principal Deputies of the Nobility being fent for, Count Horn told them, his Majesty would be very much displeased, if they persisted in their Design of conferring the Regency upon the Princeis.
Upon which they alledged feveral Reasons to shew the Necessity of having their Demand complied with; but her Royal Highness, who was present, having declar'd that she would never consent to it, they agreed not to press her any more upon that Subject. It was thought the Assembly of the States would have separated upon this Declaration of the Princess, but at the Request of the Senate they have resolved to continue their Meeting for some time longer; and the Deputies, who were gone home to their own Countries, are order'd to return hither immediately.
