Regimental No.	Rank.	Name.	Corps.	Action for which commended.
9071	Sergeant-Major	Evans, R. ...	1st Battalion, Royal Welsh Fusiliers	For conspicuous gallantry and ability on the 7th November 1914, at Zillebeke, in continuing to lead his men in a charge on the enemy's position when all the Officers and Senior Non-Commissioned Officers had been killed or wounded. The charge was successful, and, with the aid of another regiment, three Maxim guns were captured.
1020	Serjeant ...	Everest, E. E. ...	15th Hussars ...	For conspicuous gallantry and ability on the 15th May 1915, in rallying his own troop and taking it forward to re-establish the line which had been lost. The situation was critical, and men of another unit were retiring past him in disorder. He performed this gallant work in spite of an alleged order to retire being repeated to him.
8840	Private ...	Farmer, C. ...	1st Battalion, South Staffordshire Regiment	For conspicuous gallantry on the 16th to 18th May 1915, at Festubert, when in charge of a machine-gun team in a most exposed position. Most of the team were killed or wounded, but he remained working his gun with extra men, although on one occasion he was blown into the trench from his position on the bridge by a shell.
1684	Private ...	Farnworth, A. ...	1/8th Battalion, Lancashire Fusiliers (T.F.)	On the 6th June 1915, during operations near Krithia (Dardanelles), for gallant conduct on four occasions in bringing in wounded under heavy fire.
4/188a	Lance-Corporal	Fear, F. J. H. ...	1st Field Company, New Zealand Engineers	For conspicuous gallantry on the night of 9th and 10th June 1915, in the neighbourhood of Gaba Tepe (Dardanelles), in volunteering to demolish a Turkish Blockhouse which was within twelve yards of the enemy's trench, and which could only be approached over ground swept by rifle and machine-gun fire. He exhibited great skill in approaching and demolishing the blockhouse and was exposed to fire for an hour.
7766	Private ...	Fitch, W. R. ...	Royal Army Medical Corps (attached 1st Battalion, Hampshire Regiment)	For conspicuous gallantry and initiative on the 26th April 1915, at Ypres. Private Fitch was marching with a column of transports which was under very heavy shell fire. The driver of a cart was shot, and the horses started to bolt, when he with great courage stopped the horses and brought the cart along, thereby averting a block and congestion of traffic, which under heavy shell fire would undoubtedly have led to great loss of life and stores.
8736	Serjeant-Major	Fleming, R. ...	2nd Battalion, Gordon Highlanders	For conspicuous gallantry, ability, and resource from the 26th October to the 7th November 1914, at Ypres, during which period he continually supplied his battalion with ammunition under heavy shell fire. On many occasions he assisted to collect stragglers of various units, keeping them well in hand at critical times. He gave a splendid example of courage and cheerfulness under the most trying conditions.
1755	Private ...	Fletcher, J. ...	1/4th Battalion, Loyal North Lancashire Regiment (T.F.)	For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 15th June 1915, at Rue D'Ouvert, in attending on the wounded under very heavy fire, continuing at that work after he had been twice wounded, and even after his battalion had been withdrawn.
