Whitehall, 16th December 1921.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal of the 2nd Class to Arthur Denton, Works Fitter at the Wandsworth works of Metal Powders Ltd., in the following circumstances:—

On the 20th April 1921 an explosion of aluminium powder took place at the Wandsworth works of Metal Powders Ltd., causing an outbreak of fire. One of the female employees, Mrs. Draper, was in the act of entering the room where the explosion took place, but became dazed, and, instead of retiring from the room, ran into the flames. Mr. Denton, the Works' Fitter, who was passing the door when the explosion occurred, entered the room, found Mrs. Draper on the floor enveloped in flames from the waist upwards, and carried her out. She was so badly injured that her life was at one time despaired of, while Denton himself was severely burnt in effecting her rescue.

Denton exhibited great bravery, as he was fully aware that a more serious explosion might occur at any moment. If it had, there is little doubt that he would have lost his life.

Also the Edward Medal of the 2nd Class to Robert Edward Paddock and Joseph Thomas Chidley.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock on April 29th, 1921, Chidley, with three other men, was engaged in pumping water from old workings in the Bulthy Mine, in Shropshire, when the foreman became affected by fumes from a petrol engine, and ordered the men to leave. He became unconscious, and was carried out by Chidley, who was himself in a semi-conscious condition on arrival at the foot of the air-shaft. The two other men were overcome by gas and collapsed.

Paddock came to work at 10 o'clock, and, proceeding towards the working place, met Chidley and the foreman and helped them into the open air. He then returned and made two attempts to reach the other two men, but was each time driven back by the gas. He returned to the surface, and after consultation with Chidley, who had now recovered, the two men determined to make a third attempt. They managed to reach one of the men and got him as far as the air-shaft, but were then becoming overcome, and had to leave him. Unfortunately, this man was dead when eventually he was brought to the surface, but the remaining man, whom it had not been possible to reach, subsequently regained consciousness, and managed to make his way to the surface. Both Paddock and Chidley displayed great courage and determination in the work of rescue.
