PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FROM FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, to TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1809.

BY THE KING.

A PROCLAMATION,

For further continuing from the 31st day of December next, until 40 days after the next meeting of Parliament, the prohibition of the distillation of spirits from corn or grain, in the united kingdom.

GEORGE R.

Whereas, by an act passed in the 49th year of our reign, entitled, "An act to prohibit the distillation of spirits from corn or grain in the united kingdom, for a limited time;" it was enacted, that in case we, at any time after the 1st day of October last, should in our royal discretion judge it to be for the benefit and advantage of our kingdom, further to continue the prohibition of the distillation of spirits from corn or grain from the 31st day of December next, until 40 days after the next meeting of Parliament, then, and in such case, it should and might be lawful to and for us, by our royal proclamation or proclamations, to be issued by and with the advice of our Privy Council, or by our order in Council, to be published from time to time in the London Gazette, and in the Dublin Gazette, to continue, throughout the united kingdom, from the said 31st day of December until 40 days after the next meeting of Parliament, the prohibition therein before mentioned; that is to say, that throughout the united kingdom, during the continuance of such prohibition, no worts or wash for distillation shall be made from oats, barley, or any other corn or grain, or from malt, flour, or bran, or any mixture with the same: And whereas we do judge it for the benefit and advantage of our kingdom, that the said prohibition should be further continued; we are thereupon pleased by this our royal proclamation, by and with the advice of our Privy Council, to order and direct that the prohibition of the distillation of spirits from corn or grain in the united kingdom, be further continued from the 31st day of December next, until 40 days after the next meeting of Parliament; and that during that period, no person shall cause any worts or wash for distillation to be made from oats, barley, or any other corn or grain, or from malt, flour, or bran, or any mixture with the same, upon pain of incurring the forfeiture in the said act mentioned.

Given at our Court at the Queen's Palace, the 1st day of November 1809, in the fiftieth year of our reign.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

At the Court at the Queen's Palace, the 1st of November 1809,

PRESENT,

The KING'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

This day the Right Honourable Henry John Viscount Palmerston was, by his Majesty's command, sworn of his Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, and took his place at the board accordingly.

His Majesty having been pleased to appoint the Right Honourable Richard Ryder to be one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, he was this day, by his Majesty's command, sworn one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State accordingly.

QUEEN'S PALACE, OCTOBER 25, 1809.

The following address having been transmitted to the Earl of Liverpool, his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, has been, by his Lordship, presented to the King; which address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

Unto the KING'S Most Excellent Majesty, The humble Address of the Provincial Synod of Merse and Teviotdale.

May it please your Majesty,

We, the Members of the Provincial Synod of Merse and Teviotdale, being assembled on this anniversary of your accession to the throne of these realms, joyfully embrace the opportunity of mingling our cordial congratulations with those of our fellow subjects, upon your Majesty's entering on the fiftieth year of your reign.

The uniform and sacred regard shewn to the interests of religion, and to the protection and security of the established churches of the empire, the liberal toleration extended to dissenters of all denominations, the encouragement given to the diffusion of the gospel, the anxious desire evinced to preserve the rights and privileges, and to promote the prosperity and happiness, of all your subjects, justly endear your Majesty to a free, a loyal, and happy people; and must unite their hearts with ours in fervent prayer to Almighty God, for the prolongation of a life productive of such inestimable blessings, and distinguished by so many private virtues.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and by our appointment, at Kelso, this 25th day of October 1809 years, by

JOHN ELLIOT, Moderator.

NOVEMBER 1, 1809.

The following addresses have been transmitted to his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, and have been presented by him to the King; his Majesty was pleased to receive them in the most gracious manner.

Price Sixpence Halfpenny.

To the KING's most Excellent Majesty,
The humble address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the city of Aberdeen.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of your city of Aberdeen, in common council assembled, beg leave, with all humility, to join our fellow subjects, in presenting to your Majesty our most sincere and affectionate congratulations on the commencement of the fiftieth year of your Majesty's reign.

Such a period allotted by divine providence to the reign of one Sovereign, is an event which has seldom occurred in the British history, or indeed in the annals of Europe.

