TAXATION OF TREASURY BILLS
ABROAD.

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury hereby draw the attention of all concerned to the fact that as from the 1st September 1922, the powers conferred upon the Treasury by Section 47 of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1915, as amended by Section 44 (i.) of the Finance Act, 1916, have lapsed. These sections empowered the Treasury during the continuance of the War, and a period of twelve months thereafter, to issue securities with a condition that neither the capital nor the interest thereof shall be liable to British taxation so long as it is shown, in manner directed by the Treasury, that the securities are in the beneficial ownership of persons who are, as regards Income-tax (including super-tax), not ordinarily resident, and as regards other taxation are neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom.

By a Notice under these powers published on the 15th August 1916, the Treasury announced that the capital and interest of any Treasury Bills would not be liable to taxation if in the beneficial ownership of persons neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom, and that the interest of Treasury Bills would not be liable to British Income-Tax so long as in the beneficial ownership of persons not ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom.

The period of one year after the War expired on the 31st August 1922, and the exemptions set forth in the Notice of 15th August 1916, accordingly do not apply to Treasury Bills issued on or after the 1st September 1922.
