Of TUESDAY, the 17th of JULY, 1917.

Published by Authority.

This Gazette has now been registered at the General Post Office for transmission by Inland Post as a newspaper. As regards copies sent by post within the United Kingdom, unless dispatched in proper course from a Metropolitan Government Office, or from the Publishing Office of the Gazette, the postage should in future be prepaid at the rate of a halfpenny for each copy. Copies sent abroad should be prepaid at the rate of a halfpenny for every 2 ounces, except in the case of copies sent to Canada, which will be transmissible by the Canadian Magazine Post at the rate of a penny for every pound or fraction of a pound.

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1917.

War Office,
July 18th, 1917.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award a second Bar to the Distinguished Service Order to :—

Maj. Charles Wesley Weldon McLean, D.S.O., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two occasions in the same day he went forward at great personal risk into heavy barrage, machine gun and rifle fire to reconnoitre and report upon the position of our infantry. The following day he led a party of officers and men under heavy shell fire to extinguish a fire which was threatening to cause grave casualties in his battery, he himself taking the chief part in saving the guns and ammunition. His fearlessness and disregard for personal safety was at all times most marked.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4th November, 1915; first Bar gazetted in this Gazette.)

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award a Bar to the Distinguished Service Order to :—

Temp. Actg. Comdr. Arthur Melland Asquith, D.S.O., R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and determination in the attack and clearance of a village, when he personally captured ten of the enemy, and later organised its defence, and, by his contempt of danger under heavy fire, contributed greatly to the success of the operations and to the steadiness of all ranks with him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 17th April, 1917.)

Maj. and Bt. Lt.-Col. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Oswald Cuthbert Borrett, D.S.O., R. Lanc. R., attd. Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great initiative throughout the operations in handling his battalion. His personal bravery and energy under heavy fire were very great factors in the success of the advance. His grasp of the situation enabled this brigade to advance its line in the face of heavy opposition.

(D.S.O. gazetted 23rd June, 1915.)

Capt. Charles Edgar Bryant, D.S.O., Lrs. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has displayed the utmost gallantry and skill in leading photographic reconnaissances. In spite of overwhelming opposition by hostile aircraft, he has never failed to carry out his difficult task.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18th February, 1915.)

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) William Robert Aufrere Dawson, D.S.O., R.W. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the situation was somewhat critical he displayed conspicuous bravery in organising the defence. Although his troops were exhausted from prolonged exposure, he completely reorganised the line under heavy shell fire. His total disregard for personal danger was most marked.

(D.S.O. gazetted 15th April, 1916.)

Maj. Ernest Cyril Gepp, D.S.O., D. of Corn. L.I., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He several times visited the assaulting battalions and brought back valuable information. He had on each occasion to pass through heavy barrage and machine-gun fire. His splendid example of coolness and courage were of the greatest value.

(D.S.O. gazetted 14th January, 1916.)

Maj. and Bt. Lt.-Col. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Christopher Joseph Griffin, D.S.O., Lan. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his battalion with great ability and determination. When the left brigade was out of touch he was mainly responsible for communication being re-established at a critical moment when conditions were most trying. The successful issue was largely due to his splendid example.

(D.S.O. gazetted 18th February, 1915.)

Maj. Sackville William Sackville Hamilton, D.S.O., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in siting first and support line trenches during an attack under heavy fire. His initiative enabled a situation which was confused owing to darkness to be cleared up, and after making a personal reconnaissance he returned with his information through heavy barrage and machine-gun fire. He subsequently made a further successful report on the whole situation under the same conditions, and displayed consummate ability and fearlessness.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) William George Holmes, D.S.O., R. Welsh Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the final stages of the fighting he was the soul of both defence and offence. He was placed in command of the remnants of all battalions in the vicinity, and it was mainly due to his gallantry and dash that the enemy counter-attack was defeated.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Sydney Armitage Innes, D.S.O., R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Throughout the advance he commanded his battalion with the greatest skill and courage. His personal example and presence in the firing line, when the battalion had suffered heavy casualties, was of the utmost value and assistance to the men.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Capt. (temp. Maj.) Arnold Nugent Strode Jackson, D.S.O., L.N. Lanc. R., attd. Rif. Bde.

For conspicuous gallantry during lengthy operations, when he assumed command of the battalion and, although wounded on two separate occasions, was able to carry out most valuable work. By his skill and courage he offered a splendid example to all ranks with him.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Maj. Charles Wesley Weldon McLean, D.S.O., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has commanded his battery with great skill and courage. He has observed fire and commanded the battery from an observation post under heavy fire with great coolness and accuracy.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4th November, 1915.)

Capt. (temp. Maj.) James Alexander Charles Pennycuick, D.S.O., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during lengthy operations, when he was largely responsible for consolidating positions gained, constructing strong points and trenches in most exposed positions, and, notwithstanding heavy casualties, by his courage and skill he enabled the work to be successfully performed and the positions rendered secure.

(D.S.O. gazetted 9th December, 1914.)

Temp. Maj. George Paton Pollitt, D.S.O., R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He made constant and dangerous personal reconnaissances in connection with gas attacks. His close supervision and fearlessness in the front line contributed very largely to successful operations, and the men under his command owed their spirit and determination in no small degree to his magnificent example.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Cecil Porch Porch, D.S.O., R. of O., E. Surr. R., attd. North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his battalion with the greatest gallantry and determination. He personally superintended the cutting of the enemy wire under continuous machine-gun and rifle fire. He set a very fine example of coolness and courage throughout.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26th March, 1917.)

Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Cecil Edward Rice, D.S.O., Yeo.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading his battalion over ground that was under very heavy fire and in full view of the enemy. His splendid personal example inspired all ranks with confidence. Though severely wounded, he insisted on making his way to the dressing station unaided.

(D.S.O. gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Maj. William John Shannon, D.S.O., Lrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was commanding a dismounted party working on a cavalry track. By his skill in disposing his men and his personal energy under heavy fire, he succeeded in completing the track before the arrival of the Division, thereby performing most valuable service.

(D.S.O. gazetted 3rd June, 1916.)

Capt. and Bt. Maj. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Gerald Brice Ferguson Smyth, D.S.O., R.E., attd. K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although seriously wounded, he remained at the telephone in an ill-protected trench for many hours during a critical time to report the course of events to Brigade Headquarters. He realised that there was no officer of experience to replace him, and his sense of duty may cost him his remaining arm, the other having been amputated as the result of a previous wound. He was five times wounded.

(D.S.O. gazetted 11th November, 1914.)

Temp. Lt. Comdr. Walter Sterndale-Bennett, D.S.O., R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On discovering the wire uncut except in a few places he went forward himself and led his battalion through the partially cut gaps. He finally gained his objective, and held on against very strong resistance. The success of the operation was almost entirely due to his personal example.

(D.S.O. gazetted 26th January, 1917.)

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Francis Martin Tomkinson, D.S.O., Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in the handling of his battalion. He commanded in three attacks during the month, and on each occasion, after gaining his objective, was counter-attacked by considerable enemy forces. His determination and complete control of his unit enabled him in every instance to defeat the enemy.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

Maj. Eric Clive Pegus Plant, D.S.O., Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. When acting as Brigade Major he remained on duty continuously for over forty-eight hours, and his gallant work in reorganising broken infantry, and later in rallying stragglers under heavy artillery fire, was invaluable.

(D.S.O. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the appointments of the undermentioned Officers to be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the Field:—

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Clifton Edward Rawdon Grant Alban, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When assembly trenches were ordered to be dug he reconnoitred the position, placed the tape, and superintended the digging of the trench. On a later date he carried out a daring reconnaisance of the enemy wire, and rendered most valuable reports.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Maj.) Richard John Andrews, M.C., Devon. R. (attd. Welsh R.).

For conspicuous gallantry and resource when in command of a brigade. Early in the operations he was wounded in the foot by a shell, but, with great courage and skill, he took effective measures to carry out an original plan, and subsequently directed a successful withdrawal. He personally supervised the retirement of the last supporting platoon in order to ensure, so far as possible, the safety of the wounded. He has been previously noted for gallantry and skill when in command of a battalion.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Francis Arthur William Armitage, W. York. R., attd. Hamps. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his battalion with the utmost skill and determination. Subjected to heavy shell fire throughout, he remained in close touch with the enemy, gaining his objective the first day. He successfully beat off an enemy counter-attack, and held on until relieved.

Temp. Capt. James Harding Barry, M.C., R.A.M.C., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in attending to the wounded under exceptionally trying conditions. Under very heavy shell fire he dug out five men who were buried, and amputated two men's legs on the spot. He showed utter disregard of any personal risk, and his example was splendid.

Lt.-Col. Percy William Beresford, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in command of his battalion during heavy enemy counter-attacks. The skill with which he handled his reserves was of the utmost assistance to the division on his right, and his determination enabled us to hold on to an almost impossible position. He repulsed three counter-attacks, and lost heavily in doing so.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) John Victor Bridges, Worc. R., attd. North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His display of untiring energy and devotion to duty was magnificent. He led his battalion with great skill and courage, and it was largely due to his initiative that the battalion gained its objectives.

Temp. Sub-Lt. James Hardy Brown, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty throughout the campaign. He has navigated his ship at high speed, night and day, in all weathers, with marked zeal and determination. He has at all times set a magnificent example of courage and initiative.

(The award of the D.S.O. was announced in the Gazette of 11th May, 1917, without details of service. The second Christian name was incorrectly published therein.)

2nd Lt. Thomas Francis Burke, Sco. Rif., and M.G. Co.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of machine-guns during an attack upon enemy trenches. With great dash he personally captured an enemy machine-gun and its team, and brought fire to bear on the retreating enemy with deadly effect. His promptness and courage were admirable.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) the Hon. Arthur George Child-Villiers, Yeo.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in making his way alone, through heavy shell fire, to a post that had been cut off by hostile fire. He at once reorganised the position, and remained in command, successfully conducting the defence, and by his courage and energy setting a splendid example to his men.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) John Stanhope Collings-Wells, Bedf. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in command of a battalion which had gained its objective, holding it in spite of frequent and heavy counter-attacks. Later, in command of a composite battalion, it was owing to his powers of leadership and bravery that the battalion was formed up in darkness, on strange ground and under heavy shell fire, and subsequently achieved its object.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Geoffry Lee Compton-Smith, R. Welsh Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his battalion with the greatest skill and determination. Immediately the objective was gained he moved forward to supervise consolidation and cover the advance of another brigade. Although wounded, he remained in the position, and his personal example was of the utmost value to all.

Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) William Rowland Harris Dann, Bedf. R., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when commanding a battalion. His personality and bravery enabled his battalion to carry out a most difficult relief at night, under very heavy shell fire. He was heavily counter-attacked on three successive occasions, but repulsed the enemy in spite of his own very severe losses.

Capt. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Neville Bowes Elliott-Cooper, M.C., R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a critical moment, when his battalion had suffered heavily and was temporarily disorganised, he showed the greatest promptness and bravery in rallying the men and in clearing up and restoring the situation. He personally led forward a patrol of twenty men, under very heavy fire, and returned to his brigadier with twelve prisoners and very valuable information.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Ronald Townshend Fellowes, M.C., Rif. Bde.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his battalion with great initiative and skill, capturing an important position and holding it against repeated counter-attacks. The fine spirit shown by the battalion under most trying conditions was largely due to his personal example.

Temp. Capt. James Henry Fletcher, M.C., R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost bravery and coolness when commanding the bearers. He worked continuously under artillery and machine-gun fire. It was largely due to his gallant conduct that so many wounded were safely evacuated.

Maj. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Francis Bere Follett, M.C., R. War. R., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his battalion with the utmost gallantry and skill. By his energy and grasp of the situation the brigade was enabled to reach its objective, having been previously held up by uncut wire and machine-guns.

2nd Lt. Charles René Gold, Yeo., attd. Dur. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest gallantry and initiative in attacking an enemy strong point which had been a severe hindrance. He, with only a handful of men, rushed it from a flank, inflicting many casualties and capturing twenty prisoners and two machine-guns.

Maj. (actg Lt.-Col.) Alfred Garnett Horsfall, W. Rid. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of his battalion he displayed the greatest courage and determination. It was largely due to his personal example that the operations of his battalion were so successfully carried out.

Maj. Henry Oliphant Hutchison, M.C., R.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. A battery was subjected to heavy shell fire, which set fire to the position and an ammunition dump close by. He at once dashed to where the fire was burning and, assisted by a gunner, succeeded in extinguishing the flames under continuous shell fire. By his prompt action the ammunition dump and gun were saved.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) Ernest Charles Scott Jervis, R. of O. and M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service by his promptness in bringing machine guns into action. He invariably carried out personal reconnaissances of the situation.

Temp. Capt. (actg. Maj.) Charles Matthew Kemp, Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when in command of his battalion. After an enemy attack, when some disorganisation had set in, he rendered invaluable aid in collecting stragglers and leading them forward, under heavy fire, in a counter attack. His coolness and bravery enabled him to successfully reorganise the troops at his disposal.

Lt. (temp. Maj.) Leonard Wright Learmount, M.C., Gen. List and R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has shown great skill and determination when on photographic reconnaissances. Despite continuous fire from the ground and attack from hostile aircraft, he has repeatedly effected a safe landing after completing his task.

Temp. Capt. Hugh Maccallum, R.I.M.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty throughout the campaign. He has navigated his ship at high speed, night and day, in all weathers, with marked zeal and determination. He has at all times set a magnificent example of courage and initiative.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Vivian Henry Bruce Majendie, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his battalion with the greatest skill and determination. His battalion was continuously in touch with the enemy and under heavy shell and machine-gun fire, and its grit and determination reflect the spirit of its commanding officer.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Maj.) Leonard Challinor Miller, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in maintaining his newly-formed battery in action, under heavy and accurate fire, until very serious casualties had been suffered and all the guns had been put out of action.

Temp. Surgeon William James McCracken, M.C., R.N.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource during operations, when, after attending wounded in captured dug-outs, he pushed forward into a village which was being heavily shelled, compelled a captured enemy M.O. to show the best enemy R.A.P., and then kept him, with 12 enemy Red Cross men, busy all day bringing in and dressing over 150 of our wounded, who otherwise could not have been treated, and then sending them down. He also searched the front line under a heavy fire for wounded.

*Lt. William Sinclair McKenzie, Sea. Highrs., Spec. Res. (empld. I.A.R.O.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a critical period during a strong enemy attack, when the left flank of his battalion was exposed, he, on his own initiative, collected a few men and rushed to the point of attack, encouraging those who had been temporarily dislodged to resume the offensive. It was due to his personal influence and courage that a critical situation was averted.

*(D.S.O. gazetted without deed, 26th March, 1917.)

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Horace Hunter Neeves, M.C., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in handling his company during an attack of the enemy position. His skilful leading and determined courage enabled him, in spite of enemy flanking and reverse fire, to get his men to within a few yards of the enemy's rear position. Owing to many casualties, however, he was compelled to withdraw. On his return he gave his battalion commander a full and lucid report on the situation—the only accurate one received. It was subsequently found that he had been wounded in the lungs early in the attack and had remained with his men under fire 23 hours after being wounded.

Capt. (actg. Lt.-Col.) Charles Fortescue Osmond, H.A.C.

For conspicuous gallantry in command of a battalion during operations. Owing to his coolness and courage under fire, and to his power of leadership, the enemy were held in check, and finally pushed back a considerable distance.

Temp. Lt. (temp. Capt.) Charles Frederick Algernon Portal, M.C., Spec. Res., R.E., and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For many months he has done magnificent work in co-operation with the artillery. During an attack he succeeded in silencing nine active hostile batteries, ranging our artillery. His splendid example has been of the greatest value.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) John Potts, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of a company. He himself rushed a machine gun, killed the team, and turned the gun on to the enemy. He held on in a very exposed position for some time, absolutely regardless of danger, and when his flanks were turned, and it became necessary to fight his way back, he personally covered the retirement of his men, leaving none behind.

Capt. and Bt. Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Denys Edward Prideaux-Brune, Rif. Bde.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Owing to the weather and exhausted condition of the men it was not possible to carry out a prearranged plan. He took steps at once to meet the altered situation and repel a possible counter attack. He finally returned through a heavy barrage and personally explained the situation to the Brigade Commander.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Ralph Shaw, R. War. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in action. When all the senior officers of the brigade had become casualties he assumed charge of the whole line, and showed great courage and judgment under very heavy fire in organising the consolidation.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Francis Robert Archibald Shiel, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great gallantry and initiative in organising a party which succeeded in extinguishing a serious fire in the battery position. At the same time an ammunition dump close by caught fire. He alone rushed over and assisted by the detachment succeeded in saving a large quantity of ammunition, thus preventing a disaster.

Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Frederick Gordon Spring, Linc. R., attd. Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has consistently shown a magnificent example under heavy fire. On occasions when his companies were counter-attacked he frequently went to the front and reorganised his men. His personal courage and coolness has been of the greatest value to all.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Joseph Lofthouse Stanley, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and determination during an enemy counter-attack. By his fearlessness in leading a bombing attack under very heavy fire he completely frustrated the enemy's attack upon our trenches, cut off their line of retreat, and captured eighteen prisoners with the aid of two of his bombers.

Temp. Lt. John Holden Stearn, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men with great skill and determination, personally putting an enemy machine-gun out of action. Later he commanded his company, and, although wounded himself, carried on for sixteen hours in an exposed position.

Maj. (temp. Lt.-Col.) Stuart Campbell Taylor (ret. pay, R. of O.), York. L.I., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry when in command of the right of an infantry attack. The attacking troops having been compelled to fall back, he collected the remnants of his battalion and about 100 men of other units, and, regardless of a heavy fire, he organised these in defence of a position, and by his fine example of courage and skill he successfully resisted three counter-attacks, and thus saved a critical situation.

Temp. Maj. (actg. Lt.-Col.) John Gibb Thom, M.C., Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded one of the leading battalions, and throughout the operations he was with the leading companies, and personally led two attacks. He displayed a total disregard of personal safety, and by his fine example inspired his men to repeated efforts under most trying conditions.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) James Alexander Turner, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst in charge of two companies under heavy machine-gun fire. With great skill and judgment he organised an assault on the machine-gun emplacement, and carried it through with such vigour that he captured the guns and teams. This happened at a very critical moment, and his coolness and skill were the direct means of averting very serious casualties. He was severely wounded two days later, after repeated acts of gallantry.

Temp. Major Walter Adolph Vignoles, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during a hostile counter-attack upon the battalion, of which he was in temporary command. His prompt initiative and coolness at a most critical moment enabled him to rally his men, and to bring a heavy fire upon the advancing enemy, and subsequently to organise and carry out a counter-attack with complete success.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

Maj. Lionel Wilfred Bond, A.A.M.C.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. When in charge of advanced collecting and forwarding posts, his total disregard of danger under a terrific hail of gas shells, H.E., and shrapnel fire, gained him the confidence of all ranks, and greatly assisted the evacuation of the wounded. Later, although wounded and partly gassed, he refused to leave his post, and his bravery and devotion saved a very critical situation.

Capt. (temp. Maj.) Arnold Brown, M.C., Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in organising and leading bombing attacks. His sound judgment and determination were mainly instrumental in bringing about the success of these attacks, whilst his utter disregard of danger throughout set a splendid example to officers and men.

Maj. Herbert Percival Brownell, A.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst attending to the wounded under heavy fire. His coolness in organising matters amidst the greatest confusion enabled the wounded to be expeditiously treated, and he personally treated some hundreds of cases under heavy shell fire.

Maj. Horatio Victor Patrick Conrick, A.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in attending to the wounded. He proceeded to the scene of an explosion under very heavy shell fire, and personally directed the removal of the wounded. His fearlessness and disregard for his personal safety has been marked on all occasions.

Lt.-Col. Charles Aloysius Denehy, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability. When in command of a defence which was ceaselessly bombarded he was able, by his courage and fine example, to maintain the spirit of his men in spite of heavy losses, and later he organised and successfully carried through an attack, capturing 187 prisoners, and securing many machine-guns and trench-mortars.

Col. (temp. Brig.-Gen.) Harold Edward Elliott, C.M.G.

For conspicuous gallantry when in command of the advanced guards of the division during an advance. The successes during a long period of almost continuous fighting, the capture of several villages, which were held against frequent and violent counter-attacks, and the slightness of our losses compared to those of the enemy were largely due to his able leadership, energy and courage.

Maj. Charles Stuart Lecky, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource during an attack when in charge of the front line held by his battalion. Despite the heavy barrage and artillery bombardment, he handled the situation with great skill and courage, and his fine example greatly contributed to the steadiness of all ranks. Although wounded, he refused to leave the line until the attack had been repulsed and the position secured.

Maj. John Ray, Aust. Fld. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great skill and initiative when the enemy obtained a footing to the rear of his battery. He pulled his guns out of their pits, reversed them, and opened fire on the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties, thus rendering valuable assistance at a critical moment.

Maj. William Merriman Trew, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in temporary command of his battalion. He organised the defence of a captured position in such a way that all counter-attacks were repulsed and heavy losses inflicted on the enemy. Though severely wounded, he remained on duty until the situation had cleared up.

Capt. William Thomas Yates, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a successful attack on an enemy strong point, and personally conducted the consolidation of the captured post. Later, under intense shell fire, he displayed the utmost gallantry and coolness in encouraging his men, and showing a fine disregard for personal safety.

CANADIAN FORCE.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Joseph Pierre Urgel Archambault, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great ability in organising his company for the attack. During the advance he led his company with great courage and initiative until wounded. His personal courage was a splendid example to his men.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Arthur Osborne Blois, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded, he took command of the battalion, and superintended and continued to advance until relieved by another officer late at night. He showed the greatest gallantry throughout.

Temp. Maj. Thomas Roy Coleman, M.C., Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry when commanding a company in an attack. When nearing the final objective a portion of the line was held up by enemy machine-guns, whereupon he pushed forward and bombed the gun emplacement, continuing to clear the enemy trenches until wounded in the arm.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Herbert Douglas Fearman, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As Adjutant, he worked with untiring zeal and energy in organising the details for the attack. After the operation, and during the consolidation of the position, he carried out a most difficult reconnaissance of the whole line, obtaining most valuable information.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Charles Franklin Leonard, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company 2,500 yards across the open and dug in in daylight. He was most energetic in sending out patrols, and although his flank was exposed for several hours, took all possible steps to protect it. Throughout the advance he set a splendid example to his men.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Kenneth Howard McCrimmon, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy artillery fire he superintended the laying out and the pumping of the trenches, and made a final reconnaissance in daylight of the position. Throughout he showed the greatest energy in organising supplies, which proved of the utmost value to the men under severe weather conditions.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Alexander McMillan, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and determination. By his personal example and disregard for his own safety, he gained his objective in the face of heavy shell and machine-gun fire. His bearing under heavy fire was most gallant.

Maj. Alan Picton Osler Meredith, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As Brigade Major he personally, at great risk, reconnoitred ground along our front, thereby rendering invaluable assistance to his brigade commander in the attack which followed. He displayed the utmost fearlessness in personally superintending the work of patrols when it became necessary to push them forward.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Arthur Lennox Stanley Mills, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He found a gap between his own and the next company which was strongly held by the enemy. At great personal risk he collected five men and, demoralising the enemy, he assisted to capture 200 prisoners. Throughout he was most courageous and daring in handling the entire line of the battalion front.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) David Philpot, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The careful and painstaking manner in which he organised every detail contributed very largely to the remarkable success achieved by his battalion in an attack upon an enemy position. His reports were frequent and accurate, and proved invaluable as a means of appreciating the general situation.

