The KING has been graciously pleased to confer the Decoration of the Albert Medal upon Trumpeter Mangal Sain, 2nd Lancers, Indian Army.

On the 15th March last, while some Turkish prisoners-of-war were bathing at Beirut under a guard of British soldiers, one of them got into difficulties. Two members of the escort went to his assistance but failed to rescue him. On hearing of the man's danger, Mangal Sain at once swam out through the surf and eventually with great difficulty brought him ashore.

Shortly afterwards two British soldiers who were bathing were seen to have been caught in a current and to be in danger of drowning, and Mangal Sain, although still exhausted on account of his rescue of the first man, again swam out to the assistance of the two others. He succeeded in bringing one man ashore, and, although he was completely done up, he immediately started without hesitation to the rescue of the other soldier. He was, however, called back, as it was seen that the man had drifted so far out that it was impossible to save him.

Both men who were rescued were in the last state of collapse and must inevitably have been drowned had it not been for the gallantry displayed by Mangal Sain, who incurred great risk in rendering the services, owing to the violent surf and the dangerous currents beyond.

TRADE BOARDS ACTS, 1909 AND 1918.

SPECIAL ORDER made in pursuance of Section One of the Trade Boards Act, 1918, with respect to the Rope, Twine, and Net Trade.

And whereas the Trade Boards Acts, 1909 and 1918, do not apply to the trade specified in the appendix to this Order, and the Minister of Labour as respects that trade is of the opinion aforesaid :

Now, therefore, I, the Minister of Labour, in pursuance of the powers given to me by Section One of the Trade Boards Act, 1918, and by any other statute in that behalf, do hereby make a Special Order that from and after the 18th day of July 1919, the following provision shall have effect (that is to say) :—
