TUESDAY, JULY 5, 1927.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 27th day of June 1927.

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by virtue of an Order in Council dated the 7th day of May 1907 (hereinafter referred to as "the Petroleum (Mixtures) Order, 1907"), certain provisions of the Petroleum Acts, 1871 and 1879, apply to mixtures of petroleum and it is expedient to vary the said Order:

And whereas it is also expedient that certain provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1926 (which, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section eleven of that Act, is to be construed as one with the Acts aforesaid), shall apply to mixtures of petroleum:

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by virtue of the powers conferred on Him by section 14 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, and of all other powers enabling Him in that behalf, is pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

1. The mixtures of petroleum to which the Petroleum Acts, 1871 and 1879, shall apply by virtue of the Petroleum (Mixtures) Order, 1907, shall be the mixtures defined by the Schedule to this Order; and the Petroleum (Mixtures) Order, 1907, shall have effect accordingly.

2. The provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1926, shall apply to the mixtures of petroleum defined by the Schedule to this Order in like manner as they apply to petroleum spirit.

3. This Order may be cited as the Petroleum (Mixtures) Order, 1927, and this Order and the Petroleum (Mixtures) Order, 1907, may be cited together as the Petroleum (Mixtures) Orders, 1907 and 1927.

M. P. A. HANKEY.

SCHEDULE.

PART I.

Definition of Mixtures of Petroleum.

For the purposes of this Order the expression "mixtures of petroleum" means all mixtures (whether liquid, viscous or solid) of petroleum with any other substance except mixtures which, when tested in the manner set forth in Part II. of this Schedule, do not give off an inflammable vapour at a temperature below seventy-three degrees Fahrenheit.

PART II.

Manner of Testing Mixtures of Petroleum. Liquid Mixtures.

1. A mixture of petroleum which is wholly liquid flows quite freely, and does not contain any sediment or thickening ingredient, shall be tested by the method set forth in Part II. of the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1926.

Sedimentary and Viscous Mixtures.

2—(1) Where a mixture of petroleum contains an undissolved sediment that can be separated by filtration or by settlement and decantation, the sediment shall be so separated and the filtered or decanted liquid shall be tested by the method set forth in Part II. of the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1926.

In separating the sediment, care must be taken to minimise the evaporation of the petroleum.

(2) Where a mixture of petroleum is such that sediment cannot be separated by filtration or by settlement and decantation, or where it is of a viscous nature, the apparatus to be used for testing the mixture shall be fitted with a stirrer in accordance with the specification contained in Part I. of the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(3) In carrying out the test of a viscous petroleum mixture, the stirrer shall, except when the test flame is applied, be constantly revolved at a slow speed with the fingers, the direction of revolution being that of the hands of a clock.

(4) Subject to the foregoing provisions, the method of testing a sedimentary or viscous mixture, shall be that set forth in Part II. of the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1926.

Solid Mixtures.

3. The apparatus to be used for testing a solid mixture of petroleum shall be that of which a specification is contained in Part I. of the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1926, and the method of carrying out the test shall be as follows:—

The solid mixture must be cut into cylinders $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches long and $\frac{1}{4}$ inch in diameter by means of a cork borer or other cylindrical cutter having the correct internal diameter. These cylinders must be placed in the petroleum cup of the testing apparatus in a vertical position in such number as completely to fill the cup, the cylinders being in contact with one another, but not so tightly packed as to be deformed in shape;

Five or six of the cylinders in the centre of the cup must be shortened to $\frac{3}{4}$ inch to allow space for the thermometer bulb;

The air bath of the testing apparatus must be filled with water to a depth of $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches;

The water bath must then be raised to and maintained at a temperature of about 75° Fahrenheit;

The cup must then be placed in the air bath, and the temperature of the sample must be allowed to rise until the thermometer in the oil cup shows 72° Fahrenheit, when the test flame must be applied;

If no flash is obtained, this temperature must be maintained constant in the oil cup for one hour, at the expiration of which time the test flame must again be applied;

Provided that in testing samples of petroleum mixtures in a room of which the temperature is below 73° Fahrenheit the test flame may be applied after the sample has been a few minutes in the cup while it is still at the temperature of the room in which the test is being carried out, and if a flash is obtained by this means the test need not be proceeded with at a higher temperature.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 27th day of June 1927.

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by virtue of an Order in Council dated the 14th day of July, 1922 (hereinafter referred to as "the Petroleum (Carbide of Calcium) Order, 1922") certain provisions of the Petroleum Acts, 1871 and 1879, apply to carbide of calcium:

And whereas it is expedient that certain provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1926 (which, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (2) of section 11 of that Act, is to be construed as one with the Acts aforesaid) shall apply to carbide of calcium:

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by virtue of the powers conferred on Him by section 14 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, and of all other powers enabling Him in that behalf, is pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

1. The provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1926, shall, except so far as they relate to the testing of petroleum and to the conveyance of petroleum spirit by road, apply to carbide of calcium in like manner as they apply to petroleum spirit.

2. This Order may be cited as the Petroleum (Carbide of Calcium) Order, 1927, and this Order and the Petroleum (Carbide of Calcium) Order, 1922, may be cited together as the Petroleum (Carbide of Calcium) Orders, 1922 and 1927.

(II.) Each package is legibly marked "Di-nitro-phenol."

3. Di-nitro-phenol not excepted in pursuance of article 2 must be packed and marked as required by the Order of Secretary of State relating to the packing of explosives.