Maj. Harold James Riley, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company to the attack and consolidated his position under heavy shell fire. When the position was threatened by intense fire he advanced in front and encouraged his men and held on for forty hours, suffering heavy casualties.

Lieut.-Col. Joseph Bartlett Rogers, M.C., Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his battalion in the attack with great tactical skill, and showed great promptness and sound judgment in dealing with the difficult situation which had arisen in consequence of the troops on his flank having failed to reach their objective.

Lt.-Col. Alexander Ross, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His preparation for the attack was perfected to a very high standard. During the advance he handled his battalion with the greatest skill and determination. The success of the operation was largely due to his fine leadership and example.

Maj. Fawcett Gowler Taylor, Can. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry. During an attack upon the enemy position he was the first man to reach the final objective, and his coolness and initiative in consolidating the position and reorganising his unit were of the greatest assistance to his commanding officer.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Arthur John Showell Taunton, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company in the face of very heavy fire at short range. By his coolness and courage the position was taken and three guns captured. The work of consolidation was carried out and the position maintained.

Maj. Lorn Paulet Owen Tudor, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The magnificent success with which his battalion carried out its objective and consolidated the captured position was mainly due to his personal example of coolness and disregard of safety, and to the thoroughness with which all details had been prepared by him.

Maj. Hugh Macintyre Urguhart, M.C., Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed remarkable tactical skill in preparing instructions for an attack, and when the attack had proved successful he displayed great coolness and bravery in selecting positions to be held and indicating action to be taken, the whole time under very heavy fire. He rendered a full and complete report of the situation on his return to brigade headquarters.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award a Bar to the Military Cross to the undermentioned Officers:—

2nd Lieut. John Barry Anderson, M.C., Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. All his senior officers having become casualties, he was indefatigable in reorganising the battalion, and displayed great bravery in going forward, under heavy fire, to ascertain the situation in front.

(Military Cross gazetted 25th November, 1916.)

Temp. 2nd Lieut. William George Barker, M.C., Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has done continuous good work in co-operation with the artillery, and has carried out successful reconnaissances under most difficult and dangerous conditions.

(Military Cross gazetted 10th January, 1917.)

Temp. Sub. Lieut. (actg. Lieut.-Comdr.) Daniel Marcus William Beak, M.C., R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry during operations, when he continually dashed forward, under heavy fire, to reorganize the men, and led them on with great bravery through the enemy barrage and machine-gun fire.

(Military Cross gazetted 26th January, 1917.)

2nd Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Charles Dudley Bowdery, M.C., Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with fearless energy and skill, displaying the utmost coolness under heavy machine-gun nre. The objective won, he superintended the consolidation and throughout set a splendid example to his men.

(Military Cross gazetted 20th December, 1916.)

Capt. William Stuart Chirnside, M.C., Bedf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in action, when, despite heavy casualties, he reached his objective. Later, after being nearly buried by a shell, he held on to his position against heavy odds, only retiring after the evacuation of the wounded and the establishment of a line in the rear.

(Military Cross gazetted 7th December, 1915.)

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Alexander Frank Philip Christison, M.C., Cam. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost courage and determination in pushing back the enemy and clearing the north side of the village. By his tireless energy he succeeded in getting the position consolidated under heavy fire.

(Military Cross gazetted 14th January, 1916.)

Capt. William Albert Colhoun, M.C., R. Ir. Fus., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage. Although wounded earlier in the day, he continued to command the company for some time, when he brought back most valuable information before having his wound attended.

(Military Cross gazetted 14th January, 1916.)

Capt. Alexander Comrie Cowan, M.C., R. Scots., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a raiding party on the enemy lines with complete success. By his good leading and initiative much valuable information was obtained.

(M.C. gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Capt. Francis Richard Cubbon, M.C., Ind. A., attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as an observer on an offensive patrol, he displayed great skill and courage against superior numbers of the enemy. Throughout the action he backed up his pilot with a remarkable display of marksmanship.

(Military Cross gazetted in this Gazette.)

Temp. Capt. Charles Bromley Davies, M.C., R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of the bearer division when evacuation was most difficult. He showed great gallantry and resource in pushing forward under heavy fire and rescuing several wounded men.

(Military Cross gazetted 25th August, 1916.)

2nd Lt. Gustave Stanley Eldred Denyer, M.C., Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage by crawling over exposed ground for some distance, and attending and bringing in a wounded man. He was exposed to heavy shell fire and sniping the whole time.

(Military Cross gazetted 14th November, 1916.)

Temp. Capt. James Churchill Dunn, M.C., M.D., R.A.M.C., attd. R.W. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in attending to the wounded. He crawled close up to the enemy's wire, accompanied by another officer, and brought in a wounded man on a waterproof sheet.

(M.C. gazetted 25th August, 1916.)

Capt. Thomas Julian Edward Gaisford-St. Lawrence, M.C., Sea. Highrs., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though seriously wounded in both hands he continued to lead his company during an attack with the greatest determination until forced to leave owing to weakness from loss of blood.

(M.C. gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Temp. 2nd Lt. Wesley Milum Gibson, M.C., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he showed great courage and coolness in rallying and encouraging his men under heavy fire. His personal example and disregard for danger largely contributed to the reaching of the final objective.

(M.C. gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Temp. Sub-Lieut. Walter Kilroy Harris, M.C., R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry during operations. Owing to the enemy's wire being very thick the situation during an advance became critical, and heavy casualties were occurring in his company. With great bravery he kept cheering his men on, and when through the wire he organised bombing parties to protect the flanks. His conduct throughout was magnificent.

(M.C. gazetted 26th January, 1917.)

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) James Macdonald Henderson, M.C., Gord Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great skill and initiative in leading his men, and later in taking command of another company. He reorganised both companies and consolidated the position under heavy shell fire.

(M.C. gazetted 25th November, 1916.)

Temp. Capt. Thomas Emmanuel Heron, M.C., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage. Later, although wounded, he continued to lead his men and consolidate the captured position. He set a splendid example throughout.

(M.C. gazetted 26th March, 1917.)

Temp Lt. (actg. Capt.) Charles Hubert Anthony Huxtable, M.C., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rescuing the wounded pilot of one of our aeroplanes. The enemy had ranged upon the fallen aeroplane, and without any hesitation this officer plunged into the most intense and accurate shell fire, and with the aid of a signaller brought the pilot into safety.

(M.C. gazetted 30th March, 1916.)

Temp. Capt. Harold Garnett Janion, M.C., R.A.M.C., attd. R.H.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was assisting to remove the pilot from a wrecked aeroplane when the spot came under heavy fire from a hostile battery. Several of the bearers were wounded, but by his courage and example this officer collected fresh bearers and conveyed the wounded men to safety. This task was carried out under continuous shell fire.

(M.C. gazetted 23rd June, 1915.)

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Robert Wilkie Jones, M.C., L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great skill and initiative when the advance was held up by enemy wire. He re-formed the men and organised the consolidation in front of the enemy front line under heavy fire. When his battalion was relieved he remained behind to superintend the bringing in of the wounded.

(M.C. gazetted 11th May, 1917.)

Capt. Maurice Baylis King, M.C., M.B., R.A.M.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rescuing wounded under very heavy shell fire. His fearlessness set a splendid example to the stretcher-bearers, who were then much shaken by the heavy shelling.

(M.C. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

BAR TO MILITARY CROSS.

Capt. (actg. Maj.) Power MacMurrough Maxwell, M.C., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service while commanding an O.P. in the front line. Despite an intense barrage he succeeded in advancing his post to the enemy wire of front line. His observations from here were of the utmost value to the artillery.

(M.C. gazetted 3rd June, 1916.)

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) John Cyril Murley, M.C., Lond. R., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry when in charge of a machine-gun defence. In addition to frequently visiting his gun position when the enemy's barrage was at its heaviest, he took every opportunity of encouraging the infantry until he was finally wounded.

(M.C. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Horace Hunter Neeves, D.S.O., M.C., North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of one of the leading companies in the advance. Not only did he maintain his own company during a long and difficult advance, but also took command of another company involved in the front-line attack. He set a splendid example throughout.

(M.C. gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Capt. Francis James Hurly Pring, M.C., Ches. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource. He displayed great initiative and coolness under heavy fire, and it was entirely owing to his prompt action in turning the enemy's flank that the position was successfully captured.

(Military Cross gazetted 26th June, 1916.)

Temp. Capt. Ernest Harold Robinson, M.C., Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Finding the Battalion was held up, he immediately organised bombing parties to clear up the objective. When this was found impossible he was of the utmost assistance in re-organising not only his own company but the remainder of the Battalion. His splendid example largely contributed to the success of the operations.

(Military Cross gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Temp. Capt. James Lennox Stewart, M.C., M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He behaved with the utmost gallantry in removing the wounded under shell fire. He continued to work in the open exposed to severe shell and machine gun fire until every wounded man had been brought in.

(Military Cross gazetted 16th May, 1916.)

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Stivens Stower, M.C., R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost gallantry and determination when acting as F.O.O. In spite of heavy shell and machine gun fire, he went out time after time to repair his lines. The maintaining of the communications at a very critical time proved of the utmost value.

(Military Cross gazetted 25th August, 1916.)

Capt. The Hon. James Gray Stuart, M.C., R. Scots, Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two separate occasions he went out reconnoitring through most intense fire for a distance of 500 yards to enable his C.O. to keep in touch with the situation at a very critical moment. On a further occasion he went forward under the same conditions and collected and reorganised his battalion with complete success.

(Military Cross gazetted 1st January, 1917.)

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Frederick James Harry Thayre, M.C., R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of an offensive patrol he showed fine leadership and skill, being personally responsible for bringing down three hostile machines. His coolness and courage enabled his small command to inflict severe losses on numerically superior forces.

(Military Cross gazetted in this Gazette.)

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

Lt. Eden Lloyd Davies, M.C., Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack. In the face of desperate counter-attacks he continually returned to the assault, and showed the greatest courage and judgment in dealing with a critical situation.

(Military Cross gazetted 26th April, 1917.)

Capt. Alfred George Morris, M.C., Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack, when, although wounded, by his courage and devotion he so inspired his men that, notwithstanding the obliteration of the trenches and heavy casualties, they held on to the position until the attack was repulsed.

(Military Cross gazetted 26th September, 1916.)

Capt. George Seabourne Robinson, M.C., Aust. A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and determination in attending wounded under heavy fire. On one occasion he personally led a party out in front of our line for the purpose of searching and attending the wounded not yet collected.

(Military Cross gazetted 4th June, 1917.)

Lt. (actg. Capt.) Stanley Hornsby Kent, M.C., Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a successful raiding party on the enemy lines. He captured two prisoners and obtained much valuable information. Undoubtedly many lives were saved as a result of the raid. He was untiring in his efforts, and a splendid example to his men.

(Military Cross gazetted 15th March, 1916.)

Capt. John Hamptowne L'Amy, M.C., Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of the leading company, and was responsible for keeping direction through a heavy barrage, which he maintained throughout. His fine courage and personal example assisted greatly in the success of the attack.

(Military Cross gazetted 25th November, 1916.)

Lt. Edwin Alfred Trendell, M.C., Can Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although twice wounded, he continued on, and established a report centre. It was due to his determination and courage that much early and valuable information was sent back.

(Military Cross gazetted 26th April, 1917.)

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to confer the Military Cross on the undermentioned Officers and Warrant Officers in recognition of their gallantry and devotion to duty in the Field:—

2nd Lt. George Douglas Adam, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The battery was very heavily shelled for half an hour, causing heavy casualties. He showed great coolness and bravery whilst supervising the fire of the battery, and by his splendid example steadied the other gun detachments.

2nd Lt. William Aitchison, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry when in command of trench mortars. Early in operations he came under heavy shell-fire, and half his detachment became casualties; but his coolness and courage kept all ranks steady, and enabled fine work to be performed.

Temp. Capt. Gavin Bullen Anderson, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in an advanced position during an attack. He kept his company under control, and sent back most valuable information, holding on to his trench for twenty-four hours and harassing the enemy with rifle and machine-gun fire. The fine work of his company bore evidence to his good training and the spirit instilled by him.

Capt. Gilbert William Arbuthnot Alexander, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost fearlessness and determination under heavy fire. When the advance was held up he went forward and reconnoitred the exact position of the neighbouring units. This was carried out under severe machine-gun and rifle fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Hugh Dalrymple Alexander, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a company ordered to raid the enemy lines. He succeeded in establishing strong points under intense machine-gun fire from three sides. He continued to expose himself and organise his men until severely wounded.

2nd Lt. Thomas Allan, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great courage and determination. He was the first to cut the enemy wire and get through, and, though wounded, remained with his men until ordered to withdraw. He set a fine example throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Arnold Morley Allen, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led the company with great skill and determination. On reaching the final objective his example and energy under heavy fire greatly assisted in the task of consolidation.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Thomas Bisset Allison, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was exceptionally cool and courageous under heavy fire. His splendid example greatly assisted the men under him through most trying circumstances.

Rev. Leonard Martin Andrews, A. Chaplns. Dept., attd. R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried a wounded man 1½ miles under heavy shell fire. He returned six times, and carried wounded men to safety, still under heavy shell fire.

2nd Lt. Reginald Wood Andrews, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst under heavy shell fire he succeeded, with others, in extinguishing a fire in an ammunition dump close to a gun, 500 charges having become ignited and in very dangerous proximity to the shells. The camouflage covering the gun was also on fire, and he extinguished it.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Frederick George Aplin, Gen'l List.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great coolness and bravery when acting as observation officer in the front line. Although under direct shell fire, he continued to observe, and rendered most valuable reports throughout.

2nd Lt. Bernard Martin Armstrong, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his section against a strong gun position held by the enemy, and forced them to retire. He then attacked another gun position, which he bombed, but being met by heavy machine-gun fire and sniping he was forced to withdraw. His cheerfulness and energy later on in the day did much to hearten men who had been severely shaken.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Gilbert Barrington Arnold, Essex R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in an attack when in command of four Stokes Mortars.

Although exposed to enemy fire, he, with great bravery and devotion, persisted in his work until each gun had been knocked out, all the Battery officers killed or wounded, and until finally he was himself severely wounded.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Frank Kirtley Artis, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a F.O. post during an attack. Despite an intense enemy barrage and continuous sniping, he went out time after time and repaired the wires. His splendid example in maintaining communication proved of the utmost value to the artillery.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) John Percival Curtis Ashworth, Suff. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the advance of his Battalion was held up, he made a reconnaissance under heavy fire, and returned with most valuable information. He showed great coolness and initiative throughout.

Capt. Richard Leonard Atkinson, R.W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative. When his Company Commander was killed he at once assumed command, reorganised the company and, with great bravery, led it to its final objective, which he successfully consolidated.

Temp. Lt. Ralph Luttrell Bailey, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Throughout 48 hours, when commanding his section, which was scattered over a wide field, he continued to visit his guns. It was entirely due to his personal disregard for danger under heavy fire that his guns were handled to such good advantage.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Douglas Monro King Baird, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has performed consistent good work when acting as Observation Officer. Often under intense enemy barrage he continued to observe his battery fire, and thus rendered service of the utmost value.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Felix Charles Baker, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rallying and leading forward his men at a most critical moment during an attack, when the flank of his brigade was held up and in danger of becoming disorganised. His dash and bravery enabled the attack to proceed successfully.

2nd Lt. Hugh Arthur Baker, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He successfully carried out most useful work under very trying conditions. He traced the jumping-off trench under machine-gun fire, erecting shelters and collecting material for a bridge. All this was done under hostile artillery barrage, and throughout he set a splendid example.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Lionel John Baker, Suff. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with the greatest skill and courage. He organised a bombing attack on the enemy trench which was still holding out. His disregard for danger was an example to all, and contributed largely to the final success.

2nd Lt. Alfred Ball, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On the advance being definitely held up he took command of the men of all companies on the spot. Under heavy machine-gun fire he carried out the reorganisation of the battalion and worked with complete disregard for danger throughout the day.

Temp. Lt. Charles Willard Ballard, R. Suss. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He repeatedly went out on patrol under very heavy fire to gain touch with the enemy. He attacked six of the enemy single-handed and dispersed them, though they resisted with bombs and rifle fire, and though badly wounded and gassed he remained in command of his company for two days, affording a splendid example of pluck and determination.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frank Edward Barker, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The advance was held up by an enemy strong point. He led a bombing party round the flank and, despite heavy rifle fire and grenades, succeeded in capturing the position which was garrisoned by 30 of the enemy.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frederick Cecil Barlow, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great dash and initiative in leading a patrol to capture a further position. Later, he led an attack under heavy machine gun fire. Though wounded he continued to advance until compelled to stop owing to casualties.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Osborn Barlow, S. Staffs. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his platoon which was held up by enemy wire. Despite a galling fire from machine guns he walked up and down urging and directing his men. Though wounded in both arms he remained at duty.

2nd Lt. John Reginald Barnes, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great energy and determination when acting as F.O.O. Although under heavy shell and machine gun fire he kept the position well in hand until the battery had advanced to its new position.

Temp. Sub-Lt. Thomas Barrow-Dowling, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. When, during an intense barrage, three of his guns and crews had been buried, he at once proceeded, under a heavy fire, to effect a rescue, and succeeded in recovering one gun and a few men, and later, on receiving reinforcements, he reorganised the situation and remained at his post until, in the last stage of exhaustion, he was relieved.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Francis Patrick Barry. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led his company in an attack with great bravery, and endeavoured to carry on after being severely wounded.

2nd Lt. Charles Henry Bateman, Arg. and Suth'd Highrs., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He assisted in organisig a mixed command under heavy artillery and machine gun fire. He also worked a captured machine gun, and was severely wounded while doing so. Throughout he was of the greatest assistance to his senior officer.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Walter Percival Batters, Yeo.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his guns with marked skill and gallantry under continuous shell fire. Although badly wounded he continued to superintend for eighteen hours with the utmost determination, thereby rendering valuable assistance at a critical time.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Alexander Carnegie Baxter, Sco. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was sent forward with his machine guns to consolidate a certain position. While advancing he discovered that a great portion of the line was still occupied by the enemy. He at once consolidated just short of the line. His foresight enabled him to occupy the line later on.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Ranulph Beames, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his platoon was held up by an enemy strong point, he stood up and directed his machine gun and bombers to put up a barrage. He then, with the remainder of his men, dashed into the trench and succeeded in capturing it and fifty prisoners.

2nd Lt. Stuart Gordon Beer, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst in command of his platoon he was wounded in two places by a shell, but nevertheless remained for two hours steadying and cheering his men under heavy shell fire, until ordered to report to the aid post for treatment.

Qr.-Mr. and Hon. Lt. Owen King Belchem, R.W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource in reorganising and leading ration parties, and successfully distributing rations to the whole battalion, in spite of heavy fire and the fact that there were parties of the enemy still behind our lines.

Lt. James Dacres Belgrave, Oxf. and Bucks. L.I. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On at least five occasions he successfully engaged and shot down hostile aeroplanes, and has consistently shown great courage and determination to get to the closest range; an invaluable example in a fighting squadron.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) James William Bell, Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led a composite party, under severe artillery, machine gun and rifle fire, to attack a strong point, and, although wounded and driven back, he repeatedly renewed his attempts, and finally, unable to advance, he assumed a commanding position, in spite of heavy fire, opposite the strong point.

2nd Lt. Maurice Arthur Benjamin, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He helped to attack two large hostile machines, one of which was seen to crash to the ground. Previously he helped to engage three hostile scouts, one of which was destroyed and the remainder dispersed. He has helped to destroy four hostile machines in all.

2nd Lt. Thomas Bennett, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon to within fifty yards of the enemy trench, having only two men with him when he arrived. He remained there for six hours, firing at the enemy in full view. He finally retired in order to escape our own barrage.

2nd Lt. Edgar Cyril Bevan, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as F.O.O. he displayed the greatest gallantry and initiative. Under heavy fire and after his signaller had been wounded, he maintained constant communication with his brigade. He obtained and sent back the most valuable information.

2nd Lt. Eric Gray Birbeck, N. Staff. R., attd. Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in carrying out dangerous patrol work under heavy fire, and obtaining very valuable information.

2nd Lt. Edwin Leslie Bishop, Worc. R., Spec. Res., attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When engaged with another pilot in taking important photographs, they were attacked by a superior number of hostile machines. The other pilot was forced to land, and he himself was driven down close to the ground, but, despite the presence of the hostile machines, he climbed once more and succeeded in taking a large number of most valuable photographs.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Peter Blagrove, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost courage and determination when commanding his battery. On several occasions he personally organised the repairs when the pits had been blown in and his guns buried. On each occasion this was carried out under heavy shell fire.

2nd Lt. Charles Edward Blayney, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill on many occasions in successfully bombing stations and trains at very low altitudes. He has at all times displayed the greatest bravery and skill.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Alphonso Bloomfield, Devon. R. and M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a machine gun company during the advance. His organisation and prompt action were of a very high order. His fine leadership and ability were of the utmost value to the infantry.

Temp. Capt. Edward Upton Body, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great presence of mind and fine courage under heavy shell fire in running to a burning ammunition dump and extinguishing the fire which was threatening to spread; a further explosion would have had very serious consequences.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Malcolm Maxwell Irving Body, R.F.A., Spec. Res. (temp. Lt., R.F.A.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He went forward with the advancing infantry, and under most trying conditions managed to control his Battery and send most valuable information. This task was carried out under continuous shell and machine-gun fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Walter Geoffrey Boldero, S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled two machine guns with great skill and initiative at a very critical period. By his prompt action and good leadership he succeeded in driving off several parties of the enemy who were trying to turn the flank.

2nd Lt. Frederick Calver Bolton, York. L.I., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost gallantry and determination when with a small party he was cut off and attacked by a strong enemy party. He rallied his men and without any reinforcements gained the trench lost by bombing the enemy out.

2nd Lt. Gerald Muir Bonnin, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry in constantly conducting the fire of his battery with the greatest coolness under heavy shell fire. On one occasion he saved three guns and three ammunition dumps from destruction, extinguishing the burning material under very heavy fire.

2nd Lt. William George Bowditch, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company to their objective, when he was compelled to lie out in front of the wire, and though wounded he directed the withdrawal of his men and then gave a valuable report of the situation. He has at all times set a fine example to his men.

Lt. (actg. Capt.) Geoffrey Grenside Bowen, Lan. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage. On four separate occasions he advanced his company, and had to dig in on new lines. His personal example was of the utmost value to his men under very trying conditions.

Capt. Theodore Clifford Bower, H.A.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Before the attack he carried out a daring reconnaissance in daylight and brought back most valuable information. Later, he led his company with great gallantry, setting a fine example throughout.

Temp. Lt. John Frederick Farmar Bowers, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his machine guns with great skill in the newly won position, inflicting great loss on the enemy. Later, he led a patrol through heavy barrage and obtained much valuable information.

2nd Lt. John Boyd, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. A trestle bridge having been broken by enemy shell fire, he organised and superintended the work of repairing it under heavy hostile barrage. The repair restored communication which was otherwise lost.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Herbert Bradshaw, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As an observation officer for heavy artillery he established an observation post under heavy shell fire, from which he continued to send valuable information, in spite of constant breaks by shell fire.

2nd Lt. Percy Braidford, Durh. L.I., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company during the attack, and although wounded in the head continued to lead it with the utmost coolness and courage. He set a fine example throughout, and remained at his post until the battalion was relieved.

Lt. Philip Acton Brooke, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he went forward and established a visual station. Although heavily shelled, communication with the artillery was maintained all day, and valuable information sent through.

