The Right Hon. THE LORD JUSTICE-GENERAL.
The Right Hon. THE LORD JUSTICE-CLERK.
The Right Hon. LORD MORISON.
The Hon. LORD FLEMING.
The Hon. LORD MONCRIEFF.
The Hon. LORD MACKAY.
The Hon. LORD PITMAN.
The Hon. LORD WARK.

The Lord Justice-General, Lord Justice-Clerk, and Lords Commissioners of Justiciary, by virtue of the powers conferred upon the Court by an Act passed in the Third Session of the Second Parliament of King Charles the Second entitled, "Act concerning the Regulation of Judicatories" and "The Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act, 1887," 50 & 51 Vict., c. 35,

Do hereby ENACT and DECLARE that from and after the passing hereof, the following provisions shall have effect, viz.:—

I. When in any criminal trial the jury shall have retired to consider their verdict, and, owing to delay in returning their verdict or for other sufficient reason, the diet in another criminal cause has been called, it shall be lawful to interrupt the proceedings in such other cause (a) in order to receive the verdict of the jury in the preceding trial, and thereafter to dispose of the cause either by passing sentence upon the pannel, or by postponing sentence, or by assolving the pannel, as the case may be, (b) to give a direction to the jury in the preceding trial upon any matter upon which the jury may wish a direction from the judge or to hear any request from the jury regarding any matter in the cause, as, for example, to make available any production for examination by the jury, provided always as follows:—

(1) That whether in any cause interruption shall be allowed shall be a matter in the discretion of the judge who presides at the trial;

(2) That in no case shall the verdict of the jury in the preceding trial be returned, or sentence in the event of a verdict of guilty be imposed upon the pannel, or any direction be asked or given, or any request be heard or granted, in the presence of the jury in the interrupted trial, but in every case such jury shall be directed to retire by the presiding judge;

(3) That in the case of any such interruption a minute of continuation of the diet of the interrupted trial shall be entered in the Minute Book of the Court, and it shall be sufficient that the minute should bear that the diet be continued until an afterpart of the same day without further specification of time or to the following or a subsequent day as the Court may direct, and on the interrupted trial being resumed the diet shall be called de novo;

(4) That in any cause where the charge against the pannel is one of murder there shall be no interruption of the trial at any stage for the purpose of dealing in any way with any other cause.

II. Where in any cause the diet of which has not been called, the pannel shall intimate through his counsel to the Clerk of Court that he is prepared to tender a plea of guilty as libelled or such qualified plea as the Crown is prepared to accept, or where a cause is remitted to the High Court for sentence in which the pannel has pleaded guilty under Sec. 31 of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act, 1887, any trial (other than a trial for murder) then proceeding may be interrupted for the purpose of receiving such plea or dealing with said remitted cause and pronouncing sentence or otherwise disposing of any such cause; provided always—

(1) That in the case of any such interruption an entry will be duly made in the Minute Book of the Court continuing the diet of the interrupted cause to an afterpart of the same day without further specification of time or to the following or a subsequent day as the court may direct;

(2) That in any such interposed cause the plea of the pannel shall not be tendered or accepted, nor sentence passed in the presence of the jury in the cause then proceeding, but said jury if not already retired shall be directed by the presiding judge to retire.
