

when captured. He showed complete disregard of personal danger in visiting his gun positions and personally maintaining touch with various units, and his conduct had a most inspiring effect upon the men.

T./2nd Lt. John Henry Buchanan Gegg, Som. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded his platoon and gained his objective under heavy fire. Later, on seeing one of his patrol had suffered severe casualties, he himself went out under heavy fire and rallied the men and sent back the wounded. He was himself wounded.

T./Lt. Norman Victor Gibson, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When under very heavy machine gun and shell fire, he succeeded after several attempts in placing his gun 200 yards in front of our line, thus preventing the enemy from occupying a knoll of great tactical importance. His work has at all times been distinguished by its dash and good leadership.

2nd Lt. Noel Gilbert, R.W. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed the utmost disregard of personal danger in maintaining communication with the front line during the attack, continually carrying verbal messages himself, which were of the greatest importance. He did valuable service in re-organising the men and in carrying in wounded under heavy fire.

T./2nd Lt. Cuthbert Colin Gemmill Girvan, Lanc. Fus. and R.F.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When on patrol he flew for 2½ hours at a height of 500 ft., gaining and dropping valuable information at Headquarters. Although severely wounded and fainting from loss of blood, he handed in his report before finally collapsing.

2nd Lt. Edward Charles Goddard, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He rendered invaluable assistance in removing ammunition under heavy shell fire, continuing to do so until severely wounded. His gallant conduct contributed greatly to the maintenance of order and discipline under exceptionally trying circumstances.

T./2nd Lt. Arthur Stevens Godfree, Gen. List, attd. Horse, Ind. A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He commanded a patrol with complete success. His careful reconnaissance and arrangements beforehand greatly contributed to the successful issue of the enterprise.

2nd Lt. Harry Norman Golden, M.G. Corps.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. During the assault he handled his guns with the greatest courage and ability. He kept his guns in action throughout, and rendered the utmost assistance to the infantry.

T./2nd Lt. Graydon William Goldsworthy, W. Rid. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When going to the rear to get his wound dressed he met a company of another unit without any officers. He rallied these men and led them against the enemy, persisting in the assault until compelled to fall out owing to exhaustion.

Lt. John Alexander Goodman, Welsh R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He handled his platoon with great courage and contempt of danger under very heavy fire at close range, displaying fine leadership and setting a splendid example.

Capt. Charles Marsh Gozney, R.A.M.C.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in attending to the wounded under heavy shell fire. By his courage and total disregard of personal danger he set a brilliant example to all around him and greatly encouraged the wounded.

*Capt. Humphrey Gilbert Grace, Cav., Ind. Army.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his squadron with great gallantry, and compelled a largely superior force of the enemy's cavalry to withdraw. He has previously done fine work.

T./2nd Lt. (A./Lt.) Arthur Wilfred Graham, Ches. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When his battalion's objective was under heavy artillery fire, he collected a large number of men and led them to the final assault. He was the first into the enemy's position, inspiring great confidence in his men by his fine example of courage and fearlessness under fire and under difficult conditions.

*T./2nd Lt. (A./Capt.) Henry Brewin Grant, Glouc. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He led his company in the most gallant manner, and although severely wounded, continued to command until he fell from exhaustion.

T./2nd Lt. Henry Gray, R.E.

For conspicuous gallantry and resource in various mining raids, when he successfully blew up several enemy shafts, returning with prisoners. He invariably exhibited great fearlessness and skill.

Lt. (T./Capt.) Arthur Estough Green, W. Yorks. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in an attack, when, by skilful and courageous leading under fire, he successfully established and defended posts, ultimately withdrawing in good order. He was wounded in the first assault.
