FOREIGN OFFICE, October 5, 1906.

A DESPATCH, dated September 5th, has been received from His Majesty's Ambassador at Tokio on the subject of the real property of foreigners within the jurisdiction of the Governor-General of Kwantung.

His Excellency reports that the Japanese Government have decided that applications for the establishment of rights in connection with such property may be made to the Japanese Foreign Office through the medium of the official representative in Japan of the applicant's country, without a visit by the owner or his agent being necessary.

All applications must be accompanied by documentary proof, in which a list of the property, its nature, quantity, and value, and the date of its acquisition, are given. The application should be in Japanese, but when unavoidably necessary it may be made out in English or French.
