Section 46 (3).

ORDER BY THE SECRETARY FOR SCOTLAND, DATED 6TH NOVEMBER 1918, FOR THE REMOVAL OF DIFFICULTIES IN CONNECTION WITH THE HOLDING OF THE FIRST ELECTIONS AFTER THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE REPRESENTATION OF THE PEOPLE ACT, 1918.

Whereas by subsection (3) of Section 46, as read with subsection (1) (c) of Section 43 of the Representation of the People Act, 1918 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") it is provided that if any difficulty arises in Scotland as to the holding of the first elections after the commencement of the Act (hereinafter referred to as "the first elections"), the Secretary for Scotland may by Order do any matter or thing which appears to him necessary for the proper holding of the elections:

ROBERT MUNRO,
His Majesty's Secretary for Scotland.

*Crown Office,
6th November 1918.*

The KING has been pleased by Letters Patent under the Great Seal bearing date the fifth day of November 1918, to grant to Paul Ogden Lawrence, Esq., K.C., the office of one of the Justices of His Majesty's High Court of Justice.

Whitehall, 4th November 1918.

His Majesty The KING has been pleased to award the Edward Medal to John Garner under the following circumstances:—

On the 29th April 1918, one of a battery of seven boilers in the boiler-house of the factory of the British Thomson-Houston Co. Ltd., at Rugby, exploded. Garner, a stoker, at once entered the house, which was filled with steam and boiling water and in a serious condition, in the hope of rescuing any person who might be injured. Large masses of masonry were threatening to fall, and either of the remaining two boilers under steam was likely to explode at any time. The only light available was a hand lamp carried by Garner. After searching some five minutes, Garner discovered an injured man lodged on a projecting beam; but was unable to reach him. He stood by him, however, until the beam canted, and the injured man fell to the ground without further hurt. No other persons were injured by the accident. Garner undoubtedly risked his life to save a fellow-workman.

Also the Edward Medal in silver to James Simpson, a fireman at the Glencraig Colliery, Fife:—

On the 21st May 1918, a repairer, whilst engaged with two other workmen in carrying out repairs, was killed by a fall of roof. The two workmen were both caught and held by the fall. Simpson, who arrived half an hour later, found the men imprisoned, and realised that if he went for help they would be suffocated before it could arrive. He immediately set to work unaided and worked for three hours without relaxation, though exposed to danger from the falling roof. At last he succeeded in releasing one of the men. Simpson was then so exhausted that he could not release the second man; but he protected him with timber before going for help. Had it not been for Simpson's presence of mind and devotion the two men would have lost their lives.

Also the Edward Medal to Charles Sellars, Deputy, and Laurence Wiseman, a collier, employed at the Grimethorpe Colliery, Barnsley:—

On the 20th April 1918 a collier was buried by a fall of roof. Sellars was soon on the spot, and, after failing in an effort to get at the man by working under falling ground, he got on the top of the fall and worked along with Wiseman. After two hours and a half of persistent effort they succeeded in rescuing the workman. Both Sellars and Wiseman ran the risk of being injured by further falls.

Also the Edward Medal in silver to Frederick Holdway, a Deputy, and the Edward Medal to George Henry Laver, Under Manager, and Thomas

Harper, Collier, all employed at the Ackton Hall Colliery, Featherstone:—

On the 6th May 1918 three miners were working at the face in the Ackton Hall Colliery when a heavy fall of roof occurred, imprisoning one of the men. Holdway, who was soon on the spot, immediately began the work of rescue, and, with six others, including Harper and Laver, succeeded, after working hard for nearly 24 hours, in rescuing the imprisoned workman. The rescue was carried out with exceptional skill and determination under very dangerous conditions. Holdway specially distinguished himself and showed a fine example of courage and coolness. Harper and Laver were also specially mentioned for their resource and presence of mind.

Also the Edward Medal to John Johnson, Deputy at the Newdigate Colliery, Bedworth, Nuneaton:—

On the 29th July 1915 a heavy fall of roof occurred at the Newdigate Colliery, by which a man named Pacey was buried. Johnson ran at once to the spot, where others were already at work, and, finding that the roof was still very uneasy, ordered props to be set. Leaving the men at work, he found his way to the other side of the fall, where the roof was also very uneasy. Estimating correctly, however, that it was from this side Pacey could most easily be reached, he decided to carry on the work, and himself started to set props. Almost immediately, however, a further heavy fall occurred, burying and severely injuring him. The roof then ceased to be uneasy, and Johnson and Pacey were rescued alive. Pacey unfortunately died in hospital. Johnson was in and out of hospital for nearly two years, and had to undergo many operations as a result of his injuries.

