conspicuous gallantry. During a heavy bombardment by the enemy with trench mortars, Privates Benson and Webster succeeded in digging out three buried men in broad daylight under heavy fire of all kinds.

82966 Spr. J. W. Wilson, 174th Tunnel'g Coy., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in rescuing three comrades who had been overcome by the explosions of a mine.

4182 Pte. A. Younge, 1st Bn., I. Gds.

For conspicuous gallantry. When on patrol with an officer a strong enemy patrol was discovered about to rush a post. Private Younge at once opened fire, and then, placing himself 15 yards in front of the post, commenced bombing. By his pluck and determination he dispersed the enemy. He has frequently been noted for his courage.

The undermentioned have been awarded a Clasp to their Distinguished Conduct Medal for subsequent acts of conspicuous gallantry:—

11711 Sjt. N. Hinett, 1st Bn., Notts. & Derby R.

For consistent and conspicuous gallantry during several days of heavy bombardment by the enemy. He worked incessantly, with utter disregard to personal danger, when the enemy were only 30 yards distant. He tended the wounded and rebuilt gaps in the parapet in full view of the enemy.

(The Distinguished Conduct Medal was awarded in Gazette dated 22nd January 1916, page 957.)

2169 Actg. Sjt. C. A. Mattock, 8th Bn., Lond. R., T.F.

For conspicuous gallantry. He commanded a patrol sent on a very risky mission, carried out his orders with great intelligence, and returned with a most valuable report.

(The Distinguished Conduct Medal was awarded in Gazette dated 15th March 1916, page 2891.)

The undermentioned Officers and Warrant Officers have been awarded the Distinguished Service Order and Military Cross respectively, and the specific acts for which the rewards have been granted will be announced as soon as possible in the London Gazette:—
