

judicial to the preservation of the peace or maintenance of order it is necessary so to do, the Civil Authority may make an Order against that person directing that he be detained either in any of His Majesty's Prisons or elsewhere as may be specified in the Order and upon such conditions as the Civil Authority may direct.

No person shall be detained as aforesaid for a longer period than 7 days without a charge having been preferred against him.

Where a charge is preferred against any such person as aforesaid he shall be given at least 24 hours' notice in writing of the nature of such charge.

Any person detained under this Regulation shall, if so ordered by the Civil Authority, be photographed and impressions shall be taken of his fingerprints and thumbprints. If such person refuses to allow his photograph or such impressions to be taken or obstructs the taking thereof he shall be guilty of an offence against these Regulations.

Any person detained under this Regulation may, without prejudice to any powers of removal, be removed on the order of the Civil Authority to any place where his presence is required in the interests of justice and may be detained in such place during such time as his presence is so required there and whilst being so removed or detained he shall be deemed to be detained under the provisions of these Regulations.

If any person assists or connives at the escape of any person who is detained under this Regulation or knowingly harbours or assists any person who has so escaped he shall be guilty of an offence against these Regulations."

2. At the end of Regulation 35 of the principal Regulations, there shall be inserted the following Regulation:—

"36. The Civil Authority may order anything seized under or by virtue of these Regulations to be disposed of in such manner as he may think fit."
