BUCKINGHAM-PALACE, May 12, 1848.

THIS day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and a Deputation of Her Majesty's Commissioners of Lieutenancy for the city of London, waited upon Her Majesty with the following Address, which was read by the Honourable Charles Evan Law, the Recorder, and which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and the rest of your Majesty's Commissioners of Lieutenancy for the city of London.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and the rest of your Majesty's Commissioners of Lieutenancy for the city of London, humbly approach your Majesty, to offer the tribute of our most sincere and dutiful congratulations upon the birth of a Princess, and your Majesty's renovated health.

Under circumstances of great moment, as they affect the welfare of our country at home and abroad, we rejoice that the occasion is presented to us of testifying our devoted loyalty and attachment to the Throne, and the unshaken confidence we repose in the free institutions of this highly favoured land.

Your Majesty's Commissioners of Lieutenancy comprehend no inconsiderable class of British merchants, bankers, and traders of this great metropolis, of members of the learned profession, united in one aim and object—the earnest desire steadfastly to uphold the great machine of a well ordered, free, monarchical government.

We fervently pray that our country may ever continue to exhibit, under the mild sway of a beneficent and constitutional Sovereign, an example to the whole civilized world, of the benefits that inhere in the stability of this ancient monarchy, whose foundations are laid in the freedom of its institutions, and rest on the affections of a dutiful, faithful, and religious people.

May your Majesty long live, the care of a Divine Providence, united with your Royal Consort in the enjoyment of health, of every domestic comfort, every public felicity, to transmit in the fulness of time to your Majesty's descendants, in its lustre and integrity, the hereditary sceptre of these realms.

By order of Court.

HENLEY SMITH, Clerk and Treasurer.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

“I thank you very sincerely for these gratifying expressions of loyalty and affection.

“I entirely participate in your unshaken confidence in the free institutions of this highly favoured land, upheld as they are by the tried attachment of my faithful subjects.

“I earnestly pray, that by the continued blessing of Providence on this country, peace, security, and happiness, may be largely enjoyed by all classes of my people.”

BUCKINGHAM-PALACE, May 29, 1848.

This day the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the city of Dublin, waited upon Her Majesty to present the following Address, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble, loyal, and dutiful Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of Dublin.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, avail ourselves of the ancient privilege of our Corporation, to approach, with all due respect, the foot of the Throne, and to tender our humble, but dutiful and heartfelt congratulations, on the late happy event of the birth of a Princess, and to express our loyal sympathy in any event which may conduce to increase your Majesty's domestic happiness.

Knowing as we do, that nothing can tend more to give your Majesty happiness, than to see your people enjoying peace, comfort, and constitutional liberty, we venture humbly to entreat your Majesty to be pleased to direct your immediate advisers to pay particular attention, at the present juncture, to the necessities, the wants, and wishes of your most dutiful, long suffering, and much wronged people of Ireland.

Most Gracious Majesty, we humbly and with all due deference, venture to suggest, that the main cause of the misery of Ireland is, that her laws are not made by an Irish Parliament, that instead of a sister Nation, she has been legislated for as a mere Province, and that the certain and effectual course to restore her prosperity, and to preserve the integrity of the empire, and to attach most devotedly to the government of your Majesty the hearts and hands of the people of Ireland, is by the restoration to Ireland, of the power to make her own laws, and manage her own resources, by the repeal as speedily as possible of the Act of Legislative Union, and the assembling of your Majesty's Irish Parliament.

Thus, as we humbly conceive, will the prosperity of Ireland be secured, that of your Majesty's other dominions increased, and let what may happen in other countries, the Throne of your Majesty be based on the most secure and steadfast foundation, the love, duty, and allegiance of your Majesty's people.

WILLIAM FORD, Town-Clerk.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

"I thank you sincerely for your Address of congratulation, and for the interest you have expressed in my domestic happiness.

"It is my constant aim to promote the peace, comfort, and constitutional liberty of all classes of my people, and my greatest satisfaction is derived from the assurance of their loyal and affectionate attachment.

