

Edinburgh Gazette.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.

FROM FRIDAY, APRIL 18, TO TUESDAY, APRIL 22, 1817.

The following Addresses have been presented to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses his Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates, Council, Burgesses, and whole body of the Inhabitants of the United Burghs of Fortrose and Rosemarkie, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the expression of our detestation and abhorrence of the treasonable and daring outrage offered to your sacred and royal person, when returning from fulfilling the high and important duties of your station, in opening the session of Parliament, and we offer our most unfeigned congratulations that so atrocious an attempt has proved abortive.

It is with feelings of indignation and disgust that we observe the artful and insidious attempts made to mislead the minds, and stir up the worst passions of the lower classes, partly by means of inflammatory publications, and partly by the speeches of demagogues at factious meetings, audaciously assuming to themselves the voice of the people, thereby libelling the loyalty and fidelity of his Majesty's subjects.

Whilst we have been contemplating, with pride and gratitude, the vigorous measures of your Royal Highness, and the plans pursued with so much perseverance and success, which have raised our country to the highest pitch of glory, and to the admiration of Europe, we most sincerely lament that the nation should be disgraced by profligate men, imposing on the ignorance of the multitude, and exciting them to sedition and rebellion, under the delusive pretext of a reform in Parliament.

Although we, in common with our fellow subjects, deplore the general distress, arising from a combination of circumstances which no human effort could controul, yet we observe with satisfaction, that the people of the surrounding districts, uncontaminated by revolutionary principles, are struggling under their difficulties with fortitude and patience, and, by their industrious exertions, gradually overcoming them.

We further beg leave to avail ourselves of this opportunity of expressing our affectionate attachment to our venerable Sovereign,—to your Royal Highness's person,—and to your illustrious house, with which, we are deeply sensible, the liberties of this country are closely identified; and we pledge ourselves to support the government of your Royal Highness, as by law established, and to maintain inviolate our glorious constitution with our lives and properties.

Signed in our name, and given under our seal, at Fortrose, this 12th day of March 1817.

ALEXANDER MACKENZIE, Provost.

[Transmitted by Charles Grant, Esq. Jun. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Town-Council of the Royal Burgh of Linlithgow.

WE, his Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the ancient Burgh of Linlithgow, struck with horror at the late atrocious attempt made against your Royal Highness's sacred person, when returning from the discharge of one of the most important functions of royalty, the opening of the present session of the Imperial Parliament, and rejoicing at your Royal Highness's providential escape, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, and to offer our most heartfelt congratulations thereon, with assurance of our thankfulness to Almighty God for the preservation of your Royal Highness's precious life, and our fervent prayer that it may be long preserved to exercise the government over a free, happy, and loyal people.

Deeply impressed with the most grateful sense of your Royal Highness's paternal care of the peace and happiness of all his Majesty's subjects, so strongly evinced by your Royal Highness's generously relinquishing, for the benefit of the public, a considerable proportion of your Royal Highness's revenue, we assure your Royal Highness of our most cordial support and hearty co-operation in the maintenance of good order, in preserving the peace of society, and in guarding against all infringements of the laws and constitution of these realms as confirmed to us at the glorious revolution.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, by the Provost, in Common Council assembled, at Linlithgow, the 1st day of March 1817.

ADAM DAWSON, Provost.

[Transmitted by Sir John Buchanan Riddell, Bart. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Convener, Deacons, and Members of the Nine Incorporated Trades of Dundee, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, with the most unfeigned sentiments of respect for your royal person, to express our abhorrence and detestation of the most daring outrage offered to your Royal Highness on your return from Parliament, after exercising the important duties of the crown, and fulfilling your part of our most excellent constitution.

Zealously attached to the mild and equitable system of government established at the revolution, and happy in the enjoyment of every blessing derived to us from that settlement, we are unable in adequate terms to express our concern that any person should be found within his Majesty's dominions so base as to endanger, by such atrocious violence, the safety of your royal person, and therein the tranquillity of the whole country.

We sincerely congratulate your Royal Highness on your providential escape from such traitorous attacks, dangerous to the public safety, and a gross violation of the glorious constitution, of which your Royal Highness forms so essential a part.

[Transmitted by James Gellatly, Esq. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

Price Sevenpence.

Fame acquired by valour, the triumph of True Highlanders.

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of Great Britain and Ireland, Lord of the Isles, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Society of True Highlanders, convened to-day for that purpose, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of the liveliest indignation at the late atrocious attempt made on your sacred person, to express our sincere gratitude to the Disposer of all events for your fortunate and happy escape from a plot hatched by a combination of malevolent and rebellious fanatics, acting under the destructive influence of ringleaders, who, from the tendency of the principles they disseminate, plainly evince their hostility to the venerable constitution of Britain, and their determination to annihilate all the distinctions of civil and social order.

