

Maj. Thomas Henry Parry, R. W. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great courage and skill whilst leading his company in an attack, and it was largely owing to his example that the attack made such good progress. Although twice wounded, he continued to command until put out of action by a third wound.

T./Capt. (A./Lieut.-Col.) Charles Derwent Pye-Smith, M.C., R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When in charge of an advanced dressing station his Serjt.-Major and the whole of his staff were killed. He reorganised the work with the assistance of a Lance-Corporal, and, in consequence of his energy and presence of mind, the work was not delayed. He led his bearers continually into the front line, rescuing wounded under heavy shell fire, and working with great heroism for sixty hours, setting a splendid example to all.

Capt. (A./Maj.) Darcy John Rigby Richards, M.C., R.G.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. The battery was under heavy shell fire, and an ammunition dump close to one of the gun pits was set on fire. In answer to a call he brought his battery into action and fought his guns, knowing the dump was likely to explode, which it did, while the guns were in action.

2nd Lt. Harold Cecil Round, M.C., Rif. Brig., Spec. Res.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When our troops were forced to withdraw he collected a few men and made a strong point within 70 yards of the enemy trench. This position he held for two days without supplies of any kind. He was finally able to get a valuable report through, before being ordered to withdraw.

Lt. Robert Henry Stable, Infy., Indian Army.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He assumed command of his battalion early in the action, and displayed great coolness and courage under heavy fire. He set a magnificent example to his men throughout.

Capt. James Gordon Stokes, M.C., Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great skill and gallantry when in command of the forward defences under heavy shell fire, during which his dug-out was practically destroyed. By his courage and coolness he set a fine example to all ranks, and continued to supply battalion headquarters with very valuable information.

T./Lt. (A./Capt.) Percy Wyfold Stout, M.M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. At a critical moment, when a number of armoured cars were in danger of being cut off, he led the attack to their relief, and after two hours' heavy fighting gained the objective, after inflicting heavy losses upon the enemy.

Capt. Philip Charles Paul Tattersall, Lond. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When senior officer of his battalion, he led the front line forward to within 400 yards of the enemy's position. Although badly wounded in both legs, he continued to direct the fire until dusk. He refused to retire until all his men had been withdrawn.

Capt. Thomas John Chichester Conyngham Thompson, R. Ir. Fus., Spec. Res., attd. R. Ir. Rif.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company with great dash and success to their objective, afterwards by his initiative rendering valuable assistance to another unit by co-operating on their flank. The spirit and dash of his company were largely due to his personality and gallantry on this, as on all other occasions.

Lt. (T./Capt. and A./Maj.) Carl Otto von Treuenfels, H.A.C., attd. R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the greatest disregard of danger in saving material and ammunition from burning buildings in which his battery was being heavily shelled. By his coolness and magnificent example the guns of his battery were saved, and heavy casualties of men and material were averted.

Capt. Edward William Walker, R. W. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company forward and, assisted by an officer and a few men of another unit, captured an important point and held out against sharp counter-attacks until the remainder of the enemy position was won. He personally captured a machine-gun and a large number of prisoners.

T./2nd Lt. Leslie Arthur Walton, M.C., Welsh R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed a marked contempt for danger, and when the company was held up he was seriously wounded whilst engaging an enemy sniper. In spite of this he dashed forward at the head of his men, and was responsible for capturing eleven prisoners who had been holding up the advance.

T./Maj. Sidney Albert Westrop, M.C., Mach. Gun Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his company with marked ability and success. He carried out a reconnaissance of the captured ground, and it was due to his information that enemy machine guns were located and captured.

Lt.-Col. Alfred Ernest Williams, R. War. R., Spec. Res., Comdg. Bn., Wilts. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his battalion during an attack with skill and decision, showing great resourcefulness under difficult circumstances.

Capt. (T./Maj.) William Eric Wilson, Essex R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After leading his company with great
