

over exposed ground under shell fire, and came into action with the most successful results.

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) James Forbes-Robertson, M.C., Bord. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his battalion during an enemy attack. He collected all the men he could find, and, taking up a position on the outskirts of the village, brought the hostile advance to an end by his fire. He undoubtedly saved a very critical situation by his promptness, bravery and example.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Gilbert Ware M. Green, M.C., R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has set a magnificent example by his gallant conduct in attacking the enemy's aeroplanes when in superior numbers. He brought down three enemy machines within twenty-four hours.

*2nd Lt. Bassett Fardell Hornor, Norf. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in action. He was the first of his regiment to land on the left bank of the river, and displayed great courage and resource in promptly putting out of action single-handed an enemy machine gun which was about to open fire. Later, he gallantly led his company forward in the face of heavy fire and was responsible for the capture of three more machine guns.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) James Lochhead Jack, Sco. Rif., attd. W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He conducted the attack of his battalion with marked skill and foresight and attained all his objectives in the minimum time and with very small loss. He has set a most inspiring example of gallantry to all.

Temp. Lt.-Col. Edward Marlborough Ley, K.R.R.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his battalion. He handled his battalion with the greatest dash and judgment throughout and was largely responsible for the success of the operations. He showed great qualities as a leader.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) John Sherbrooke Coafe Oates, M.C., Notts. & Derby. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the greatest skill and gallantry while commanding the battalion at a critical period. During the day he repeatedly crossed the open a distance of 500 yards under continual sniping in order to superintend operations, and by his courage and determination succeeded in obtaining complete ascendancy over the enemy.

Maj. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Dulas Bentley Parry, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He inspired all ranks with the greatest confidence, and thus materially assisted the battalion under his command to carry through a most difficult operation. He displayed great skill and untiring energy in training the battalion beforehand.

*Capt. Charles Robert Senhouse Pitman, M.C., Ind. Army.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of a raiding party. In spite of the most difficult conditions he succeeded in landing and reorganising his party. He inflicted much damage on the enemy and brought back a trench mortar. It was owing to his coolness and good leading that the object of the raid was achieved and the whole party withdrawn with but few casualties.

Maj. (actg. Lt.-Col.) George Kendall Priaulx, K.R.R.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his battalion. With the utmost confidence and determination he fought his battalion through the village, overcoming all obstacles and gaining his objectives. He set a magnificent example throughout.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) Walter Marlborough Pryor, Hert. R., attd. R. War. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service in collecting parties of men who were lost and putting them on to the work of consolidating the position gained. It was largely due to his efforts that a strong position was created, thereby facilitating the dispersing of enemy counter-attacks. This task was accomplished at great personal risk from enemy machine gun fire.

Lt. (actg. Capt.) George William Richmond, R.E. Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and determination while forcing a passage of the river. His coolness and resource were mainly responsible for the successful launching of the pontoons which effected the crossing, and his attitude was an inspiring example to all under his command. He has previously done fine work.

Capt. Theodore Emmanuel Rodocanachi, M.C., Ox. & Bucks. L.I. (Lt., Hamp. R. Spec. Res.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded he led his company with great gallantry and pressed on to his objective in the face of heavy fire. Although again wounded during the advance he continued to lead on into the hostile position, where he immediately organised the consolidation and continued to command his company until finally incapacitated by a third wound.

*2nd Lt. Robert Tor Russell, I.A.R.O.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in charging the enemy's trench, which was strongly held. He then led a bombing attack and cleared 200 yards of the trench. Later, he maintained his position for four hours, when reinforcements arrived.

*Capt. Claude Innes Shepherd, Ind. Army.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an enemy counter-attack. He rallied men who were without leaders, and
