

ronage which your Majesty has vouchsafed to the mechanical arts, but from the lustre which these arts have shed over your Majesty's reign. While obscure states have become conspicuous by the peaceful achievements of science, and powerful ones glorious by their military prowess, it has been the singular and happy destiny of Britain to found her greatness upon both, and to be as much envied for the triumphs of her industry, as she has been dreaded for the terrors of her power.

That your Majesty may long live, to foster the ingenuity and enterprise of your people, and to enjoy, in common with the lowest of your subjects, the comforts and luxuries of British industry, is the fervent prayer of this institution.

ATHOLL, President.

Unto the KING'S Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble and dutiful Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Perth.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Perth, at a general meeting assembled, eagerly embrace the opportunity of your Majesty's auspicious arrival in the metropolis of your ancient kingdom of Scotland, to lay before your Majesty the respectful expressions of our loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's person and government, and to testify our gratitude to your Majesty for your condescension in thus complying with the earnest wishes of the Scottish nation. Should your Majesty's leisure admit of a more extended progress through our country, we can, with confidence, assure your Majesty, that even in the most remote district you will behold your subjects animated by the most anxious and enthusiastic zeal to evince their love and veneration for a Monarch, under whose auspices the arms of the empire have attained to the highest pitch of glory, whose paternal sway has endeared him to his people, and whose descent from the illustrious race, which, from the earliest period of our history, has held the sceptre of Scotland, renders him the object of hereditary respect and attachment.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, in a general meeting of the said County assembled, this 7th day of August 1822 years.

ATHOLL, Preses.