We crave permission to assure your Royal Highness, that we are ready, with our lives and fortunes, to rally round your illustrious person, in support of your Royal Highness, family, and government; to march forward, on the shortest notice, to inflict condign and exemplary punishment on the projectors of the late audacious and infernal scheme, and to lend our most active co-operation towards the suppression of every similar attempt at disturbing the public tranquillity, and setting the laws of subordination at defiance.

Signed in the name and by appointment of the Society, at Inverlochry, the rallying point of the ancient Caledonians, this 27th day of February 1817.

A. MACDONELL of Glengarry.
[Transmitted by Col. A. Macdonnell of Glengarry, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lieutenancy of Banffshire, respectfully approach your Royal Highness, to present our unfeigned congratulations on the providential deliverance which your Royal Highness has lately experienced from the dastardly and atrocious assault offered to your august person, in passing from the House of Parliament on the first day of the present session.

Whilst we contemplate, with mingled feelings of surprise and abhorrence, the treasonable ebullition of that day, we console ourselves with the hope, that such a flagrant violation of the laws will have the effect of uniting and strengthening the energies of all ranks of his Majesty's faithful subjects, in successfully counteracting the designs of the seditious and misguided.

Animated with the warmest attachment to our happy constitution, and impressed with the purest sentiments of loyalty to our revered Sovereign, and of cordial affection to your Royal Highness, we beg leave to assure your Royal Highness that it shall be our unceasing endeavour, as it is our bounden duty, to promote, within our several spheres, a respectful allegiance to the supreme authority, and a due submission to the laws of our country, and to contribute, by every exertion, towards securing and perpetuating those civil and religious blessings by which these kingdoms have been so long and so eminently distinguished.

Signed, by our Præses, in our name, and by our appointment, in a general meeting of Lieutenancy for the County of Banff, held at Banff, this 20th day of February 1817.

GEORGE ABERCROMBY, Præses.
[Transmitted by the Earl of Fife, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's ever faithful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Sutherland, and Magistrates of the Royal Borough of Dornoch, convened in general meeting, with a sense of duty, as handed down to us by our fathers, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, unanimous in our attachment and respect.

We do with great truth assure your Royal Highness, that no class of his Majesty's subjects can be more convinced than we are of the difficult nature of the duties imposed on your Royal Highness, as Regent of these kingdoms, or who more highly appreciate the wise, firm, and dignified manner in which they have been discharged.

We cannot, therefore, express, in language sufficiently strong, the feelings of horror and indignation excited in our breasts, upon hearing of the assassin-like attack lately made upon your Royal Highness, whilst performing one of the highest and most important of these duties.

We thank God that your Royal Highness escaped the blow of the traitor; and we rejoice that we can truly declare to your Royal Highness, that in this part of his Majesty's dominions the sentiments which we have expressed, with strong feelings of loyalty and attachment in the people to his Majesty and family, and of confidence in Parliament and the administration of your Royal Highness, are universal.

Signed in our name and presence, and by our appointment, at Dornoch, the 12th day of March 1817 years.

ALEX. SUTHERLAND, Præses.
[Transmitted by the Marquis of Stafford, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Magistrates and Council, Resident Justices of the Peace, Gentlemen, Merchants, Fish-Curers, and other Inhabitants of his Majesty's faithful old Town of Thurso, in the County of Caithness.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, his Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates and Council, Resident Justices of the Peace, Gentlemen, Merchants, Fish-Curers, and other Inhabitants of his Majesty's faithful old Town of Thurso, met here this day, beg most humbly to take this earliest opportunity to offer our most cordial congratulations to your Royal Highness, on your happy and providential escape from the premeditated murderous attempts of traitorous assassins, and on the fortunate detection of rebellious associations against the state.

We pray most ardently and sincerely to the Giver of all Good for the preservation and prolongation of your Royal Highness's life, and that the sceptre of these realms may continue to be swayed with undiminished lustre, in the line of the royal house of Brunswick, to the latest posterity.

From the illustrious example set by your Royal Highness, we look with firmness and confidence for every reasonable retrenchment in the national expenditure, consistent with the dignity of the state and safety of the nation; and also, that such errors as may have crept into the government, by lapse of time, will be prudently and calmly inquired into, and, if necessary, constitutionally corrected.

We deprecate every revolutionary attempt at pretended amendments, satisfied and fully convinced, that if errors should be found to exist, there is in the constitution sufficient energy and power to rectify them, and in the legislature sufficient ability and integrity to carry them into effect.

We beg further to assure your Royal Highness, that we are determined, with the aid of Almighty God, to support your Royal Highness with our lives and fortunes, for the preservation of our glorious constitution, as most happily re-established in 1688, or to perish in the attempt.

Signed in presence and by appointment of the Meeting, at Thurso, this 1st day of March 1817, by

GEO. PADRSON, Chief Magistrate.
[Transmitted by George Sinclair, Esq. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

Unto his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the British Empire.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Magistrates, Counsellors, Minister, and other respectable Inhabitants of the Town and Burgh of Forres, North Britain.