2nd Lt. John Brown, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource when defending, with two platoons, an isolated post. Although wounded, he successfully held his trench for a day and a night with the enemy on both flanks in the same trench, and repelled several counter-attacks. His fearlessness and resource were most marked.

2nd Lt. Max Wallace Brown, R. Fus., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in working his guns under very trying conditions. He voluntarily went back with a small party, under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, on several occasions, to keep up the ammunition supply for the guns at a very critical moment.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Christopher Browne, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in charge of the waggon lines when one of the buildings caught fire and set alight to a long dump of ammunition. Owing to his courage and resourcefulness all the horses, equipment and waggons were saved.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Edward Martin Buck, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rallying and leading to the attack his company after all the other officers had been killed. Having arrived at his objective, he held it for several hours with both flanks exposed. He showed a splendid example of resource and a complete contempt for danger.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William John Burr, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his own and the adjoining company and reorganised them. He dug in close to the enemy front line under hostile machine gun fire. He maintained this position long after it had become practically untenable, until ordered to withdraw. Throughout he set a magnificent example.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Herbert Bush, Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service in carrying out reconnaissances, bringing back important information. On two occasions the enemy fire was so severe that he left his orderlies behind and went forward alone.

2nd Lt. Thomas Byers, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was the only officer of the company for five days. He carried out his duties under most trying conditions and shell and machine gun fire, with great skill and endurance. His example and ability kept the men in hand and their spirits up at a very trying time.

Temp. Capt. Allan Gordon Cameron, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. With a small party he worked forward under heavy fire and captured a trench strongly held by the enemy. He held on to this position for over twenty hours under continuous heavy fire and a threatened hostile counter-attack. He captured twenty prisoners.

Lt. Duncan Alexander Cameron, Ind. Army.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of a daylight reconnaisance of an enemy trench he showed great skill and daring in the handling of his men throughout the undertaking, which was entirely successful. Though under heavy fire the whole time his able leadership enabled him to regain his trench without any casualties.

2nd Lt. Bertram Cunliffe Camm, York. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the advance was held up by uncut wire he showed great coolness and ability under heavy fire of all kinds. He directed the digging, reorganised and opened up communication with both his flanks, and throughout set a splendid example.

2nd Lt. James Campbell, R.F.A., Spec. Res. (temp. Lt. in R.F.A.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Directly after the village had been captured he went forward with signalling apparatus under heavy artillery barrage. When communication failed he came back and reported on the situation. He then returned through heavy shell fire laying a fresh line en route, and carried out valuable observation.

Temp. 2nd Lt. James Henderson Campbell, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his company with great skill and dash. When the advance was temporarily held up he executed a flank attack which enabled the advance to proceed. He showed great coolness and gallantry under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

2nd Lt. Tom Catto Pirie Campbell, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was intelligence officer during the advance. Throughout he performed most valuable work, and showed an utter disregard for personal safety in obtaining information under heavy fire, which was of the greatest value.

2nd Lt. William Campbell, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in an attack. He led his platoon with great bravery, picking up a Lewis gun and inflicting heavy casualties with it on the enemy, and, although wounded, he remained in command until relieved the following day.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) John Carnan, R. Sc. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a company in the attack with great skill and initiative. He went forward with a few men, and, bombing the enemy, captured twenty-five prisoners and a machine gun. His personal example was of the utmost value in inspiring confidence in his men.

Temp. Lt. Cyril Carr, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in charge of a demolition party. When the infantry were held up by wire he forced a way through, and successfully performed his task, although heavily bombed and fired on.

Temp. Capt. Frederick Carson, M.B., R.A.M.C., R. W. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He behaved with the greatest gallantry in attending wounded under continuous heavy shelling. His total disregard for personal safety set a fine example to those around him.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Ernest Albert Carter, E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the line of advance was held up by machine gun and rifle fire from both flanks, he with great initiative organised a party and formed covering fire and bombing attacks on the flanks. He thus enabled the remainder of the troops to advance on their objective.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) William Cecil Cassels, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst in command of an advanced post. When almost surrounded in a heavy counter-attack, he withdrew his post to a prepared position in rear and aided in repelling the counter-attack.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Lewis Thomas Casson, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He, on three separate occasions, has shown extreme courage and determination in connection with gas operations. His personal supervision and remarkable coolness have enabled him to carry through the most intricate operations with success.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) John White Cater, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The success of the attack was largely due to his initiative and skilful leading. He showed the utmost energy and coolness in organising his men under heavy fire after each advance. He set a fine example throughout.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Arthur Reginald Cawood, York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded early in the advance, he continued to command his company, and under heavy fire charged and captured the enemy trench and caused great loss to the enemy. He continued to carry on until unable to walk.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harry Charney, E. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great gallantry when with his platoon he charged an enemy gun. Although twice fired at, the first shell bursting in the midst of his men, he kept on and captured the gun intact.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Walter Jesse Warden Cheesman, N. & Derby. R., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. When advancing with his machine guns, he was wounded in the face, but led his team through a heavy enemy barrage, and put his guns into position before compelled by weakness to retire. His bravery greatly impressed his men.

Lt. (actg. Capt.) Reginald Amyas Ackerley Chichester, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Throughout the advance he led his company with the greatest skill and initiative. He sent out patrols and organised the consolidation of the new position. Throughout he set a splendid example to all.

Lt. Alexander Henry Christie, Hrs., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a patrol with great skill and initiative. Despite heavy machine gun and rifle fire he obtained the information required, and retired with only one casualty.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Alfred Howard Clarke, E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst in command of four machine guns during an attack. Hearing that the attack was held up, he moved his guns to a new position whence he could bring direct fire to bear upon the enemy, and inflicted heavy losses on them as a counter-attack was being attempted. He showed great initiative, and set a fine example to all ranks.

2nd Lt. Maurice Fred Travers Cleaver, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in observing and keeping up communications for his brigade during a critical period under very heavy shell fire at great personal risk. He also carried out a reconnaissance of great value under heavy fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Percy Allbutt Cockeram, E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. All his company officers having become casualties, he took command of the attack, gained his objective, and subsequently consolidated his position, where he was isolated all day, but nevertheless beat off three determined counter-attacks. Compelled eventually to withdraw, he successfully fought his way back with eight wounded men, and gave valuable information to his Brigade Commander on his arrival.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frank Robert Cooksley, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry when holding an advanced trench under heavy machine gun and rifle fire. Although a withdrawal of other troops exposed his flanks, his personal bravery and example enabled his men, who were much shaken, to maintain their position for three days.

Temp. Capt. Henry Joseph Cotter, R.A.M.C., attd. Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded on the previous day, he declined to be relieved, and continued to dress wounded in the open under heavy fire, going through heavy barrage to reach some men lying out in an exposed position.

2nd Lt. Karl Haydn Coulson, York. L.I., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great initiative and courage in organising an attack composed of various units, and succeeded in repelling the enemy, who were threatening the right flank. His prompt action saved a very critical situation.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harry William Cowling, E. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Having led his company forward to attack an enemy trench, he found it was strongly held, and was driven back. He reorganised his company in the dark and led them again to the attack. Previous to the first attack he had kept his company together under a very heavy enemy barrage lasting two hours; the example he set to his men was splendid.

Temp. Capt. Albert Victor Craig, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though suffering himself from the effect of gas shells, he displayed the greatest bravery and the most untiring energy in attending to the wounded under fire of heavy guns and gas shells. He risked his life day and night without the slightest hesitation.

2nd Lt. Ronald Hulbert Creery, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As observation officer he went forward with our infantry attack and sent back information which enabled several enemy batteries to be engaged by his own and other batteries.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) William Cripps, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative. Having observed that a body of the enemy were sniping one of our patrols after a successful advance, he procured a Lewis gun and dispersed the enemy. He also rendered valuable assistance to his battery by personal reconnaissance under heavy machine gun and shell fire.

2nd Lt. William Lane Cronin, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took a party of signallers forward in the midst of an infantry attack under heavy shell fire, and established communication with his battery under circumstances of the greatest difficulty and danger.

Lt. Henry Croom-Johnson, Worc. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in action, when he led his company with great bravery, and, although wounded, carried on until the position had been taken and consolidated.

Temp. Sub-Lt. Winthrop James Crosland-Taylor, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion under heavy shell fire during several enemy counter-attacks. He not only tended the wounded in full view of snipers, but he led back Lewis gunners, who had been driven from their posts, and his courage and example greatly helped to save a critical situation.

Capt. Alexander Robertson Cross, Gord. Highrs., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great gallantry and skill. Later, when the advance was held up, he took charge of the front line and reorganised the units at a time when a counter-attack seemed possible. He set a splendid example throughout under most trying conditions.

2nd Lt. Stanley Herbert Cross, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in capturing an enemy machine gun with a small party of men and turning it upon the enemy with good effect. His coolness and courage under fire were a splendid example to his men.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Edward Crossley, N. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in assuming command of his company under heavy shell and machine gun fire, and leading it to its objective. He was severely wounded, but directed the defence against several counter-attacks until ordered to go to the aid post by his Commanding Officer.

Capt. Cyril Marconi Crowe, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill as a leader of offensive patrols, many times attacking hostile formations single-handed, and descending to low altitudes under heavy anti-aircraft fire. He has been responsible for the destruction of several enemy machines.

2nd Lt. Ernest Walter Crust, R. Berks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his platoon over a long advance and under heavy shell fire with great courage and initiative. His fine example under fire had a splendid effect on his men.

Capt. Francis Richard Cubbon, I.A., attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has shown great pluck and determination when acting as observer, on several occasions displaying fine marksmanship and coolness against superior numbers of the enemy.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Herbert Ayres Cundall, S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during an attack, when, although severely wounded, he continued to lead his men on with great bravery until wounded a second time. He has on previous occasions done fine work.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Robert Wilson Cunliffe, E. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and powers of leadership during operations, when he led his company with great bravery and resource in difficult situations. He set a splendid example to all ranks with him.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Colin Hugh Dakers, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He assumed command of the battalion and led his men to the assault and capture of the final objective. He drove off a local counter attack and consolidated the position won. He set a fine example of courage and coolness.

2nd Lt. (Temp. Lt.) Allan Reginald Mannall Darby, Lond. R. and M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his machine-gun company with the greatest skill and energy. Throughout he displayed the utmost coolness and determination under heavy fire, and rendered the greatest assistance to the infantry.

Temp. Lt. Harold Dare, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He remained in the captured position all day, successfully observing and engaging fleeting targets. He exposed himself to continuous snipings in order to carry out these observations. He set a splendid example throughout.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Alan Munro Davidson, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He, with Lt. Dewey, were engaged in cutting wire on the enemy front line. Despite constant shell fire, owing to their exposed position, and though their guns were constantly buried by shell fire; they carried out their difficult task with complete success.

Lt. John Arthur Davison, Rif. Brig.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of a defensive position, which he held under continuous shell fire for eighteen hours. His personal bravery and coolness were a fine example to the men under him.

Temp. Capt. John Nissen Deacon, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. E. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed exceptional bravery and resource on several occasions in attending to the wounded under very heavy shell fire, with complete disregard of his own personal safety.

2nd Lt. William Warren Deacon, R. Lanc. R., attd. N. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. During an attack by his battalion he showed the greatest courage and initiative, and was mainly responsible for the objective being gained and maintained under heavy fire and against several counter attacks. He was twice wounded, but refused to give in, setting a splendid example of determination to all ranks.

Temp. Capt. Francis Rainalt Abbott Glanville, Gen. List.

For conspicuous gallantry when bringing up Stokes guns under heavy fire, thereby enabling a captured objective to be held. He also made valuable reconnaissances under hazardous conditions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Ernest Allan Godfrey, R. Marines.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource during operations, when he worked his guns with great skill and endurance for 60 hours without rest, and under a heavy enemy barrage, against a strong point which eventually surrendered.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Spencer Gooch, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his two machine guns with great skill and courage. By pushing forward under fire he was instrumental in clearing up a large party of the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties and forcing the remainder to surrender.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Cecil Stuart Goodfellow, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has done valuable and consistent good work in co-operating with the artillery. He has carried out numerous patrol flights under most adverse weather conditions, and has set a splendid example to his squadron throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Kenneth Gordon, Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in charge of R.E. material urgently needed. An enemy barrage scattered his party. With total disregard of danger he collected the men and completed his task.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Lionel Thomas Nutcombe Gould, R.A. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has done consistent, good and valuable work while co-operating with the artillery, often under most difficult conditions. He has always set a splendid example by his exceptional pluck and determination.

2nd Lt. Stewart Murray Gow, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in handling his section of anti-aircraft guns which were being heavily shelled by the enemy. His coolness and disregard for his own safety undoubtedly saved many casualties, at the same time affording a splendid example to his men.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) John Benjamin Graham, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has displayed great skill and courage when leading photographic reconnaissances. On many occasions, although attacked by superior numbers, he, by his courage and determination, has succeeded in completing his reconnaissances.

2nd Lt. John Wallace Graham, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs., attd. Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy fire, he went forward and took up a position in front of the battalion in a shell hole. When the battalion was obliged to retire he held his ground, and with a machine gun inflicted severe losses on the enemy, who were forming up for a counter-attack.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) John Leslie Grant, K.O. Sco. Bord., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership in withdrawing his company under very heavy shell fire from an exposed and untenable position to a good defensive line. By his coolness and courage he was responsible for checking an advance of the enemy at a very critical point.

Temp. Sub-Lt. Harold Grant-Dalton, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource. When all the officers of his company had become casualties he assumed the command, and by his bravery and personal example was able successfully to defend an exposed piece of the line. He has on previous occasions done fine work.

Lt. Alastair Francis Gray, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his guns with the greatest skill and gallantry. Throughout the advance his fine leadership and coolness under heavy fire proved of the utmost assistance to the infantry.

Rev. Herbert Green, A. Chapln's. Dept.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest gallantry and coolness in assisting to dress and attend wounded men under heavy fire. Throughout he set a magnificent example to all.

2nd Lt. Sidney Richard Greenfield, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As intelligence officer, when all communications had been cut owing to hostile shelling, he went forward a distance of some 1,500 yards under intense hostile barrage and obtained important information which was urgently required. Throughout the whole period he rendered the greatest assistance to his commanding officer.

2nd Lt. William Ewart Greenslade, E. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although painfully wounded in the face, he continued to direct operations of his company, taking part in several bombing attacks. Later, although wounded a second time, he withdrew his men in good order, and throughout set a magnificent example of endurance and courage.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Robert Gregory, Conn. R., Spec. Res., attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On many occasions he has, at various altitudes, attacked and destroyed or driven down hostile machines, and has invariably displayed the highest courage and skill.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Grieve, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of brigade dumps he successfully extinguished a very dangerous fire amongst explosives at a most critical moment. He remained at the dumps for 14 days under very heavy shell fire, and by his untiring and gallant efforts he succeeded at all times in supplying units with whatever they required in the nature of stores or ammunition.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry Grindell, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The two companies under the command of 2nd Lts. Grindell and Hislop were ordered to take a certain enemy position. The operation was entirely successful, and it was solely due to the dash and spirit of these two officers that a very difficult task was successfully accomplished.

2nd Lt. Edward Gordon Groves, W. York. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a patrol in daylight to reconnoitre the enemy position. Despite continuous rifle and machine gun fire, he returned successfully with most valuable information.

2nd Lt. John E. Grundy, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He closely followed the infantry attack, and established early communication with his battery, which he kept up for two days under heavy fire, at the same time sending back valuable information.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Henry Gunner, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While on offensive patrol he engaged and attacked 9 hostile aircraft, two of which were attacking the rear machine of his patrol. Having convoyed the other machine back to the aerodrome, he again returned with his patrol in response to an urgent call for aeroplanes to drive off hostile aircraft. He had been wounded in his previous encounter, but insisted on carrying on, and on numerous other occasions he has shown great skill and courage in offensive work.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Norman Otto Frederick Gunther, Yeo., attd. E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading forward his platoon under heavy machine gun fire to the support of a company which was in danger of being overwhelmed by enemy counter-attacks. Compelled eventually to withdraw, he successfully fought his way back with one officer and eight survivors after an heroic defence of an isolated position.

2nd Lt. Hugh Hall, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon in the attack with great gallantry and skill. On reaching his objective he carried out the work of consolidation with complete success under very heavy fire of all kinds

2nd Lt. Reginald Harding, R.W. Surr. R. Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a successful raiding party on the enemy lines. He brought his party safely back, including two prisoners, but hearing that one man was missing he returned to the enemy lines to search for him, but was unsuccessful in finding him.

Temp. Lt. John Hay Maitland Hardyman, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in several dangerous reconnaissances, in one of which he was wounded. He displayed great bravery in organising the clearance of wounded from a medical aid post near an ammunition dump, which had been set on fire by a shell.

2nd Lt. (acting Capt.) Richard John Patterson Harle, K.O.S.B., attd. A. & S. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company in the attack with great courage and initiative. He captured two machine guns and over sixty prisoners. He set a splendid example throughout.

2nd Lt. William Ellis Harrison. R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He advanced with the infantry to the second objective. Although he and three of his men were wounded, he maintained communication throughout the advance, thus rendering most valuable service at a critical time.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Frank Northey Harston, E. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service as Brigade Major during the advance. When a gap occurred he proceeded at great risk of capture and under continuous fire to rectify matters before daylight. He set a magnificent example throughout.

Temp. Capt. James Duncan Hart, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded an aid post close to a piece of heavily shelled roadway. He continually went out into the open road and attended wounded men under heavy fire, with a total disregard for his own personal safety.

2nd Lt. Gordon Lindsay Harvest, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in reconnoitring enemy trenches, and later in subduing enemy snipers.

2nd Lt. Stanley William Harvey, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy shell fire he laid a telephone wire from his battery to our front line, being himself knocked down and partially buried by a shell whilst doing so. He showed great fearlessness and disregard for personal safety in ignoring repeated orders to take cover, as he considered there were special opportunities for observation. The valuable information which he supplied was the result.

Temp. Capt. David Charles Hasler, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost skill and courage when commanding two companies in the attack. By his personal bravery and total disregard of danger he inspired and encouraged his men at a very critical time and under very trying conditions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Norman Francis Hawes, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource in charge of three Vickers gun teams, which he led through 2,300 yards of heavily shelled ground, and placed in position. For over five hours he moved fearlessly from gun to gun, encouraging the men and directing the fire, thereby largely contributing to the repulse of two counter-attacks.

2nd Lt. Peter Hay, Scottish Rif., attd. K.R. Rif. C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led his platoon against an enemy strong point, engaged them in severe hand to hand fighting, and owing to his bravery and fine example overcame all opposition, and captured an officer and forty-three men.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frank Hayes, L.N. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during a critical period in an attack. His men were inclined to waver, but by his splendid example of bravery and coolness he steadied them, and although wounded led them to final success, only retiring when wounded a second time.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Hazzard, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an infantry attack he reconnoitred under heavy fire to gain information. After the attack was held up he assisted in consolidating and strengthening a line of defence, and in organising the defenders from the remnants of several units. The security of the defence was largely due to his coolness and courage.

2nd Lt. Charles Eric Hemmerde, R.W. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in personally reconnoitring an obscure situation under heavy shell and machine gun fire in order to ascertain the whereabouts of our advanced troops. The valuable information which this gallant action afforded enabled our artillery to give closer support to the infantry, whose attack had been held up.

2nd Lt. William Arthur Henderson, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was sent forward to reorganise the company. Throughout he worked under heavy shell fire, and although buried by a shell he carried on as soon as he was got out, and continued until relieved at night.

Temp. Sub-Lt. John Leigh Herring, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion when leading his men in an attack, and in reorganising them under heavy fire when disorganised by uncut wire. Later, he led bombing parties with great bravery and skill until finally wounded.

Temp. Lt. Frederic Stewart Higson, Welsh R.

For conspicuous gallantry in successfully reorganising men who were falling back under heavy shell fire, and leading them back to their original positions. He also led bombing parties and set a splendid example to all ranks with him.

2nd Lt. Benjamin Godlonton Hill, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of a party building an observation post. An enemy shell struck the post and buried the whole party. He extricated himself with great difficulty, and despite heavy shelling dug out the whole party in an exhausted condition.

2nd Lt. James Hislop, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The two companies under the command of 2nd Lts. Hislop and Grindell were ordered to take a certain enemy position. The operation was entirely successful, and it was solely due to the dash and skill of these two officers that a very difficult task was successfully accomplished.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harold Everett Hitchin, D.S.O., Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of a company he led four successive attacks upon a position of great tactical importance. His personal daring and skilful use of ground enabled him to capture it at the last attempt after losing 50 per cent. of his men. His gallantry and good leadership were most marked.

2nd Lt. Reginald Theodore Carlos Hoidge, R.G.A. (Spec. Res.) and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. On many occasions he has attacked and destroyed or driven down hostile machines, and has taken part in twenty-four offensive patrols. In all combats his bravery and skill have been most marked.

2nd Lt. Douglas Hood, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading a bayonet charge upon a hostile trench which was held in very superior numbers. He killed or captured all the enemy in it, and his magnificent example encouraged his men and hastened the surrender of those of the enemy that survived.

Temp. Lt. Douglas Gordon Harrison Hood, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of a daylight patrol which pushed forward under heavy machine gun and rifle fire. He obtained much valuable information, which he personally brought back through heavy artillery fire.

2nd Lt. Walter Hopkins, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack he advanced alone to within 50 yards of the enemy trench in order to locate the machine guns. Having done so he returned and led his company to the attack. He had previously rallied them under heavy fire. He showed a splendid example of coolness and leadership throughout.

2nd Lt. Stephen Francis Hopwood, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. An enemy shell set fire to a small ammunition dump in one of the gun-pits. He at once proceeded with two men to extinguish the fire, thereby saving a large number of cartridges. This was carried out under hostile shell fire and intermittent explosions from the charges.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Owen Wralters Horne, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When commanding the right company it was largely due to his leading that direction was kept over a three mile advance. When held up at the fourth objective by uncut wire he went to the front and personally supervised the cutting in front of a strongly-held trench.

Lt. (actg. Capt.) William Charles Hoskins, Gen. List.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his battery with great judgment and daring, and gave an effective support to the infantry, and also against the enemy counter attacks.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Geoffrey Ambrose Houghton, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an infantry advance this officer did good work in the difficult task of establishing forward communication. He was under shell fire throughout and his task was rendered doubly arduous by the heavy ground and continual breakages.

Temp. Lt. William John Humphrey, Norf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was prominent in the capture of an enemy redoubt, and by his gallant behaviour showed a fine example to his men. He held on to the position under heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) John Hunter, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack, although shot in the foot, he continued to lead his company under heavy fire with great bravery and determination. He has shown splendid leadership on every occasion.

2nd Lt. John Huntington, Bord. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As intelligence officer he showed great courage and determination in traversing a considerable stretch of ground that was under heavy fire, and, so far as he knew, still occupied by the enemy. He was able to bring back most valuable information.

Capt. Edward John Huskisson, R.M.L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry when reconnoitring, under a heavy shell fire, a position and organising guides prior to an assault. It was mainly owing to his coolness and courage that the battalion was successfully placed in alignment in the face of the greatest difficulties.

Capt. John Hutcheson, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great coolness and initiative when consolidating the newly won position. A bomb store was blown up, knocking a large number of men out of action and causing a large crater, but he managed to get the work resumed and the consolidation completed. He set a fine example to all.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) John Percy Hutchinson, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When an ammunition dump, a gun limber, and camouflage were set on fire he displayed great courage in attacking and overcoming the fire. His prompt and gallant action undoubtedly saved the gun and a large quantity of ammunition. This task was carried out under shell fire the whole time.

