On the 2nd of June 1914, about 1.50 p.m., a miner named Neil McKillop was engaged in taking down head coal when the coal fell, pinning down his foot. Kennedy at once went to his assistance and continued to make every effort to release him, notwithstanding two further falls, which occurred at short intervals, completely smothering McKillop. Others having come to his assistance, they managed after three hours' work to release the imprisoned man, who was unfortunately found to be dead.

Kennedy in his endeavour, at first unaided, to save McKillop's life ran grave risk of being himself smothered.

Also to Joseph Cook, of the Blackhouse Colliery, Durham, in the following circumstances:—

On the morning of the 31st of January 1914, Cook was underground in the Blackhouse Colliery, near the bottom of an old shaft filled with rubbish. Water had accumulated in it, and the weight of the debris so increased burst out the pack walls at the shaft bottom. Seeing the danger, he rushed inbye to warn two shifters named Wilson and Coates, who were working there; they had no way of egress except past the bottom of this shaft. Before the three could get out, the debris filled up the road from floor to roof for a distance of thirty-

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the appointment of the undermentioned Officers to be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order, in recognition of their services with the Expeditionary Force, specified below :

Captain The Honourable Herbrand Charles Alexander, 5th (Royal Irish) Lancers.

Has done exceedingly good work in action, and in reconnaissance, since the commencement of the war.

Major Alexander George Arbuthnot, 24th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

For very valuable work on several occasions between the 19th October and 23rd November in observing the fire of our batteries and furnishing valuable reports, though under very heavy shell fire from the enemy's guns.

Lieutenant John Dopping Boyd, 1st Battalion, The Queen's (Royal West Surrey Regiment).

For gallant leading of his men on the 31st October, and for consistently good work during the campaign.

Captain Cyril Darcy Vivien Cary-Barnard, 2nd Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's (Wiltshire Regiment).

On the 16th November showed conspicuous gallantry and promptitude, on his own initiative, in dislodging, with the aid of about 30 men, a company of Germans who had occupied a trench in our line.

Second Lieutenant Francis Graham, 51st Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

When the Officers of a party of the South Lancashire Regiment were disabled, he took command, and succeeded in holding an important part of our trenches until relief arrived and drove out the enemy who had effected a footing, the situation being thus saved by his prompt action.

Lieutenant The Honourable Julian Henry Francis Grenfell, 1st (Royal) Dragoons.

On the 17th November he succeeded in reaching a point behind the enemy's trenches and making an excellent reconnaissance, furnishing early information of a pending attack by the enemy.

The Reverend Percy Wyndham Guinness, B.A., Chaplain to the Forces, 3rd Cavalry Brigade.

On the 5th November, at Kruistraat, when Major Dixon, 16th Lancers, was mortally wounded, he went on his own initiative into the trenches, under a heavy fire, and brought him to the ambulance, and on the afternoon of the same day, being the only individual with a horse in the shelled area, took a message, under heavy fire, from the 4th Hussars to the headquarters of the 3rd Cavalry Brigade.

Second Lieutenant Richard Lambert, Intelligence Corps.

For conspicuously gallant conduct in obtaining very valuable information, under most difficult and dangerous conditions.

Lieutenant (Temporary Captain) Donald Swain Lewis, Royal Engineers and Royal Flying Corps.

For valuable information repeatedly furnished to the Royal Artillery in regard to the position of the enemy's guns. His direction of our artillery fire, whilst flying, has constantly led to direct hits on the enemy's batteries and the silencing of their guns.

Lieutenant Noel Yvon Loftus Welman, 1st Battalion, The Duke of Cambridge's Own (Middlesex Regiment).

For gallant conduct at La Boutillerie on 30th October, when the heaviest attack was launched by the enemy on the platoon which he commanded, eleven of the enemy were killed on the parapet and two others in front, Lieutenant Welman accounting for three of the number himself.

Captain Gerald Charles Balfour Buckland, 2nd Battalion, 8th Gurkha Rifles.

Near Festubert, on 23rd November, displayed great gallantry in leading a counter attack which led to decisive results. He then, although wounded, returned and brought up reinforcements.

Captain Robert Foster Dill, 129th Duke of Connaught's Own Baluchis.

At Hollebeke, on 31st October, when wounded by a shell, continued to fight his machine gun section until one gun was put out of action and the whole detachment of the other gun was killed.

Captain Lionel Douglas Vernon, 37th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

Near Neuve Chapelle, on 1st November, although severely wounded, laid a telephone wire to the forward trenches and continued to observe throughout the day, and by this act enabled the Battery Commander to range accurately on the enemy's trenches.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE.

THE NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE (OUTSTANDING RESERVE VALUES) AMENDMENT ORDER, 1914, DATED DECEMBER 31, 1914, MADE BY THE NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE JOINT COMMITTEE UNDER SECTION 78 OF THE NATIONAL INSURANCE ACT, 1911 (1 & 2 GEO. 5, c. 55).

Whereas by the National Health Insurance (Outstanding Reserve Values) Order, 1914, made by the National Health Insurance Joint Committee (in this Order called "the Joint Committee") under Section 78 of the National Insurance Act, 1911 (in this Order called "the Act"), it is provided that for the reasons more particularly set forth in the recitals to the said Order there shall, for the purpose of ascertaining under Section 43 of the Act the outstanding reserve values of certain classes of insured persons, be deemed to have been written off the amount of the reserve values under sub-section (4) of Section 55 of the Act a sum ascertained by multiplying, in the case of a man, one-half of one per cent., or, in the case of a woman, one per cent., of the appropriate reserve value by the number of quarters terminating after the date of the entry into insurance of the insured person and before certain other dates therein specified:

And whereas it appears to the Joint Committee necessary and expedient for financial reasons that the amount to be deemed to have been written off the amount of the reserve values under sub-section (4) of Section 55 of the Act shall be calculated in the case of women in the same manner as in the case of men, and that the said Order should be amended accordingly:

And whereas by sub-section (1) of Section 40 of the National Insurance Act, 1913 (in this Order called the "amending Act"), any Order or Special Order made under the principal Act or that Act may be revoked, varied, or amended by an Order or Special Order made in like manner as the original Order :

Now, therefore, the Joint Committee, in pursuance of the power conferred on them by Section 78 of the Act and by sub-section (1) of Section 40 of the amending Act and of all other powers enabling them in that behalf, with the consent of the Treasury, hereby order as follows :—

1. This Order may be cited as the National Health Insurance (Outstanding Reserve Values) Amendment Order, 1914, and shall be read as one with the National Health Insurance (Outstanding Reserve Values) Order, 1914.

2. Paragraph (1) of Article 1 of the National Health Insurance (Outstanding Reserve Values) Order, 1914, shall be read as though for the words "a sum ascertained by multiplying, in the case of a man, one-half of one per cent., or in the case of a woman, one per cent., of the appropriate reserve value" there were substituted the words "a sum ascertained by multiplying one-half of one per cent. of the appropriate reserve value."

Given under the Seal of Office of the National Health Insurance Joint Committee this 31st day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

R. W. HARRIS,

L. S.

Clerk to the National Health Insurance Joint Committee.

We consent to this Order.
