Admiralty, 13th August 1926.

The Secretary of the Admiralty announces that it has been decided, with the KING'S approval, that Orders, decorations and medals shall be worn with frock coat and epaulettes dress and with white dress.

With these dresses, Knights Grand Cross and Knights Grand Commanders of Orders will wear the broad ribbon and badge over the shoulder, star or stars on the left side of the coat, and decorations and medals on the breast. Knights Commanders and Commanders and Companions of the Orders of the Bath, St. Michael and St. George, the Star of India and the Indian Empire will in general wear one badge only, namely, the badge of the senior Order round the neck (a bow tie being worn), but if the occasion requires a junior or foreign badge also to be worn it is to be worn emerging from between the buttons of the coat as in full dress decorations and medals will be worn on the breast; and Knights Commanders will wear the star or stars on the left side of the coat. Companions of other Orders and members of Orders will wear badges, decorations and medals on the breast.

With frock coat and epaulettes dress the bar from which badges, decorations and medals are suspended is to extend from the shoulder inwards and over the lapel of the coat if necessary. To enable medals to be worn with a frock coat on which ribbons are already sewn, small twist loops or beackets are to be fitted to accommodate the pin of the medal brooch. These beackets are to be placed immediately above or immediately below the top row of medal ribbons, according to the position of the pin of the brooch and are to be so arranged that the ribbons on the frock coat shall be completely covered. Where more than four rows of medal ribbons are sewn on the frock coat it may be necessary, in order to cover them completely, for the medals to be mounted in Court style as described in Clause 12 of Article 167 of the King's Regulations and Admiralty Instructions, and slightly to lengthen the ribbons.