Temp. Capt. Charles Reginald Ralston Huxtable, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Lan. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost skill and bravery in attending to and evacuating wounded. When seven of his bearers were buried by a shell he at once, despite the intense hostile bombardment, organised a party and dug them out.

Temp. Capt. Charles Clouston Irvine, R.A.M.C., attd. E. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took his stretcher-bearers out under heavy barrage fire and brought the wounded back safely, carrying one man back on his shoulders. His complete disregard for his own personal safety was most marked.

Capt. Cyril Jacobs, M.B., R.A.M.C., Spec. Res., attd. Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After an assault he went out over the whole ground in daylight, cleared as many of the wounded as possible, and having located the wounded who were in the enemy wire and close to it, completed his task by nightfall. He succeeded in evacuating all wounded men.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Alfred George Jennings, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great skill against an enemy machine gun strong point. He succeeded in capturing the position, which was holding up the whole line, and would have caused heavy casualties.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Sydney Theodore Jerome, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. Although slightly wounded, he continued to assist in collecting and organising men who had advanced beyond the objective. Later, he was severely wounded, but bravely continued his work until removed by the stretcher-bearers.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Reginald Sidney Johnson, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of a small party during the advance, although wounded in the ankle, he took command of men of several battalions, and frustrated all the enemy efforts to cut the party off. He showed a fine example throughout.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Mansfield Jolley, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company on to their objective in the face of very heavy fire. He carried out the consolidation of the position with complete success. His fine example under hostile fire was of the greatest assistance to his men.

Temp. Lt. Arthur Rowland Jones, Welsh R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading various raiding parties which, owing mainly to his bravery, resource, and skilful leadership, produced valuable results.

Temp. Sub.-Lt. Charles Leonard Jones, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry in action. The only means of communication between different sections of his company was exposed to heavy machine gun and rifle fire. Nevertheless, he continually went up and down the line encouraging and controlling the men. His bravery was most marked.

Capt. David Arthur Jones, R. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in repelling an enemy counter-attack, the brunt of which fell upon his company front. He directed the defence and controlled the line with complete disregard for his personal safety, standing in the open behind his trench, and it was by his fearlessness and determination that the counter-attack was successfully repulsed.

2nd Lt. George Herbert Jones, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost fearlessness and resource in restoring and maintaining telephonic communication with Headquarters during an attack. To do this he had to pass through very heavy barrage and machine gun fire.

2nd Lt. Harold Lavender Jones, E. Kent R., attd. L.N. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. When all senior officers were casualties he took command of the firing line, and by his coolness and bravery was able to consolidate the line, and hold on until relieved, when only himself and forty-six men remained out of two companies.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Nelson Jones, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a critical period he showed great dash and initiative in leading his men to the final assault on the village. His prompt action and grasp of the situation contributed much to the success of the attack.

Temp. Lt. Richard Neville Kenward Jones, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has done consistent good work in the taking of photographs under very adverse weather conditions. By his perseverance and determination he has set a very high standard of efficiency in the photographic work of his squadron.

Temp. Capt. Richard Orthin Hilton Jones, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For many hours he had to occupy a most exposed position under heavy fire, where he dressed and attended wounded at great personal risk.

Rev. Thomas William Austin Jones, A. Chapln. Dept.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He spent day and night amongst the men in the front line, helping the wounded and keeping up the spirits of the men. He set a fine example of coolness and disregard for personal safety.

2nd Lt. Arthur Gordon Jones-Williams, Welsh R. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has continuously shown the utmost dash and gallantry in attacking superior numbers of hostile machines. On one occasion he attacked twelve hostile scouts and succeeded in destroying one and driving down another.

2nd Lt. William Lamb Muir Kay, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs., attd. Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the attack was held up by machine gun fire he organised the men near him, and led them forward. He exposed himself fearlessly in moving from hole to hole. He succeeded in forming a strong point, which he held until relieved at night.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Britten Keating, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two separate occasions he carried out a most difficult reconnaissance under very heavy fire in advance of our front line in order to enable fresh trenches to be constructed. The task was successfully accomplished entirely owing to his skilful use of ground and fearless leadership in the construction of the work.

2nd Lt. Charles Coleman Kelly, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great dash and initiative when acting as F.O.O. He maintained communication throughout the day. He sent back information which proved to be of the utmost value, although exposed to particularly heavy machine gun and rifle fire.

Lt. John Kelly, R. Highrs., attd. R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He personally superintended the bringing up of supplies after going through heavy hostile barrage. It was entirely due to his gallantry and determination that water and food were got up to the battalion each night.

2nd Lt. Douglas Stewart Kennedy, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While on a close patrol he attacked three hostile scouts and succeeded in dispersing them. A second formation of four enemy machines then attacked, but were also dispersed, two of them being driven down. The result of these combats was largely due to his skill and determination.

Temp. Capt. John Kennington, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded the two leading companies with great skill and courage, setting a splendid example at a time when it was most needed. Later, although badly stunned, after a brief rest, he completed the consolidation of his line.

Temp. Capt. Francis Kenneth Kerr, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. R. Sco. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During heavy and accurate hostile fire he continued to dress wounded, although the building was hit several times. His fine example was of the utmost value to those around him.

Lt. Cecil Hankey Dickson King, K.R.R.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reached the enemy trenches with a very few men. Despite repeated hostile attempts, he succeeded in establishing a bombing post, and with his few men held a long line of trench. He set a fine example throughout under most trying conditions.

2nd Lt. William Lionel Kingwill, Norf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. With a few men he gained the enemy second line and held the position until compelled through lack of bombs to withdraw. It was due to his bravery and example that the morale of all ranks with him was maintained.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John George Kirkup, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great dash and initiative, re-formed the men under the barrage and reached his final objective. Throughout he set a splendid example of courage and coolness.

2nd Lt. George Albert Knapp, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He worked continuously for three hours in repairing the lines under heavy shell fire, including gas shells. He has on previous occasions shown great courage under similar circumstances.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Philip Felix Lambert, W. Rid. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and resource in taking command of his company in the advance. When the party was withdrawn at night he did good work in organising the defence of a captured trench. He set a fine example throughout.

Temp. Capt. Harold Lancaster, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He supervised the operations of the two companies in the front line and led them in five separate attacks. Finding the enemy wire uncut he himself crawled forward to find a gap through which the men could advance. His able leadership saved many casualties.

2nd Lt. Cecil Norman Last, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed very fine courage and admirable promptness in extinguishing burning ammunition at a most critical moment whilst his battery was under heavy shell fire. His quick grasp of the situation undoubtedly saved many casualties.

2nd Lt. George Van Wyck Laughton, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During 24 hours he was on a picquet in front of our own lines and conducted a daylight patrol to within 300 yards of the enemy trenches. Throughout he displayed the greatest courage and determination.

2nd Lt. William Law, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When on a reconnaissance the area was violently shelled and came under heavy machine gun fire. Despite being twice blown over he completed his task and returned with the required information.

Temp. Capt. Alec Buchanan Lawson, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried out a personal reconnaissance of the enemy position and obtained most valuable information. By his coolness in organising captured positions under fire he proved of invaluable assistance throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Albert Duncan Layton, E. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in maintaining communications between battalion headquarters and the front line under heavy shell fire. His personal energy and fearlessness were beyond all praise.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Robert Victor Lees, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed untiring energy and ability in organising the advance to the second objective. He did splendid work in capturing and consolidating the position. He was mainly responsible for the capturing of the machine guns which were giving so much trouble.

2nd Lt. William Kemp Leggat, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His platoon had reached its objective and consolidation was proceeding under heavy machine gun and rifle fire. To overcome this he pushed forward with a small party and cleared the enemy position of machine guns and snipers. His handling of his men was masterly.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) James Helier Le Rougetel, North'n R., Spec. Res., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource in reconnoitring and placing his guns in forward positions under heavy artillery fire. It was entirely due to his devotion that after they had been buried and put out of action they were at once replaced and the front covered.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Gilbert Frederick Ashley Lewin, Suff. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He continued to lead his company although he was twice wounded. His devotion to duty and determination greatly assisted the company in their attack on a position under heavy enfilade fire.

2nd Lt. Alexander Slater Lidiard, Manch. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in operations. He led his company, under extreme difficulties, with bravery and skill, working day and night and regardless of danger, consolidating isolated positions and encouraging his men. He was practically unaided, his officer and most N.C.O.'s having become casualties.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) William Carruthers Smith Lindsay, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his company with the greatest skill and courage, quickly sending back valuable information. Later, he assumed command of the battalion with complete success until relieved.

2nd Lt. Godfrey Frank Mackwood Ling, W.York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. By his skilful manœuvring of the Stokes mortars under his command, and his personal reconnaissance, he afforded valuable assistance to our infantry attack, and was instrumental in stopping an enemy counter-attack, though subjected to heavy machine gun and shell fire throughout the action.

2nd Lt. Charles William Stephen Littlewood, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried out the strengthening of a brick bridge under hostile barrage. His coolness and example enabled the work to be completed without cessation, despite casualties.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Arthur Oswald Lloyd, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took over control when his company commander was wounded, and with great courage and determination organised the defence and repelled three counter-attacks.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harold John Lodge, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company at a critical period, when the front line was obscure. He completed the capture and consolidation of the position, and showed great courage and ability throughout.

2nd Lt. John Percival Love, Hamps. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company during an enemy counter-attack. Finding one of his posts severely pressed by the enemy he went forward to them under heavy shell and machine gun fire, rallied the men, and held on to the post.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Coutts Lyall, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in reorganising his company after his company commander had been wounded. He made most skilful dispositions, and though wounded and in great pain he remained on duty until he had brought his company out of action.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Thomas Walter Lymer, Bedf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He directed bombing attacks for three hours, and repulsed all enemy counter-attacks. Although exposed the entire time to enemy fire he worked with the utmost energy and determination.

Temp. Capt. James Sherrard Lyons, R. Lanc R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in personally reconnoitring an untrenched position and getting a trench dug on the line. During this operation his company was subjected to heavy enemy barrage and machine-gun fire, but by his coolness and courage he succeeded in digging in a good defence line under cover of darkness. He was severely wounded shortly afterwards.

2nd Lt. (acting Capt.) Alastair Hugh Macdonald, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his company during the advance with the utmost skill and determination. It was entirely due to his fine leadership and coolness in the face of heavy fire that he obtained his objectives with so little loss.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) William Buchanan Macgeorge, H.L.I., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He was continually in action for four days and nights, and by the daring and skilful handling of his guns he greatly assisted in repelling numerous counter-attacks.

2nd Lt. Donald Edward Francis Macgregor, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When wounded severely in the head he led his company, and himself bombed a number of dug-outs, which were fully occupied by the enemy.

Temp. Lt. Joseph Randolph Morell Mackenzie, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion on numerous occasions when attending wounded and leading stretcher-bearer parties under every kind of heavy and continuous fire, and invariably exhibiting great skill, coolness and contempt of danger.

Lt. Kenneth Stirling Mackenzie, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as Brigade F.O.O. he maintained visual communication under heavy shell fire. He sent back most important information, which contributed largely to the successful meeting of the enemy counter-attacks.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) George Edward Mackey, R. Highrs., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a machine-gun section with great skill and determination. Attacking a battalion of the enemy he inflicted severe losses, thereby assisting our infantry to hold on to their position. He displayed marked ability throughout.

Temp. Lt. James Gilmore Mackinlay, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability when surviving company commander during a heavy and at first partially successful enemy counter-attack. His bravery and skilful disposition not only re-established the position, but largely contributed to the repulse of the enemy with heavy loss.

2nd Lt. John Ronald Mackintosh-Walker, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After the attack he superintended the recovery of the wounded under heavy fire throughout the night. On a later date, although wounded, he remained with his company until all wounded had been cleared from the trench.

2nd Lt. Ian Moncrieff Maclennan, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great courage and coolness. When held up at the final objective he reorganised his men in front of the enemy trench, and was successful in gaining his objective, personally leading a bombing attack on the position.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Donald Alexander Mill Main, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried up a machine gun under heavy fire and covered his company's advance. When ammunition ran short he went back through heavy shell fire and obtained further supplies. Later, he took command of the company, and throughout set a magnificent example to all.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Reginald George Malcolm, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has shown exceptional skill and courage in aerial fighting. He has several times been attacked by superior numbers, and on each occasion has accounted for more than one of the hostile machines and effected a safe landing himself.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Douglas Lionel Malcolm-Smith, attd. K.R. Rif. C.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability. When his company commander was killed he took command, and displayed great bravery and resource in dealing with an enemy strong point which was holding up an attack

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Lyon Robert Macgregor Malloch, Sco. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with skill and great determination. It was largely owing to his leading that the battalion reached an advanced point, and held on to the ground until relieved.

Temp. Capt. Eyde Rolleston Manning, Gen. List and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when conducting photographic reconnaissances. On one occasion he obtained successful photographs though attacked by eight hostile machines, and he has on all occasions displayed the utmost pluck and gallantry.

2nd Lt. George Alfred Manning, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty under very heavy shell fire. He reorganised and collected his men, who had been scattered by heavy barrage on their way to wire the defences of a position, and his fearlessness and splendid example enabled that work to be carried out successfully, though constantly interrupted by shell fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry John Marsden, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance a gap occurred on the right flank. He immediately organised a platoon from different units, and succeeded in knocking out a machine gun which was holding them up.

2nd Lt. Horace Frederick Martin, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He did excellent work in establishing an observation post in advance of our line, from which he directed the fire of the batteries with great effect. His keenness has shown itself on all occasions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Basil Leigh Martin, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed a splendid example of courage throughout. His personal bravery and coolness under fire has been of the utmost value to his men.

Temp. Sub-Lt. Lawrence Charles Matcham, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led his company with great bravery and skill, capturing several enemy positions, and later rendered invaluable assistance in organising their defence under a very heavy fire.

2nd Lt. Malcolm Angus Matheson, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company during the attack, and it was largely due to his good leading and personal bravery that all the objectives were gained. He set a splendid example throughout.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) John Douglas Mathews, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading his company with great dash to their objective. Whilst consolidating, his bombers were heavily attacked, and without hesitation he left the cover of the trench in order to direct operations from the parapet. This he continued to do under heavy machine gun fire until severely wounded.

Temp. Lt. Frederick John Matthews, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in leading his company forward with ammunition under a heavy machine gun fire. He also attacked and captured a machine gun position, seizing the gun and taking about forty prisoners.

2nd Lt. Robert Georges Innes Mavor, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company during the advance at a time when it was held up by machine gun fire. He reorganised the company and handled it with great skill. His fine example and skill enabled the company to gain its final objective.

2nd Lt. Malcolm Theodore Maxwell, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. During an attack, communication between battalion commander and his brigadier was cut by enemy fire. On his own initiative he gained the battery O.P., passing over heavily-shelled ground, and was able to telephone back clear reports.

2nd Lt. Geoffrey Dalziel Mayer, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. By his untiring energy and dash he repelled the enemy from their many posts and blocks. As a company commander he set a fine example to the men until finally wounded.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Kenneth Campbell McCallum, A. & S. Highrs., Spec. Res. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When engaged in escorting a formation of bombing machines he attacked four hostile aircraft, bringing down two of them. While fighting these he was attacked by a large hostile formation, which completely surrounded him. Although badly wounded in the foot he succeeded in effecting a safe landing behind our own lines.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Norman McCracken, R. Suss. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has performed valuable work when on patrol. He twice took out patrols under very heavy fire and came in contact with the enemy each time. He also organised the cutting of our own wire, which was carried out under heavy shell fire.

Temp. Capt. Randal Vivian McDonnell. R.A.M.C., attd. Bedf. R.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion. For over forty-eight hours he attended more than 200 wounded, many having to be dressed in the open under heavy fire. His total disregard of personal danger was beyond praise.

Capt. Malcolm McGillivray, M.B., R.A.M.C., Spec. Res., attd. S. Wales Bord.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although his dressing station was twice blown in, and himself extricated with great difficulty, he continued to attend wounded under heavy shell fire.

2nd Lt. Alexander Gruer McGruer, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a raid on the enemy trenches he formed a line of strong points twenty yards from the enemy line and held them until rushed by the enemy at dawn. He continued to defend them until practically surrounded, finally withdrawing to our own front line.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) William McIndoe, R. Scots Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When battalions had become much mixed he collected a large party from different units and succeeded in making six strong points. His prompt action and courage proved of the utmost value at a critical time.

2nd Lt. Alexander Brodie McKeand, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He performed most valuable work when in charge of battalion carrying parties. He frequently took long journeys in his efforts to secure water for the troops. His pluck and determination under heavy fire greatly assisted with the final consolidation.

Temp. Capt. Daniel McKelvey, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack by his battalion he followed them closely and attended to the wounded in the open under very heavy fire. His fearlessness and gallant conduct throughout the operations was most marked.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Archibald McLay, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in an attack, when he displayed great bravery and powers of leadership in reorganising parties of other battalions and consolidating advanced positions.

2nd Lt. Douglas Lester McMaster, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as liaison officer with an infantry battalion he went forward to a very exposed position, and for twelve hours sent back much useful information. He restored an exceedingly critical situation which had arisen owing to the officers in the trench being wounded and the men much disorganised.

Temp. Capt. Murdo McKenzie McRae, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Owing to the shortage of bearers this officer carried in during the night seven or eight wounded men who otherwise would have died in the snow. He has performed consistent good work throughout.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) James Walter Douglas Melhuish, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of his platoon he showed great ability and indifference to personal danger in repelling a strong enemy counter-attack.

Temp. 2nd Lt. George Menary, Sco. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage through a heavy barrage. He captured one field battery and a battery of field howitzers and several prisoners. He set a splendid example throughout.

Temp. Lt. Thomas Barker Merrick, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry when in charge of machine guns. More than once he was blown up by a shell and buried, and his section suffered heavily, but he fought his gun with great bravery and skill, and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

2nd Lt. Alfred Frithjof Merry, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great ability and courage in leading his men through the enemy wire. By his personal example he later stimulated the consolidation, thus saving further casualties.

2nd Lt. Lewis Edward Michel, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in driving back two strong attacks upon his line with heavy loss to the enemy. He showed marked courage and ability in handling his company under very difficult circumstances.

Temp. Capt. Arthur Gilbert Michelsen Middleton, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great gallantry and bravery in carrying in two wounded men under heavy hostile shelling. He displayed the utmost disregard for danger throughout in carrying out his duties.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Miller, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As intelligence officer, and after being wounded in the leg, he made his way through the barrage to the front, and returned with valuable information. He continued his work until forced to withdraw.

2nd Lt. Neville Miller, R. War. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reached the second objective, and though badly wounded extricated his men from a most dangerous position. He remained with his men for twelve hours until brought in.

Lt. Robert Miller, Sco. Rif., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men with great skill and showed a fine example of courage under shell fire. He continually sent back useful reports and succeeded in capturing four field howitzers and several prisoners.

Capt. Stephen Douglas Mills, Bedf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in action, when he led his company with great bravery, continually encouraging and reorganising his men, and although wounded he continued in control until he had driven back a heavy counter-attack.

2nd Lt. Ian Byers Moir, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was wounded early in the advance, but continued to lead his men with great gallantry and dash. His action throughout showed great coolness and resolution.

2nd Lt. Walter Moody, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As forward observation officer he succeeded, under great difficulties, in establishing communication with his battery and sending back valuable information. He repeatedly went backwards and forwards through the heavy hostile barrage in his efforts to maintain communication.

Temp. Lt. Bernard Joseph Moore, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On his own initiative he left his observation post and went forward under heavy machine-gun fire to obtain information from an infantry brigade when the situation had become obscure and critical. His report was early and accurate, and of very great assistance in meeting the situation.

2nd Lt. Charles Gwyn Noel Morgan, R.W. Fus., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst in charge of a working party in front of our positions. Though subjected to severe rifle, machine gun, and grenade fire he continued to work until his task was successfully accomplished, setting the finest example of personal gallantry and coolness under the worst conditions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frederick Ernest Morgan, S. Wales Bord.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability. When his company commander was killed he led the assault which captured the enemy trench. Later, he organised parties to bring in the wounded. His conduct throughout exhibited great bravery and judgment.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Harold Newbery Morgan, R. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance the situation became most obscure. He went forward over exposed ground under heavy barrage and reconnoitred the whole area, and succeeded in bringing back most important and valuable information.

2nd Lt. Lewis Langharne Morgan, Welsh R., attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He crossed the lines at a height of under 100 feet, and destroyed a hostile kite balloon. Previously he attacked a hostile scout at close range and brought it down in flames. He has shown great gallantry in many combats.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harold Lisle Morley, E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After his company had reached their objective he led a bombing attack to his flank against two enemy machine guns. His prompt action resulted in the destruction of the machine gun and the taking of forty prisoners.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Arthur Augustus Morris, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He patrolled for several hundred yards beyond the final objective, and sent back most valuable information. This patrol was carried out under heavy artillery barrage.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Edwin Walter Morrison, D. of Corn. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry in an attack when he led his platoon with the greatest courage although twice wounded. Eventually he retired after being wounded eight times, but was anxious to return after his wounds had been dressed.

2nd Lt. Edgar Alan Mortleman, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. At great personal risk he extinguished a fire in an ammunition dump, thereby saving much loss of life and material. Later, he dug out buried men until overcome by gas fumes.

2nd Lt. William Albert Murley, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as observation officer he displayed great courage in repeatedly mending wires under heavy barrage.

2nd Lt. Andrew John Murray, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although he was wounded before leaving the trenches, he led his company in the attack. Despite casualties, he continued to lead his men to their objective, where he organised the work of consolidation.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Michael John Murray, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he led his company with great courage and determination. He displayed a total disregard for personal safety, and throughout set a magnificent example to all.

2nd Lt. Harold Methven Musson, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was acting as F.O.O., and established himself close to the objective. When the advance was held up he went forward under heavy fire and joined the infantry, and returned with information of their position. Throughout he sent in most valuable information.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry Albert Gartside Neville, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as intelligence officer he displayed untiring energy and total disregard for personal safety. He went through heavily shelled areas and obtained information of the utmost value.

Temp. 2nd Lt. George Arthur Newling, R.M.

For conspicuous gallantry in an attack, when he led his platoon with great courage and skill, and held the objective, when captured, against numerous counter-attacks.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Robert White Newton, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great resource and initiative in reorganising small parties of men after his battalion had been held up by machine-gun fire, and in meeting and repulsing the enemy's counter-attack. His coolness at a critical juncture kept his men together and enabled them to turn the enemy out of our trenches, where they had obtained a footing.

2nd Lt. Charles Evelyn Nugent, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when acting as Forward Observation Officer. He went forward under very heavy fire and sent back most valuable information. He set a splendid example of courage and initiative.

Temp. Lt. John Martin Oakey, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of four trench mortar batteries he carried out a most successful piece of work. Two thousand rounds of ammunition had to be carried a distance of 2,500 yards. This was successfully accomplished, in spite of enemy fire and the difficulty of working over open ground at night.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Kinloch Ogilvie, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he carried out several reconnaissances, going through a heavy barrage on each occasion. He obtained most valuable information.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Leonard Alfred Osborne. Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the advance was held up by enemy machine gun fire he worked as far as possible along a trench close to the enemy position and remained there until relieved. Throughout he displayed the utmost gallantry and determination.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Frederick Oswald Outhwaite, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an enemy counter attack they succeeded in entering a portion of our line. He crawled within ten yards of the captured position and gained valuable information. He returned and organised and led a successful counter attack.

