

- Brown, Mary.
For courage and high example in getting work started again under circumstances of considerable danger.
- Bryant, William.
For courage in preventing further serious explosion in a filling factory, at very great personal risk.
- Buckley, John.
For courage and self-sacrifice in carrying out dangerous experiments.
- Burdett-Coutts, Margaret Winifred.
For courage in that, after losing a finger and badly lacerating her hand in a circular saw, she went away quietly to have it treated, in order not to unnerve her fellow-workers.
- Burrell, Marion, Sorting Clerk and Telegraphist.
Displayed great courage and devotion to duty during air-raids.
- Burton, James.
For great courage in rescuing workers from burning explosives shops, at great personal risk.
- Busby, Louisa.
For courage in returning to work after an accident resulting in loss of right hand and other injuries.
- Butler, Edith.
For courage, resource, and high example. Has saved the lives of at least two workers, and has displayed exceptional skill and courage in several serious accidents.
- Butler, Gertrude Elizabeth.
For courage and high example in continuing at her work during a fire, under circumstances of great danger.
- Campbell, George Patrick, Carpenter, G.P.O.
Employed on cable ships and small craft in connection with war work in dangerous waters.
- Cardo, Richard.
For courage and resource shown on several occasions under circumstances of great personal danger.
- Carlton, Louisa Margaret, Supervisor, Telephones.
Displayed great courage and devotion to duty during air-raids and bombardment from the sea.
- Carter, Samuel.
For courage and resource in saving the life of a chemist and three workers who were overcome by fumes in an explosives factory.
- Cass, Florence Marie, Telephonist.
Displayed great courage and devotion to duty while in charge of a telephone exchange during a serious explosion at a neighbouring munition works.
- Chambers, Sydney.
For great courage in rescuing workers from burning explosives shops at great personal risk.
- Chorley, William Frank.
For courage in removing a large quantity of high explosives during a fire.
- Clarke, Annie.
For courage in keeping workers together under circumstances of great danger.
- Clarke, Mabel Eleanor, Telephonist.
Displayed great courage and devotion to duty during air-raids.
- Clelland, Alexander.
For courage and resource under circumstances of great danger.
- Coles, Gertrude.
For courage in returning to work after her hand had been mutilated by an explosion.
- Corder, John.
For courage in fighting a fire caused by an explosion, at very great personal risk.
- Cornelius, Alexander.
For courage in having, on two occasions, saved a large amount of raw material in an explosives factory at the risk of his life.
- Cosby, Thomas, Fitter, Devonport Dockyard.
For courage on the occasion of the trials of a new submarine.
- Costa, Herbert Luigi.
For courage in continuing to work under circumstances of great danger.
- Cox, Mabel Rosa, Chargewoman, Royal Naval Cordite Factory.
For devotion to duty and great presence of mind in averting an explosion when in charge of a guncotton press.
- Croucher, May Victoria.
For courage and high example on the occasion of a fire at an explosives factory.
- Crutchley, Thomas.
For courage in entering a gas main and saving the lives of two workers who were gassed, at very great personal risk.
- Cunningham, Sophia.
For courage and high example in continuing her duties immediately after a severe explosion.
- Cuskearn, John.
For courage in making a determined attempt to recover a valuable instrument from the cooling pond, in consequence of which he contracted blood poisoning and nearly died.
- Dartnell, Lucie Jane, Sorting Clerk and Telegraphist.
Displayed great courage and devotion to duty during air-raids.
- Davidson, James, Bricklayer's Labourer.
For courage in rescuing a fellow-workman who had been overcome by gas inside a gas apparatus.
- Davies, Ben.
For courage and high example in remaining at work for an hour after being painfully burnt on his hands, face and neck, and returning to duty for another five hours immediately after treatment.
- Davies, James Henry, Skilled Workman, G.P.O.
Showed habitual courage in carrying out repairs to submarine cables in difficult and dangerous waters.
- Davies, Robert John, Electrical Fitter, Devonport Dockyard.
For courage and self-sacrifice on the occasion of an explosion on a submarine boat on which he was at work.
- Davies, Violet Annie.
For courage in remaining at her post at the telephone during a severe explosion. Age 15.
- Dixon, William.
For courage in rescuing a fellow-worker at great personal risk.
- Doran, Joseph.
For courage and resource in preventing a fire in an explosives factory under exceptionally dangerous circumstances.