NOTICE TO MARINERS.

(No. 62.)—INDIAN OCEAN—MAURITIUS.

Fixed Light at Entrance to Grand Port.

The Government of the Mauritius has given Notice that, on and after the 1st day of March 1864, a light will be exhibited from a lighthouse recently erected on Isle aux Fouquets, on the edge of the reef, at half a mile north of the southern entrance of Grand Port, on the east coast of the Island of Mauritius.

The light will be a fixed white light, placed at an elevation of 108 feet above the mean level of the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 16 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses of the first order.

The tower from base to vane is 84 feet high, and, as well as the adjacent buildings, is white. It marks the southern entrance to Grand Port, and stands about  $4\frac{1}{2}$  cables E.N.E. of Isle Passe, and 3 miles from the coast of Mauritius, in lat.  $20^{\circ} 24' 20''$  N., long.  $57^{\circ} 45' 9''$  East of Greenwich.

Directions:—A government pilot in a few months will be stationed at the lighthouse, and will board vessels bound to Grand Port on their making the usual signals. Vessels bound to Grand Port may approach the light when bearing from N. by E. round by north to W. by S.; and when about 2 miles from it should heave-to for the pilot with the vessel's head off shore.

Should it be desired to get shelter, approach the light under easy sail till at about three-quarters of a mile from it, avoiding the shoal patch of 6 fathoms water off Laverdie Point, the extreme of the coral reef bounding the south side of entrance to Grand Port; then steer so as to round Isle Passe at the distance of half a mile, as a spit runs out from its south side for about a cable's length; when haul to the northward, and anchor in 18 to 20 fathoms water. It is not recommended to attempt to enter without a pilot, except in cases of extreme necessity.

A vessel from the southward bound to Port Louis, round the north end of the island of Mauritius, (the usual track,) should, after sighting Grand Port light, steer so as to pass it at a distance of about 4 miles; when at that distance, with the light bearing W. by S., a N.N.E.  $\frac{1}{2}$  E. course for 9 miles, if the weather be clear, will bring a vessel in sight of Flat Island revolving light, bearing about N. by W.  $\frac{1}{2}$  W.; the course can then be shaped as required.

A vessel from the northward having Flat Island light on a N.N.W. bearing should be careful, after sighting Grand Port Light, not to bring it, when at a distance of less than 8 miles, on a more southerly bearing than S.W. by W.  $\frac{1}{2}$  W., or she will be too near the coast reef, northward of the light.

The coast reef bounding Grand Port is bordered by a bank of irregular sounding, extending some distance seaward; the lead, if carefully attended to, will prove a tolerable guide in thick weather.

Vessels bound into Grand Port should not approach it at night, but should heave-to well southward of the light, as the drift is to the northward, and much time will be lost in working back. Isle Passe, on the north side of the entrance, is easily known by the battery and other buildings on it. At times the rollers block the channel, although the depth is from 14 to 22 fathoms; and generally the reefs on either side are perfectly visible from aloft. The rise of tide is 3 feet.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation  $9^{\circ} 25'$  West, in 1863.]