2nd Lt. Vernon Page, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a heavy hostile bombardment the camouflage of a dump of ammunition caught fire. He personally organised a party and was instrumental in putting out the fire and saving the ammunition.

2nd Lt. Kenneth Macaulay Papworth, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great courage and determination when superintending the construction of strong points, particularly on one occasion, when he supervised the work of his party under continuous heavy shell fire.

Lt. Charles Allen Parker, R.F.A., Spec. Res., and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When on a photographic reconnaissance he was attacked by hostile scouts, and his observer was severely wounded. He effected a landing near our front line, and carried his observer clear of the machine, which was heavily shelled the entire time, and had burst into flames.

Temp. Capt. Percy Clarence Parker, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. With great skill and coolness he led his men to the attack, and successfully resisted counter-attacks until forced to retire by enfilade fire. He withdrew his men in a very orderly manner, covering his retirement by machine gun fire, and throughout the operation his calmness inspired his men with the greatest confidence under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

2nd Lt. Alexander Paton, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led his men forward under heavy bombardment, delivering rations and water to a front line, which had been cut off.

Temp. Capt. Murray Gladstone Patten, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took over a scattered series of shell holes, but quickly mapped out and constructed a continual trench forming a strong line of defence. This work was done under continuous shell and machine gun fire.

Lt. Robert Dermott Barnes Perrott, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of a large carrying party, and led them through a heavy barrage to an exposed position. He there proceeded to dig and wire a strong point close to the enemy. His fine example and disregard for danger enabled the work to be successfully accomplished.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Leslie Hurst Peter, R.E. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When leading a reconnaissance his formation was attacked by hostile scouts. He kept his machines together and carried out a successful photographic reconnaissance despite a strong attack. To his leadership and initiative were largely due the success of the patrol.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frank Wesley Peters, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has shown great dash and initiative throughout. On one occasion, when three of his men were wounded, he went forward under machine gun fire and brought all three men back to cover.

Temp. Capt. George Lynn Pillans, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great determination and courage in leading bearer squads through heavy barrage. This he did several times, and throughout superintended the evacuation under heavy shell fire.

Temp. Lt. Ernest William Pither, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He controlled his machine guns with great skill and initiative. On one occasion he engaged two enemy batteries at 500 yards range. His fine work greatly assisted in the advance of the infantry.

2nd Lt. Robert Marmaduke Pittard, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his company when there was no other officer left, and by his gallantry, coolness and resource under very heavy fire was able to consolidate his position and subsequently to extricate his force without confusion when a withdrawal became necessary. His personal courage was most marked.

Temp. Lt. Charles Pratt, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack. Whilst under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, he collected and organised stragglers of various units, and led them forward in support of the attack, and, although wounded in three places, he refused to retire.

Lt. Bernard Preedy, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest coolness and resource in attending to the wounded under heavy shell fire, and though badly shaken himself, he organised and led a bearer party through a heavy barrage of gas shells to the relay point.

Temp. 2nd Lt. William Thomas Price, R. War. R., and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His machine being disabled by hostile fire, and his gun out of action, he managed by skilful handling to effect a safe landing, thus saving the machine and his passenger from capture. He has previously done fine work against hostile aircraft.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Godwyn Woolnough Prince, R. Suss. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He volunteered and led a successful raiding party. The party reached the enemy lines, despite machine gun and rifle fire. Valuable information was obtained and the party successfully withdrawn, despite a heavy hostile barrage.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Stanley Dixon Proffit, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great ability and courage in re-forming his platoon at each successive point in the advance. During the hostile counter-attack later on his energy was invaluable, especially in patrol work, when the counter-attack had been driven off.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Arthur Pryke, Suff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great coolness and courage as Intelligence Officer. He made two reconnaissances of our new position under heavy fire of all kinds, and reported to Headquarters. On a later date he carried out a reconnaissance under similar conditions, and was wounded as he returned.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Charles Edward Pullinger, K.R.R.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company at a very critical time, although he himself was wounded. In the face of heavy fire of all kinds, he collected and reorganised the company, and successfully consolidated his position.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried out continuous observation for five days in the front line. He was under continuous bombardment, and crawled from shell-hole to shell-hole and observed the fire of his battery. His great gallantry was of the utmost assistance to the attack.

Lt. (actg. Capt.) Charles Henry Putnam, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has been untiring and most successful in moving his battery from position to position. His O.P. work under fire has been conspicuous, and of the utmost value to the Brigade.

2nd Lt. George Henry Quantrill, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and powers of leadership when in command of a successful raiding party. Later, although slightly wounded, he carried out a daring reconnaissance under conditions of extreme difficulty.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Arnold James Rahles-Rahbula, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in an attack. When his men came under a heavy barrage and enfilade fire, he displayed the greatest courage and coolness, and rallied and encouraged them by his fine example until severely wounded.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Rayner, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and determination when commanding his Tank. He patrolled the enemy line for seven hours, destroying machine gun emplacements and several strong points, thus materially assisting a brigade to reach their objective.

2nd Lt. Charles Little Read, Seaf. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great courage and determination to their objective, which was reached despite heavy casualties. His splendid courage under heavy fire and fine leadership set an excellent example to his men.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company under heavy fire, and led them with fine judgment. He was responsible for the capture of several guns and prisoners, and his personal reconnaissances were most valuable.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great resource and determination in assuming command of his company when all other officers were casualties, in reorganising men of other companies, and in digging in and maintaining his position. He subsequently withdrew with his flanks in the air, and brought all his wounded with him. His skill was most marked.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry Godden Rerrie, York and Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of his platoon he was subjected to severe artillery and machine gun fire, and in a very isolated position. Throughout the day, although himself wounded, he set a splendid example to his men under most trying conditions.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Henry Reynolds, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in reorganising his company when all the officers had become casualties, and leading it to the attack with great courage and coolness. His fine example had a most steadying effect upon the men, who had been badly shaken.

2nd Lt. Arthur Percival Foley Rhys-Davids, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. On many occasions he has shot down hostile machines and put others out of action, frequently pursuing to low altitudes. On all occasions his fearlessness and dash have been most marked.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Edward Arthur Beckton Rice, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when leading photographic reconnaissances. Though repeatedly attacked, he led the formation to its objective on every occasion with the utmost skill and determination, and has set a very fine example of leadership in no less than eleven successful operations.

Temp. Lt. Joseph Rickards, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He attended a large number of wounded in a barn which was under heavy shell fire. During the night he organised a party which brought in many wounded from an exposed position on the battlefield.

2nd Lt. Alfred Arnold Riley, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. An assault having failed, and most of his officers being casualties, he collected and reorganised all the men he could find and formed a strong front against counter-attacks by occupying and linking up a line of shell holes. After his battalion was relieved he remained behind to guide the stretcher-bearers to the wounded, thereby saving many lives.

2nd Lt. Ralph Risk, Gord. Highrs., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon, under very heavy machine gun fire, to a position where he established a post, which he held until ordered to withdraw. His great personal courage and fine example enabled him to secure his position and keep his men in hand.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Arthur Glynn Roberts, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded the company with great skill and courage. When they were held up he collected a few men, dashed forward, and put a machine gun out of action, which enabled the advance to proceed.

Capt. Ernest Brian Robinson, E. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He lay in a shell hole close to the enemy line for four hours. Though wounded, he collected men from other shell holes, brought in wounded, and returned to the newly captured position, where he superintended the consolidation for some time before having his own wound dressed.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Fred Robinson, S. Staff. Regt.

For conspicuous gallantry in lengthy operations, when he led his company with great coolness and courage through heavy machine gun and rifle fire, to its final objective, consolidating the position in spite of great difficulties and heavy casualties. Later, although twice buried by heavy shells on his way back, he made a clear report on the situation.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Maurice Geoffrey Robson, Yorks. Regt.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in command of a raid on enemy trenches. His party being held up by hostile wire, he proceeded, with one man only, and under heavy fire, along the hostile trench. His personal courage and coolness in patrol work has always been of great encouragement to his men.

Temp. Lt. William Henry Robson, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He advanced with a small party under intense machine gun fire, and captured and consolidated a position in front of the main attack, which had been held up. He held this post, repelling counter-attacks, for twenty-four hours, when he was ordered to withdraw.

Lt. Edward Hugh Rose, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On several occasions he set his guns, at great personal risk, under heavy shell fire, to enfilade enemy trenches known to be occupied. He handled his guns throughout with great coolness and ability, and at all times set a splendid example to his men.

2nd Lt. Cecil Goodall Ross, R. Scots, Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the greatest skill and determination when commanding his battery. His co-operation with the infantry and total disregard for personal safety contributed greatly to the success of the advance.

Temp. Surg. James Ness McBean Ross, R.N.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion on many occasions in organising and leading stretcher-bearers in search for wounded and attending them under very heavy fire.

Temp. Capt. Henry Birkmyre Rowan, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For a day and a half he took complete command of the forward operations. He was continuously backwards and forwards between the front line and telephone, exposing himself to heavy machine gun and rifle fire. His sound judgment and prompt action undoubtedly saved the situation.

2nd Lt. Hugh Rowlands, R.W. Fus., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Accompanied by an N.C.O., he crawled over 100 yards in front of our lines and captured three enemy snipers from shell-holes. By his fine act he removed a very serious menace. He has consistently done fine work throughout.

2nd Lt. Eric Ruffell, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rescuing and attending to the wounded of his battery on two occasions when under heavy shell fire. His coolness and promptness in arranging for their removal set a splendid example to all, and had a most excellent effect upon the discipline and moral of his battery.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Norman Ryder, N. Lan. R., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in bringing his section into action under adverse conditions and heavy shelling. Although severely wounded, he concealed the fact from his men, and remained for many hours at his post, until the situation was well in hand.

2nd Lt. Kenneth Herbert Saunders, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a bombing party against the enemy with the utmost gallantry and determination. Although wounded three times, he continued to lead his men, and it was not until he had been wounded twice more that he allowed himself to be evacuated.

Temp. Capt. Montague Kenneth Fergusson Saunders, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability during an attack. When the C.O. was killed, he took command of the battalion, and led it with the utmost skill and determination until severely wounded.

2nd Lt. Oliver Frederick Savege, Lond. R., attd. Rif. Brig.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reorganised the company in the front line after an attack, and displayed great initiative in sending out patrols and obtaining much useful information. He set a fine example under most trying conditions.

2nd Lt. Charles Edward Schnadhorst, N. Staff. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in marking out an infantry track under heavy shell fire, thereby enabling a trench to be built which proved of great value in a subsequent attack.

2nd Lt. Rudolph Oscar Schuh, Devon. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. Firstly, in leading a patrol on a dangerous reconnaissance; and, secondly, when all the Company Commanders had become casualties, in reorganising and holding the front line until the supply of bombs had been exhausted.

2nd Lt. Alfred Scott, R.F.A. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in personally laying a telephone wire under machine gun fire after his two telephonists had been wounded. He afterwards returned under heavy fire to the wounded men, got them under cover, and dressed their wounds.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Charles Anderson Scott, S. Staffs. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He performed most valuable service as Signal Officer. He laid and maintained the lines under heavy fire. Though wounded in the leg, he carried on until he was ordered to be carried to the rear.

Temp. Lt. Frederic Scott, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack. Although badly shaken by a bursting shell, he collected thirty men and dug himself in in a forward position, holding it under heavy fire for a day and night. He was wounded, but refused attention until he had withdrawn his party.

2nd Lt. Robert Edward Leslie Scott, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He ranged his battery on a hostile battery with great success, after being under shell fire in his observing station, which was hit. His work has been consistently good.

2nd Lt. Charles Greenwich Scudamore, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded, he continued to lead his men, and gave directions for the holding of the captured position, and returned to hand in his report before having his wound attended. He set a fine example throughout.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Ernest Howard Shepard, R.G.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As forward Observation Officer he continued to observe and send back valuable information, in spite of heavy shell and machine gun fire. His courage and coolness were conspicuous.

2nd Lt. John Serle Siddell, York & Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great initiative and self-reliance in leading bombing parties on several occasions, and by skilful handling of his Lewis guns was able to account for thirty of an enemy wiring party. His disregard of danger was most marked.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Albert Edward Sidwell, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led the attack against a highly organised strong point. He succeeded in overcoming the enemy, capturing a large number of prisoners. He then went on clearing two lines of trenches beyond, taking in all over 100 prisoners, a machine gun, and trench mortar.

Lt. Sydney Edwin Silver, Essex R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his company with the utmost skill and courage, and later organised a masterly retreat, inflicting severe losses on the enemy. He set a magnificent example throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Norman Stuart Sim, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men forward to assist the advance on the right. He exposed himself fearlessly in forming a strong point, which he held all day. Throughout he set a splendid example under most trying conditions.

Temp. Capt. John Guy Simons, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great energy and resource, displaying a total disregard of danger. Throughout he set a magnificent example of courage and coolness.

2nd Lt. John Wyckliffe Simpson, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great coolness and ability through the barrage, although it suffered heavy casualties. Finding himself almost without men, he took command of another platoon, and, reorganising, the two attacked again.

Temp. Capt. John Finlayson McGill Sloan, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His dressing station being blown in on the top, he dressed over 200 cases under very difficult conditions. He had to twice change his dressing station.

Temp. 2nd Lt. James Fenemore Smallwood, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the initial attack he went forward and reconnoitred the advanced positions. He was wounded while on this patrol, but continued until he had been along the entire front. He brought back most valuable information.

2nd Lt. James Lamont Smart, W. York. R., attd. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in an attack, when he succeeded in getting all his guns into position under heavy fire, and inflicting very severe casualties on the enemy. He set a fine example of courage and initiative.

Temp. Sub-Lt. Francis Beacroft Smith, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack, when leading his men. Although shot three times, he continued, with great dash and determination, to advance, bayonetting three of the enemy, refusing to retire until ordered to do so.

2nd Lt. John Allan Smith, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On his own initiative he went back through the barrage to give information to the artillery. Later, he showed a complete disregard for personal safety in his endeavour to get in touch with the flanks under heavy fire of all kinds.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Leslie Smith, York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a patrol in daylight, and under machine gun fire closely examined the enemy wire, and brought back much valuable information. He has previously done fine work on patrol.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Percy Bourdon Smith, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in carrying out several reconnaissances before dark, and personally laying out tapes for work required, frequently being exposed to heavy fire. Eventually he was severely wounded.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Percy William Smith, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability during lengthy operations. When all the senior officers had become casualties, he commanded the Battalion in action with great courage and devotion until relieved some days later.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Robert Paterson Smith, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was placed in command of what was left of two companies. These he commanded throughout the remainder of the operations with untiring energy and devotion. He carried out several reconnaissances, and his reports were of the utmost value.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Edward George Hugh Smyth-Pigott, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great coolness and initiative in the defence of a post which was surrounded and heavily attacked by the enemy in superior numbers. Owing to our machine guns and mortars being put out of action, it became necessary to withdraw, which was accomplished with very slight casualties under his skilful directions. He first buried the machine guns and mortars, which were brought back after the position had been retaken.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Joseph Snee, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage. He reorganised under the barrage and got into his final objective, doing great execution with bombs. He displayed great gallantry throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Frank Speak, E. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in lengthy operations, when he led two companies in an attack and organised the consolidation of the positions gained. Later, although wounded in a further advance, he remained at his post until relieved. His fine example throughout was inspiring to his men.

2nd Lt. James Spence, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led the right half of his company to the third objective in the face of heavy machine gun and shell fire. Although wounded he continued to lead his men until the objective was reached. He was badly wounded a second time.

Lt. Fred Joyner Spencer, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in proceeding in full view and under heavy enemy fire to a front line trench in order to lay the lines of fire for a Stokes' mortar section. Part of the trench was in hostile possession. His gallant act enabled an accurate fire to be brought to bear on the enemy position.

Temp. Lt. George Vyvyan Spurway, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in support of infantry during an attack. For forty-eight hours he rendered the infantry most valuable assistance, reorganising the scattered men and securing the line against counter-attacks with his fire, and his spirit and energy greatly inspired the men under the heavy fire to which they were exposed throughout.

Temp. Lt. (temp. Capt.) Harry Neville Stafford, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Having received a message that many wounded were on heavily shelled ground, he organised rescue parties, and brought them all in, although he was severely wounded in this gallant work.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Albert Victor Stapleton, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Owing to the unavoidably exposed position of his battery, he was under continuous shell fire, which constantly buried his guns. In spite of this he carried out his difficult task of wire-cutting on the enemy front line, with complete success.

Temp. Capt. James Hamilton Stewart, A.V.C., attd. R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the evening the wagon lines were heavily shelled. He at once went to the assistance of a wounded man; having seen him taken away, he returned to the other wounded and did what was necessary for the horses. All this was carried out under continuous shelling.

2nd Lt. Osmer Noel Stewart, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as F.O.O. he went forward under heavy shell fire and sent back valuable information throughout the day. His maintenance of communications enabled the artillery to inflict considerable damage on enemy positions.

2nd Lt. John Heslop Stitt, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed exceptional powers of leadership and initiative in taking command of two companies which had no officers left. He personally led a bombing attack, established himself in the enemy trench, and captured over 100 of the enemy and a machine gun. His energy, courage and coolness were most marked.

2nd Lt. John Harold Strachan, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great dash and initiative during the advance. Accompanied by four men he rushed an enemy machine gun and seventeen men, capturing the machine gun and several prisoners. His action removed a very serious menace to the advance.

Temp Lt. Andrew Strang, K.R.R.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in safely conducting seven wagons and limbers of wiring material to his battalion amidst great confusion which had arisen owing to the wagons and teams being heavily shelled. His splendid coolness and resource brought about success when the conditions appeared almost impossible.

Capt. Gordon Charles Cameron Strange, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in reorganising his company when enfiladed and held up within 150 yards of the enemy position by heavy fire. Later in the day, at great personal risk, he reconnoitred the ground, and established a strong defensive position to a dangerously exposed flank.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) John Kenneth Summers, Gen'l List, and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has continuously performed valuable work in co-operating with the artillery. He has on many occasions flown at a very low altitude in order to give information to the infantry, which has proved of the utmost value.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in remaining at his post under heavy fire for many hours whilst laying a telephone line between important points.

2nd Lt. John Martyn Symons, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry during operations, when he remained out for four nights and five days, sending in most valuable information, obtained under heavy fire.

2nd Lt. Kenneth Harry Tallerman, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during operations. Although wounded and suffering from shock, he took command of the battery on all the officers becoming casualties, and handled it with great skill and courage under most trying conditions.

2nd Lt. Reginald Hugh Tautz, Manch. R., attd. N. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of a raiding party. Finding the gap, previously cut, had been repaired, he cut his way through under fire and cleared seventy yards of enemy trench, displaying the greatest determination and courage.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Herbert Tayler, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of an observation party which took part in the advance. He organised and assisted in keeping open communication with total disregard for his personal safety. On two occasions he went through heavy barrage to collect information from the infantry. These reports were of the greatest value.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Humphrey Francis Taylor, R. Suss. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading his company to their objective during an attack with total disregard of personal safety. He later on led a bombing party against the enemy, inflicting heavy loss and capturing prisoners and machine guns. His conduct throughout was magnificent.

2nd Lt. James Irvine Taylor, Linc. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led the remainder of the company on to their objective, immediately reorganising the company and consolidating the position. Later, he went out on patrol and brought back valuable information.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) John Cairns Tennant, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in charge of trench mortars when, after a very dangerous reconnaissance under fire, he brought his guns into action, and succeeded in clearing the enemy from a strong point which had given much trouble.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Claud Romako a' Beckett Terrell, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry in action. His guns were subjected to very severe shell fire, and five of the six detachments were disabled. With great skill and courage he supported the infantry with his only undamaged guns, being the whole time under heavy fire.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Frederick James Harry Thayre, R.F.C., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has consistently displayed great dash and skill and determination when acting as a pilot in bombing raids. His fine offensive spirit and determination to close with the enemy has set a splendid example to his squadron.

2nd Lt. Reginald Theobald, Suff. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicouus gallantry and devotion to duty. He did valuable work in cutting wire, and also carried out an important reconnaissance. Later, while mopping up, although badly wounded, he got his party together, regained his company, and went on to the final objective.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his company. He pushed on himself with a few men, and gained a footing in the enemy trench, despite heavy machine gun and rifle fire. This greatly facilitated the advance of the rest of the company.

2nd Lt. Mervyn Hetherington Thomas, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two occasions he organised parties to extinguish fires that were threatening serious damage to ammunition and the guns of his battery. They were under heavy shell fire at the time, and his promptness prevented very serious casualties.

2nd Lt. William Douglas Baird Thompson, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He gained his objective in the face of very heavy machine-gun and rifle fire. His total disregard for personal safety and coolness under fire largely contributed to success of the operation.

Capt. Sydney Douglas Thorpe, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was ordered to make a strong point in the newly-won position. He did this successfully, and owing to his excellent disposition was able to hold on against determined counter-attacks. Later, he carried out a most successful withdrawal under heavy fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Arthur Brooke Malins Thursfield, Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of his company he discovered that the village was still occupied by the enemy. He, on his own initiative, worked round the flank and cut off about ninety of the enemy and captured them. His prompt action undoubtedly assisted the advance of the brigade to a great extent.

Temp. Capt. Charles Gordon Timms, R.A.M.C., attd. R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For two days he attended the wounded in the open under heavy and incessant shell fire, quite regardless of personal danger, and his coolness and energy alleviated much suffering.

2nd Lt. (actg. Lt.) Frederick George Tollworthy, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On several occasions he has shown the greatest coolness and resource in attending to the wounded under gas and shell fire, and in rallying the men when shaken by heavy barrage.

2nd Lt. Herbert George Eric Tower, Norf. R., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He carried out a dangerous reconnaissance in order to report on the enemy's wire, and later attacked with his company, and, although severely wounded, he continued to direct and encourage all ranks with him.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) Colin Balfour Traill, E. York R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during and after an attack. Although wounded in the head, and later blown into the air by a shell, he refused to retire, displaying the greatest courage and resource, and it was only when the critical period was over that he went to the dressing station.

2nd Lt. Herbert Dennis Tree, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. In spite of heavy shelling, he left his dugout and assisted to rescue two men who had been buried by shell explosion.

2nd Lt. Geoffrey Foveaux Trenow, London R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading a bombing party against a strong point, which he captured, inflicting severe casualties and taking many prisoners.

Temp. Capt. William Annandale Troup, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Wilts. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost skill and endurance in clearing the wounded between the lines after the attack. Through the day he carried out his task under continuous shell fire, and was thus instrumental in saving many lives.

Temp. Capt. Alexander John Marshall Tuck, K.O. Sco. Bord., attd. R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in reorganising his company within 150 yards of the enemy lines under heavy enfilade fire, entirely regardless of his personal safety. He afterwards personally reconnoitred the ground with great skill, and selected posts for his Lewis guns, which enabled his brigade to hold the ground gained.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) David George Tully, Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in bringing his company through an intense gas and H.E. barrage, remaining until all had passed through the zone, and encouraging his men by his courageous personal example and disregard for his own safety. He also made several reconnais-sances at great personal risk, and formed a defensive position on a flank that was dangerously exposed.

Temp. Lt. Arthur Stanley Turberville, K.R.R.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He went in advance of his company through an intense artillery barrage to mark out a sector for wiring, and having done so, he returned and led his company to their work. They suffered heavily on the way, but his fearlessness and confidence pulled them together, and the work was successfully completed, entirely owing to the splendid example which he set the men under heavy shell fire all the time.

