

Whitehall, October 11. 1695.

This Morning came in the Dutch Mail of Tuesday last;
and brought the following Advices.

Published by Authority.

Madrid, Sept. 29. 1695.

THE Fleet under the Command of Admiral Ruffel passed by Alicant on the 18th Instant, taking their Course towards Cadiz. The Essex Man of War, with the two French Prizes, the Content and Trident, arrived at Málaga the 15th. We hear from Catalonia, That the Spaniards are going to re-fortifie Ostalrick, which was lately quitted by the French.

Turin, Octob. 5. The Spanish Forces are come to Rivoli, where they will continue some days, and then return to the Milanese, the Campaign being ended in these parts.

Vienna, Octob. 5. An account is come by Letters from the Elector of Saxony and General Caprara, dated the 26th past in their Camp near Gena, on the Frontiers of Transilvania; That in pursuance of what had been resolved in a Council of War, his Electoral Highness and the said General marched with 16 Imperial Regiments of Horse and Dragoons, and 20 Field-Pieces, towards Lippa; and the Foot, with the Saxon and Brandenburg Horse and the rest of the Artillery, marched back by Segudin towards the Danube. The 21st his Electoral Highness came to Nadbach, the 22d to Sembach; and the 24th encamped within a League of Lippa; where they understood from several hands the Defeat of General Veterani (whereof they had before heard several Rumours) by the whole Turkish Army, which was said to consist of 18000 Janizaries and 40000 Spahis. Whereupon, a Council of War being held, it was resolved that they should turn their March towards Deva, in order to cover Transilvania. Accordingly, the 25th they encamped within two Leagues of Gena, and the 26th came to that place; An Officer arrived there from General Truches, with an account, That the Turkish Army had on the 21st attacked General Veterani near Lugos; and though the later had with him but 6500 Men, yet they maintained the fight from Morning till Evening; when General Veterani being himself desperately wounded, and afterwards taken with the Baggage, General Truches retired with the remaining Forces to Carinsfeld; and being strengthened with the Garison drawn from thence, he posted himself near the Iron Gate, where he had together, when this Express came away, above 5000 Men. The Elector of Saxony and General Caprara intended to continue their March with all the diligence they could towards Transilvania, and proposed to be the 30th at Deva; and 'twas said the Elector would call together the States of that Principality, to take such Resolutions as should be necessary for their Security in this Juncture of Affairs.

The Turks had not attempted any thing since their action with Veterani; and some intercepted Letters, say they lost then 12000 of their best Men. The Imperial Infantry, with the Saxon and Brandenburg Horse, returned the 28th to Peter Waradin, and design to give the Enemy a Diverfion on that side. 'Tis said that General Veterani is alive in the Enemy's hands.

Cologne, Octob. 4. There is nothing new from the Upper Rhine, the two Armies continuing in their former Camps, but preparing for their Winter-Quarters. The Letters from Vienna of the 5th say, That the Elector of Saxony continued his March towards Transilvania, to protect that Country against the Turks, who have done nothing since their action with General Veterani; and General Truches had secured the famous Pass of the Iron Gate.

Paris, Octob. 14. They write from Perpignan that the Regiments of Horse and Dragoons are arrived from Xaintoigne and Poitou, as is thought to joyne the Army commanded by the Duke of Vendosme, which is still about Palamos, employed in the Demolishing of that place. The Marechal de Villeroi has cantoned the Troops of his Army along the Lys, where they will stay till the 25th, and then go into Winter-Quarters. The said Marechal is expected at Paris towards the end of this Month. It is yet uncertain whether they will set out the Fleet at Toulon.

Brussels, Octob. 16. The Forces of the Allies that are to Winter in Flanders, are not yet all gone into their Quarters, but the greatest part of them continue cantoned between Ghent, Bruges, Ostend, and Newport. Most of the French Troops are already gone into Winter-Quarters, and the Troops of the Household returned to France; the rest are cantoned near Harlebeck and Courtray. The Marechal de Boufflers was expected on Wednesday last at Lille.

Hague, Octob. 18. N. S. The Wind being now fair, the King will Embark to Morrow at the Oranie Polder. The Elector of Brandenburg took his leave of His Majesty this morning, and is gone to Rotterdam in his way home. All is quiet in Flanders.

Whitehall, October 11. Yesterday in the Evening we received an Account, by an Express, That His Majesty Embarked last Wednesday Morning in the Maese, and Landed Yesterday about Ten in the Morning at Margate, being attended by 3 English and 7 Dutch Men of War, under the Command of Sir Cloudesly Shovel. His Majesty intended to lay last Night at Canterbury, to Dine this Day at Northfleet near Gravesend, and to be this Evening at Kensington.