"I have felt a deep sympathy for the sufferings of many of my subjects in Ireland.

"I have given my cordial sanction to the various Acts passed by the Legislature, for the mitigation of those sufferings; and I trust, that by means of those Acts, aided by private charity and local efforts, the pressure of severe distress has been materially relieved.

"I am fully persuaded, that measures, calculated to advance the interests, and promote the welfare of that portion of my United Kingdom, will continue to receive from the Imperial Parliament the most careful and attentive consideration."

BUCKINGHAM PALACE, June 17, 1848.

This day the Archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by the Bishops and Clergy of the province, waited upon Her Majesty to present the following Address, which was received by Her Majesty on the Throne:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Madam,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the province of Canterbury, in Convocation assembled, most humbly approach your Majesty, with sincere and hearty assurances of our loyal and affectionate attachment to your Majesty's Throne and Person.

When last we had the honour of addressing your Majesty, in this our collective capacity, your Majesty was graciously pleased to accept our congratulations on your Majesty's happy alliance with a Prince, distinguished no less by his personal qualities than by his illustrious lineage, and on the birth of an heir to the throne. We have now the satisfaction of beholding your Majesty and your Royal Consort surrounded by a family, who, we trust, will repay the pious care of their parents, by shew-ing the blessed effects of early instruction on their disposition and conduct as they advance in years.

We have again to offer our grateful acknowledgments of your Majesty's continued adherence to those constitutional principles, that moderation in the exercise of power, and that care for the general weal which have always distinguished the Sovereigns of your Majesty's illustrious House.

We desire especially to express our thankfulness for the preservation of the two ancient and venerable sees of St. Asaph and Bangor in their distinctness and integrity, as well as for the appointment of a new Bishop at Manchester, to superintend the spiritual welfare of the vast masses of manufacturers that have recently been accumulated in those parts of this kingdom. And we hope and trust that this may be the prelude to a farther increase of the Episcopal Body, so that the number of the chief pastors in our Church may be brought more nearly into proportion to the vast increase in the number of souls committed to their charge.

We may also be permitted to advert to the blessing conferred on the civilized world by your Majesty, acting in consort with the Sovereigns of Europe, in that systematic attention to the general maintenance of peace, which has not only averted the horrors of war from these Christian countries, but has led to friendly relations with Powers once hostile to the Christian name, has taught them the lessons of justice and mercy to their own subjects, and the advantage of social intercourse with other nations.

Looking to the state of things in our own country, while we acknowledge, with thankfulness, that there are not wanting in some quarters indications of a tendency to improvement, we cannot be insensible to the prevalence of a widely different spirit, we cannot conceal from ourselves the fearful extent of depravity, the contempt of religion, the indifference to the obligations of morality, and the vicious practice which, with greater or less degrees of intensity, exists in all parts of the land, and more especially in the numerous districts where the population of late years has altogether outgrown the provision of its spiritual needs.

But never since the restoration of the Monarchy has public attention been directed with so much perseverance and energy to the correction of these evils. The provision of many additional places of worship, and the establishment of schools for the training up of the young in the principles of our Apostolic Church, are indications of a spirit, which we may hope will gain strength in its progress, till at length it has fully attained the important objects in view.

Whilst such are the exertions made for the benefit of our fellow subjects at home, a feeling of our duty to our countrymen, who are scattered through the British dominions in distant parts of the world, has awakened an earnest desire to atone for past neglect.

Liberality, hitherto unexampled, has been manifested in the furtherance of this good cause, our Church, under the sanction of your Majesty, has thus been enabled to send out chief pastors to the principal dependencies of the empire, with authority to preside over churches, which may not only dispense the blessings of our holy religion to the present generation, but may hereafter become the metropolitical sees of populous countries professing the pure faith of Christ.

