NOTICE.

NORTHERN IRELAND LAND ACT, 1925
(15 & 16 GEO. V., c. 34).

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury give notice that pursuant to Section 2 of the Northern Ireland Land Act, 1925, They have authorised the further creation of £415,835 Guaranteed Four and a half per cent. Bonds, including £47,000 such Bonds for issue to the National Debt Commissioners, and making with the amounts previously authorised a total of £1,688,615 such Bonds.

Whitehall, April 24, 1928.

His Majesty The KING has been graciously pleased to award the Albert Medal to Gunner John Fairclough, Royal Artillery, in recognition of his gallantry in the following circumstances:—

On the night of April 27, 1927, a serious fire occurred in a petrol godown in Ambala. Three Indian boys had gone to the godown in a lorry to get petrol, and they entered the building carrying a lantern. The naked light ignited the petrol vapour with which in the hot weather the building was filled, and in a very short time the whole building was ablaze. On the outbreak of the fire the lorry driver departed, and before any organised aid could arise the boys were trapped in the burning building. Gunner Fairclough, who happened to be walking alone near by, at once went to their assistance. In spite of the fact that the heat from the burning building was so intense as to keep onlookers at a considerable distance from the fire, he three times entered the building and rescued the three children. Gunner Fairclough was severely burned, and unfortunately the three Indian boys later died.

Gunner Fairclough, in entering on three separate occasions a burning building containing a highly inflammable and in certain circumstances a highly explosive substance, three times put his life in the gravest danger. To enter the building the first time was an act calling for great courage, but to enter it twice thereafter, knowing the full danger to be run, was an act of exceptional gallantry.

Whitehall, April 26, 1928.

His Majesty The KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal to Mr. James Marron and Mr. James M'Mullin, in recognition of their gallantry in the following circumstances:—

On the 10th January last, while a furnace was being tapped at the Acklam Iron Works of Messrs. Dorman Long & Company, Middlesbrough, a portion of the brick flooring near the furnace was forced upwards by an explosion, and flames and several tons of molten metal belched forth. In a very short time all the ground near the furnace was covered with molten metal, flames were leaping into the air nearly fifteen feet high, and it was almost impossible to see on account of steam. A man named Davies, aged 76, who was employed as a cleaner, was partially overwhelmed, and took refuge in a water channel surrounding the furnace. Two attempts were made to rescue him by the foreman, but he was beaten back. Marron and M'Mullin, hearing that a man was believed to be trapped by the molten metal, ran to the scene of the explosion and jumped over the tapping channel, which was then full of molten metal. At first they could see nothing on account of the steam and flames, but on the steam lifting for a few seconds they ran along the water channel, where they saw Davies lying and carried him away.

Davies subsequently died from his injuries, and at the inquest the jury, in returning a verdict of accidental death, commended Marron and M'Mullin very highly for their brave action, and requested the Coroner to call attention to their conduct, with a view to some recognition being accorded to them for their fearless action in the face of known danger. Although the time taken to effect the rescue was short, these men ran very considerable risks of a further upheaval, of burning by flames or molten metal, of asphyxiation, and of losing their way in the steam, and their bravery received high praise from their fellow-workmen.

The KING has been pleased to confirm the appointment of Reginald Waterhouse Jones, Esq., to be a Nominated Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council of the Colony of Sierra Leone.

In terms of Section 131 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, they define the boundary of such Special Water Supply District to be as follows:—

Commencing at the north west corner of the Walkerburn Special Lighting and Scavenging District and following the present north boundary thereof eastwards for four hundred and twenty feet or thereby to the field dyke, then turning northwards and slightly westwards along the field dyke till it meets the cross dyke on the north side of the field, then turning eastwards along that dyke till it meets the dyke forming the eastern boundary of the field numbered 413 on the Ordnance Survey Sheet after referred to, then turning southwards along the latter dyke for five hundred and fifty feet or thereby, then turning eastwards across the Walkerburn in a straight line to the north west corner of the property of Sunnysbrae where it meets the present boundary of the Walkerburn Special Lighting and Scavenging District, then following said boundary till it meets the wall on the north side of the Galashiels-Peebles road, then turning northeastwards along said wall for seven hundred and fifty-five feet or thereby to a point opposite the north end of the field dyke running southwards to the River Tweed, then turning southwards across said road and along said dyke and continuing to the medium flum of the River Tweed, and then turning westwards and following said medium flum till it joins the south boundary of the present Walkerburn Special Lighting and Scavenging District, and from there following that boundary back to the said north west corner thereof, all as the said area is delineated and coloured pink on a copy of the Ordnance Survey Map, 25" scale, docquetted and signed as relative hereto.
