The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury hereby give notice, that at a Trial of the Pyx, begun at Goldsmiths' Hall, in the City of London, on the 18th March, and concluded on the 14th May, 1919, the following Verdicts of the Pyx Jury were delivered to the King's Remembrancer, viz.:—

TRIAL OF THE PYX OF THE LONDON
MINT.

VERDICT.

We, whose names are hereunder written, having been sworn on the eighteenth day of March, One thousand nine hundred and nineteen, before the King's Remembrancer, at Goldsmiths' Hall, in the City of London, have made the assays and trials of His Majesty's Silver coins in the Pyx of the Royal Mint in London, which, according to accounts produced by the Officers of the Mint, were coined in the said Mint, from the First day of January, One thousand nine hundred and eighteen, to the Thirty-first day of December, One thousand nine hundred and eighteen, both days inclusive. We ascertained that the number of coins, in each packet produced to us, corresponded with the number which the Officers of the Mint represented it to contain, and we took one coin from each of such packets of Silver coins, making altogether One hundred and twenty-nine half-crowns, one hundred and twenty-two florins, ninety-one shillings, sixty-six sixpences, one fourpence, forty-six threepences, one twopence, and one penny, and weighed each of the said Silver coins separately, and ascertained that they were within the remedy prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Coinage Act, 1870, as amended by the said Coinage Act, 1891. We found that the amount of variation from the standard weight specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act as so amended was plus sixteen thousandths of an ounce (+ '016 oz.) on the whole of such coins. We then melted the said Silver coins so taken out and weighed into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the standard Silver Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act amended as aforesaid, and we found that the amount of variation from the standard of fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act as so amended was minus twenty-five hundred-thousandths (or - '00025), and that, therefore, the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Silver coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight. We then took from such residue four half-crowns, three florins, two shillings, one sixpence, and one threepence, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such half-crowns weighed respectively,—the first 219.191 grains, the second 217.808 grains, the third 218.714 grains; and the fourth 217.974 grains; that such florins weighed respectively,—the first 174.403 grains, the second 174.607 grains, and the third 174.705 grains; that such shillings weighed respectively,—the first 87.116 grains and the second 87.324 grains; that such sixpence weighed 43.454 grains, and that such threepence weighed 21.742 grains. We then assayed the said four half-crowns, the said three florins, the said two shillings, the said sixpence, and the said threepence separately, and we found