In the accomplishment of these great and beneficial objects, the clergy of our united Church, and of the province of Canterbury in particular, have not, we trust, been unmindful of the peculiar obligations imposed on them by their sacred profession. We shall always esteem it our duty to forward, by every means in our power, your Majesty's pious designs for the spiritual benefit of your people, and to assist, as far as we may by our exertions and influence, and by our counsels, if desired. If on any occasion it should be your Majesty's pleasure, as we earnestly pray it may be, to require the voice of this Synod in devising means to encrease the efficiency of its Church, it will be our humble endeavour to conduct our deliberations with moderation and prudence, with a becoming zeal for the truth of our holy religion, tempered by a constant regard to peace and charity.

In conclusion, we beseech the Almighty to preserve to your Majesty the uninterrupted enjoyment of the blessings which he has graciously vouchsafed to bestow, the gratitude and love of your people, the respect of the Sovereigns of Europe, the affection of a virtuous Consort, and a family trained up from their infancy in the knowledge and practice of all Christian duties.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

"I receive with cordial satisfaction your assurances of loyal and affectionate attachment to my Throne and Person.

"It is my earnest desire to promote the welfare and happiness of my people by the maintenance of peace and tranquillity, and by measures calculated to extend the influence of our holy religion, which is the sure foundation of national prosperity.

"I rely with entire confidence on your zeal and earnestness in inculcating the principles of christian truth and charity, and I derive much gratification from the assurance of your co-operation in increasing the efficiency of the Church for the accomplishment of the great work for which it was established.

"I trust that, by the blessing of God on the means adopted for this important end, the inestimable benefits of pure and undefiled religion may be generally diffused throughout all classes of the community."

BUCKINGHAM-PALACE, June 17, 1848.

This day his Grace the Duke of Wellington, and a Deputation from the University of Oxford, waited upon Her Majesty to present the following Address to Her Majesty, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, request permission to condole most respectfully with your Majesty upon the loss which your Royal House has recently sustained, and at the same time to express the sentiments with which we are ever animated, of dutiful allegiance to your Majesty, and of deep thankfulness to the King of kings for the blessings with which He has surrounded your Majesty and your people.

Devoutly thankful for your Majesty's safety, and sympathizing with your Majesty and your Royal Consort, alike in sorrow and in joy, we are anxious to offer our respectful congratulations to your Majesty upon the birth of a Princess. May she grow in grace as she grows in years, live to the glory of God, and add another to those bright examples of private virtue in the highest stations which (as we gratefully acknowledge) exercise the most salutary influence upon the public welfare.

But amidst the fearful storms that sweep over the kingdoms of Europe, we cannot approach the Sovereign of these realms without expressing also our devotion to the Throne, our warm attachment to our institutions in Church and State, and our gratitude for the calm and dignified resistance lately opposed to the designs of the misguided men who would subvert them.

These sentiments of loyalty to the Throne and attachment to the Constitution are entirely consistent with a disposition to welcome every improvement in our social system. But deeply penetrated with the conviction that human strength and wisdom avail nothing without the Divine blessing, we are especially anxious to co-operate in our place, and according to our measure, with your Majesty and the Legislature in the advancement of all classes and conditions of your Majesty's subjects, not in mere knowledge, but in the love of Divine truth, not in mere worldly wealth and prosperity, but in brotherly charity one towards another, in enlightened attachment to the laws of our common country, and in Christian obedience to the laws of God.

Given at our House of Convocation, under our common seal, this 14th day of June, in the year of our Lord 1848.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer :

"I thank you very cordially for your loyal and dutiful Address, and for the feelings you have expressed, both of sympathy in the sorrow for the loss of my beloved Aunt, and of affectionate interest in the future happiness of the infant Princess.

"I have received with great satisfaction the renewed assurance of your attachment to our institutions in Church and State.

"I rejoice to know that they are cherished and upheld by the loyal and enlightened patriotism of my faithful subjects.

"I trust that your University, which holds so distinguished a place among those institutions, will, by God's blessing, long continue to promote the best interests of my people, by the dissemination of sound learning, religious truth, and Christian charity."