We and our fellow subjects have rejoiced in your Majesty's mild and paternal government; and we feel all that gratitude and attachment which it is powerfully calculated to inspire.

Your Majesty's reign has been uniformly directed to the happiness and prosperity of your subjects: under it, arts and sciences have flourished; agriculture, commerce and manufactures have been promoted; civil and religious liberty has been secured; the national independence and honour have been strenuously maintained amidst the dreadful convulsions of surrounding states; and all the liberal principles which consolidate, refine, and humanize society, have been cultivated and advanced.

When we contemplate the example of religion and virtue set to us by your Majesty, and compare our national blessings with the calamities which have overwhelmed most of the neighbouring kingdoms, what abundant reason do we find to praise the governor of the universe for the happiness we have enjoyed under your Majesty's beneficent and auspicious reign, for nearly half a century.

That Almighty God may continue to preserve and bless your Majesty in your person, family, and government, and, after a prolonged reign of prosperity and peace, that you may at last receive the glorious reward of all your public and private virtues, is the sincere prayer of your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of your city of Aberdeen.

Signed in their name and presence, and by their appointment; and the common city seal hereto affixed, at Aberdeen, the 25th day of October, in the year 1809, by

JAMES HADDEN, Provost.

[Transmitted by the Provost.]

To the KING's most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

We, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the city of Edinburgh in council assembled, humbly approach your Majesty's throne, with our heartfelt congratulations on your having commenced the fiftieth year of your auspicious reign. On an occasion so joyful to the subjects of your empire, we cannot suppress the sentiments of affectionate attachment, which we entertain to a Sovereign, who is endeared to us, by our long experience of the excellent endowments, which add the dignity of personal worth to the splendour of royalty, and render the homage due to his exalted station, the willing tribute of the heart to superior virtue.

In the strictness with which your Majesty has ever maintained the sound principles of our invaluable constitution, we have a conspicuous proof of your inviolable regard for the rights of your people. By the many salutary regulations made, during your Majesty's reign, for encouraging industry, protecting commerce, securing the impartial administration of justice; and preserving in your empire, that righteousness which exalteth a nation, your Majesty has shewn it to be the most ardent wish of your heart, to promote the best interests of your subjects.

By the firmness with which you have supported the dignity of your crown, you have manifested that energy of mind, and high sense of honour, which will suffer no encroachment on the rights of your empire. The alacrity with which your Majesty has interposed to rescue the injured from the grasp of the oppressor, while it adds lustre to your character, entitles you to the gratitude of the world. We account it a signal proof of the goodness of the Almighty to this realm, that he has so long preserved to us a sovereign, from whose wise and beneficent government, we derive such inestimable advantages; and the illustrious example which you exhibit of every private virtue, shews your Majesty to be endowed with that rare purity of mind, which prosperity cannot corrupt, and which combines the qualities which adorn the man, with those which add dignity to the Monarch; and when we consider the prosperity of our country in these eventful times, the rapid advancement of this nation in science and arts and useful institutions, and the stability of your empire upheld by the wisdom of your Majesty's councils, and the heroic achievements of your fleet and armies, amid the wreck of so large a portion of the civilized world, we congratulate your Majesty, that your paternal solicitude for your people has been crowned with such eminent success; and that having devoted your life to promote the true interests of your subjects you have the satisfaction of beholding the inhabitants of this great empire, firmly attached to your person, united among themselves, and enjoying a degree of political happiness, which, if it has been equalled in this world, has never been surpassed.

That Almighty God may long preserve your Majesty to be a blessing to your people, a protector to injured nations, and an example to the world, of a Sovereign justly entitled to be called the father of his people; that he may render eminently successful your measures for promoting the happiness and security of your empire, and that the princes of the illustrious house of Brunswick, formed by your Majesty's example to rule over a free people, may, to the latest posterity, sway the sceptre of this realm, is the fervent prayer of your Majesty's loyal subjects, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the city of Edinburgh.

Signed in our name, by our appointment, and in our presence, and the seal of the said city is hereto affixed, at Edinburgh, this 25th day of October 1809.

WM. COULTER, Provost.