Temp. Lt. Richard Grant Vanneck, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry in action. He led his company with great skill and determination under heavy shell fire, and established and maintained a position on the right flank of the brigade, which was much exposed at the time.

Temp. Lt. (actg. Capt.) James Charles Vanner, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry when leading and controlling the front line of an attack, and in making a daring reconnaissance under heavy fire to clear up a critical situation. He then consolidated the line taken and repulsed a strong counter-attack.

Temp. Capt. William Vernon Logan Van Someren, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry in beating off a strong enemy counter-attack which threatened to isolate a company from the battalion. His personal courage and determination at a critical moment saved the situation.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Maurice Victor Vaughan, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in collecting, reorganising, and leading back to the correct objective, men of his own and various units who had been carried on too far. This was done under very difficult conditions and heavy fire.

2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Howard Campbell Vaux, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great skill and initiative when commanding his company in the advance. They met with determined resistance in the village, coming under heavy machine-gun fire and uncut wire. He, by his skilful handling of his machine guns and bombers, gained all his objectives.

2nd Lt. Harold George Vickerage, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He repeatedly led his company to the attack, displaying the greatest courage and initiative. After each attack he rendered most valuable assistance in reorganising the company for the next advance.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Herbert Wade, Linc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He collected a few men and a machine gun and remained within 30 yards of the enemy trenches and kept the gun in action for fourteen hours, inflicting severe casualties and being at times under our own barrage and continuous fire from the enemy.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Lawrence Edwin Wakefield, Glouc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and initiative in the handling of his platoon under very heavy fire. He was severely wounded.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) William Norman Walker, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in endeavouring to extinguish blazing ammunition, which had been set on fire by heavy howitzer shells.

Temp. Capt. Anthony Herbert William Wall, Midd'x R., and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As an observer he has on several occasions assisted to bring down hostile machines. His coolness and accurate shooting have helped very largely in aerial combats.

Capt. Alexander Guthrie Semple Wallace, M.B., R.A.M.C., Spec. Res., attd. R. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He continued to attend wounded men in the front line trench despite hostile bombardment. His total disregard for personal danger set a fine example to those around him.

Temp. Capt. Robert Bruce Wallace, M.B., R.A.M.C., attd. Leic. R.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion on many occasions, and notably when suffering from a painful wound he not only continued to dress wounded but went out with stretcher-bearers under heavy fire and dressed and brought in men unable to move.

2nd Lt. Henry Walton, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reached the enemy trenches in advance of the line which was eventually consolidated. By his skill and courage he resisted the enemy's efforts to surround the party, and at night he successfully extricated his men from a very precarious position.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Percy Warburton, E. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the final objective had been gained, he reorganised his men under heavy fire and proceeded to push out posts at once. This enabled the consolidation to be proceeded with rapidly whilst keeping down hostile fire.

2nd Lt. John Stanley Battershill Ward, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great skill and dash in the capture of a very difficult hostile position. A very awkward situation was relieved by the dash and energy with which it was tackled. He set a magnificent example to his men.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Robert Ward, Manch. R., attd. L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He assisted to lay the jumping-off tape, and later carried out a daring and useful reconnaissance of the enemy wire, sending a most valuable report. He has set a fine example throughout.

Temp. 2nd Lt. John Robb Wardrope, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was wounded early in the day, but carried on for some hours. He organised and led the attack on the village. Owing to casualties he himself carried up and worked a machine gun. Throughout, he set a most magnificent example to all.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Cyril Waring, Welsh R.

For conspicuous gallantry when in charge of a raiding party, which captured two prisoners, a machine gun, and caused several enemy casualties. Having attained his object, he withdrew so skilfully that no casualties were suffered.

Temp. Capt. Donald Alexander Warren, R.A.M.C., attd. R. War. R. (Lt., C.A.M.C.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He continued to attend wounded for over an hour under heavy artillery and machine gun fire and in full view of the enemy. Later, he established an aid post, and carried on for forty-eight hours without rest under continuous fire.

Temp. Capt. Philip James Watkin, R.A.M.C., attd. Bedf. R.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion. For two days he dressed wounded under heavy shell fire, and, when the captured trenches had been cleared, he commenced to search the shell holes in "No Man's Land," in spite of heavy sniping fire, until ordered to desist.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) George Grosvenor Watson, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst in command of the leading company in an attack he brought his company into position with great skill in the dark, and thereby was largely responsible for the success of the operation. He was subsequently badly wounded, after leading his company forward with the greatest determination.

2nd Lt. Archibald Roy Watts, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the enemy raided one of our strong points, he moved about the men exposed to heavy rifle and machine gun fire, encouraging and directing them. He went out in front with a rifle himself and accounted for several of the enemy.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Horatio Lewis Way, N. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in making a daring and valuable reconnaissance. He remained out for four hours under heavy shell fire, and brought information of the greatest importance.

Temp. Lt. William Alfred Webb, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in command of a company. He brought into action and organised the fire of eight machine guns under heavy shell fire, which resulted in breaking up two counter-attacks, and in inflicting heavy loss on the enemy.

2nd Lt. Henry Dawson Were, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great initiative and energy as F.O.O. He penetrated communication trenches for some distance in advance of the line held. By this means he was able to send back most valuable information.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Alfred Ernest Wheatley, R.W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability in action. To reach his gun positions it was necessary to pass over heavily shelled ground, and it was mainly due to his courage and resource that this was successfully accomplished.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Lyndall Theodore Whitby, D. of Corn. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The enemy made a heavy counter-attack on the flank of our position. He, by his energy and coolness dispersed the enemy within twenty yards of the position. This was solely due to his prompt organising of machine gun sections, which inflicted heavy casualties.

2nd Lt. Frederick William Whitehead, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When orderly officer, his promptness and energy in directing the supply of ammunition to his battery and in getting the wagons and teams away under heavy shell fire averted many casualties. Although somewhat badly disabled, he carried on till all was clear.

2nd Lt. Ronald Shiress Whitson, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He performed most valuable work as scouting officer. He went forward under heavy fire, and brought back important information, which was of the greatest value. His work throughout under most trying conditions has been of a very high order.

2nd Lt. Charles Harold Wilkinson, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the battery position was heavily shelled he left a place of safety, and, assisted by one man, proceeded to dig out an N.C.O. who had been buried. The task was carried out under intense hostile shell fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Donald Frederick Wilkinson, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack, although wounded and blinded in one eye, he went forward and established an advanced bombing post, which he held for some hours until compelled by intense fire to withdraw. He subsequently showed the greatest gallantry in carrying back wounded men from No Man's Land.

2nd Lt. (temp. Lt.) Percy Alan Wilkinson, R.F.A., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as F.O.O. he kept up communication under most difficult circumstances and heavy shell fire. Later, when both wires and lamp had failed, he came back through exceptionally heavy barrage and reported on the situation.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Ronald Hamish Hay Will, Seaf. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He had reached his own objective, when, seeing that the companies in front were held up and were without leaders, he reorganised his company and personally led the attack on the final objective. His prompt action saved the situation.

2nd Lt. Francis William Willett, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in an attack, when, although wounded, he maintained a forward position with a Lewis gun team all day and until all the team had become casualties. Before withdrawing he buried the gun.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Harold Williams, Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in pushing forward his posts, and making and consolidating two strong points under heavy artillery and machine gun fire. He set a fine example of courage and skill.

2nd Lt. Harry Ben Williams, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He behaved with great gallantry during the advance in crawling out into the open and shooting an enemy machine gunner. On reaching his objective he collected some men and consolidated under heavy fire at close range.

Lt. John Owen Williams, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst unloading ammunition at a gun position, and in bringing back his teams to the wagon lines under very heavy shell fire; though badly wounded in the face he set a very fine example of coolness and courage.

2nd Lt. John Ronald Watson Williams, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a hostile barrage he collected and rallied a party of men who were without leaders, and by his coolness and influence enabled them to offer a strong resistance against an enemy counter-attack.

Temp. 2nd Lt. (actg. Capt.) Morgan Watcyn Williams, R. W. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great skill and courage. When held up by overwhelming fire, he reorganised his men under greatest difficulties, and held on to an advanced position under heavy shell fire for eighteen hours until relieved.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Edmond Percy Wilmot, Gen. List, and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst co-operating with artillery. On one occasion he successfully ranged a siege battery on an enemy gun position in very bad weather, which necessitated flying at a very low altitude, during which he was subjected to an intense fire.

2nd Lt. William Ure Wilson, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was sent forward at a critical moment to reorganise a company that had lost all its officers. He succeeded in doing this within very close range of the enemy, and remained complete master of the situation for forty-eight hours, repelling counter-attacks and inflicting heavy loss on the enemy. It was largely due to his gallant conduct that the post, a most important one, was maintained.

2nd Lt. Aylmer James Reidford Wishart, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in carrying out successful reconnaissances, both by day and by night, under heavy fire, by which he was able to locate the exact positions of the enemy.

2nd Lt. Clarence Proctor Wood, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the greatest coolness and energy in supervising the digging and wiring of points close to the enemy's line, under heavy shell and machine gun fire. His fine example kept his men at work when other parties had been dispersed by the heavy fire.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Philip Henry Wooding, Rif. Brig.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He laid out over four miles of telephone lines, and maintained communications under machine gun and artillery fire. He was continually out mending breaks at great personal danger. His fine work was of the utmost value.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Thomas Newton Woof, S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry in an advance of a small party through heavy machine gun and rifle fire to within sixty yards of the enemy trench. In spite of severe casualties he maintained his position for three days, repulsing attacks, and sending back valuable information.

Temp. Lt. Clarence Daniel Henry Wooster, R. W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty. At imminent risk of his life he made his way into a burning S.A.A. and grenade store amongst bursting bombs and ammunition, and rescued the inmate, who owes his life to this very gallant action.

2nd Lt. Robert Durward Worling, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great fearlessness and determination in personally restoring touch between various companies of his battalion during a very heavy barrage. His reconnaissance was made under conditions of the greatest personal danger, and had most valuable results.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Cyril Frederick Wright, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in command of a recently captured trench the enemy attempted a counter-attack. Under heavy barrage, and suffering heavy casualties, he handled his men with the utmost skill and courage, and succeeded in driving off the enemy.

2nd Lt. Charles Melbourne Wright, R.W. Surrey R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great dash and skill in an assault, and, in spite of heavy artillery and machine gun fire, he gained his final objective and successfully consolidated the position.

2nd Lt. William Gladstone Wylie, Durh. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon against an enemy machine gun with great skill and determination. Although severely wounded, he never ceased to encourage his men, and would not leave his post until dusk.

Temp. 2nd Lt. Cedric John Mathison Young, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He made a strong point close to a village under heavy fire of all kinds. He commenced work while the village was still occupied by the enemy. By his rapid work the main position was made secure from counter-attacks.

2nd Lt. Herbert Young, R. Lan. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the advance was held up he displayed great courage and initiative in reorganising the whole position, despite heavy machine gun and rifle fire. He was wounded early in the day, but continued to superintend until relieved.

S/10978 C.S.M. Peter Brown, Cam'n Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service to his company officer in reorganising and rallying the men under an intense machine gun and artillery barrage. He throughout showed a total disregard of personal danger.

266059 C.S.M. George Augustus Browse, Sea. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After all his officers had become casualties he consolidated a forward line, and held on against enemy counter-attacks for two days with three platoons. His coolness, powers of leadership, and of keeping up the spirits of his men, who were short of water, rations and ammunition, were most marked.

51 By. S.M. Frederick Thomas Cutmore, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in charge of the limbers returning from the battery and had to pass through a small gap in thick wire. The spot was suddenly shelled by the enemy, and he showed great coolness and gallantry in standing at the gap and passing all his teams safely through, thereby saving any confusion, which would have caused severe casualties.

7014 C.S.M. Richard Field, Bedf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great courage and determination when the enemy attacked one of our advanced posts. He collected supports and led them to the assistance of the post. His fine example under fire and in close proximity to the enemy was largely instrumental in their repulse.

265297 C.S.M. Colin Finch, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company and commenced the consolidation of the position won. On the following day, when, owing to heavy hostile shelling, some men were buried, he went forward to their assistance and dug them out, in full view of the enemy.

3/12809 C./S./M. Fred Gleadow, W. Rid. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the flank of the trench held by the Battalion had been turned by the enemy, he rendered invaluable service by organising the defence and encouraging his men, thereby greatly assisting in beating off the attack. He set a fine example at a critical time.

200710 C.S.M. James Mackie, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He directed and organised parties for the capture of several machine guns. He showed an absolute disregard for personal safety, and, though twice wounded, carried on until wounded a third time.

S/9883 C.S.M. John McKerchar, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He performed the duties of company commander with great courage and determination. For five days he continued to set a magnificent example under continuous heavy fire.

10537 C.S.M. (acting R.S.M.) John Alexander Munro, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable service in superintending carrying parties. When the advance was held up he rendered great assistance in reorganising the line and establishing ammunition dumps, the whole time being under shell and machine-gun fire.

S/4926 C.S.M. John Wheeler Price, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his company during the attack. For several days he continued to handle his men with great skill, and by his example largely contributed to the success achieved.

635 C.S.M. William John Pritchard, E. Kent R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his company, and, leading them forward, successfully gained his objective. His personal courage and example under heavy fire were most marked.

6365 C.S.M. Frederick Quince, Suff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was buried by a shell, but persisted in collecting parties of men, and, under heavy machine-gun fire, led them on to the attack. His fine action greatly assisted in the capture of the enemy position.

200121 C.S.M. Albert Arthur Reed, York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company, and, attacking the hostile position with ten men, took sixty prisoners. Later, he assumed command of the remainder of the Battalion, and held on until reinforcements arrived. Throughout he set a magnificent example to all.

350120 C.S.M. John Renwick, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and initiative in commanding the company. He captured and consolidated his objectives and sent in valuable reports. He also captured several prisoners.

6460 Q.M.S. Arthur Riley, S. Staff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry on numberless occasions in bringing up rations to the Battalion under heavy shell fire, thereby greatly contributing to the success of the operations.

S/5201 C./S./M. James Ritchie, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of a company which had suffered heavy casualties, and was badly shaken. He showed the utmost ability and initiative under very trying circumstances when our whole front was subjected to heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

200013 C./S./M. James Robertson, Seaf. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command, and reorganising the Company led the attack on the third objective, which he captured and consolidated. Throughout he set a fine example of courage and initiative.

19008 C.S.M. Henry Sprout, Manch. R.

For conspicuous gallantry. When all the officers of his Company had become casualties he assumed command, reorganised platoons, and, leading them forward with great courage and determination, he gained and consolidated a position under heavy fire.

15/995 S.M. William Wilson, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an enemy counter-attack he assisted in organising and posting a force for defence from several battalions. In the absence of officers he took charge of fire orders, and was greatly instrumental in correct fire being directed upon the advancing enemy. His courage and cheerfulness under critical circumstances were invaluable.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

Lt. Bruce Anderson, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion acting as Intelligence Officer of the Battalion. He frequently made valuable reconnaissances under hazardous conditions, and invariably carried out his important duties with the greatest courage and skill until at length he was seriously wounded.

Lt. Edward John Bice, Aust. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded, he remained in action with his gun under heavy bombardment, and caused many casualties during enemy counter-attacks.

Lt. William McCarthy Braithwaite, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Having led his men into the enemy trenches, he persevered with the work of consolidating the position and leading bombing parties against the enemy strong posts. He was twice wounded.

Capt. Alfred George Brown, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in temporary command of his battalion, he organised and carried out the construction of strong posts in advance of the line under enemy fire. His personal example and energy enabled the work to be carried out successfully.

2nd Lt. Kenneth John Campbell, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. With marked fearlessness and coolness he led the main storming party of a raid into the enemy trenches, where he personally saw to the demolition of a large concrete dugout, and brought back important information, being the last to leave the trench. He has at all times shown splendid leadership, and is held in very high esteem by his men.

Lt. Frederick Fisher Christian, Aust. Eng.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. In the face of heavy enemy barrage, he marked out and completed 650 yards of fire trench and 750 yards of wire entanglement. The completion of the work was entirely due to his gallantry and good organisation.

2nd Lt. William Matthew Conroy, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and determination in leading bombing attacks. On two occasions he repulsed enemy counter-attacks. He was wounded on three occasions, but stuck to his post till ordered to go to the dressing station. His disregard of personal safety was most marked.

Capt. Alexander Crawford, Aust. Fld. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. With a small party he dug out, under heavy fire, three of his gunners, who had been buried, and carried them to a dressing station, returning to bring his battery into action. Later, he was severely wounded.

2nd Lt. Keith Raymond Crewes, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst in charge of three posts, he was isolated and in danger of being outflanked during an enemy counter-attack. He displayed great gallantry in holding on until the position was cleared up, with all his men killed or wounded.

Capt. Forbes Campbell Dawson, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry when in charge of an attack on a enemy strong point. He was temporarily driven back with heavy losses, but prevented the semblance of a retreat, and although, after being reinforced, his party did not exceed fifty men, with a final effort he drove the enemy from their position, capturing 184 prisoners and four machine guns.

Lt. Raymond Vincent Dimond, Aust. Fd. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in extinguishing a very dangerous fire which had broken out in a gun pit and amongst the ammunition close by, through particularly heavy enemy shell fire. His promptness averted very serious damage. He has shown the greatest gallantry on many other occasions.

Capt. John Hughes Drummond, Aust. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His consistent coolness and courage throughout the action were most marked. His fine example of endurance under heavy artillery and machine gun fire was of the utmost value to all.

Capt. William Henry Ellwood, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though severely wounded at the head of his company during a charge, he remained on duty all day, and secured the right flank of his Brigade against five enemy counter-attacks. His coolness and cheerful personality had a splendid effect upon his men.

2nd Lt. Leonard George Prentice Errey, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When commanding a patrol he encountered an enemy party of greatly superior numbers. He gave them fight and drove them off. He handled his men with great skill, and got back without casualty.

Lt. David Gerald Evans, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He organised and personally led a successful bombing attack, consolidated the captured position, and successfully repelled three strong counter-attacks. His courage and able leadership set a splendid example to his men, and placed an almost impossible position on a sound tactical basis.

Capt. Thomas Charles Edward Godfrey, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack upon the enemy line he secured the left flank against counter-attacks, and, though blown down by a shell during the charge, remained at the head of his men, upon whom his coolness and courage had a splendid effect.

Lt. Eugene Gorman, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost courage and ability in leading his company during an attack, and, although severely wounded, he remained at his post until his party were relieved after a most exhausting and dangerous turn of duty.

Lt. William Johnston Graham, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered invaluable assistance in collecting rifle grenades from casualties under heavy machine gun and shell fire, and sending them forward to where they were needed to stop an enemy bombing attack. His skilful organisation of carrying parties and maintenance of the supply of ammunition during a very critical period was most marked.

Lt. John Austin Gray, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reorganised parties of infantry under heavy barrage, and held on to our exposed flank until ordered to withdraw his mortar, which he succeeded in doing. Throughout he was of the greatest assistance and set a fine example.

Lt. Stanley William Gritten, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took an active part in reorganising the stragglers of three battalions, and displayed high courage in leading them forward. He proved himself a cool, capable officer, with sound judgment.

Lt. Harold Ernest Harris, Aust. Eng.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed marked judgment and resource in handling his working parties under heavy shell fire, on nearly every occasion successfully completing his task with very light casualties. He set a splendid example to his men.

2nd Lt. Laurie Arthur Harris, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and coolness in leading two bombing attacks. Although wounded, he carried out of action on his back a brother officer who was also wounded. His example had a splendid effect upon his men.

Lt. James Michael Harrison, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On finding himself the senior combatant officer left at Battalion Headquarters, he displayed fine initiative in quickly organising carrying parties for those who had entered the enemy lines and in establishing communication throughout. His courage and resource in dealing with a situation which had suddenly thrown great responsibilities upon him were most marked.

Lt. Joseph Bagshaw Heslop, Aust. Fd. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in remaining at his forward observation post after it had been surrounded by the enemy, and sending back telephone information which obtained for the infantry the much needed support of the artillery. He defended himself with a revolver, but was wounded, and has since lost his leg as the result.

Lt. James Crewe Hoge, Aust. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his section with great skill and determination, setting a splendid example under fire. Later, though wounded, he remained in command until evacuated.

Capt. Wilfred Stanley Hosking, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in operations, when he took over the command of two companies, and by his courage and fine personal example was able to maintain an advanced position.

Lt. Edwin Morgan Hunt, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great courage and ability in an attack until wounded in both arms and compelled to withdraw. Before having his wounds attended to he rendered an accurate report of the situation to his Brigade Headquarters.

Lt. Alexander William Irvine, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great energy and courage in reorganising a party to deliver a second attack upon the enemy's position. Despite desperate counter-attacks he repeatedly returned to the assault, and was able to maintain his position for over twelve hours. His coolness and resource was most marked.

2nd Lt. Thomas Henry Kennedy, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of a raiding party on enemy trenches. Though an obstinate resistance was offered, in the course of which seven of his ten men became casualties and he had himself a thumb and finger blown off, he continued to lead his party until the enemy's resistance was broken down. His courage was most marked.

Lt. William Joseph Knuckey, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion under an intense bombardment, when, regardless of danger, he constantly dug out men buried by shells, and in doing so was at last severely wounded.

Captain Charles Herbert Leedman, Aust. A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. Although he and several of his staff were wounded by the heavy shelling of his post by the enemy, he continued, with the greatest gallantry, to attend the wounded, remaining at his post until it became untenable.

Capt. John Edward Lloyd, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and ability whilst commanding his battalion. During an attack upon the enemy position he displayed excellent judgment in selecting his frontage, which he held against repeated counter-attacks. After an exhausting fight against superior numbers, he withdrew his men with losses of 60 per cent., but still ready for action, owing to his fine personal example.

Lt. Leonard Cuthbert Lucas, Aust. Eng.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. When all forward lines, including buried cable, had gone, he went forward to test, and with great skill and courage laid new lines under continual heavy shelling.

Lt. Allan Stuart Macpherson, Aust. Fd. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. An enemy shell ignited an ammunition dump. He at once jumped into the pit and with his hands pulled out the burning cartridges, threw earth on the fire, and succeeded in extinguishing it, thus averting a serious catastrophe.

Lt. Lewin Stanhope Maddrell, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He repeatedly led bombing parties to repel enemy counter-attacks at a critical period, setting a very encouraging example of pluck and determination.

Lt. Donald Arthur McArthur, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry during a hostile attack. His company commander having been wounded and heavy casualties incurred, he assumed command, keeping control of the whole situation, directing the fire and organising the removal of the wounded, and by his splendid example giving great encouragement to the men.

2nd Lt. (temp. Capt.) Wilfred Ashton McCloughry, Aust. L. Horse, attd. R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. On many occasions he has displayed the highest courage and skill in successfully bombing stations and trains, often at very low altitudes, and has always given a fine example of energy and determination.

Lt. William Henry McCulloch, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading a raiding party with great dash against determined opposition from enemy bombers and machine guns. Though wounded, he personally attacked and silenced an enemy machine gun, and was the last to leave the enemy's line, having displayed the highest qualities of leadership.

2nd Lt. William McGreevy, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst in charge of a half section of Stokes mortars, he led his detachment and a carrying party of thirty-two men into the enemy first line without casualties. He immediately came into action and continued to do excellent work throughout the day under very heavy shell fire. His personal example was most inspiring to his men.

2nd Lt. William McLean, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great coolness and initiative during a hostile raid on our trenches. He succeeded in driving off the enemy and inflicting casualties. Throughout, he set a splendid example to his men.