BUCKINGHAM PALACE, June 17, 1848.

This day His Royal Highness Prince Albert, Chancellor of the University of Cambridge; the Reverend Doctor Phelps, Vice-Chancellor; the Honourable and Very Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Master of Magdalene College; the Reverend Doctor Webb, Master of Clare Hall; the Reverend Doctor French, Master of Jesus College; the Very Reverend the Dean of Bristol, Master of Corpus Christi College; the Reverend Doctor Tatham, Master of Saint John's College; the Reverend Doctor Philpott, Master of Saint Catharine's Hall; the Reverend Mr Worsley, Master of Downing College; Doctor Broadley, Representative of the Faculty of Law; Doctor Drosier, Representative of the Faculty of Medicine; the Reverend Mr Baily, Senior Proctor; the Reverend Mr Williams, Junior Proctor; Mr Leapingwell, Esquire Bedell; Mr Hopkins, Junior Esquire Bedell; the Reverend Mr Romilly, Registrar; waited upon Her Majesty to present to Her Majesty the following Address, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne :

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Chancellor, Master, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge, beg leave to approach the Throne with the expression of our steadfast and affectionate attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

We cannot, however, at this time approach your Majesty without offering, in the first place, our sincere condolence on the melancholy occurrence which has just deprived your Majesty of an august Relation, and the country of an amiable and illustrious Princess, whose many excellent qualities and virtues rendered her an ornament to her exalted rank.

While we cannot but regard with feelings of the deepest anxiety those events which are agitating so many of the Governments of Europe, we gratefully acknowledge the general excellence of our own national institutions, both civil and religious, to which, and to the admirable rule of a Sovereign, whose life is a bright example to her people, we ascribe, under God's providence, the inestimable blessing of our present tranquillity.

We congratulate your Majesty, and the inhabitants of the British Islands generally, on the demonstration of loyalty, courage, and fidelity which was recently exhibited in the metropolis of this country; and we do so the more unhesitatingly, from the conviction that the good spirit manifested on that occasion met with the most cordial sympathy and admiration in all parts of your Majesty's dominions.

We earnestly entreat your Majesty to believe that, whatever exigencies may arise, we shall not be wanting in the duties that belong to our several stations. And we trust that, by God's blessing, our endeavours to fulfil the sacred charge committed to us may continue to result in the formation of pious, learned, and loyal subjects.

We heartily join in the prayer to Almighty God, that He will preserve this land, alike from foreign enemies and domestic divisions, and that He will bless, with continual happiness and prosperity, your Majesty and every Member of the Royal Family of these realms.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer :

"Your renewed assurance, upon the present occasion, of steadfast and affectionate attachment to my Person and Government, affords me peculiar satisfaction.

"I thank you for the expression of your condolence on the loss I have sustained in my late beloved Aunt, to whose many excellent qualities and virtues you have rendered so just a tribute.

"I gratefully acknowledge the loyalty, courage, and fidelity of my people in upholding the supremacy of the law, and maintaining the principles of the British Constitution.

"I rely, with the fullest confidence, on your faithful and efficient fulfilment of the important charge committed to you, and I pray that, by the blessing of God, a long succession of pious, learned, and able men may be trained in your University, for the discharge of the various duties which will devolve upon them in Church and State."

They were all very graciously received, and the Vice-Chancellor, the Dean of Windsor, the Master of Clare Hall, and the Master of Jesus College, had the honour of kissing Her Majesty's hand.

ST. JAMES'S-PALACE, May 17, 1848.

Deeply sensible of the blessings which this Island has ever enjoyed under the protection of the British Crown, and animated by the same feelings of gratitude and loyal affection which, on your Majesty's visit to our shores, throbb'd in every breast, we beg to express to your Majesty the joy we feel at this auspicious event.

We hail it as an additional bond of union between the People and the Throne; and we fervently pray, that while it contributes to your Majesty's domestic happiness, it may also, under the Divine providence, conduce to the general welfare of the realm.
