Mines and Quarries Act, 1954

Draft Coal and Other Mines (Electricity) (Amendment) Regulations, 1967

The Minister of Power, in accordance with the provisions of section 142 of, and Part I of the Second Schedule to, the Mines and Quarries Act, 1954, hereby gives notice that he proposes to make General Regulations under sections 141 and 143 of the Act, entitled the Coal and Other Mines (Electricity) (Amendment) Regulations, 1967.

The regulations will apply to mines of coal, stratified ironstone, shale and fireclay.

Under the existing regulations the supply of electricity must be cut off from all apparatus except telephone and signalling apparatus and electric safety-lamps if the amount of inflammable gas in the general body of air exceeds 1½ per cent. Consequently methanometers and other electrical instruments for detecting and recording methane may not be used on occasions when their indications would be most valuable. The proposed amending regulations will enable them to continue to be so used by adding to the excepted categories of apparatus, apparatus for detecting or measuring inflammable gas. They will also provide that no such apparatus shall be installed or used below ground in any part of a mine unless it is of a type approved by the Minister.

Copies of the draft regulations may be purchased (price 5d.) from Her Majesty's Stationery Office at any of the addresses shown on the last page of this Gazette.

Any objection to the draft regulations by, or on behalf of, any person affected thereby must be sent to the Minister of Power, Thames House South, Millbank, London S.W.1, before 11th July 1967.

Each such objection must be made in writing and must state:
