Lord President.

Viscount Palmerston.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent until the 1st day of September 1850, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament, the spreading of contagious or infectious disorders among sheep, cattle, and other animals," and which has since been from time to time continued by divers subsequent Acts, it is (amongst other things) enacted that it shall be lawful for the Lords and others of Her Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, from time to time, to make such Orders and Regulations as to them may seem necessary for the purpose of prohibiting or regulating the removal to or from such parts or places as they may designate in such Order or Orders, of sheep, cattle, horses, swine, or other animals, or of meat, skins, hides, horns, hoofs, or other parts of any animals, and to make any other Orders or Regulations for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of the said Act, and again to revoke, alter, or vary any such Orders or Regulations; and that all provisions for any of the purposes aforesaid in any such Order or Orders contained shall have the like force and effect as if the same had been inserted in the said Act; and that all persons offending against the said Act shall for each and every offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding twenty pounds, or such smaller sum as the said Lords or others of Her Majesty's Privy Council may in any case by such Order direct:

And whereas a contagious or infectious disorder has lately appeared, and now prevails among cattle within that part of the United Kingdom called Great Britain, which is generally designated as the "cattle plague:"

And whereaa it was expedient to take measures for preventing such disorder from extending to that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland: and whereas, for such purpose, an Order was

And whereas it is apprehended that the said disease, termed "cattle plague," may be communicated otherwise than by the removal of the above-named animals:

Now therefore, the Lords of Her Majesty's Privy Council do hereby, in exercise of the powers given by the said recited Act, and by the several Acts continuing the same as aforesaid, order as follows:—

That, after the date of the publication of this Order in the London Gazette, it shall not be lawful for any person to remove any skins, hides, horns, hoofs, or other parts of any of the above-named animals, from any port or place within that part of the United Kingdom called Great Britain, to any port or place within that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland.

HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.

(No. 18.)—AUSTRALIA.—EAST COAST.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation $10^{\circ} 30'$ East, in 1865.]

The following information is furnished by Commander Sidney, R.N., Admiralty Surveyor, 1865 :—

The Danger Reefs, hitherto described as lying about 8 miles eastward of Danger Point, are not in existence. Strong ripples or overfalls were observed in the position assigned to them, which Commander Sidney thought might probably be the shoal; but careful soundings through and around them gave from 34 to 39 fathoms.

The ripples or overfalls seem to be due to an eddy, the current inshore running to the northward, and seaward of them to the southward. The bank of soundings here curving out considerably, serves to deflect the ordinary southerly set, and cause an eddy in the opposite direction.

Off Cook Island, which lies south-eastward, distant $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Danger Point, there are three distinct shoals on which the sea breaks.

The inner shoal bears East, nearly three-quarters of a mile from the island; it has as little as 9 feet water on it, and 9 fathoms between the shoal and the island.

The middle shoal has 5 fathoms on it, and lies E.S.E., $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the island.

The outer shoal bears E. by N., $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the island, and has probably the same water over it as the middle shoal, but as the sea broke heavily at the time of fixing its position, soundings could not be obtained. At half a mile outside there are 20 fathoms. [$4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms water was afterwards found on this shoal.]

Curphy Bank.

This shoal (originally reported by Captain Curphy,) so seldom breaks that its position was not seen during the previous survey of that neighbourhood. It lies N.N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., distant 3 miles from Crowdy Head, and has 5 fathoms on its shoalest part, with 13 fathoms inside.

HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.

Strait of Tsugar.

[All bearings are magnetic. Variation $2^{\circ} 40'$ West, in 1865.]

Rattler Rock.—Commander J. W. Webb, of H.M.S. Rattler, has reported the discovery of a dangerous rock, not marked in the charts, at the eastern entrance to the Strait of Tsugar. The rock is awash at low water, and lies E. by N., distant three-quarters of a mile from the white islet or rock north of Siriya-saki or Cape Nambu, the north-east point of Nipon. As Siriya-saki is a salient point off which the Rattler rock lies, vessels are cautioned not to approach it too close.
