

Name.	Designation.	Place.	Date.	Circumstances under which the murder took place.
C. K. Bates (wounded)	Lieutenant	Jullundur	1857. June 7	This officer was officer of the day on the 7th June last; at 11 P.M. a fire broke out in the lines of the regiment, to which he at once proceeded; on getting near the bells of arms, he perceived that the men had seized their arms and were loading. He went up to a body of men who were collected in front of No. 5 Company lines, and endeavoured to persuade them from this purpose. Two sepoys fired at him nearly at the same moment, the first shot entering and breaking his right arm. He saw the man raise his musket, but should not be able to recognise him
F. J. S. Bagshawe ...	Lieutenant	do	May 13	Died of his wounds, Lieutenant and Adjutant. Was in the lines speaking to about 200 men, whom he was apparently pacifying, when a trooper of the 6th Regiment Light Cavalry rode up and inflicted on him a mortal wound
H. Durnford	Ensign	do	„ 13	Received a pistol ball in the arm, and three sabre wounds across the head and neck from troopers of the 6th Light Cavalry, and a bayonet wound in the back when endeavouring to prevent the men of his regiment (led on by a troop of the 6th Light Cavalry) from seizing their arms from the left wing bell of arms of the regiment
Mrs Joyce	Prostitute	do	June 7	Died from the effects of the wounds received, on the 8th of August 1857 On the night of the 7th June, when the mutineers of 36th, 61st, and Cavalry, passed through the Sudder Bazar, some of them shot Mrs Joyce through the chest, but no one saw the deed done
George Nelson	Quarter-Master Sergeant	do	„ 7	Received a wound on the head from a blow of a bamboo, by a sepoy of the regiment, when in the execution of his duty

As per Return furnished by the Deputy Commissioner of SEALKOTE.

J. Graham	Superintending Surgeon	On the Pukka Road from Cantonments to Fort	July 9	Dr James Graham appears, on hearing of the mutiny, to have started at about 6 A.M., in his buggy, with his daughter, Miss Graham, for the fort. On passing the corner house of Cantonments, and getting on the Pukka Road leading to the Fort, they were attacked by a large party of troopers of the 9th Cavalry, one of whom shot Dr Graham in the back of the head, killing him at once. The troopers turned the buggy back, and Miss Graham drove back with the dead body of her father, and after various adventures was taken to the Quarter