Lt. Robert Steven Miles, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men with great dash and skill, and was of the greatest assistance in consolidating the captured position. During the intense hostile bombardment which followed he set a splendid example to his men until severely wounded.

Capt. Cyril Charles Minty, Aust. A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest courage and fearlessness in attending wounded whilst exposed to heavy shell fire and gas fumes, and assisting to carry them to the collecting post. The stretcher-bearers had suffered severe casualties, and it was owing to his magnificent example that they maintained their courage and endurance.

2nd Lt. Frank Morley, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion when repelling an enemy attack. He volunteered for and led a bombing attack on a machine gun position, capturing the gun and driving out the enemy with loss.

Lt. Reginald James Pickett, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though wounded in the forearm, he led repeated bombing attacks against the enemy for five hours, doing most valuable work at a critical time.

Lt. Edward James Pittard, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though severely wounded, he continued to lead his men in the assault until he collapsed on reaching his objective. His fortitude and determination had a splendid effect upon his men.

Lt. Robert James Poore, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion during an intense enemy bombardment, when, by his coolness and fine leadership, he was responsible for checking the losses of his two platoons. His assistance in establishing bombing posts was most valuable.

Lt. John Charles Robertson, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his section with great courage and determination under heavy fire and against enemy counter-attacks. His work was of the greatest assistance to the infantry.

Capt. Jack Roydhouse, Aust. Inf.

Capt. Harold Norton Russell, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his party had been caught by enemy barrage and suffered heavily, he rallied them and led them forward until severely wounded himself. His coolness and personal example restored order under very heavy shell fire.

Lt. Fred Garner Thorpe, Aust. Eng.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of working parties, he showed excellent judgment and resource, completing his task under heavy shell fire with slight casualties. He set a splendid example throughout, and repeatedly behaved gallantly under fire.

Lt. Paul Jerome Timmins, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reorganised the battalion under a heavy barrage, and although wounded, went forward with it beyond the enemy wire. He set a splendid example of coolness and determination to all ranks.

2nd Lt. Harold Trevan, Aust. M.G. Co.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He was moving a gun to a day position when he saw by a flare he was within ten yards of a party of 120 picked men. Although he had only five men, he endeavoured to bring his gun into action, but being surrounded, he charged, killing and wounding several of the enemy, and losing two men, but saving his gun.

2nd Lt. Archibald John Tye, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His courage and coolness in leading bombing attacks was most marked. He was wounded and cut off in an enemy counter-attack, but fought his way back to safety with all his men. In doing so he received three bayonet wounds. He was brilliant in his disregard for personal safety.

Lt. Frederick Murchison Waugh, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a heavy enemy bombardment and raid he correctly appreciated the situation, organised his men, and was on the spot to meet the raiders. His prompt action was the prime cause of the repulse of the raiders, and his example of courage and initiative had great influence on the spirit of his men.

Lt. Herbert William Wilks, Aust. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest initiative and resource, and greatly distinguished himself by laying out a line of fire trenches and excavating them successfully in face of heavy machine gun and artillery fire.

Capt. Hadden Hamilton Young, Aust. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry during a hostile attack, when he drove the enemy off, and, with great courage and skill, organised and led a counter-attack, which finally ejected the enemy from their position. His fine example greatly influenced all ranks with him.

CANADIAN FORCE.

Lt. De Blois Anderson, Can. Inf.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in action when he led a Stokes gun section, twenty-seven men in all, under heavy fire to the objective, and subsequently defended the position, with great gallantry and skill, against a massed enemy attack, causing them at least a hundred casualties.

Rev. Edward Appleyard, Can. Chap'n Dept., attd. Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great courage and coolness in aiding the wounded under heavy fire. His untiring energy and devotion alleviated the discomfort of many wounded.

Lt. Frank Armstrong, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men with great gallantry and dash. Throughout the advance he displayed the utmost coolness and initiative under heavy fire, and was of the greatest assistance to his company commander.

Capt. Ernest Victor Benjamin, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was detailed to establish visual communication. He displayed great courage and determination, and succeeded in establishing his post in close proximity and maintaining visual communication under most trying circumstances.

Lt. Richard Owen Greet Bennett, Can. Fld. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. During an intense bombardment five officers were buried in a dug-out. He took charge of volunteers, and under concentrated fire of heavy guns rescued three, only desisting on ascertaining that the other two officers were dead.

Lt. Lancelot Joseph Bertrand, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an advance, after the remaining officers of his company had become casualties, he took command and led his men to their objective with great determination and courage, and showed marked ability in reorganising and consolidating his position. He set a splendid example throughout.

Lt. George Thomas Brown, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He established communication within ten minutes of the capture of the objective. He personally repaired lines under heavy fire for forty hours.

29283 C.S.M. Gavin Burns, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion under heavy shell fire in an attack, when he rendered invaluable assistance to his company commander at a very critical period.

Lt. John Cecil Carling, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his section to the farthest objective, and under heavy fire personally directed the digging of gun pits. Through the succeeding days he rendered most valuable support, displaying great coolness and courage under trying conditions.

Lt. Francis De Lancey Clements, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great skill and courage, capturing two hundred prisoners. Throughout he displayed an utter disregard for personal safety and set a splendid example to his men.

Lt. Cecil Rainsford Crysdale, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and skill in laying out and constructing forward tram lines under heavy shell fire. Had it not been for his coolness, energy and devotion, ammunition could not have got up for the heavy guns.

Lt. Walter Basil Curtis, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy rifle fire he took out two men a distance of five hundred yards, and attacking a sniping post, captured one officer and a man. He was under direct fire the entire time.

Lt. Robert James Davidson, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His company was on two occasions held up and disorganised by hostile machine-gun fire. He rallied his men and led them to their objective, capturing a machine gun and crew, and saving a very dangerous situation.

Lt. Kevin Stewart Drummond, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Though wounded he successfully led a bombing attack against an enemy machine gun. Earlier in the advance, seeing the men had lost direction, he rallied them and led them to their objective.

Lt. Jack Hall Alliger Lee Fairweather, Can. Garr. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Having established his observation post in an advanced position, he displayed great coolness and courage under heavy fire. His services were most invaluable on this occasion, as he was able to register three batteries on an enemy position with most satisfactory results.

Lt. Harper Caulfield Gillham, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His platoon being held up by a machine gun, he at great personal risk organised and led a party which succeeded in silencing the gun. He was wounded while doing this, but remained with his men until the objective was gained.

Lt. John Cecil Goodale, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. With one man he entered a large enemy dug-out and captured twenty-three prisoners. During the whole attack he displayed the utmost coolness and courage under, and led his platoon for nearly two miles through heavy shelling.

Capt. Hugh Hart, Can. A.M. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost gallantry and courage in attending wounded continuously under heavy shell fire.

Lt. William George Hazlett, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While leading his company he was wounded, but rallied his men and gained his objective, capturing a machine gun. He showed great courage throughout until wounded a second time and forced to retire.

Lt. Edward Raymond Westcott Hebden, Can. Garr. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed exceptional courage and ability in carrying forward the advanced wires under heavy fire. His work showed consistent gallantry and resourcefulness on every occasion that his battery was in action.

Lt. Frederick Rees Hill, Can. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took charge of the handling of trains carrying out wounded. He remained at duty all day, displaying great courage, frequently under heavy shell fire.

Lt. Ernest McIntyre Holiday, Can. Light Horse.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of a flank guard between the enemy and our main attack, he led his men with great courage and skill, and co-operated in the attack with complete success.

Lt. Frederick Stirling Huntley, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company, and, despite heavy casualties, he stormed machine guns and bombing posts, and captured and consolidated the enemy trench. He showed marked coolness and courage throughout.

Lt. Porteous Jerdan, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He assumed command of the company, and led them with great coolness and initiative. He single-handed bombed a rifle grenade battery which were holding up one of the platoons, and forced them to surrender.

Lt. Arthur Edmond Roy Jones, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He, assisted by another officer, attacked and killed the crew of a machine gun which was holding up the advance. Later, with one man, he entered a dugout, and, after considerable resistance, captured five officers and 100 men.

Capt. Douglas Ballantyne Kennedy, Can. A.M. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He directed the work of the stretcher-bearers for forty-eight hours without rest, and repeatedly aided the wounded under very heavy shell fire.

Lt. (A./Capt.) Thomas Bryden Lane, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon in the face of heavy concentrated fire. He charged the enemy guns, killing two of the gunners. Later, he was badly wounded while consolidating his position under heavy fire.

Capt. Joseph Achille Le Royer, Can. Infy. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has constantly shown great skill and courage when acting as observer. His accurate shooting and coolness under fire have largely contributed to his successful aerial combats against superior numbers.

Capt. (now Temp. Maj.) Ronald Hugh Macdonald, Can. A.M. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. One of our aeroplances was shot down, the observer was wounded and pinned beneath the wreck. This officer and a bearer went out in full view of the enemy, who were shelling the machine, and extricated the wounded man and removed him to safety. He himself was severely wounded while doing so.

Lt. Merrill Whedon Macdowell, Can. Mtd. Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great courage and skill in spite of severe losses, to within fifty yards of his objective, and maintained his position, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy in a counter-attack.

Lt. John Fullerton Macintosh, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As transport officer he displayed the greatest courage and determination in bringing up supplies to the front line. He had consistently to lead his train through heavy shell fire over exposed ground, and throughout rendered most valuable service.

Lt. Kenneth Royal MacKinnon, Can. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He gallantly led his signallers to the objective under heavy fire, and quickly established communication. Throughout the action, by his courage and tenacity, these communications were maintained, thereby rendering invaluable service.

Capt. Robert James Manion, Can. A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While going forward through a heavy hostile barrage to establish an aid post, he at great personal risk stopped and dressed alone nine wounded men.

Lt. John Melville Massey, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great gallantry and determination when leading a raiding party. Although wounded, his example so encouraged the men that they succeeded, under heavy fire, in reaching their objective.

Capt. James Ernest Matthews, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company in the attack with the greatest courage, and showed marked ability in reorganising them after heavy casualties and in consolidating his position. His judgment and skill during a subsequent advance of 2,500 yards enabled him to establish contact with the enemy without casualties.

Lt. Frank Randolph May, Can. Garr. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His observation work was carried out under heavy shell fire, and as battery signalling officer he laid and maintained lines under heavy fire with the greatest coolness and ability.

Lt. Herbert Daniel McDonald, Can. Garr. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As forward observation officer his conduct and disregard for danger under fire was a wonderful example to the other officers of his battery, and his work was consistently of the greatest value.

Lt. William Alan McGregor, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great skill through heavy artillery barrage. When seriously wounded he refused to be attended to until the men of his platoon had been seen first.

Lt. Ernest Hanbury Minns, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He led a daring reconnaissance, and obtained valuable information. Later, he volunteered to take a stretcher-bearer party to the front line over heavily shelled ground, and was of the greatest assistance in clearing the wounded. No work was too dangerous for him.

Lt. Lucien Georges Morissette, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a small party against an enemy post, capturing it and two machine guns. His prompt action removed a serious obstacle and saved many casualties.

Lt. Dudley Anson Gordon Parsons, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great courage and success. His splendid example in the face of stubborn resistance largely assisted in the capture of the objective.

Capt. Alphonse Gustave Routier, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed untiring energy and skill in preparing his company for the attack. During the assault he gave an example of great coolness and courage to his men, and held and controlled them with splendid determination.

Lt. Edward Stanley Sawell, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company, and, despite further opposition, he rallied his men under heavy fire, and, rushing the position, captured thirty prisoners and two machine guns. He undoubtedly saved a serious situation.

200083 Pte. C. Booth, Gord. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion as a stretcher bearer, when he rescued many wounded under heavy shell and machine-gun fire; frequently, in difficult ground, carrying them long distances on his back.

Deal/3251(S.) S./Sjt. D. Booth, R. Marines.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in evacuating wounded from a heavily shelled collecting post. His magnificent example greatly contributed to steady the men, who were suffering heavy casualties.

24/904 Pte. R. Boyle, North'd Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his machine gun with great courage and daring in taking up most advanced positions. Although most of his team were casualties he went forward and captured an enemy machine gun.

265193 Cpl. A. Brawn, Ox. & Bucks. L.I.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. A party of the enemy had advanced and occupied a position close to his post. He at once left his post with his bombers and with great gallantry attacked and dispersed a superior force.

4417 Cpl. T. Brindley, R. War. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He made five journeys over exposed ground in order to gain information of the situation. This was carried out under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire, and finally he brought back one wounded officer.

240926 L./Sjt. J. H. Brown, Bord. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy fire of all kinds he took command and reorganised the men around him and by his promptitude and splendid example largely assisted in the capture of the enemy trenches.

3683 L./Sjt. S. Buckland, R. Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his men with great determination and courage against heavy enemy counter-attacks, defeating them and consolidating his position. He afterwards got on to the parapet with a Lewis gun and enfiladed the enemy, who were massing for another counter-attack. His resource saved the trench from being captured.

18980 Pte. J. W. Budd, E. Kent R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He kept his Lewis gun in action after all his section had become casualties, establishing himself in a shell hole for three days until relieved. He showed marked determination and wonderful powers of endurance.

6509 C./S./M. D. Burbidge, Linc. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company and organised it, and rendered invaluable assistance to another company in reorganising the whole line. He has performed good work throughout.

265325 Sjt. A. G. Burnett, Gord. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the attack he worked round behind an enemy machine gun and killed the men working the gun. He was instrumental in capturing the gun and its team.

36003 Pte. (A./L./Cpl.) J. Burton, R. Welsh Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered most valuable assistance when he took a section of bombers to the help of the battalion on his flank. Although surrounded, he fought his way out with five men.

27235 Pte. J. Bushell, Essex R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He reached the enemy wire, and succeeded in knocking out an enemy machine gun which was holding up the advance. Later, he was severely wounded, but refused to leave his post until ordered to do so.

325266 Sjt. A. Caldwell, Durh. L.I.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon with great courage and skill. He went forward and captured an enemy machine gun and eleven prisoners. His prompt action removed a very serious obstacle.

11940 Sjt. D. S. Cameron, R. Scots.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in leading men of another regiment to the attack after they had lost their officers. He rallied and collected them under very heavy fire from machine guns and bombs, finally attaching them to his own company.

200785 Sjt. J. Campbell, Sea. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded, he led his platoon to their objective, where, owing to casualties, he attacked an enemy machine gun single-handed and put it out of action.

22949 C./S./M. J. V. Carr, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under a heavy hostile barrage he several times went forward to establish communication with the front waves. Later, when reorganising the line he was badly wounded, but continued until hit a second time.

131 Sjt. J. H. Catt, R. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He collected a small party and attacked an enemy strong point, taking over 100 prisoners and a machine gun. He showed untiring skill and energy in consolidating the trench.

9352 Sjt. C. Chance, Lonc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded, on reaching the enemy wire, he persisted in his efforts to force a way through, and set a splendid example until wounded badly a second time.

7141 Sjt. E. Chappell, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his section with great skill and courage, and was instrumental in mopping up enemy dugouts which were becoming a serious menace.

T.Z.4407 A./L. Sea. (H.G.) W. Charlton, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He was the only man of a Lewis gun team who succeeded in crossing a heavily sniped space and gaining a selected position. He remained there, fully exposed, for five hours, only withdrawing after firing his last round.

17328 Cpl. (L./Sjt.) G. Clark, R. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He organised and led a party against an enemy strong point, and put a machine gun out of action, taking twenty prisoners. He held on to the post until compelled to withdraw.

44408 A./Sjt. G. H. Clarke, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He extinguished two fires in the gun-pits of the battery. The pits were full of ammunition, and were being heavily shelled. His gallant action saved many lives, and probably all the guns of the battery.

267101 Sjt. W. P. Clarke, Ox. & Bucks. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On observing a party of the enemy attempting to get through our outpost lines, he, on his own initiative, took two men and advanced on the enemy and attacked them. By means of bombs and rifle fire he dispersed a party greatly superior in numbers.

11/293 Sjt. J. W. Clayton, E. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the greatest coolness and resource in rallying and in the dark reorganising two platoons which were leaderless and under an intense fire. He then led them to the attack, which was repulsed, and having withdrawn to their assembling trench he again rallied them and consolidated and organised the defence with very great skill and determination. Throughout the day his example was one of complete fearlessness and contempt of danger.

11991 B./S./M. J. Cleland, R.H.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. A pack train carrying ammunition to his battery was heavily shelled, and the officer in charge wounded. He assumed command, and by his skill and energy succeeded in delivering the ammunition, returning to carry his officer into safety.

33657 Cpl. B. Cleobury, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under very heavy shell fire he twice called for volunteers and extinguished fires which had broken out round his battery. His promptness and determination were the means of averting very heavy loss of life from the burning explosives.

15405 Pte. J. T. Collins, Dur. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although he was wounded he refused to leave his post, taking part in a bombing raid, and during the night assisted to repel two counter-attacks. He was wounded a second and third time during the following two days, throughout which he continued to throw bombs with great skill.

6667 Sjt. J. Connell, E. Lanc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the remainder of his patoon and carried on with the consolidation. His fine example under heavy fire was of the greatest value at a critical time.

10/13226 L./Cpl. R. Cook, Ches. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a hostile raid on our trenches he showed great coolness and courage under heavy fire. He brought up a machine gun through the hostile barrage, and rendered the greatest possible assistance.

4/8376 Sjt. J. Corbett, A. & S. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty whilst commanding his company after all his officers and senior N.C.O.s were out of action. He showed great energy and skilful leadership, and his fearlessness in leading search parties for wounded who were lying out was most marked.

78171 Sjt. J. Cowell, R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry whilst assisting an aerial gunner during bomb raids. He showed remarkable skill and judgment in the eight combats in which he has been engaged, and on several occasions has shot down hostile air craft.

490076 Corpl. G. E. Cox, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in charge of a party who were clearing shells from a fire caused by hostile shelling. He succeeded in removing a large number of shells, despite repeated explosions going on all around him.

230936 Coy. S./M. E. J. P. Dainty, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in consolidating and defending a position which had become almost untenable through flanking and frontal fire. His total indifference to danger restored the situation at a very critical moment, when no officers were on the spot.

202078 Pte. W. A. Dale, Mdx. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in going forward with a Lewis gun under heavy fire and sweeping the enemy parapet, thereby enabling an attack to be resumed after it had been temporarily held up. He was badly wounded in doing so, but he carried his gun back himself.

Ply. 66 (S.) Pte. G. Davies, R.M.L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry. He advanced alone to an enemy strong point, demanded its surrender, and single-handed he brought in fifty prisoners.

85724 Cpl. S. J. Deakin, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On three occasions his gunpit was destroyed and the gun buried by enemy shell fire. On each occasion he had his gun dug out and in action again with a minimum loss of time.

12946 C./S./M. W. H. Dickinson, W. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance his company suffered heavy casualties, and he himself was blown several yards, but immediately dashed forward and reorganising the men led them forward.

1058 Sjt. J. D. Donaldson, R.W. Surr. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Throughout the advance he showed the greatest courage and coolness under heavy fire in the absence of officers. His personal bravery and determination were of the utmost value to those under him.

241245 A./L./Sjt. (A./Sjt.) J. M. Dunn, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under heavy artillery and machine gun fire he reorganised two platoons and led them to the assault, and captured his position. Later, he took command of the company.

33964 Sjt. W. Dyke, D.C.L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His company was held up by an enemy machine gun, which was causing severe casualties. He went forward alone under heavy fire and succeeded in destroying it, thereby removing a very serious menace.

1906 Cpl. (A./Sjt.) A. T. Eames, R.A.M.C., attd. R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has shown consistent gallantry in attending wounded men under heavy fire. He has continually exposed himself in the open, and throughout has set a splendid example to all.

7401 Sjt. E. Edwards, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During lengthy operations he handled his section with great courage and skill under an intense bombardment, leading it forward to new positions with the assaulting infantry, and holding on to his final position for three days under intense shell fire.

41640 Pte. T. Edwards, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a bearer party out between the lines in daylight under direct fire, and succeeded in bringing in a wounded man. One of the bearers was hit on the return journey, and Pte. Edwards then went back, but found the bearer was dead.

64666 Gnr. H. W. Ellis, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He carried out his duties as spotter with great courage and determination. He remained out in an exposed position, refusing to take cover under heavy shell fire, and handed in most useful observations.

8303 Sjt. J. Ellis, W. Rid. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took over temporary command of the battalion during the advance, and handled the men with the utmost confidence and skill, inspiring a fine example in the face of heavy fire.

4821 Sjt. H. G. Emms, York. & Lanc. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Despite heavy casualties, and the absence of any officer, he stuck to his post in a most advanced position. He was subjected to an intense bombardment, and beat off three counter-attacks.

S.823 C.S.M. A. Fake, R. Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in action, when he organised an attack on enemy machine guns, and succeeded in capturing them. He has at all times set a splendid example.

8152 Sjt. (A./C.S.M.) A. Flowers, S. Staff. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. He continually moved about while an advanced position was being consolidated, in total disregard of heavy and accurate sniping at close range, and owing to casualties finally assumed command, and maintained his position for three days.

17810 Pte. P. V. Forsdick, R.W. Kent R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in covering the retirement of his company with his Lewis gun, which he continued to do after all his team had become casualties and his magazines had given out; he then collected ammunition from the dead and wounded and carried on single-handed.

64875 Cpl. F. Forster, R.F.A.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He climbed the roof of a shell store set on fire by enemy shell fire and being still shelled, and put the fire out. He then carried without assistance two wounded officers into safety.

8783 C.S.M. E. G. Franklin, Bedf. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the remnants of his company after the officers were casualties, and successfully maintained his position for fifteen hours after the remainder of the battalion had been relieved.

41172 Sjt. R. Hardman, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon to within 50 yards of their objective, and at this stage only having four men held on to his ground for four hours and then withdrew. Throughout he displayed a splendid example to his men.

13145 Pte. R. Hardman, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When acting as runner he made five journeys, passing through heavy artillery barrage and machine-gun fire. His splendid courage was the means of rendering most valuable service during the attack.

71524 Cpl. A. G. Hart, M.G.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of four machine guns, of which two commanders had been killed. He organised the defence and made a full and successful reconnaissance at great personal risk, under heavy fire, and rendered a complete and accurate report to his commanding officer. He displayed great coolness and ability in a very difficult situation.

44013 L./Sjt. C. Hawthorn, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in continually rallying and reorganising the men of his company when under very heavy fire, showing utter fearlessness and inspiring all ranks with confidence by his coolness during a critical situation.

11111 Pte. (L./Cpl.) J. G. Hedgman, R. Berks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great initiative and courage in locating and outmanœuvring an enemy machine gun and capturing an officer and 21 men.

22429 B.S.M. A. T. Henly, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in extinguishing burning ammunition when a dump had been exploded, and also in unloading ammunition under very heavy shell fire.

20998 Pte. G. Hewitt, W. York. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a raid on the enemy lines his officer was hit while in the middle of the wire. Despite heavy rifle fire he three times lifted the officer on to his back in an endeavour to carry him away. At each attempt he was wounded.

20346 L./Cpl. A. W. Hibbitt, Leic. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack. He was in charge of stretcher-bearers, assisting wounded under heavy fire, until he was hit, but he continued his work until wounded again, and finally rendered insensible by shell explosion.

58584 Pte. T. Hudson, L'pool R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Encountering a party of enemy snipers, he alone crawled round their flank under heavy rifle fire, and killed twelve and captured two.

5080 Sjt. W. O. Hughes, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During lengthy operations he handled his guns with great skill, repelling counter-attacks, and displaying the utmost fearlessness in observing enemy movements, and passing on information to his guns.