Also the Edward Medal to Edward Colwell and Frederick Lindley:—

On the 17th July 1918 three men were ascending a steel chimney 175 feet high at Vickers' River Don Works, Sheffield, for the purpose of fixing a scaffold in order to paint the exterior chimney. They ascended by means of iron rungs permanently bolted to the chimney, at distances of 12 inches throughout its height, by rivets bolted through the exterior casing of the chimney. The men were about 10 feet apart. When the topmost had reached a height of about 100 feet, one of the rungs supporting the second man broke away and he fell, in his fall breaking 10 other rungs beneath him and striking the third man, who, fortunately, managed to retain his hold and descend to the ground. The man who fell was killed instantaneously.

The topmost man was left on the upper part of the ladder, 100 feet from the ground, with a gap of 10 feet below him preventing his descent. Although it was likely that many of the rungs below him were defective, Colwell and Lindley at once volunteered to rescue him. They ascended the rungs bearing the weight of a long wooden ladder with lifting and lashing tackle. In the course of the ascent they discovered another defective rung, which they easily wrenched out and threw to the ground. They nevertheless proceeded and lashed the wooden ladder against the chimney and across the gap, thus enabling the man, who was cut off by the gap, to descend to the ground.

Whitehall, 6th November 1918.

The KING has been pleased to award the Albert Medal to Lieutenant-Colonel (Temporary Brigadier-General) Alfred Burt, D.S.O., and Sergeant Victor Brooks, Canadian Cavalry Field Ambulance; and (posthumous awards) to Private Arthur Johnson and Driver Alfred Horn, late of the Army Service Corps, in recognition of their gallantry in saving or endeavouring to save life in France in June last. The circumstances are as follows:—

On the 30th June 1918 a Corporal of the Royal Air Force, who had been lowered by a rope into a crater caused by a bomb which had been dropped by a hostile aeroplane, was overcome by carbon monoxide gas, which had accumulated in large quantities in the crater. Endeavours were made to haul him out, but his head became caught, and Private Johnson volunteered to descend and re-adjust the rope, which he did successfully, and the Corporal was rescued, but Johnson was himself overcome. Driver Horn at once put on his respirator and lowered himself to the rescue, but was likewise overcome. Sergeant Brooks then volunteered to attempt to rescue both men, but was also overcome by the gas; fortunately he was hauled out.

At this stage Brigadier-General Burt refused to permit anyone else to descend, but did so himself, and succeeded in dragging one of the unconscious men some way towards the rope; he, however, became unconscious and had to be pulled out.

There can be no doubt that all knew the risk that they were running, and willingly incurred it in the hope of saving life.

Air Ministry,

8th November 1918.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the Victoria Cross to Lieut. (actg. Capt.) Ferdinand Maurice Felix West, M.C., Royal Air Force (formerly of the Special Reserve, Royal Munster Fusiliers), in recognition of his outstanding bravery in aerial combat.

Captain West, while engaging hostile troops at a low altitude far over the enemy lines, was attacked by seven aircraft. Early in the engagement one of his legs was partially severed by an explosive bullet, and fell powerless into the controls, rendering the machine for the time unmanageable. Lifting his disabled leg, he regained control of the machine, and, although wounded in the other leg, he, with surpassing bravery and devotion to duty, manœuvred his machine so skilfully that his observer was enabled to get several good bursts into the enemy machines, which drove them away. Captain West then, with rare courage and determination, desperately wounded as he was, brought his machine over our lines and landed safely. Exhausted by his exertions, he fainted, but on regaining consciousness insisted on writing his report.

(The award of the Military Cross was gazetted on 26th July 1918.)

War Office,

8th November 1918.

His Majesty the KING has approved of the undermentioned rewards in recognition of bravery in the field:—

Awarded the Military Cross.

2nd Lt. (Actg. Lt.) Frank Bacon Palmer, Royal Air Force.

On the night of 24th August 1918, this officer performed very gallant and meritorious service. In an attack on one of our aerodromes by hostile aircraft, a hangar full of machines was set on fire, illuminating the whole camp, making the aerodrome an easy mark for the raiders, who continued dropping bombs for fifteen minutes. Great confusion ensued, and twenty officers and men were wounded.

Lt. Palmer was blown over by the explosion of a bomb, and although badly shaken he exhibited coolness and courage of a high order, and by his promptitude succeeded in collecting the wounded, placing them in comparative safety, and also managed to remove the machines and transport from the burning hangars and shelters, notwithstanding the continual dropping of the enemy's bombs in the area.

Awarded the Military Medal.