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates, Counsellors, the Minister, and other Inhabitants of the Town of Forres, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness at this time, with the most unfeigned sentiments of attachment to your Royal Highness's person, and of entire approbation of your counsels, by which the most imminent danger that ever threatened our country had been averted, and peace and good order established in our land. At the same time that we reprobate the insidious designs of evil-minded men, by which your sacred person had lately been insulted, and our happiness and liberties endangered, we highly approve of the measures which, under your Royal Highness's sanction, his Majesty's Ministers have adopted, for the preservation of our invaluable constitution.

Living at a distance from the seat of government, whilst we deeply lament the infatuation of a misguided multitude, who are taught by the innovating doctrines of profane and designing men, under the mask of reform, to counsel together for the overthrow of our liberties, we congratulate your Royal Highness, and every lover of his country, upon the quiet and orderly deportment which has hitherto marked every class of the community to which we belong.

As we cannot see how the present distresses and privations, under which the country labours, can be removed, either by annual or triennial Parliaments, we look up with the utmost confidence to the wisdom of our rulers for the adoption of such measures as will check the progress of dangerous innovations in religion and government, and will effectually secure to us the exercise of that rational piety, on which alone human happiness can be established, and that reform of heart and manners accomplished, which will procure the Divine protection to a people exercised in righteousness.

That your Royal Highness may (under the Divine favour) be long spared as a guardian to watch over the interests, the prosperity, and happiness of these kingdoms, is our earnest prayer.

Signed by our appointment, and in our presence, at Forres, this 18th day of March 1817.

By GEORGE GRANT.
[Transmitted by Colonel W. Grant, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, and other Heritors of the County of Moray, assembled at Elgin.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, humbly and sincerely to congratulate your Royal Highness on your providential escape from the late traitorous and atrocious attack on your sacred person, in the execution of one of the most important functions of your exalted station, and at the same time to express our utmost detestation of attempts so subversive of private safety, and of public decency and decorum. We rejoice, however, in being enabled to assure your Royal Highness, that the utmost regularity, quiet, and obedience to the laws continue to distinguish this country, and that the conduct of the inhabitants is marked with affection and loyalty to the best of kings and his august house. Permit us humbly to add, that no exertion on our part shall be wanting to cherish a due sense of the blessings that Britons so eminently enjoy under the influence of your Royal Highness's, auspicious government.

Signed in our name, and by our authority, at Elgin, the 14th of March 1817.

ARCHIBALD DUNBAR, P.

[Transmitted by Colonel William Grant, M. P. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

Unto his Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Presbytery of Aberbrothock.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Ministers of the Presbytery of Aberbrothock, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with every sentiment of respect and attachment to your person and government, to express our deep concern and abhorrence at the late wicked and treasonable attempt on the invaluable life of your Royal Highness, in your return from discharging one of the most solemn and important duties of your high office, as Regent of these realms, and at the very moment when you had been just recommending to the great council of the nation, the adoption of those measures which were most likely to promote the prosperity and happiness of all classes of the community, from the sovereign to the meanest of his subjects.

And while we cordially congratulate your Royal Highness upon your providential escape from the danger to which you were exposed, we lament that any individual in these kingdoms should be found so lost to all sense of duty and every principle of genuine patriotism, as to be capable of an outrage so disgraceful in itself, and so dreadful in its consequences, had it succeeded to the extent intended by its profligate and abandoned perpetrators.

At the same time it gives us the highest satisfaction to find that both branches of the legislature have concurred in adopting such prompt and decisive measures, as appear to be indispensably necessary for securing the future safety of your Royal Highness's person, and completely defeating the machinations of your enemies—the enemies of all that is sacred and venerable in our happy constitution both in church and state.

We also beg leave to assure your Royal Highness, that it shall always be our study to inculcate loyal and patriotic sentiments on the people committed to our care; and, as far as our influence can extend, no endeavours of ours shall be wanting to promote the general tranquillity, and counteract the pernicious tendency of those seditious and immoral doctrines which are now so industriously propagated by disaffected and designing men. Such is our duty, as loyal subjects and ministers of that holy religion, which commands us "to fear God,"—"to honour the King,"—and "not to meddle with them that are given to Change,"—and thus in our humble sphere shall we best contribute to the welfare of our country, and evince our steady loyalty and attachment to your Royal Highness's person and family, under whose auspices this nation has attained to a pitch of eminence and fame unparalleled in the annals of the world.

That the Almighty Being by whom "Kings reign and Princes decree Justice," may ever keep your Royal Highness under his Divine protection,—that He may bless you in your person and direct your councils,—and that a race of sovereigns of your royal line, friends of religion, liberty, and their country, may always fill the throne of Britain, are, through Jesus Christ, the prayers of, may it please your Royal Highness, your Royal Highness's most faithful and obedient subjects, the Ministers of the Presbytery of Aberbrothock.

Signed in our name and presence, and at our appointment, at Aberbrothock, this 19th day of March 1817.

ALEXANDER CARNEGIE, Moderator.