4208 Pte. (L./Cpl.) R. Hughesdon, H.A.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during a counter-attack, when he bombed the enemy out of 500 yards of trench, being subjected the whole time to enemy bombing and the fire of snipers.

200044 Sjt. J. Hume, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his platoon under heavy machine gun and rifle fire, and captured a field gun and machine gun. Throughout, he set a splendid example of coolness and courage.

40188 Pte. O. Humphrey, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He went to a wounded man in front and carried him back under heavy sniping from the enemy. He then returned and brought in a second man. He made a third journey, but was wounded before reaching his man.

9209 By. S./M. G. Hunt, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his battery was under heavy shell fire the telephone wire was cut, and he took up an exposed position in the open, whence he would best transmit orders and enable the battery to keep up its fire. His example was of great moral value to the men.

3/7241 L./Sjt. H. W. P. James, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the company was held up by a machine gun and uncut wire, he at once rushed in through a gap and was responsible for putting the gun and team out of action. He saved many casualties by his prompt action.

512966 Coy. S./M. E. W. Jamieson, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in extinguishing a burning lorry under heavy shell fire, thereby saving the lorry and enabling the wounded to be rescued.

8338 Sjt. R. Jeffries, Bed. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion. An attack being held up by a machine gun, he crawled across the open under fire and rushed the gun, single-handed shooting one and bayonetting two of the gunners, thus enabling our advance to continue.

15/531 C.S.M. J. E. Jones, W. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He attacked with his company and drove the enemy from his section of the trench, which he at once consolidated and held. Though five times wounded he held on, and repulsed local counter-attacks, setting a splendid example of courage and resolution to his men.

13857 Sjt. W. C. Jones, Norf. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After continuous hand-to-hand fighting for ten hours, he initiated and led a bayonet and bombing attack, under heavy fire, against superior numbers, and threw them back, enabling the wounded to be withdrawn.

200219 Sjt. G. C. Kemp, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on several occasions, in rallying and reorganising men of his own and other units under heavy fire and leading them again to the attack. He set a very fine example to all ranks.

10511 Pte. M. Lavery, R. Sco. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in taking orders of the highest importance off a wounded orderly and delivering them safely at their destinations. To do this he had to pass through very heavy shell fire.

9820 Sjt. J. Lennon, R. Ir. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Taking command he led his platoon forward to an advanced position in the enemy lines. While doing so he took 40 men prisoners and captured two machine guns. There were with him at the time only ten men.

38335 Sjt. G. Lindsay, York. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When on patrol with an officer he attacked and routed eight of the enemy with his revolver. He afterwards showed great fearlessness and coolness in rescuing five men who had been wounded and buried by trench-mortar fire, carrying them to safety at very great personal risk.

24668 Sjt. J. F. Lovell, Suff. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in charge of a bombing squad of seven men. Owing to darkness and barrage smoke he lost his way, but advancing, killed several enemy sentries and finally met a patrol, killing some and capturing four, whom he compelled to guide him back. He was twice wounded.

11372 Sjt. D. McMillan, Sco. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the company was held up by an enemy machine gun he rushed forward into the trench and captured the gun. Sixty of the enemy who were in the trench then surrendered.

200277 Sjt. G. Macrae, Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Early in an attack when all the officers and the C.S.-Major had become casualties he took command, led the company to its first objective, organised the consolidation, and handled the situation with skill and great courage.

275033 Sjt. W. Marshall, A. & S. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he carried out his duties as Actg. C.S.M. with great courage and initiative. By his disregard for personal safety he set a fine example to the men.

350540 Sjt. W. Moncur, R. Scots.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his platoon, and led his men with great skill and courage, gaining his objective. Throughout he set a fine example to all.

304265 Sjt. G. Moore, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led a bombing attack with great courage and dash. He remained at his post until all bombs had been thrown and practically all his section had become casualties.

21980 Sjt. J. Murfin, K.O.S.B.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took forward some machine guns to establish a covering line. He succeeded in placing his guns, in spite of continual sniping, in full view of the enemy machine-gun. The following day he led an ammunition party to the spot, and brought them back without casualty.

SS/24920 C.Q.M.S. (A/R.S.M.) W. S. Neale, S. Staff. R., attd. Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his transport officer and others had been disabled by gas and H.E. shell fire he carried him to higher ground, placed his respirator on, and returned to assist the other casualties. On several occasions his coolness and fearlessness under fire have been the means of steadying the men, and of saving life as well.

200374 C./S./M. F. Neesam, Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led the attack of his company, and throughout showed the greatest skill and courage. Although twice wounded he refused to leave until satisfied that the position was properly organised.

8333 C./S./M. R. Neville, R. Ir. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of the company and held the ground won, beating off two bombing attacks. On being relieved he withdrew his men in good order, with great skill, during an intense bombardment.

23495 Sjt. C. Nicol, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He covered the withdrawal of an exposed flank until his ammunition was all used. On the same day he volunteered and took up one gun to the threatened flank, under heavy barrage, and remained there until relieved next day.

58621 Cpl. W. Norbury, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When repairing cables, under heavy fire, the two men with him were wounded, and he carried one back unaided, returning to the shelled area and completing the repairs to the cable.

200685 Sjt. T. Norgan, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his platoon. He showed great skill in leading and directing them in the darkness, after being twice wounded. He remained in command until shot through both legs.

200496 Pte. J. Oakes, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Under very heavy fire he attended to many of our wounded in the newly-captured position. In one instance he crawled out over the open to an advanced post and dressed a wounded man there.

16/1107 Cpl. W. Palframan, W. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When all his officers and his coy. serjt.-maj. had become casualties, he was isolated with a few men from the remainder. He held on, organising fire from a Lewis gun, and sending back valuable information to battalion headquarters. When subsequently outflanked he fought his way back with great skill and determination.

80413 Gnr. T. Parker, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He fought his gun singlehanded without a check until fresh detachments arrived. He kept up fire at a most critical time, when any cessation would have been most serious.

334015 B.Q.M.S. E. G. F. Perry, R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on many occasions in extinguishing fires caused by enemy shells in the battery ammunition, and in rescuing men from a blown-in dug-out.

59343 Sjt. W. J. Philpot, R.H.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in rescuing, unaided, two wounded serjeants who were lying by an ammunition dump which was on fire. Later, he returned and assisted to extinguish the fire.

240457 Sjt. W. Pitt, Worc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His platoon commander was wounded early in the attack, and he led his platoon against the enemy, drove them from their position, and consolidated and organised his men for the defence. He was twice wounded, but remained in command.

637 Sjt. A. Pollock, A. & S. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has done most valuable work when on patrol, going out night after night. During the attack his coolness and initiative were of the utmost value to his men.

17641 Sjt. A. Ramage, High. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He volunteered and made a reconnaissance to a farm held by the enemy. He succeeded in reaching the enemy trenches, which were held in some strength. He set a splendid example to all.

292495 Sjt. W. F. Raistrick, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack which was temporarily held up by hostile machine gun fire he crawled with others to a shell hole, from which he bombarded the machine gun with rifle grenades and silenced it. He commanded his company with great success for twenty-four hours, after all the officers had become casualties, and set a splendid example of fearlessness and resource.

242853 Pte. H. Ramsden, Lancs. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He volunteered and succeeded in carrying an important message through very heavy artillery barrage. Three men had previously failed in the attempt.

201195 C.S.M. W. E. Rathke. W. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although himself wounded, he collected and successfully led a small party against a strong enemy bombing attack upon our trenches. His promptitude saved the situation at a very critical time. With great determination and coolness he remained at his post, indifferent to his wounds, until his company was relieved.

18032 Sjt. J. H. Ray, Mach. G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Despite casualties to his section he took command and handled his men with great skill and determination. Throughout, he set a fine example under heavy shell fire.

C./Z. 231 A/P.O. A. Ross, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Although wounded in two places, he remained in action for forty-eight hours, assisting to capture a machine gun and forty prisoners. He set a fine example to all ranks.

8000 Cpl. E. J. Rycroft, Hamp. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was in command of a supporting platoon. Seeing the platoon in front were without a leader he went forward, and taking charge led them forward and captured the position. He showed a splendid example throughout.

Ch. 18511 Pte. (L./Cpl.) T. Salt, R.M.L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry in operations, when he crawled backwards and forwards for three hours through heavy H.E. barrages in order to signal the effect of the Stokes mortar fire. He was wounded.

S/43174 L./Cpl. J. Sandilands, R. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His team having become casualties, he took his gun on alone, and throughout the day kept it in action. When an officer from another unit who was assisting him was wounded, he dressed his wounds, saw him back to the dressing station, and returned to his gun, finally retiring to his own unit, bringing his gun with him. He was wounded in three places.

200218 Cpl. H. Sawyer, Midd'x R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in rallying and reorganising his men after an unsuccessful attack. He subsequently crawled out into the open six times, bringing back a wounded man on each occasion.

40948 Sjt. E. S. Scott, North'd Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his platoon, and led them with the utmost gallantry and initiative. His personal courage and coolness under heavy fire set a fine example to his men.

Z.C.3386 P.O. G. Scott, R.N.V.R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While advancing with one man only to attack a hostile machine gun, he encountered a trench occupied by about 150 enemy. He attacked, called on them to surrender, disarmed them, and marched them back to our trenches.

6287 Sjt. J. J. Searle, Rif. Brig.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has displayed the greatest coolness and courage throughout, and during the advance his splendid example was of the utmost assistance to his men.

10/317 Sjt. H. E. Sendall, E. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative. During an attack, in which his section commander was killed, he assumed command and led his men into the enemy trench, where he bombed and successfully kept back the enemy bombing party, thereby keeping their machine gun from coming into action.

He showed most marked resource at very short notice.

14146 L./Sjt. W. Sellars, Leic. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack he repeatedly crossed and recrossed "No Man's Land" under heavy fire, dressing the wounded and carrying them back to safety.

6406 Sjt. G. Sheerer, Bord. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty at the R.A.P., after the medical officer had been taken away wounded. He repeatedly went out to dress casualties in the vicinity under intense fire, showed great judgment in evacuating the wounded, and by his total disregard of danger saved many lives, and set a magnificent example to all with him.

98964 B.S.M. F. Stear, R.F.A.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great courage and initiative when commanding the waggon line, which came under heavy fire. By his example and coolness he saved a very difficult situation.

265745 Pte. J. Stronach, Gord. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took charge of a group, and with great gallantry dashed across the enemy trench and succeeded in capturing it. Later he did valuable work in carrying messages under heavy fire.

63089 Gnr. J. Sullivan, R.G.A.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During hostile shelling a fire started in the gun position. He went at once and assisted to put out the fire, which was subdued under heavy and accurate shell fire. This prompt act saved not only the gun but much ammunition.

25886 Sjt. E. Symes, Mach. G. Corps.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He established himself as a sniper, and despite continuous machine gun fire and counter-sniping he remained at his post and did great execution. His coolness under fire removed a serious obstacle.

275633 Sjt. H. Taylor, A. & S. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his company was held up by an enemy machine gun he led an attack round the flank and put the gun out of action. He has done good work on previous occasions.

5/4386 Pte. W. G. Taylor, A. & S. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He remained for five days in a shell hole, 150 yards in front of our lines, shot through both thighs, but continually working his Lewis gun with good effect. He eventually crawled back completely exhausted, bringing his gun with him and much useful information as to the enemy dispositions.

40783 Sapper (L./Cpl.) W. J. F. Taylor, R.E.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great gallantry in rescuing four men from a mine gallery. On one occasion he had to wear rescue apparatus for one hour, and travelled 800 yards in a low, narrow gallery.

17259 Sjt. W. T. Telfer, R. Scots.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his platoon in the assault with great courage and determination. During the consolidation and through four days he rendered invaluable assistance to those in command.

S/6911 Pte. W. Thomson, Sea. Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He performed repeated acts of gallantry in bringing in wounded men under fire from close under the enemy's parapet, on several occasions in full view of the enemy.

8874 Cr./Sjt. (A./C./S./M.) W. Turner, High. L.I.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On reaching the objective he went back through the barrage and, collecting a party, succeeded in bringing back ammunition. Later he commanded the company with great coolness and courage.

275255 Sjt. J. Walker, Arg. & Suth'd Highrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When all the officers had become casualties he took charge of the remains of the company, and succeeded in capturing and holding a village in spite of heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

M./2/050522 Pte. H. Wallace, A.S.C.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His lorry, which was loaded with shells, caught fire. He got inside the lorry, and succeeded in putting out the flames. His coolness and prompt action saved the lorry and a very serious explosion.

7494 B./S./M. S. C. Walton, R.G.A.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in taking charge of a party and unloading trucks of H.E. ammunition under heavy shell fire. By this act he maintained the supply of ammunition for his battery during a very critical period.

200186 L./Cpl. J. H. Ward, Mdx. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as stretcher-bearer. He repeatedly faced heavy fire to rescue wounded men, bringing in no less than twelve, one of whom was shot dead in his arms. His gallant conduct was the talk of all that witnessed it.

11312 C./S./M. H. Warrington, High. L.I.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his company was held up by machine gun and rifle fire he made a personal reconnaissance under heavy fire. As a result, the company was able to effect communication with the battalion on the flank.

T2/10777 S. S./M. C. Wassell, A.S.C.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of horse lines. Amidst violent explosions caused by a burning ammunition dump he remained with the horses for three hours without any assistance, preventing them from straying and keeping them under control, thereby saving many valuable animals. His fearlessness and cool persistence in a most perilous situation were most marked.

L./14368 Sjt. T. Watson, R. Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After all his officers had become casualties he took charge, and led an attack upon a greatly superior force under heavy fire. His personal example of courage and indifference to danger rendered the attack successful.

29558 A./Cpl. P. E. Westney, R.F.A.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His battery was subjected to very heavy shelling, which cut telephonic communication with the brigade. He patrolled the line incessantly, and repeatedly repaired the breakages, and it was entirely due to his courage and determination that communication was never lost for more than a few minutes. His conduct at all times showed splendid fearlessness of the same nature and total disregard of personal safety.

26/1297 Cpl. M. Whelan, North'd Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the advance he entered an enemy dug-out and captured two officers and thirty-seven other ranks. Throughout the operations he rendered most valuable services.

27/1318 Sjt. G. T. Wigley, North'd Fus.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great courage and ability when acting as C.S.M. during the advance. He took command of the company, and carrying them forward, reorganised them in the new position entirely on his own initiative. He set a fine example throughout.

2428 L./Sjt. H. Williams, R. War. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When exposed to heavy artillery and machine gun fire and in full view of the enemy, he continued to dress the wounded, and carried them to a place of safety. He showed a total disregard for personal safety.

17850 L./Cpl. J. B. Winfield, R. War. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in an enemy counter-attack, when he rushed forward alone with his gun, the rest of his team having become casualties, and kept it in action under heavy fire until his ammunition was exhausted.

11/707 C.S.M. W. G. Woodall, E. Yorks. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in twice reorganising his company under very heavy hostile barrage and leading them to the attack. All his company officers were out of action and the company suffered very heavy losses, so he decided to consolidate and hold on. The leadership which he displayed under such adverse circumstances was magnificent.

240504 L./Cpl. A. Woodward, Worc. R.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He remained all day close in front of the enemy position with his Company Commander and Co. Sjt.-Major, both of whom were severely wounded. He subsequently took command of a platoon, and organised them against enemy counter-attacks.

AUSTRALIAN IMPERIAL FORCE.

3227 B.S.M. C. H. Akers, Aust. Fld. Arty.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. An ammunition dump and gun camouflage were set on fire by hostile shell fire. With the assistance of another officer he at once rushed to the gun and removed the burning camouflage, and then, although shells were bursting close by, succeeded in putting out the fire in the ammunition dump.

331 Sjt. E. P. Blyth, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a moment when most of his officers were casualties and the men were leaderless he took command, and led them to the attack with the greatest courage and initiative.

1095 Sjt. J. B. Cane, Aus. Engrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took charge of the brigade signalling communications. During the heavy artillery fire the next day he displayed conspicuous courage in maintaining communication with the captured position.

1631 Pte. J. A. Christie, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rushed his gun into "No Man's Land" under heavy fire and fired thirty rounds into the advancing enemy, checking them and causing heavy casualties. Although wounded, he safely withdrew his gun.

1784 B.S.M. J. O. Clough, Aus. Fld. Arty.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The battery was heavily shelled causing several casualties. He, regardless of the shell fire, assisted in attending the wounded and getting them into safety. He has throughout set a splendid example.

1900 Pte. P. A. Duffy, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For three days and nights continuously he tended the wounded, carrying them to the dressing station under intense shell fire, and totally regardless of danger. The battalion's casualties reached 241, and his energy and self-sacrifice were beyond praise.

3017 Sjt. D. F. Egan, Aust. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On two occasions when with working parties he showed very marked coolness and resource in rallying them under heavy shell fire. By his example he kept them in touch, and assisted largely in successfully completing the important work upon which they were engaged.

2362 Sjt. E. A. Eldridge, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When under heavy fire he attacked and silenced an enemy machine gun, handling his Lewis gun with great effect. He showed total disregard for his personal safety in crawling about for four hours in the enemy's wire, salving panniers and ammunition for his own guns. He also led several parties through the enemy's wire in search of wounded.

11615 Sjt. J. C. Ewen, Aust. Fld. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After the battery officers had been wounded and many casualties sustained by heavy shell fire he took command, and by his splendid example, under very trying conditions, was able to complete the task of bringing the guns into position.

19 Sjt. A. Hitchcock, Aust. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the assault he led forward a disorganised platoon, driving the enemy out and establishing a strong post. He inflicted heavy losses, and throughout displayed marked coolness under fire.

7188 Sjt. C. G. L. Ingate, Aust. Fld. Arty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst his battery was under very heavy shell fire an intense fire was started by a direct hit upon his gun-pit, and spread to an ammunition dump. In company with an officer, he proceeded twice to the fire and extinguished it, at very great personal risk from enemy fire and the explosion of the burning ammunition.

2431 Pte. W. Leahy, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. With absolute indifference to risk or danger he personally bombed and put out of action an enemy machine gun, thereby enabling our troops to continue their advance. This act of great courage saved a critical situation and averted serious casualties.

---

621 Sjt. (T./C./S./M.) E. S. Lewis, A. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When all his officers had been killed he took charge of his company during a heavy hostile attack, and displayed qualities of leadership and courage that were beyond praise. He personally and at great risk, under heavy fire, dug out two men who had been buried by a shell in their trench, thereby saving their lives. His splendid example had a wonderful effect upon the men.

---

326 Pte. F. Lock, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as one of a bombing party during a raid upon enemy trenches. He displayed great courage and initiative in working round a party of enemy bombers, killing and capturing them, and entirely breaking the enemy's resistance at that point.

2333 S./M. J. S. McRobie, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of a large rationing party. It was mainly due to his skill and fine leadership that the party twice passed through a heavy enemy barrage and shell fire with only slight casualties, and was able to deliver the rations and water.

2404 Pte. T. J. A. Maroney, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. For three days and nights continuously he tended the wounded, carrying them to the dressing station under intense shell fire and totally regardless of danger. The battalion casualties reached 241, and his energy and self-sacrifice were beyond praise.

6623 2nd Cpl. (T./Cpl.) J. W. Mott, Aust. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On at least three occasions he has carried out surveys under heavy fire, with the object of ascertaining the situation after attacks. He has in each case brought back reliable information of the greatest value.

3108 L./Cpl. R. J. Munro, Aust. M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was the only man left of a gun team, and, although wounded, he remained at his post and was mainly responsible for smashing the enemy's first wave. His conduct was magnificent.

2776 Sjt. J. Murray, Aust. Engrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed great coolness and courage in assisting an officer to mark out and excavate a support trench, moving along the line under intense shell fire to encourage the men.

1985 Cpl. S. F. Price, Aust. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During an attack upon the enemy line he led the bombing squad with great dash, directing fire, and, at great risk, getting above the parapet for better observation. Though thrice wounded he remained on duty, and afforded a splendid example to his men.

2708 Sjt. J. B. Raeside, Aust. Engrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He displayed the utmost coolness and fearlessness in placing the charges and exploding them during the destruction of enemy wire. He personally attended to every detail, and the success of the operation was largely due to his close supervision.

2761 T./Cpl. F. B. Rattle, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of a Lewis gun section his post was blown in and all his team put out of action. He personally repaired the gun, carried it forward single-handed to a shell-hole, and from there brought flanking fire to bear upon the enemy, thereby smashing their attack. Later on he was again blown up by a shell, and his gun smashed; whereupon he obtained another, and continued in action single-handed after all his men were killed. His fearlessness was exceptional.

608 Pte. D. E. Sinclair, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As stretcher-bearer he worked continuously, amidst the heaviest fighting and through a terrific barrage, to get his man. He went out close to an enemy trench and brought back men who had lain wounded for six days in a position from which it seemed impossible to rescue them.

2789 Pte. F. G. Starling, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As a company scout he has done most valuable work, and in the advance showed great courage and initiative in finding and leading the way through gaps in the enemy wire.

3138 Cpl. H. F. Thompson, Aust. Engrs.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Whilst consolidating and constructing an important post, he showed great courage and initiative in taking charge of the working party after their officer had been wounded, and completing the work in a most effective manner under heavy fire. His example had a splendid effect upon the men.

4063 L./Cpl. G. L. Vernon, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. His work as a bomber was most gallant. Though wounded in two places, he rushed forward, bombed and stopped an enemy counter-attack. He remained on duty, doing splendid work, until wounded for the third time. He showed an utter disregard of danger, and set a very fine example to all ranks.

1008 Pte. F. W. Waring, Aust. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a hostile raid he handled his machine-gun with great effect, and when temporarily out of action he withdrew it and his team in good order, undoubtedly saving the gun and team from capture.

CANADIAN FORCE.

420035 Cpl. C. H. Catchpole, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He organised and led a daylight raid on the enemy lines. He brought his party back without casualty, and obtained most valuable information.

A.26646 L./Cpl. (A./Capt.) R. Coates, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took charge of a raiding party and continued on, going through 15 yards of the enemy wire and inflicting heavy losses. He set a splendid example throughout.

69275 Sjt. G. C. Foley, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. An enemy sniping post was causing severe casualties to his company. He gallantly dashed forward and, single-handed, killed the snipers. Throughout the attack he set a splendid example to the men.

184161 Pte. H. Henry, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During a raid on the enemy lines he, with one other man, attacked nine of the enemy, killing four and capturing two unwounded. He displayed great courage and determination throughout.

71905 Cpl. D. L. H. Hunn, Can. M.G. Corps.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was isolated in an important position, and seriously wounded and his entire crew were casualties. Notwithstanding this, he worked his gun continuously for three hours, until relieved.

67387 C.S.M. T. D. Hurley, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led forward two platoons and, in spite of heavy fire, he succeeded in gaining his objective. He displayed marked ability and courage throughout.

75018 Sjt. E. A. McGirr, Can. M.G. Corps.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He captured single-handed an enemy machine gun and six men. He used this gun against the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties.

57464 Sjt. B. Norris, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He took command of his company and led them to their objective under heavy fire. He organised consolidation, and throughout he set a splendid example to his men.

61216 C.S.M. E. C. Pelland, Can. Infy.
For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He, single-handed, captured three enemy officers. During operations, although wounded, he remained at duty, giving a splendid example of courage and determination.

742951 Pte. G. D. Scott, Can. Infy.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He, in company with an officer, attempted to rush a machine gun. The officer was wounded, and he carried him to a shell hole and was himself wounded while doing so. In spite of this, he charged the enemy with bombs and, driving them into a dug-out, the whole party was finally captured.
