CONSUMER PROTECTION (NORTHERN IRELAND) ORDER 1987

The Department of Economic Development has made Regulations under the Consumer Protection (Northern Ireland) Order 1987 entitled the Price Indications (Bureaux de Change) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 1992 (SR 1992 No. 272).

These Regulations apply to any individual or other body which carries on the business of a bureau de change in the course of which foreign currency is sold, or bought from consumers (as defined in Article 13(b) of the Consumer Protection (Northern Ireland) Order 1987), in exchange for sterling.

The Regulations regulate the manner in which a person who holds himself out as operating a bureau de change at any premises gives at those premises an indication to consumers of the rate at which business may be done (an "exchange rate indication") (regulation 3).

Exchange rate indications must state the terms on which transactions will be conducted and provide other information including any commission or other charges. However, where a consumer requests information about the terms on which a particular transaction will be conducted, only information relevant to that transaction need be given. When an exchange rate indication is given and there is to be an interval
