

S/1651 Pte. J. McEwan, Gord. Highrs. (Dumfries).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. For eighteen months he has acted as company runner. During an attack his coolness and daring were responsible for a section of men, of which he took command, rushing and clearing out a very troublesome nest of the enemy. Throughout the long period he has served with the battalion he has always displayed the greatest courage and the highest sense of duty.

19499 Sjt. D. A. McFarlane, Welsh R. (Canada).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in charge of the battalion signallers. In every action he has displayed a courage which cannot be too highly praised. Time after time he has been the first to lead his men out, under the heaviest fire, to repair broken lines, and he has remained out until the work was completed.

18498 R.S.M. E. McGarry, Lanc. Fus. (Oldham).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has rendered splendid service, and shown great energy and determination at his work during a long period.

L.6572 A./Bdr. E. McGinnis, R.F.A. (Glasgow).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He laid a wire to the newly captured position during an attack under heavy machine-gun fire. He set a fine example by his energy and devotion to duty and coolness under fire on many occasions.

8384 Sjt. J. McGuinness, Ir. Gds. (Edgware Road, London).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He was one of a party holding an advanced post, and on the line of posts being captured by a large force of the enemy, he made good his escape, after being severely wounded in the leg. Finding that his platoon officer was missing, he, in broad daylight, returned to the post lately occupied by this officer, which was now held by twelve of the enemy, who bombed and fired at him. He spent four hours within the enemy's lines, until he had searched the whole locality.

67650 Sjt. S. McInnes, R.E. (Thornaby).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. While working during an engagement under continual shell fire, he set an example of coolness and courage which was an inspiration to his men.

29654 C.S.M. J. McIntosh, H.L.I. (Newtongrange).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has consistently set a splendid example to his men by his coolness and courage under fire.

265259 Sjt. S. McIntyre, R.F.A.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during operations. He volunteered on every occasion to recover captured guns, and assisted to bring in eleven. His courage and coolness has always inspired all ranks.

9614 Sjt. J. McIntosh, Gord. Highrs. (Aberdeen).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. As transport serjeant during the operations he brought the transport up to the battalion every night, often under heavy shell fire. It is largely due to him, who has served continuously with the battalion for over three years, that the transport continues to maintain such a high standard of efficiency.

30159 Sjt. W. McKeown, M.G. Cps. (Glasgow).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. By his courage and coolness under fire he has invariably set a fine example to the men under his command, and on two occasions when wounded he remained on duty.

5504 R.S.M. J. McLean, R. Scots. Fus. (Aberdeen).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty since the commencement of the campaign. He has been present with the battalion during every engagement in which it has taken part, and his services throughout have been invaluable. In every position he has occupied he has always displayed the highest courage and ability.

N.90099 Sjt. T. McLeod, North'd Fus. (Achnington).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during a long period. He displayed courage and coolness of a high order under difficult conditions, and set a splendid example to all ranks.

6762 Sjt. E. McNary, R.F.A. (Wexford).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has rendered good and meritorious service, and has set a splendid example in carrying out whatever task has been allotted to him under varied conditions of danger and difficulty.

35078 S./S. (A./S.M.) T. McNicol, R.A.M.C. (Derby).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on many occasions during operations. He always exhibited the greatest courage and coolness in supervising the evacuation of the wounded, frequently under heavy shell fire, and his splendid example was an inspiration to his men.

11329 B.S.M. H. Meathrel, R.H.A. (Devon).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty since the early part of the campaign. He has invariably set a fine example of courage and coolness under fire, and assisted in maintaining a high standard of efficiency and discipline in the battery.

16194 B.S.M. G. Menzies, R.G.A. (Dumbarton).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He has always displayed coolness and courage of the highest order, freely exposing himself in action, and maintaining good order and discipline in difficult circumstances. He has also shown great devotion in attending to the wounded.
