FOREIGN OFFICE, January 4, 1876.

NOTICE TO OWNERS AND MASTERS OF BRITISH VESSELS ABOUT TO PROCEED TO THE NORTH COAST OF SPAIN.

Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs hereby gives notice, that the reports received at the Foreign Office from Her Majesty's Minister at Madrid and Her Majesty's Consular Officers on the North Coast of Spain show that British vessels entering ports on the Cantabrian Coast are frequently exposed to danger from the fire of Carlist batteries which are established at many points on the coast.

The places pointed out as especially dangerous are Guetaria, San Sebastian, Pasages, and Motrico; but the whole Spanish Coast to the eastward of Bilbao should be avoided by British vessels, as Carlist batteries are stationed at intervals all along the coast and fire at anything that approaches.

The coast to the westward of Bilbao is reported safe, with the exception of a small portion between Somorrostro and Castro Urdiales, where occasionally Carlists are to be found.

FOREIGN OFFICE, September 3, 1875.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to appoint William Henry Doyeton Haggard, Esq., now a Third Secretary, to be a Second Secretary in Her Majesty's Diplomatic Service.
