And to provide that the municipal boundaries and the police boundaries as so extended shall or may be subject to the rules of construction laid down in the Representation of the People (Scotland) Act, 1832.

To separate, detach, and disjoin the added districts from the County of Dumbarton and from any parish or from any local board for the purposes of the Bill, and other purposes, and from the jurisdiction of the County Council or any committee thereof of the District Road Board or committee, the Justices of the Peace, the Commissioners of Supply, the Road Trustees, and the local authorities of the several parishes in which the added districts are situate, and all other local authorities within the added districts, and to abolish or alter or transfer to, and vest in the Town Council as the municipal corporation, and as trustees or commissioners or local authority acting in the execution of the several public and local and personal Acts, by which any powers, jurisdiction, functions, or authorities are conferred on them, all or some of the rights, powers, jurisdictions, authorities and functions at present possessed, enjoyed, or exercisable by those authorities or bodies, and others within the added districts, and to provide for the abolition or alteration of offices now held under those authorities and bodies respectively so far as regards the added districts, and to exempt the added districts from the payment of county, parish, highway, sanitary, district, local, and other rates, cess, and assessments now leviabie or which might be levied by any of the authorities or bodies aforesaid within the added districts, and to transfer to the Town Council all or some part or parts of the property or revenues of every description at present belonging to the said authorities or bodies, or any of them.

To extend to the added districts and the inhabitants thereof the same municipal franchises and all such rights, privileges, and immunities, duties, and obligations as are enjoyed and possessed by or incumbent on the inhabitants of the existing

Burgh, and to make further or other provisions with reference thereto, and to extend and make coextensive with the extended burgh the whole powers, jurisdiction, authorities, and functions whatsoever of the Town Council presently vested in and exercised by them or which shall be transferred to or conferred on them by the Bill, and also the jurisdiction and powers of the Dean of Guild and Dean of Guild Court and also powers and authorities of all persons holding or hereafter to hold offices under the Town Council or the Dean of Guild; to confer, vary, or extinguish within and over the extended burgh such other rights powers, jurisdiction, authorities, and functions as are usually possessed by magistrates and councils, by commissioners of police and by Deans of Guild and Dean of Guild Courts of burghs in Scotland, and as may be provided by the Bill.

To enable the Town Council to make, levy, and collect within the added districts the same tolls, rates, duties, and assessments as they now levy and collect within the existing Burgh, or such other or increased tolls, rates, duties, and assessments as the Bill may prescribe, and to confirm, vary, or extinguish exemptions from the payment of tolls, rates, duties, and assessments, or to make such other provisions with respect to the said several matters as the Bill may define or Parliament may sanction.

To provide for the dissolution of any local or other authority within the added districts. To provide for the payment and liquidation or transfer or apportionment of the whole or part of moneys borrowed and obligations incurred by such authorities; and to make such arrangements in regard to the matters aforesaid as may be expedient or as the Bill may define, and to make and carry into effect arrangements, if thought proper, with any local authority in respect of any loss any such authority may sustain or any property of such authority that may be taken or transferred by or under the Bill, and to make compensation if thought proper, in respect of offices abolished or diminished in value by or under the Bill or in consequence of the separation of the added districts from the County of Dumbarton.

To provide for the formation of the added districts or any part thereof into a new ward or wards, or to rearrange and alter the several existing wards of the burgh or to annex such districts or any part thereof to any one or more of the existing wards of the Burgh, and to provide for the fixing and arrangement of the limits of such new, altered, or extended wards, and the number of Councillors to be elected for such new, altered, extended, or existing ward of the Burgh, and to authorise all such proceedings to be taken for those purposes as may be necessary or expedient or as the Bill may define.

To provide for the regulation of the common good of the Burgh, and that the same and all rents, profits, and interests arising therefrom shall continue to be held by the Town Council for the behoof and benefit of the extended Burgh.

To extend to or make applicable within the added districts and the inhabitants thereof, with such variations, alterations, exceptions, and modifications as the Bill may prescribe, the Dumbarton Water Works, Reclamation, and Municipal Extension Act, 1857; the Dumbarton Water Works and Municipality Act, 1869; the General Police and Improvement (Scotland) Supplemental Act, 1872; the Dumbarton Corporation Gas Works, Pier, &c.,
